The Pickle

and

The "Thistle"

Hannah's Scotch Pickles

A good pickle is a hard thing to get hold of now-a-days. To be good a pickle must be sound, tart, crisp, palatable. Hannah's Scotch Pickles are all this and more. They are as good when the bottle is opened as the day they went into the bottle itself. That is because of the excellent high quality of the vinegar used. Packed in 10, 16, 20 and 30 ounce bottles and packed right.

"Thistle" Maple Syrup

Made by particular people for particular people. The real honest kind that brings one back to the old farm again with its grove of sugar maples on the "north" side of the hill. Maple Syrup with the real maple taste to it.

"THE FAIRBANK PLAN"

LOOK INTO IT

and see just what "The Fairbank Plan" is. While we spend hundreds of thousands of dollars every year advertising the six great Fairbank specialties:

Gold Dust Washing Powder
Fairy Soap, Copco Soap
Fairbank's Glycerine-Tar Soap
Fairbank's Scouring Soap
Fairbank's Sanitary Soap

and educating the public regarding them; and while we intend to continue doing this, we realize fully that advertising alone has not accomplished the splendid results we have enjoyed in the sale of these goods, but that "the man behind the counter" has been an important factor in extending and increasing our trade. It was the realization of this fact that gave birth to "The Fairbank Plan," as a method of rewarding the retail clerks for their earnest co-operation in selling these goods and, consequently, a portion of our immense advertising appropriation is now set aside for the recognition of the dealer and his clerks.

"The Fairbank Plan" is an absolutely fair method of rewarding the clerk in direct proportion to the interest displayed in pushing the six specialties, as each package of these goods is couponed in such a manner that the coupon can be easily removed before the goods pass into the hands of the consumer. For these coupons we offer many valuable articles.

If you will send for an illustrated premium list of "The Fairbank Plan" it will convince you that this is no cheap trading-stamp scheme.

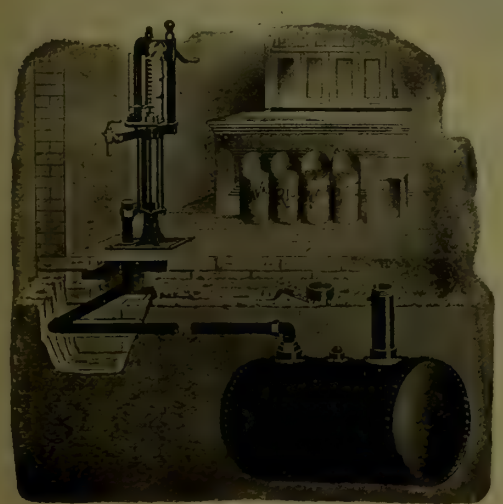
THE LIFE OF GASOLINE

The vital element of gasoline is the gas. If this gas has been allowed to escape, the gasoline is "stale" or "flat" and your customer becomes dissatisfied.

THE REMEDY

Buy a high quality gasoline and store it underground and thus keep it at a uniform temperature, using the



PUMP IN STORE—TANK BURIED.

BOWSER LONG DISTANCE GASOLINE STORAGE OUTFIT

It is absolutely evaporation proof and so retains the high quality of your gasoline.

It is absolutely safe and is permitted by the insurance companies.

It is convenient, gasoline being pumped and measured directly into your customer's can without the use of measure or funnel.

It is economical, as it prevents loss thro' evaporation and spilling.

The Only Spice of Life for Horses, Cattle and Poultry

IS Myers'

It is not a Stock Food, but a condiment to be used with food, and contains no corn, middlings, etc. Why pay ten cents per pound for what costs only one cent? If you desire bulk for your money take 100 pounds of middlings, or such like, and mix with 100 pounds Myers' Spice, you will then get a much superior article than most advertised Stock Foods, and it will cost you only $5.50 per 100 pounds. A saving of $4.50 on 100 pounds is an item not to be lost sight of. Is not this true economy?

What is the Meaning of "Well-Balanced" Flour?

A perfectly "balanced" flour is one which contains the greatest amount of nutriment in its most easily digestible form. No single variety of wheat will produce "well-balanced" flour. It requires the careful selection of different kinds.

The makers of ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR have more than a hundred elevators, scattered throughout the greatest wheat-growing country in the world, which enables them to secure the very pick of the wheat that will yield perfectly-balanced flour.

The kind of flour that produces the best, the largest and the strongest loaf.

The loaf which contains the greatest amount of bone, muscle and brain-making protein and the lowest percentage of waste.

ROYAL HOUSEHOLD makes bread which reduces the labor of digestion, and gives greatest nutrition for least stomach effort.

It's the "balance" in flour that makes bread easier to digest and gives it many other qualities which are usually attributed to other causes.

Cocoa, Its History, Growth, and Cultivation

A Lecture delivered by Mr. Henry Deacon, at the Merchant Venturers' Technical College, Bristol, England.

I am afraid that many of the best informed have very hazy ideas respecting some of the necessaries of life which we handle and use every day. Cocoa is one of these articles and I propose to consider its history, growth, and the process of manufacture into the variety of forms in which we receive it as a finished article of food, and I trust the result of our meeting to-night will be to give an additional interest in this popular article.

Nature, ever lavish in her gifts to her children, has not only bountifully provided for all our requirements in the abundance of food necessary to sustain and develop life, but with a prodigal liberality has given richly of her treasures to minister to man's delight and enjoyment, and from many a sunny clime we receive those products which have not only become the luxuries of our tables but are now regarded as the necessaries of life, and of these natural gifts, not the least is cocoa.

Its history is deeply interesting, and many learned works dating over 300 years back have been written in its praise, ascribing to it miraculous medicinal virtues.

The History of Cocoa.

Cortez and Pizarro during their conquest of Mexico and Peru in the year 1519 made the acquaintance of the cocoa plant, which they found to be carefully cultivated by the natives for the beverage it yielded and which was a much esteemed article of consumption — the mighty Montezuma having fifty cups served up daily, while the seeds also were used as their current coin.

When Cortez sent to Charles V. of Spain the principal products of the new world he included cocoa as the choicest of the beverages which Spain obtained by her conquests.

The excellent qualities of cocoa soon became appreciated by the Spaniards, and the physicians of the day were loud in their praises of the new beverage for its supposed wonderful healing powers.

The Spaniards seem to have jealously guarded their newly found treasure, and it was not until a century after its introduction into Europe that the English became acquainted with it, it having probably been brought over by that celebrated physician and naturalist, Sir Hans Sloan, and we read in the Public Advertiser of Tuesday, June 16, 1657, that "In Bishopsgate street in Queen's Head alley at a Frenchman's house, is an excellent West Indian drink called chocolate to be sold where you may have it ready made at any time and also unmade at reasonable rates."

Later in the eighteenth century it became the fashionable luxury of the rich. In 1746, the famous Cocoa Tree Club was formed in St. James street, and has been immortalized by Addison and Steele in the pages of the Tatler and Spectator. Chocolate was frequently the theme of contemporary literature, and had become an exceedingly popular beverage, and the Cocoa Tree was a favorite sign and name for places of public refreshment. Here the wits and literary men of the day were wont to congregate and over their cups of cocoa discuss the absorbing topics of the day.

These cocoa houses of a bygone age exerted, no doubt, a considerable influence on the social life and conditions of the time, but however interesting it may be to linger round the memories of these old-world taverns and in imagination to people them with the men whose personality has been made very real to us by their writings, they are utterly a thing of the past, and have faded out of the present work-o'-day world with the men who haunted their purlieus and made them famous in their day by the glamour of their wit and genius.

Towards the middle of the nineteenth century it was an established beverage for all classes. Modern processes have, however, so much improved the form in which cocoa is now placed before us that every year its sale increases.

From 267,000 lbs. in 1820, the consumption was raised to 9,900,000 lbs. in 1875; 21,601,825 lbs. in 1891; 42,353,724 lbs. in 1901, and 45,313,072 lbs. in 1904.

The figures I have just given indicate the attention which the cultivation of the cocoa tree is receiving at the hands of planters.

The Theobroma Cacao tree belongs to the order Byttneriacea. The term "Theobroma" implies "Food for the Gods," and the name was given to the plant by the great Swedish naturalist Linnaeus, who is said to have been particularly fond of the beverage prepared from its seeds.

The Mexicans called it "cacaoa quahuilt," naming its seeds "chocolalt." The word "chocolalt" supposed to represent the sound made by the primitive mortar in which they ground the nuts, and there is no doubt we derive the words "cacao" and chocolate from these native names, the term "cacao" having been changed into the familiarly known word "cocoa."

Its Cultivation.

The Theobroma Cacao is a native of the tropical parts of America and is extensively grown in the West Indian Islands, Brazil and Guiana. It flourishes a few degrees north and south of the equator, so we have a belt of cocoa-growing country around the world. Its cultivation has also been introduced into some parts of Asia and Africa, and a much esteemed variety has of recent years been successfully cultivated in Ceylon, and marks a fresh departure in the trade in this increasingly important article of food and drink.

The cocoa grown in Ceylon possesses a peculiarly fine and delicate flavor, somewhat different to that grown in the western hemisphere.

The ordinary height of the tree ranges from 12 to 20 feet, but is sometimes higher. The plant when three years old begins to bear fruit, but it does not reach its full productiveness until the seventh or eighth year. It has fine spreading branches with large handsome dark green leaves, the flowers are formed of small pale yellow blossoms, the fruit consists of large pods somewhat the shape of a lemon, but much larger, being from 6 to 9 inches long and 3 to 5 inches in diameter, containing nuts which number about forty, and lie in regular rows like the grains of maize. The pods hang pendulous from the tree by a tough stalk and are scattered about the trunk and larger branches. They are at first of a dark green with the side nearest the sun of a dull red; as they grow riper the green changes to a fine bright yellow and the dull to a more beautiful red. The tree bears two crops a year, and as the pods ripen they are cut down by men who go through the plantations every morning. The pods are then broken open by the natives and the beans placed in heaps for the curing process. When this is complete they are dried in the sun and packed in bags for exportation to Europe.

When a plantation is being laid out the ground has to be thoroughly cleared and prepared. The young plants—reared from seed—are set in regular rows about 15 feet apart and as the young tree is somewhat tender for some time after it is planted a quick growing tree is placed by its side, generally the banana, which affords shade and protection until the young cocoa tree is sufficiently strong to bear the rays of the fierce tropical sun.

It will thus be seen that cocoa cultivation requires a considerable capital, as three years of labor and care have to be provided for before the tree bears fruit and yields a return for the planter's outlay.

Now, having traced our cocoa bean through its early history and cultivation, until it is landed on our shores, it may be interesting to give a brief description of how this valuable gift of nature is manufactured, and the processes it passes through in order to render it one of the most delicious of beverages.

The Process of Manufacture.

Now to start with our raw cocoa bean, the first thing is to cook it. This is accomplished by roasting in iron cylinders revolving over coke fires; this process requires skill and judgment which only long experience can give. The roasting develops the delicious aroma and flavor characteristic of cocoa. The nuts having cooled are passed through rollers which crack the husk or shell; the whole is then passed through winnowing machines, where the shell or husk is separated from the crushed nut which now becomes the familiarly known cocoa nib. The shell has a small commercial value, being much used in Ireland for making a thin drink.

The nibs are now passed through a series of mills with large granite rollers. I should say that the cocoa bean contains a large quantity of natural fat —about 50 per cent. Owing to so large a proportion of oil or cocoa butter—as it is termed—the hard, dry nib, becomes with the heat and friction of the mills reduced to a pasty substance and finally emerges from the last mill in a thin liquid stream. It is then poured into moulds and cooled, forming solid blocks about 28 lbs. each. These are stored ready to be used for making into the many forms of cocoa and chocolate with which we are familiar.

As I mentioned just now, the cocoa butter forms a large proportion of the cocoa bean. This excess of fat rendered cocoa somewhat indigestible to many, and to overcome this difficulty, West Indian arrowroot or sago and refined sugar were added, thus producing what is known as the prepared cocoas—a soluble, easily digested and nutritious beverage—and the well known brands, such as Caracas cocoa, homeopathic cocoa and pearl cocoa are deservedly popular and a great favorite with the younger members of our families.

Notwithstanding the numerous advantages of the prepared cocoas, many preferred the cocoa made from the nibs, although the process of making it was rather a troublesome one, requiring many hours of gentle stewing to extract the flavor, and the liquor allowed to cool in order that the oil or cocoa butter which rose to the top might be removed.

Modern research and science, however, have come to the aid of the lover of pure cocoa, and by means of powerful machinery the oil is extracted in large measure. To accomplish this the cocoa as it leaves the mills in its liquid state is run into canvas bags; these are placed in steel cylinders about a foot in diameter and perforated at the sides. The cylinders being filled with the bags of liquid cocoa, hydraulic pressure of about 1,200 lbs. to the square inch is applied and the butter flows out through the punctured sides of the cylinder warm and as liquid as salad oil and cools into the hard substance known as "cocoa butter." We have now left in the persuasive embrace of the cylinder a hard, dry mass which is ground down and passed through fine sieves of about 3,000 holes to the square inch. This constitutes the article known as cocoa extract, being a pure cocoa deprived of a large portion of the natural oil.

Another well known brand is pure concentrated cocoa, an article produced by a new scientific process and the careful use of the finest cocoa. This also has a portion of the oil extracted, and being in a highly concentrated form is very economical in use.

From cocoa we naturally turn to chocolate which is simply our old friend cocoa sweetened with refined sugar, flavored with vanilla and made into the great variety of forms so familiar to the lovers of sweetmeats. A very great favorite just now is the popular milk chocolate.

The present popularity of cocoa is due to its very agreeable qualities as a drink and this combined with the knowledge of its dietetic value has made it a most welcome adjunct to our breakfast tables, and as a light meal it is invaluable for supper.

Each special process of manufacture is watched with great care and the perfection of this article is the result of many years of experience and skillful treatment in which the introduction of the newest machinery has played an important part.

Another condition of success is the expert judgment necessary in selecting the finest quality bean of the various countries; this requires a knowledge which only the long training of the mind, eye, and taste can give. As a rule the best results are obtained by a judicious blending of the different growths of cocoa. Two kinds of chocolate, with which you are no doubt familiar, are, however, made from one kind of bean only, that of which it bears the name, viz., Caracas chocolate and Ceylon chocolate.

Value as a Food Product.

And now a word as to the value of cocoa as a food. Analytical chemists tell us that cocoa possesses a large percentage of flesh and force producers. It will thus be seen that in cocoa we have a valuable article of diet, and in treating it as a drink the object has been to develop its peculiarly grateful aroma to the greatest possible extent and to make it perfectly soluble, palatable and digestible.

If, as it has been said, he is a public benefactor who makes two blades of grass grow where only one grew before, then surely he who by careful study and scientific research succeeds in evolving out of a crude product of nature a wholesome and nourishing food within reach of the poorest can lay claim to like distinction.

In the economy of this wonderful body of ours, it is necessary to the maintenance of the due balance of health and strength that we should combine in our foods those articles which contain the elements required to renew the daily wear and tear and one of the most important of these elements is nitrogen. Now it is the special function of the nitrogenous foods, or flesh formers, to make good the continual waste of muscle and tissue. Cocoa contains a stimulating alkaloid called Theobromine, which is closely allied to the theine and caffeine of tea and coffee, and being one of the most highly nitrogenized vegetable substances known, it is at once apparent that it contains the elements of a valuable food; and in proportion as medical science advances and the conditions essential to maintain health and vigor become better understood, the importance is increasingly realized of a pure and wholesome diet, and the adoption of such articles of food and drink as are not only nourishing and appetizing, but which, being easy of digestion, are rapidly assimilated.

Dr. Andrew Wilson, F.R.S.E., the eminent lecturer on health, says: "In cocoa we have a perfect food, a bean rich in all materials needed for growth. A cocoa bean is a kind of vegetable egg which contains all that is needed to build up a living body."

Its sustaining properties are appreciated by cyclists, tourists, and others who find in a packet of chocolate a portable and satisfying meal.

PORK PACKERS AND THEIR DIFFICULTIES.

The seriousness of the removal of bonding privileges by the Minister of Agriculture continues to be demonstrated by those whose interests are at stake. Since this subject was first dealt with in the columns of The Grocer a good deal of correspondence has been received dealing with the situation. The following from F. W. Fearman Co., Limited, Hamilton, Ont., sets forth in convincing manner the true condition:

"The subject of handling American hogs in bond has been so well explained in your columns that there is but little more can be said.

"The fact remains that this country is not raising anywhere near enough hogs to keep the packing houses now in existence in working condition.

"There is a normal requirement of 56,000 hogs per week to enable these houses to operate upon a normal basis of manufacturing cost per hog or per 100 pounds.

"Any shortage of this required supply adds to the manufacturing cost per hog or per 100 pounds.

"When the average supply amounts to only 28,000 to 29,000 per week in any one week, with a maximum at any time of 35,000, it can readily be seen how serious this shortage is, and it can as readily be figured how this shortage adds to the operating cost that must be added to the product of a week's operations.

"It was to ameliorate this condition of extreme dearth of raw material that the Canadian bacon curer, as a matter of survival, of self-preservation, was compelled to resort to the handling of American hogs in bond. Simply this, and nothing more.

"The handling of American hogs in bond was not letting these hogs, nor the product of these hogs, into this country free. It was simply the handling of them as far as the converting of the hogs into bacon was concerned, and provided work for employes who otherwise would have to go on short time, or without work altogether, and help keep the packing house in existence.

"Every pound of the product of these hogs had to be shipped out of the country or else pay the duty.

"It has been said if the bacon curers would pay more for the hogs the farmers would raise more.

"If those who make this assertion would stop to think that where there are fourteen packing houses, with only enough raw material available to keep half that number fairly well going, there is only one result in the struggle for a share of the supply that is in sight; the producer is bound to get, and does get, every farthing the curer can afford to pay, and in many periods gets more, far more, than he should have been paid.

"The Canadian farmer has every reason to congratulate himself upon the price he has been getting for his hogs. They have paid him, and paid him well. We will assert that they have paid him better than anything else on the farm. All things considered, he has been paid more for his hogs than any other farmer in the world.

"Those who are asking for better prices than have been paid by the bacon curers the last few years, and than they are paying now, are, to say the least, unreasonable.

"The larger percentage of the farmers of this country do not know what it costs them to raise hogs and put them upon the market, do not know what they are making out of them, and we think it would do good if the Government would give the results of their numerous experiments as to what it costs to bring hogs to maturity in such a way as to impress it upon every farmer.

"If the Ontario farmer was not making money at 6c per lb. and in many cases 6¼c per lb. through the month of December, how much was his friend in Michigan losing at 4.35c to 4½c for his hogs, both fed under very much similar conditions?

"There is no more danger of the spread of infection through the handling of these hogs in bond than there is from the hogs passing through every day, train after train, from Windsor to Bridgeburg, or from Sarnia through the whole stretch of this country to Boston.

"We cannot believe that the bacon out of these hogs handled in bond is sold as Canadian bacon. Anyway, in our own case, we have positive knowledge that what product of these hogs in bond we have sent to the British market has been sold with full representation as to what it was and that it in no way came in competition with nor affected the position of the product of our Canadian hogs.

"In any event the Government could have made such regulations as to positively prevent the selling of the bacon of these hogs in bond as Canadian, by compelling the bacon curer to burn into the rind the words 'Product of American hogs.'

"A packing house differs from other lines of manufacturing. The raw material is perishable and must be handled promptly and expeditiously. Comparatively the same staff has to be maintained right along whether the operations be large or small. You have to be prepared to take care of what hogs come in each week, be they few or many.

"We consider the Government are making a grave mistake in withdrawing the conditions under which American hogs in bond are handled, and are adding to the difficulty under which the bacon curing industry has been struggling for some time."

THE BONDED REGULATIONS.

The regulation governing the importation of hogs under bond, and which the Government has now decided to abolish, is given herewith. The regulation came into effect on May 3, 1880, and has not been very extensively made use of until recently, when the shortage of Canadian hogs became serious.

Sec. I—Swine may be imported into Canada for the purpose of being slaughtered; the importer shall enter the same for warehouse upon the usual form of such entries, stating upon its face the number, live weight and value of the herd, and the rate and amount of duty, as prescribed by the tariff in force at the time of making such entry. Such importer shall then execute a bond to the King, with two sufficient sureties, to the satisfaction of the collector of customs at the port where such swine are imported or warehoused, in double the amount of such duty; the condition of such bond shall be that upon due exportation within one year of the products of the swine so imported, slaughtered and cured in the form of pork, bacon, hams, shoulders and lard, then the said bond shall be and become null and void.

In January, 1882, the privilege was extended by the following order-in-council: The bond given by the importer, as before specified, shall be cancelled upon the exportation of 60 per cent. of the live weight of swine weighing 200 pounds each and under, or upon the exportation of 65 per cent. of the live weight of the swine weighing over 200 pounds each, as originally entered, in the form of pork, bacon, hams, shoulders and lard.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1905, the statistics of the U.S. Government show that a total of 44,496 hogs were exported to Canada. The number of these turned into bacon, etc., by the Canadian packers, and sent to the British markets will be forthcoming from the statistics of the Canadian Customs Department.

The total number of hogs imported from the United States in the fiscal year ending June 30 was 5,334,859 pounds. Of these 50,182 pounds were for consumption and the balance was in bond.

GREEK CURRANT MONOPOLY.

Mr. Charles S. Wilson, secretary of legation at Athens, reports that the company formed some months ago, which obtained from the Greek Government the monopoly of the growing and trade in dried currants, upon taking over the stock of the former companies, found about 98,000,000 liters of currants in its storehouses, and at the end of this year that amount will be almost doubled. In order to utilize this large supply, the company is making experiments in feeding animals with the product after it has been kneaded and made into molds. The company is also about to import a number of automobiles into Greece to be used as public conveyances. The motive power of these machines is to be alcohol extracted from currants. The same alcohol will be used for lighting purposes, and the company is now trying to introduce lamps which burn alcohol. It is hoped, on account of its price that alcohol will largely replace petroleum, which is very expensive in Greece.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THIS?

Louis and Arthur Bein put in four acres of beets this year, which they carefully tended during the Summer, and now have a nice little bank account to show for their work. The boys expended $60.65 for seed, thinning, pulling, etc., and did their own irrigating, weeding and hauling. The crop amounted to 90 tons and 762 pounds, for which they received $451.90. After paying their expense of $60.65 the boys had $390.25 left as pay for their work, which they deposited in the bank. Is there any other place on earth where two young schoolboys can earn that much money during the Summer on four acres?—Berthoud (Colo.) Bulletin.

FINE TEA ADVERTISING.

A good deal of attention has been directed to the almost world-wide controversy of the injuriousness or otherwise of tea drinking. The United States Tea and Coffee Trade Journal has the following interesting remarks:

Truly it is an ill wind that blows nobody good. It is hardly likely that "Mr. P. C. Larkin, of Canada," when he wrote that letter to the New York Herald ordering his ad out of the paper because the Herald had printed a statement derogatory to India and Ceylon teas and favorable to China tea expected the Herald would straightway start in to print column after column of good stuff on tea, all of which is well calculated to arouse the interest of thousands in the subject and boom the American consumption of the article—or did he?

Whether wittingly or unwittingly, the Herald has done a great service to the general public by its investigations among prominent world physicians, nerve specialists, college professors, tea experts, etc., and printing their opinions day by day in its columns. No symposium like this one has ever before been attempted in this country. It cannot but result in a more intelligent understanding of the subject by the laity, and, incidentally, boom the consumption of tea in the United States.

The reasons why Americans drink only one pound of tea per capita to the Britishers' six pounds is because of the general ignorance here of the benefits of tea drinking and lack of knowledge as to how to properly prepare the drink. The whole trade should rise up and call Larkin blessed. He has accomplished at one fell swoop something that the National Tea Association has been working on for years; he is getting the maximum of tea publicity at the minimum of expense. Bravo, Larkin!

And when the evidence is all in, and all the doctors have been heard from, the great American public will find out what the connoisseurs have always known, viz., that tea is bad for some people and good for others. In this it is no different from strawberries. These are good for some people, but others cannot abide them. Still, that is no reason for a wholesale condemnation of strawberries. What's true of strawberries is so concerning tea—and coffee as well.

AN INTERESTING FACT.

It is said on the high authority of a celebrated American medical journal that, although the Chinese people live in a germ saturated soil, they are singularly free from typhoid fever and other diseases of which water is the medium of communication. This condition is attributed to the universal custom of copious tea-drinking.

The tea itself is not held to be the safeguard against disease, but the boiling of the drink has a germicidal effect, which produces sanitary advantages. And if tea produces any ill results they are not to be considered beside these advantages.

The tea leaf is described as forming one of the most innocent and attractive flavorings possible for hot drinks, and the boiled drink is the foe to the deadly germ.

PRODUCE AND PROVISIONS

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

There is not much change in the cheese market. The demand from the United Kingdom is still on and prices keep advancing steadily. The unprecedented demand at this season of the year is clearing our markets of stocks much earlier than usual, and any further advance in prices will mostly benefit the importers of Great Britain, who practically control the available supplies now. There are fully four months of non-production ahead of us, and as the supplies for this period are insufficient for any ordinary consumptive demand, the advancing prices are required to curtail the natural demand.

There is a limit to the top prices of any article of food, and as far as cheese is concerned this limit seems nearly reached. Any further advance in prices will take this article out of the class of "food" and transfer it to the class of "luxury," then other articles will take its place for food.

As previously pointed out, during the Winter months fires are required in every home, and these may be used simultaneously for heating and cooking purposes. Pork products are getting cheap and Australian meats are coming on the British markets at reasonable prices. All this will go against unreasonably high prices of cheese, no matter how strong the situation may seem.

Of course, no matter what the market price may be, there is always a certain demand to be supplied. Families, clubs, hotels and restaurants will have some cheese at any price, but this trade is more in the class of "luxury" than "food." Where the large consumption of cheese as food comes from is the working classes of the United Kingdom, and if they can get meats at a lower price than cheese, they will take meats in preference, especially during the Winter months when the cooking of meats means no extra expense for fuel.

However, the present situation on cheese is a very strong one. Supplies are undoubtedly light both here and in the different centres of Great Britain, and prices are still advancing. Holders do not care about theories ; they simply look for present profits regardless of the future. The future under present conditions means simply a starting at very high prices for the new season's make and a steady decline until bottom prices are reached.

This does not seem favorable for a profitable business season to look forward to. The merchants can make no money if they have to pay high prices for their goods. The only remedy seems to be to increase the production and bring prices down to a safe basis, which can only be done by farmers increasing their herds.

It pays the farmers very well to make cheese even at much lower prices than what they have obtained last year for their milk, but unless they do increase their herds and if they persist in making butter instead of cheese, we are almost face to face with a most serious shortage of supplies in the cheese trade, which would be a great pity for everybody in this trade both here and in Great Britain.

Canada is now the principal source of supplies of cheese for the British markets. The consumption of cheese in the United Kingdom is away ahead of their home production and their supplies from other European countries and New Zealand, and if our Canadian supplies fall short it means a serious deficiency on the British markets.

High prices may look well to the farmers of Canada, but if they produced a larger quantity and had to accept even a fraction less on their season's production, it might not only still pay them, but it might even increase their actual revenue. There is plenty of land and plenty of room for the farmers to increase their production of cheese and butter, and there is plenty of demand in the United Kingdom for their products. Why not build up on this ?

Butter, made now, is comparatively lower in price than cheese, but even butter will shortly be wanted at higher prices. All of which goes to show that we need increased production of both cheese and butter. The remedy of this is entirely in the farmers' hands.

Election of Officers of the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association.

The annual meeting of the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association will be held on January 8, when the officers for the ensuing year will be elected. Nominations must be posted in the Board of Trade room before 6 p.m. January 4.

Mr. Alfred C. H. Froemcke, the retiring treasurer, whose term expires by limitation, has nominated Mr. Isaac Hibbert, representative of Messrs. Willer & Riley, Limited, of Manchester, England, as his successor. Other nominations for the executive committee are Mr. J. H. Scott of A. A. Ayer & Co., Limited, and Mr. Hugh Allan. Both gentlemen were nominated by Mr. F. Fowler. Besides president, vice-president and treasurer, there will be elected four members of the executive committee, and also an arbitration committee of five members of the association.

THE PROVISION SITUATION.

Since our last report trade has generally settled down to a steady basis at all points. The extraordinarily fine and mild weather had undoubtedly a slightly detrimental effect upon consumption during holiday season.

The packing industries report a falling off in demand since the holiday. Supplies of hogs are good, but farmers are already pressing for higher prices, In car lots at Ontario points 50 cents advance is being asked, but prominent packers have refused those prices, and few sales have been effected above last week's quotations. There are, however, signs of developments of a serious situation from the insufficiency of supply. The export trade will undoubtedly suffer in an immediate way from this cause, which is likely to be seriously accelerated by the removal of the bonded privilege which has now come into effect.

The export of cheese has been fairly active, whilst the home consumption has declined. Dealers generally attribute this decline to the fact that prices have advanced to the point that makes cheese too much of a luxury to the middle class.

The butter industries are getting down to work, but no activity is reported from any points.

Poultry dealers report a material falling off in sales, due to the fine weather. Many dealers were well stocked and will be heavy losers before the season is over. It is claimed that consumption has been much less this year than last, but during Christmas week sales exceeded all records.

The relative prominence given to the subject of beef cattle at the Guelph live stock exhibition is sufficient proof of its importance to Canada. So long as the great majority of people continue to eat flesh, so long will beef retain its historic pre-eminence as an article of diet. No farmer now engaged in beef cattle production need have the slightest fear of the bottom falling out of the market. The population of Europe is increasing with sufficient rapidity to keep up the demand for beef, and the population of the United States is increasing with sufficient rapidity to keep down the supply available for exportation from there. New interest has been imparted to the subject by the prospect of a general election in Great Britain, in which the embargo on the importation of "store" cattle is already becoming a subject of keen controversy. If the embargo were removed, farmers who are constrained to raise cattle for other people to finish, would find themselves at once financially benefitted to a very appreciable extent.

"SWEET CREAM" BUTTER PROCESS.

The second test of the sample packages of butter made by the "sweet cream" process invented by Prof. Leclerc, head of the St. Lawrence Dairy School, has shown that butter made by Prof. Leclerc's method has excellent keeping qualities. The committee of expert judges who were appointed to test the butter are unanimous in declaring that it is superior to that made by the old system, both in flavor and in keeping qualities.

The test took place in Gould's cold storage warehouse, where the samples have been kept through the Summer. The committee of judges was comprised of Messrs. F. Monet, of Fortier & Monet; H. G. Niven, of Wm. Niven & Sons; John Scott, of A. A. Ayer & Co.; F. X. Trudal, of the St. Lawrence Dairy Co., and Mr. T. H. Ryan, of the D. A. McPherson Co. Prof. Leclerc and a number of those interested in the dairy industry were also present.

This committee will present a detailed report at a meeting of Province of Quebec factorymen and dealers, to be held at St. Lin during the second week in January. As was the case at the first test held in June last, the judges expressed themselves well pleased with the quality of the butter and the different samples were scored very high. It was found that the butter had retained its flavor better and was in a much better state of preservation than the average class of goods made by the old system. The actual scoring has not been announced, but will be published when the judges have compiled their report.

The "sweet cream" process of butter making has been adopted by many of the creameries in the Province of Quebec. The product of these factories has always found a ready sale, some firms being willing to pay a fraction above the ruling market quotations to obtain it. Prof. Leclerc intends to instruct the Province of Quebec factorymen in the process at the St. Hyacinthe and many factories are now getting down to straight work. Prices remain firm at previous quotations. We quote:

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

MONTREAL.

Provisions.

Firmness with unchanged prices is the characteristic of the provision market. Business, however, is none too active and the holidays have flattened it out more. Live hogs continue very scarce and dealers prophesy higher prices shortly. Dressed hogs, abattoir killed, $9.00 to $9.25; country dressed, $8.00 to $8.50. Lard, fair demand. Poultry is easing up in price since New Year and 1c. to 2c. per pound reduction in all lines is being noted. We quote:

Butter.

Butter market shows little change, though a slightly easier tone was noted at early part of week. Local demand is good and exports are in excess of similar period last year. Choice creamery is quoted to-day at 23c. to 23 1-2c.; good to fine, 21 1-2c. to 22c.; western dairy, 20c. to 21c.; rolls, 21c. to 21 1-2c.

The cheese market is decidedly strong and dealers are watching the trend closely. Tuesday's advance in Liverpool to 65s., has had the effect of still further stiffening up the few holders. Quotations 13 1-4c. to 13 1-2c. for western, and 13 1-4c. for eastern. Local consumption continues good and prices steady.

Eggs.

Local market unchanged. Prices rule firm. Some dealers are buying and holding for a rise before close of season. New laid scarce, 28c. to 32c.; selected, 24c. to 26c. No. 1 and Montreal limed, 20c. to 21c.; western limed, 20c. We quote:

Provisions.

Local conditions denote a good deal of falling off in demand, in consequence of the heavy stocking of buyers previous to the holiday. Dressed meats continue firm at previous quotations. Hogs, however are showing a tendency to advance, and quotations are revised 25c. to 50c. Beef has advanced 1-2c. Mutton and lamb also show firmer quotations. We quote:

Provisions.

Market is quiet, owing to the American market being lower on pork products than the Canadian. Local packers of pork have, therefore, found it hard to do business. In lard the American has had the business; some little Ontario stock is now being offered; prices higher. Refined lard continues low. Smoked meats firm. Fresh meats dull. Beef rules low. In both lamb and mutton, values unchanged, and reasonable prices rule. Veal out of season. Pork continues high. We quote:

SALT BORING AT WINNIPEG.

The Manitoba Development Co. have made arrangements with the Canadian Northern for lease of the land in St. Boniface, on the Seine River, where they have been boring for salt. The company have secured a 20-year lease of the land and have agreed to have buildings erected and machinery installed ready for operation by the 1st of July. The water that is now being pumped from the well carries 35 per cent. of salt, and some thousand gallons are going into the Red River every day. Some people think the gold-eyes will be turned into salt herring when coming up stream next Spring. The manager of the company, who is an expert, has every confidence that the enterprise will prove a big success.

BANQUET TO MR. R. B. RICE.

The Queen's Hotel, Toronto, was the scene of a very interesting little ceremony on the evening of December 29, which took the form of a presentation banquet to Mr. R. B. Rice, the late financial manager of H. P. Eckardt & Co., Toronto. The event of the evening was the presentation of a handsome diamond and emerald pin to Mr. Rice from the members of the staff. The presentation was made by Mr. Eckardt in a happy address.

Mr. R. B. Rice was born in the village of Wyndham Centre, county of Norfolk, and entered the office of J. F. Eby & Co., wholesale tea merchants, in February, 1879, as office boy.

When Mr. Blain entered into partnership with Mr. Eby, a wholesale grocery business was started under the firm name of Eby, Blain & Co., in whose employment Mr. Rice continued until January 1, 1887, having filled every position in their office during the eight years. On the latter date he resigned his position to take charge of the office of Eckardt,

Mr. R. B. Rice.

Kyle & Co. (now H. P. Eckardt & Co.) and has been intrusted with the financial management of the business during the nineteen years of his connection with the house. He leaves behind him many warm friends in the trade, with whom he has had the most pleasant relations during his connection with the grocery business. Mr. Rice is severing his connection with Messrs. H. P. Eckardt & Co. to enter the business of the Featherbone Novelry Co. as a member of the firm, and in order to bid him farewell in a fitting manner, the members of the staff tendered him a banquet at the Queen's Hotel on Friday evening, December 29 last.

It will be remembered that Mr. Rice figured prominently in the founding of the Queen City Curling Club, one of the largest organizations of its kind in Canada, and certainly one of the most successful financially. In this success the able services of Mr. Rice were a prominent factor.

THE EXPENSE ACCOUNT.

A man with a taste for figures has studied out the cost of running a business and as a result of his investigation he says: It is surprising that many good business men deceive themselves in regard to the cost of doing business—that is, the total cost as compared with the total sales. If they are making a good profit such a mistake may do little harm, but if the profit is small the error may be disastrous. We occasionally hear of a retail business being done at about a cost of 10 per cent. says an exchange, but if the matter was investigated it would probably be found that several items of expense had been omitted and that the actual cost was nearer 25 per cent.

Interest on the capital should be charged at a fair rate, say 5 per cent. The salary of each partner should be figured as part of the expense. All clerk hire, commissions, rent, taxes, insurance, heating, advertising, traveling, postage and office expense, breakage and repairs, freight and cartage, as well as all material used in the store, such as paper, twine, etc., should be included; in fact, the expense of doing business covers every cent paid out except the invoice cost of the goods, and no concern can live unless they add to the invoice enough profit to cover all expenses of every description. It should be remembered that 33 1-3 per cent. should be added to the cost to cover the expense of 25 per cent. on the sales.

TO IMPROVE BUTTER SUPPLY.

Probably every farmer in Canada would like to obtain more profit from each individual cow in his herd, but at present there is lack of co-operation amongst farmers to accomplish this object.

In Denmark, the home of agricultural co-operation, there have been testing associations since 1895, and there are now nine thousand farmers having their cows tested systematically. Similar work will pay here, and pay well. Wherever such work has been done, the average production per cow has speedily been raised twenty-five and even fifty pounds of butter per annum. Surely there are hundreds of farmers, painstaking and thoughtful, willing to show a little enterprise for an almost certain return of from five to ten dollars more than at present from each cow per year.

In Michigan an association was organized in September, 1905. Canadian farmers need to take this matter up quickly and seriously.

As an instance of what substantial progress is possible when individual cows are tested, a farmer near Cowansville, Que., furnishes a striking illustration. In 1896 fifteen cows were kept, giving an average of only 131 pounds of butter. In 1900 tests were commenced of each cow separately, the milk being weighed regularly. In 1904 twenty cows were kept (on the same land which when purchased in 1881 would not decently keep nine cows) and the average production per cow was 254 pounds of butter. This increase of 123 pounds per cow can be attained on many other farms.

In some illustration testing undertaken in 1904 and 1905 by the Dominion Department of Agriculture it was shown that very poor returns are received from many cows, therefore the urgent need of cow-testing associations is apparent. Valuable practical bulletins on the subject are available and will be sent free by that department to any applicant.

Where any twenty patrons of a factory will agree to weigh the milk from each cow on three days during the month through the milking period, and furnish themselves with scales and sample bottles costing about two to three dollars complete, the Minister of Agriculture announces that the testing will be done free of cost to the patrons. As the Department is anxious to assist farmers in organizing, Mr. J. A. Ruddick, Dairy Commissioner, Ottawa, will be glad to hear from any progressive farmer or factory owner in any community relative to this most important matter, and will arrange for meetings to discuss the question.

CANADIAN APPLES IN FRANCE.

Several French firms have been buying Canadian apples in a small way for a number of years. The trade has grown somewhat irregularly until the present year when it forms a marked feature of the business. The French trade demands a fairly firm apple, such as the Russet, Ben Davis or Stark, a class of apple which is increasing very rapidly as the newer plantations come into bearing. Unfortunately the French buyers in a few instances fell into the hands of the apple sharks and the reputation of Canadian fruit suffered accordingly. As the buyers increase in experience the trade is likely to assume large proportions.

The following extract from a letter to the fruit division from a prominent Paris firm will be of interest:

"We are able to say that generally speaking the fruit marked XXX is all right, there being only 4 or 5 per cent. of the barrels wasted in that mark. In XX fruit there is a larger proportion of wasted apples. Many packers leave in this brand apples which should be placed in the X brand so that the XX mark cannot be depended upon. Canadian XXX fruit can be sold in the original package, which is not usual in the French trade, but we are obliged to resort all the XX grade. If Canadian packers would pay as much attention to the packing of XX fruit as they pay to the packing of XXX fruit there is no doubt their apples would meet with a greater demand than those from the United States, which do not reach us in so good a condition."

This firm also referred to the very great difference in the weight of barrels, noting that they varied from 165 pounds gross to 150 pounds gross, partly as the result of different varieties, but mostly as the result of different sized barrels.

There is a very strong argument in this letter in favor of a definition of No. 2 apples as well as for uniformity in the size and weight of the package. These two points have often been referred to as ones which it would be desirable to have settled, but it is only when an actual customer in a foreign land marks them out as real hindrances to trade that the full force of the arguments in favor of these reforms comes home to the Canadian fruit grower.

WORK, NOT CHARITY.

Pauperism in England is one of the most absorbing questions before the world to-day. There is an apparent reason for the revolutionary movement in Russia, but few Canadians can understand why "there are ten million people in Great Britain on the verge of starvation," as a leading British statesman put it a year ago, and how things can be so bad in London, the wealthiest city in the world, as to have a procession of 6,000 poorly dressed and half starved women, many of them carrying babies, march through the streets of the metropolis singing the "Marseillaise," and sending a deputation to Premier Balfour asking that public works be started to provide employment for their husbands, brothers and fathers.

But hard though it may be to realize that wealth and poverty are twin sisters, such is the fact, and the deplorable conditions existing in London have moved Queen Alexandra to donate $10,000 to start a charitable fund to relieve the distress, Premier Balfour having stated that "he had little to suggest in the way of alleviation except an expression of hope that public charity would come to the aid of the unemployed. He deprecated the Socialistic suggestion that industries should be started at the national expense for the benefit of the unemployed as calculated to destroy the springs of enterprise and energy of the nation." And a recent cable says the poor are flocking to the metropolis in droves, being attracted by the Queen's fund to assist the unemployed. This influx simply aggravates the situation, as the impoverished are invading London more rapidly than they can be provided for.

What is to be done to relieve this situation? Can the English race be allowed to starve and deteriorate in its home land and in the midst of plenty? Can the problem be left for solution by the leisure classes in England and for alleviation by Queen's funds and other charitable enterprises? As well may we do as an Irish domestic is said to have done—endeavor to mop up the water on the kitchen floor without turning the water tap off. A wealthy business man, one who had risen from the ranks, recently pointed out that it was the policy of the families in England having hereditary incomes or drawing large pensions to encourage pauperism, as it meant to them cheap labor and products of labor (food, clothing, etc.,) a plentiful supply of cheap servants, and a servile common people. Little, therefore, can be expected from this quarter. Whatever practical measures are adopted must be suggested and put into action by business men who recognize the waste to society in keeping in existence an idle poor as well as an idle rich class. The incapacity of the offspring of idle parents will appeal to all thinking men who desire to see the world's undeveloped resources exploited.

"Work, not charity," were the words emblazoned upon the banners of the orderly out-of-works who paraded the streets of London recently. Men and women denied the opportunity to earn bread for themselves and their children asked that the opportunity to labor be given them. But the English tax-payer dearly loves low tax "rates"—even though it means workhouses and charity. The Canadian business man sees things differently. He sees "millions of acres wanting hands" in Canada, and "millions of hands wanting acres" in old England, and he makes the connection. Farmers in Canada are crying out for assistance, and while it is no easy matter to make a Canadian farmer of a British city dweller, three or four years spent on the farm will give sufficient knowledge to enable the former pauper to take up land and farm his own ground. This is a subject in which the retail trade is vitally interested, as the more Englishmen put on Canadian farms the more customers will the merchants of Canada have to serve. The average farmer's family spends about $1,000 per year, and money spent in bringing and training a lot of families of this sort would soon pay for itself.

QUIT AT LAST.

It would appear that the new trading stamp law has been eminently satisfactory, judging from the latest circular issued by the Trading Advertising Company, of Montreal, which reads as follows:

"Dear Sir:—In regard to the saving coupon, we find it is going to be impossible to continue business profitably on the present plan, and we have therefore decided to discontinue the same. We would advise you not to give saving coupons to your customers unless it is understood that you are to redeem them. We are sorry that matters have turned out this way, but the stand that the Retail Merchants Association has taken against us makes it impossible for us to continue. Thanking you for being willing to assist us as you have done."

When the Trading Stamp Act was passed by the Dominion House last session the Trading Advertising Company announced that they would be able to continue in business under another plan known as saving coupons.

The Trading Stamp Act was passed so that when retail merchants give their customers tickets, coupons, or cash register receipts they must have the merchant's name, address and the mercantile value of each ticket or coupon, and they must be redeemed at any time by any person at the store where they were given out. This gives the customer a chance to get full value for discount which the tickets are supposed to represent, and it prevents the merchant from redeeming them with cheap articles of furniture or other things of very little value.

EQUALIZED SUGAR RATES.

The Grocer is in receipt of a letter from Mr. John Curtis, of Port Hope, on the equalized sugar rates question, for which space could not be found in this issue. The letter will be published in The Grocer of next week.

CHRISTMAS WINDOW DISPLAYS.

THE CANADIAN GROCER, for the encouragement of good window displays, has decided to open a competition for its subscribers. Prizes will be awarded for photos or drawings of window displays of Christmas goods and accompanying descriptions of the same. The prizes will consist of:

FIRST PRIZE - - -	$5.00

and $2 for every picture and description which is considered worthy of publication.

The competition, which closes on January 15th, 1906, will admit of photographs, pen and ink or wash drawings, with good ideas counting more than the pictures, although, of course, all pictures in order to receive a prize, must be of sufficient distinctness and good workmanship to admit of their publication.

Mark all manuscripts and photographs intended for this department with the words "Window Dressing Competition."

Care should be taken to avoid reflection in the photograph. The best photos are often taken at night.

CHANCE IN MAKE-UP.

On February 1st THE GROCER will inaugurate a new system of make-up which has become necessary to the proper development, and which it is expected will improve the appearance, of the paper to the consequent advantage of reader, advertiser and publisher alike.

The change will be a development of the departmental idea that has proved so successful heretofore.

With the first issue of February all advertisements not connected with the special departments will be placed in the front and back of the paper, and thereafter no advertising will be placed between the advertising department in the front and the end of the markets. Nor, indeed, has any new advertising been contracted for in this position during the past two years, although the old advertisements have been continued as before.

This will give straight-away advertising followed by straight-away reading matter to about page 40.

This re-arrangement will necessitate a change in the position of some advertisers who have long had certain positions, but as the result will be to make THE GROCER a still better paper, we trust we shall have the co-operation and forbearance of our advertisers until the new arrangement be given a fair trial and its advantages fully recognized.

WESTERN NEWS.

Banquet of N. W. C. T. Association.

The annual banquet of the Northwest Commercial Travelers' Association, held at the Empire Hotel, Winnipeg, was a most successful affair. The men of the grip more than sustained their reputation of being princely entertainers, and the way everything passed off reflects the greatest credit on those in charge. The air of goodfellowship was all-pervading and, besides this, the excellent menu daintily served, the interesting speeches, and the catchy music, all contributed to make this one of the most memorable banquets in the history of the association.

Nearly two hundred surrounded the tables. President D. J. Dyson occupied the chair, supported on the right by the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Daniel McMillan, Hon. J. H. Agnew, provincial treasurer; George H. Shaw, traffic manager of the C.N.R.; J. Horne, W. W. Bole, L. C. MacIntyre, F. H. Morgan, F. J. C. Cox, Geo. Wilson. On the left were D. W. Bole, M.P.; Mayor Sharpe, A. L. Johnson, president board of trade; J. W. Dafoe, F. W. Drewry, I. M. Ross, and J. G. Morgan. The vice-chairmen presiding at the other tables were Messrs. A. S. Lock, F. H. Agnew, Vice-President J. E. McRobie, and J. H. J. Murphy.

Apologies for absence were read by Secretary Cox from the following: Premier Roblin, Wm. Whyte, C. E. Ussher, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, Ontario Commercial Travelers' Association, G. T. Bell and C. D. McPherson.

"King and Country."

It was 11.30 when President Dyson arose and in a brief, appropriate speech announced the first toast, "King and Country," coupling with it the name of the Lieutenant-Governor. Sir Daniel McMillan, who was greeted with hearty applause on rising to speak, alluded to the fact that it was in the service of the late Queen that he had come to Manitoba many years ago, and stated that one of the chief characteristics of the people of this western country in general, and of the members of the travelers' association in particular, was loyalty to King and country.

Sir Daniel referred to the prosperity of the west during the past year, and congratulated the association upon its success. It now had a membership of over 1,900. He remembered the arrival in the city of Winnipeg of the first commercial traveler, who did not arrive in a Pullman car, not because the said pioneer traveler was in financial straits, but because at that time there was no railroad here.

Winnipeg was then a small village, and the western country a wilderness. To-day there was one store in the city of Winnipeg whose employes numbered five times the population of the early village on the banks of the Red River which the speaker had known. In concluding his very interesting speech Sir Daniel wished all a very happy and successful New Year.

"Dominion Government."

President Dyson, in proposing the toast to the "Dominion Government," introduced D. W. Bole, M.P. for Winnipeg, who was to respond, as a man with whom all present were acquainted in a commercial way. Mr. Bole arose amid loud cheers. He considered that Mr. Dyson should feel himself highly honored in being chosen to preside over the destinies of such a body as the Northwest commercial travelers. He congratulated the association on having nearly $100,000 in its strong box, and referred to it as the "barometer of trade."

"Provincial Government."

The third toast proposed was to the "Provincial Government." In rising to respond, Hon. J. H. Agnew, provincial treasurer, explained that he was present as a substitute for Hon. R. P. Roblin, the Premier, who had found it impossible to come. The wealth of the country was derived from four sources, namely, the mine, the sea, the forest, and the land. From the first three of these Manitoba derived but little return, but as regards the fourth we are pre-eminent. So carefully had the Provincial Government compiled the crop returns that he was able to state that the yield of wheat this year had been 55,761,416½ bushels. In Winnipeg this year nearly $12,000,000 worth of buildings had been erected, and in the country districts nearly $4,000,000 worth. The past year had also witnessed the formation of two new provinces, and Manitoba now enjoyed the distinction of being the elder sister to the twin provinces to the west. We had also seen the advent of a new trans-continental railroad. "If you can't boost, don't knock," is a British Columbia saying which we should copy with reference to our country.

"Commercial Interests."

The toast to "Commercial Interests" called forth one of the best speeches of the evening from the genial president of the board of trade, A. L. Johnson, who was greeted with "For he's a jolly good fellow," lustily sung, as he arose to speak. The speaker referred to the great part which the commercial travelers played in the development of the west. Into the new districts the first to go is the settler, then the storekeeper, and the latter scarcely gets the last nail driven into his place of business before he sees something coming up the road—and it turns out to be a team of horses hitched to a load of trunks.

He spoke of our farms as being the backbone of our country, but added that our manufacturers must go with them hand in hand. Last year $600,000,000 worth of goods had been manufactured in Canada, and $150,000,000 worth of goods had been imported. A large proportion of these latter goods might be manufactured in Canada. He hoped that Winnipeg would get its share of manufactures. In this connection he considered cheap and abundant power one of the most important questions before the city.

"City of Winnipeg."

Vice-President McRobie took charge of the toast list at this stage, and he proposed the "City of Winnipeg," coupled with the name of Mayor Sharpe. The worthy mayor, fresh from his recent victory at the polls, was in his happiest vein, and provided his hearers with several examples of his Irish wit. He spoke of his pleasant associations with commercial travelers, and attributed much of whatever success he had attained in life to truths learned from them. Travelers are capable of doing a great deal to advertise our city. At the Dominion Exhibition, held in Winnipeg, there had been displayed several signs, "Made in Canada." He hoped that "Made in Winnipeg" would soon be a frequent sign. We have the necessary men, materials, money and power within easy access.

Other Toasts.

"Railway Interests," responded to by George H. Shaw, traffic manager of the C.N.R.; "The Press," by J. W. Dafoe, editor of the Free Press," and "The Ladies," by Joseph Balfour, finished the list.

WINNIPEG POULTRY ASSOCIATION

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Winnipeg Poultry Association was held on December 28 at the south fire hall, with President A. Williams in the chair. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were received, and after much favorable comment, adopted. It was decided to enter upon an aggressive movement this season. If a suitable building can be obtained the first annual show will be held, and other features that have lain dormant too long, taken up. The following were the officers of the association elected for the coming year; Patron, Lord Strathcona; hon. presidents, Sir Daniel McMillan, K.C.M.G., D. W. Bole, M.P., Hon. R. P. Roblin; hon. vice-presidents, J. T. Gordon, M. P.P., T. W. Taylor, M.P.P., E. L. Drewry, Mayor Sharpe; president, H. A. Chadwick; vice-president, H. Maw; treasurer, Capt. Starmer; secretary, J. E. Costello; executive, J. H. Mulvey, S. Ling, J. M. Alldrick, A. Williams, George Carr, C. C. Stewart; auditors, J. H. Mulvey, George Carr.

A committee consisting of H. A. Chadwick, Capt. Starmer and Messrs. Ling and Williams was appointed to wait upon the provincial government for the purpose of securing a grant to assist the prize list of the forthcoming exhibition. Messrs. C. C. Stewart, Costello and Maw were appointed a deputation to wait upon the city council and secure an additional grant for the same purpose. It was generally felt that this last committee would have an easy time in view of the Live Stock Association meeting at Brandon.

Messrs. Costello, Carr and Mulvey were appointed a committee to report upon a constitution. Messrs. Chadwick, Starmer and Mulvey were appointed a committee to interview the Exhibition Association regarding representation of poultry interests on the board.

Votes of thanks to the retiring president and officers of the association and replies by these gentlemen brought a most successful meeting to a close.

A WINNIPEG VINEGAR CO.

A new industry has been formed and will soon start business in Winnipeg, to be known as the Dyson Vinegar Company. The persons connected with the company are D. J. Dyson, Thomas Henry Lock, G. N. Jackson, James D. Windrum, and W. R. Mulock, all of Winnipeg. The capital stock of the company is $50,000.

ARE YOU HANDLING

CELLULOID STARCH?

Live dealers realize that substitution doesn't pay. People enjoy being the judges of what is best for them and it is wise policy to give them what they want.

The extra profit made from trial sales of unknown brands is very insignificant, compared with the continuous profit from repeated sales, sure to be the lot of any meritorious article aggressively advertised to the consumer.

Celluloid Starch does what is claimed for it and the present heavy demand is the result.

Its success is a "continuous performance."

GROCERIES.

Montreal, Jan. 4, 1906.

There is little to say this week as to trade conditions. These are here, as elsewhere, of a holiday character. Inquiry among jobbers elicits the information that "the boys" are all in and business "is of a letter order and wire order character." Going through stocks, price books and samples has been about the hardest work most of the grocery travelers have done during the week. The travelers practically all look forward to a good season's business. The absence of snow in some sections has cast a slight depression over particular salesmen, but, generally speaking, they are all hopeful. In trade matters the most notable feature this week is the advance in rice.

Canned Goods— A quiet market and little business reported by jobbers; in fact all say little can be expected at the close of the year and approach of stocktaking. —We quote :

Group No. 2 comprises—

Syrups and Molasses—A fair amount of business has been turned over in molasses during the past ten days. Some fair sized lots changed hands. Stocks are light. Holders, who are few in number, are hanging out for good figure. Corn syrups have good and increasing trade. The price is in their favor considering quality, etc. We quote :

Tea—No interest was shown in teas during the end of the past and early part of present week. Brokers say it is difficult to get offers, the general tendency being to restrict buying until after inventory. There was little or no inquiry from any outside points. Ceylon greens maintain firmness. Some little inquiry locally for Ping Suey, Young Hysons, also low priced Japans. We quote :

Foreign Dried Fruits. — Currants: There is nothing really new in the situation. Market strong and the absorption by the syndicate has been on such a large scale that there is not sufficient left to supply a normal demand for export. Lower prices are considered out of the question, and whatever change the future may develop will be on a higher basis. Valencia Raisins : Little of importance has transpired since last advice. Good fruit is scarce and bringing shillings above ordinary fruit. Low offers stand little chance of acceptance. Sultanas: Lower grades are about two shillings higher than best prices of the season. Comadre Figs : There is fair demand, though prices are unchanged. Prunes : Californias are keeping up strong and tending higher. Holders not anxious to sell freely. Shelled almonds: A slight advance is noted. Grenobles, shelled, no change. Shelled walnuts: Latest reports to hand indicate likelihood of higher prices in the near future. We quote:

Rice and Tapioca—Owing to the present high prices of cleaned rices in Europe and the course of the Paddy markets very uncertain, the Mount Royal Milling & Mfg. Co., Limited, have sent out notices of advances under date of December 30, 1905. This advance is 20 cents per hundred on "B" and "CC" rices. Tapioca maintains its firm position. Business, however, is light. We quote:

Beans—Firm market. Stocks are more plentiful and sufficient for present requirements. Prices unchanged. Inquiries from abroad and United States points have let up somewhat. This may be due to holiday dullness, as there was a growing demand from U. S. points a few weeks ago. We quote:

Choice prime beans	1 70 1 75
Lower grades	1 60 1 65

Evaporated Apples—The market continues strong with prices unchanged. Winter varieties are quoted at 9½ to 10c., though jobbers claim that less than this may be had. Evaporators appear not to have any too much stock.

Maple Products—Business dull in maple products of all kinds. Little inquiry for syrup. No interesting business is looked forward to for some weeks. We quote:

Fish—The condition of the fish market at present is very dull, it being between seasons. Supplies of all kinds are ample and the quality of the stock arriving is A1. Dealers look forward to a better demand next week, as business will in a measure resume its normal flow. The first arrivals of Winter caught pike, dore, and white fish will arrive this week, and prices are expected to be reasonable. There have also been new arrivals of frozen lake trout, which has met with fair demand at quotations. Good, large Labrador salt herring are scarce, and prices have advanced a little. Some inferior quality on the market may be picked up at less than our quotations, but reliable stock is held firm. The Malqecque shell oysters are about finished, and are practically off the market. In bulk oysters the usual holiday trade obtains. We quote:

GROCERIES.

Toronto, Jan. 5, 1905.

Whilst trade has shown considerable decline since the hloiday, it is gratifying to hear that the general feeling is one of satisfaction. A good few orders have come to hand, which go to indicate that the holiday retail trade has been encouraging. On the street things are, of course, slow, seeing that most wholesalers are busy stock-taking. Tea is showing a firmer market for all grades. Montreal rice has advanced in wholesale quotations, but no quotable change is reported. In fish, several lines have declined, a usual movement after the holiday season. Hides also have made a further movement downward.

Canned Goods—Sales continue good in small lots of sorting up kind; no feature of interest has developed and prices remain unchanged. We quote:

Sugar—Local trade has been uninteresting; little business has been done, and no feature of importance to note. Prices are unchanged with tendency to firmness. Willett & Gray, in their weekly report give the following summary of the situation on the N.Y. market:

Raws: This has been a holiday week with little business in the early part. A notable feature was the selling of 7,800 tons of Philippine Islands sugar, which has been held in warehouses here for some time. The owners evidently became discouraged by the action of the Ways and Means Committee, in reporting the Philippine bill with a clause excluding these sugars from benefit of any reductions of dutv.

Our Washington information is that should such an amendment finally pass, it would no doubt be overruled by the Supreme Court on the ground that such action would be special legislation and contrary to all precedent, when tariff changes have been made.

The year closes on a very firm market, caused by delay in the Cuba crop grinding, only 33 centrals being at work and only 3,000 tons receipts at shipping ports for the week, against 103 centrals and 16,000 tons receipts a year ago.

European markets are quiet without change in quotations.

Refined: The market for refined sugars has been quiet throughout the week, with prices unchanged, basis of granulated at 4.50c. less 1 per cent. cash.

Withdrawals from outstanding contracts have been moderate in volume and refiners' shipments fairly prompt.

The tendency is for continued steadiness, until the Cuba crop begins to move freely.

Coffee—Domestic trade has been dull and uninteresting; no business of any note has been in evidence since our last issue. Willett & Gray in their weekly report have the following interesting remarks: During this week, news was received from Brazil that the Government had been forced by general demand from the country to pass some measures calculated to protect the coffee industry. A bill authorizing a new export tax of three francs (about 60 cents) on each bag of coffee shipped, has been passed almost unanimously by both houses of the Brazil Congress, and the bill has been approved by the executive. When Brazil adopts a law of this nature so unanimously, it must be because the present currency prices there do not allow sufficient margin for interest to even well managed plantations. When Brazil had large crops of 15 1-2 millions, like four years ago, the quantity marketed would partly compensate for the price; but now, with much smaller production, the long continued low range of prices being so hard on planters, an appeal to their Government becomes a sheer necessity. So far, of course, it must be considered a defensive measure for the coffee agriculture of Brazil, but further development will indicate how to judge of its influence on coffee values.

In the second half of the crop season supplies forthcoming will be small, while the requirements of consumption continue on a large scale, always cutting down the reserves.

Tea—Domestic trade has been quiet since our last report, owing probably to a natural lull after the holiday season; it is expected to move forward, however, very soon, as January is looked to as a specially favorable month for tea sales. London markets report the closing sales of the year as revealing distinctly firmer tone, biddings showing more life and activity.

In Indians, the sale passed with spirit under a good general demand for all grades. Useful medium teas attracted the chief competition, and prices again were disposed to move in sellers' favor, this being especially noticeable in leaf grades, which were often 1-4d per pound dearer. Common descriptions maintained late rates. Quality presented no new feature, and the standard at present is somewhat mediocre. In Ceylon, competition was again brisk and a good tone pervaded the auction. Medium grades were particularly in request, Pekoe Souchongs, Pekoes, and Orange Pekoes with flavory cup, often showing a distinct rise in value. Fine and finest upheld their position, but there was a smaller proportion of choice parcels available. Common and ordinary descriptions were steady, while dusts and fannings with useful, colory liquor were occasionally dearer.

Foreign Dried Fruits— There is no new feature to report in these lines. The primal markets denote continued firmness and prices have advanced at these points, but no movement is reported on domestic markets. Valencias are showing considerable strength which, it is expected will reflect itself on local quotations ultimately.

Rice and Tapioca — Trade continues good in these lines, with prices firm. Montreal rice has advanced on wholesale market, but no quotable change is manifest at present moment. Tapioca is in good demand and exceedingly firm

Beans—The market shows no change, but is continuing firm. The season's crop has proved of excellent quality. There has been little difficulty in placing goods. Prices are distinctly of an upward tendency, and quotations in consequence are likely to be advanced. We quote:

Beans, handpicked, per bush		1 85
" prime, No. 1		1 75
" Lima, per lb	0 07	0 07½

Fish—The market reports exceptionally good trade for current week, the demand covering all lines that are readily available. Oysters especially have been well maintained, and supply regular and good. When the holiday season is over, it is usual for sales to continue steady advancement, and the prospects this season are considered well to the front. Prices have shown a decline of 1 cent on haddock, cod and herring. We quote:

Hides—The market has a still further downward tendency and has dropped quotations by 1-2c. all round since our last issue; this is attributed to the simple fact that it is now time for Winter hides and that their value is that much less, rather than to any material fluctuation in values. Chicago shows no material strength and the Canadian market is unaffected by it at present moment.

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 4th, 1906.)

As was natural, the Christmas week proved a quiet and uneventful one in wholesale circles, and price changes have been few, quotations being practically the same as the previous week. The Christmas trade this year has surpassed expectations, the demand in all lines being good and the local houses look forward for an active Spring business. The recent change announced by the railways to the effect that hereafter the weight of carlots of salt would be 40,000 pounds instead of 30,000 pounds, the old weight, is effective east of Port Arthur only, the 30,000 pounds carlots still remaining in force west of the Great Lakes. Sugar prices hold firm at the recent advance, but no further advance is looked for in the immediate future.

Canned Goods — Prices show no change. Demand holds good at the figures of a week ago.

Sugar—There is no change in prices to note this week. Values here are the same and the recent carlot arrangement for points west holds the same, viz., the Winnipeg price plus the balance of through freight.

Coffee—The local coffee market is steady and sales are of average volume.

Cocoa—There is a good demand for cocoa at the present time and prices are steady.

Nuts—No change in prices. While the demand has naturally slackened now that the Christmas trade has fallen off, prices hold at the recent advance for walnuts. We quote:

Almonds, per lb		0 12½
" (shelled), per lb		0 30

Foreign Dried Fruits—With the exception of a slight advance in California raisins, muscatels, three crown, an advance not unexpected, there has been no change in values.

Rice, Tapioca and Sago—Tapioca is 25c. a cwt. higher, and sago has advanced 1-2c. a pound. Rice holds steady at unchanged prices. We quote:

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. Shaw T. Nishimura, of the Central Japan Tea Traders' Association, was a visitor to Toronto in the holiday week. The Grocer noticed him in company with Mr. George Stanway, Toronto agent.

Mr. Walter J. Elliott, of Quebec, representative of E. W. Gillett Co., Limited, Toronto, was a caller at the Montreal offices of The Grocer last Monday. Mr. Elliott was on his way west to refurnish samples and fit out for the coming year.

UNIQUE CALENDAR.

The Grocer is in receipt of a very pretty calendar of desk size from the Foster Pottery Co., Limited, of Hamilton. The calendar just slips in an envelope and makes an acceptable New Year's greeting.

N. S. Markets.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 3, 1906.

Notwithstanding many drawbacks in the early part of the season, the business of the year just brought to a close has been most successful. The tie-up on the railways during the Winter months greatly hampered trade in Nova Scotia, but later in the season business improved so very greatly that it made up for much of the lost time.

B. W. Chipman, the Secretary for Agriculture for Nova Scotia, in reviewing the business of the year, says that 1905 was one of the most successful that the farmers of Nova Scotia ever had. He says the oldest farmer cannot remember a season when values were so high. All the crops turned out well, and the cattle are reported to be in fine condition, the farmers receiving a higher price for their stock than ever before.

Dairying Industry.

Referring to the dairying industry Mr. Chipman says:

"The prices the last few years should stimulate farmers to greater efforts along these lines. I regret to say that our creameries, aided by Government bonuses in starting, have not increased their output the last few years.

"This I attribute to the effect of our traveling dairy school system established a few years ago. Two of these outfits have visited every country in the province, and some of them a second time. These dairies carry a complete outfit equal to a modern or miniature creamery. The dairy schools have held each year nearly 400 meetings, have addressed upwards of 16,000 farmers' wives and daughters, and the average attendance at these meetings has been about forty.

"The instructions given have had a marked effect on the quantity and quality of dairy butter produced, bringing it in most cases quite up to the standard of creamery butter.

"Consequently nearly all the farmers now have their own separator and the family is making the butter on the creamery plan, thus saving the cost of carrying and the expense of making it at the creameries. Personally I am in favor of the co-operative plan, but the tendency of our farmers is to do this work at home, thus saving the cost of the creamery."

HUDON, HEBERT & CIE

MONTREAL, P.Q.

THE MOST LIBERALLY MANAGED FIRM IN CANADA.

man says that: "It is only necessary to refer to the fact that this year the fruit growers of the province will receive probably one million dollars for their crop of apples. The growth of the industry since 1870 has been wonderful. Hundreds and hundreds of acres of new orchards have been planted, and there are young trees now beginning to bear which in the first favorable season I venture to say will produce upwards of one million barrels.

"The season of 1905 was not conducive to a good crop. Cold weather, rain, frost and blight destroyed many blossoms, and at one time it was thought that the apple crop would be a total failure, but more were left to grow than was anticipated, and the yield amounted to probably 350,000 barrels, and the fruit growers are favored with prices higher than for many years."

Acreage Under Crop.

The secretary concludes his interesting statement with the following, which shows the production of the acreage under crop:

"I find we produced last year about 350,000 barrels of apples; hay, 556,000 acres, 691,246 tons; wheat, 16,390 acres, 249,470 bushels; barley, 7,910 acres, 182,300 bushels; oats, 92,200 acres, 2,600,000 bushels; rye, 900 acres, 15,000 bushels; buckwheat, 9,370 acres, 196,000 bushels; beans, 825 acres, 16,040 bushels; peas, 260 acres, 9,000 bushels; mixed grain, 3,000 acres, 100,000 tons; forage crops for Summer feeding, 1,200 acres, 6,000 tons; potatoes, 40,000 acres, 4,594,000 bushels; other field roots, 1,100 acres, 267,277 bushels."

B. C. News.

Vancouver, B.C., Dec. 28, 1905.

The usual after-Christmas condition is very much in evidence in the grocery and provision trade this week. A very busy and satisfactory week preceded the holiday, and now the reaction is on. Anticipating the end of the year clean-up, the retail men are buying the minimum and the same is of course true of the retail customers, so that the wholesale trade has a week to straighten up after the rush preceding the holiday.

Speaking generally, the trade, both retail and wholesale, has experienced the best year on record. Vancouver public is a generous one at all times and especially at the Christmas season. In the ordinary course of events such generosity, if extended to credits, is not conducive to good business. But business is good in all ways in the western city, and as a consequence, the public has the money to indulge its generous penchant.

Both retail and wholesale merchants report money freely paid and the percentage of credit smaller than ever. All of which is a condition to cause a great deal of thanksgiving at the beginning of the New Year.

A large consignment of raw sugar from Fiji was received by the B. C. sugar refinery, ex SS. Miowera, of the Australian line. The Miowera has brought a large consignment of chilled mutton, nearly three thousand carcasses from the Antipodes, part from Australia and part from New Zealand.

By the SS. Athenian, which arrived the day before Christmas, the last expected consignment of Japanese oranges was received from the Land of the Chrysanthemum. This lot was held up and fumigated by the inspector of fruit pests, because of the rumor that the fruit exhibited the presence of the San Jose scale. That pest has been kept out of B. C. by rigid enforcement of quarantine regulations, aided by favorable natural conditions, and the authorities rightly take no chances. The last shipments, which were found to be infected, were fumigated at the expense of the Government, as they had reached retail hands, and the retailers were in no sense responsible. This last lot was fumigated at the expense of the importers.

California oranges have been received, and the wane of the Japanese season is marked by increased activity in the larger variety.

In the produce market larger supplies of fresh eggs are noticed. The milder weather has had its effect in inducing the hens to get down to producing a Winter supply. "Strictly fresh" eggs are no longer impossible, and now that the holidays are practically over, the price is no longer prohibitive. Forty-five cents and even less is quoted, in a wholesale way, and there is not much chance of a rally to teh former prices of 55c. and 60 cents, which held for a month or so.

Eastern butter is coming into the market to a certain extent, but no large stocks are held by anyone. The price remains as last quoted, and local creamery is apparently destined to stay where it has been for a month or more.

The Christmas turkey of Vancouverites did not cost more than 18c. per lb. on the average. Higher prices, even to 25c. retail, were quoted early in the season, but one after another cut the figure until as low as 17 1-2c. was the price. The quality was superb, as well might be expected, seeing that Eastern Ontario sent the supply. Very few turkeys, comparatively, are raised in this country, the damp climate precluding success. On Vancouver Island some are grown, colder weather, and in Winter, somewhat less rain, giving the birds a better chance.

Geese and ducks were sold as law as 12c. and 15c. per pound. The stock is ample to carry over the New Year demand.

N. B. Markets.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 2.

Again we start a new year, and the St. John correspondent takes the opportunity of wishing every reader of The Grocer a prosperous and happy one. Let us each make it truly a new year. Better methods, harder work.

The wholesale grocers, while generally busy, are not doing great business. This is perhaps the quietest week of the year, as far as new business is concerned. Not only the retailers but the consumers buy freely before Christmas and sopractically everything is very quiet for a time. It is, however, just what the merchant needs, giving time for stock-taking and the straightening out of accounts.

No successful merchant will go into the new year with any loose ends. In all accounts there will be either a settlement or a clear understanding. Bad debts written off. All stock taken at fair market values, particularly where there has been depreciation. Arrangements made to clean up all dead stock. The result will be such a statement of the business as will show the actual position. No effort even to deceive one's self. No concern can have any reasonable excuse for not knowing its real condition. The wise will take right steps either to retrench and improve, or to wisely extend present methods. We believe, if steps are taken in time, failure can always be avoided, but it requires courage and brains.

Being so little business, there is not much of interest. The extreme price of evaporated apples and the lower price of oatmeal are perhaps the two most important conditions.

Oil.

In burning oil conditions remain unchanged. Prices are still low. In lubricating oil dealers are now busy booking orders for Spring. The outlook is good. Paint oils begin to have some attention. The extreme price of turpentine is a feature. In cod oil market a little easier.

Salt.

While last season, owing to extreme freights, the winter port boats brought little or no Liverpool coarse salt here, now, because of better arrangements, stock is being received. It is, however, a very quiet time of year. Prices unchanged in both coarse and fine salt.

Canned Goods.

Everything is dull. Corn and tomatoes rather firmer. In the American market tomatoes are high and strong. Fruits are quiet. A good stock of gallon apples held. Salmon quite firm, practically no sockeye grade here. Oysters firmer. Meats for Spring were bought low. In domestic fish no change. A fair supply of sardines.

Green Fruit.

There is small business. Apples dull. Dealers are backward about paying the high prices for best stock. In oranges, Floridas rather higher and Californias held firm, quality improving. The Valencias offered are particularly good for the season. Some California lemons offered. They do not seem popular. Quite full prices rule. There are no cranberries.

Dried Fruits.

Raisins are dull, rather lower prices expected in seeded. While California loose may be lower it will not affect the local market as Malaga loose are held and they cost low. Prunes are a light stock and firmer; a good demand expected. Apricots and peaches never sell largely. Dates are higher; quite full supplies now due. Figs and peels have little demand, peels are higher, supply small. Currants are firm. Evaporated apples much higher ; sales, owing to extreme price, are light. Fair stocks are held. Dried apples, pie fillings, etc., are being sold to take their place. Onions are firmer, just fair demand.

Sugar.

Some Scotch granulated sugar was landed low during the past week. It is thought the market is firmer. Sales are not large.

Molasses.

There is still a full stock of Porto Rico held, prices low. Barbadoes rather light supply.

Fish.

There continues to be quite a full supply of fresh fish and a fair variety. The British Columbia salmon offered are a feature. Smelts are high. In dry fish prices, while unchanged and high, are hardly as firm. Pickled herring which have been very high, still have upward tendency. Smoked herring are firm. Haddies unchanged.

NEW SUGAR-BEET MACHINES.

Louis Gettleman, of the Town of Germantown, Wis., it is reported, has invented a machine for topping sugar beets and also one for pulling the beets. The invention consists of two machines, one the topper and the other the lifter or puller. The topper passes over the beets first, taking off the tops and carrying them away at the same time. The lifter or puller lifts the beets, carries them over a chain or carrier and deposits them in the middle of the row. By passing over the carrier all dirt is removed from the beets.

Flour and Cereal Foods

GENERAL CONDITIONS.

Reports to hand from various points denote a general after holiday depression. The amount of domestic trade up to date is giving a good degree of satisfaction; prices, too, are reported as being well maintained on steady basis. Business from the Maritime Provinces has fallen exceptionally flat, and travelers returning report trade as disappointing.

The export trade is still uncertain. A good deal of movement is in evidence by way of completing previous orders, but new trade is difficult to conclude on present basis. One large exporter in constant communication with the European markets reports the difference between the two markets as having reached a crucial stage. Offers have been freely made at a price which leaves about six pence difference, meaning to the dealer on this side a bare exchange on his outlay, but the European markets show no disposition to advance.

This year, as far as can be ascertained, none of the larger mills are carrying heavy stocks, and with the exception of a very few 5,000 and 10,000-bush. lots, there is none purchased for storage in the elevators at lake ports. This will be partially accounted for by the high lake freights which have ruled this last Fall, especially during November, and partially by the fact that with December wheat Fort William selling about three cents a bushel below cash wheat, the all-rail wheat could be bought for December-January delivery, as cheaply as the lake-and-rail wheat for present delivery, thus saving the millers the carrying charges, and doing away with the necessity of making large purchases ahead.

Now that the season of navigation is closed, the shipments of Manitoba wheat from Fort William this year form an interesting comparison with those of former years. Frank E. Gibbs, Government inspector, reports the shipments from Fort William and Port Arthur between Sept. 1 and Dec. 12, inclusive, as 30,358,066 bush.; which would be all wheat of this year's growth, against 17,116,221 bush. in the same time last year, which was a short crop year and the harvest was at least a couple of weeks later than this year, and not in such good condition.

RETIREMENT OF MR. JOHN CAMPBELL.

The milling industry of Ontario has lost one of its oldest members, by the retirement from the business of Mr. John Campbell, of St. Thomas, who has sold his interest in the John Campbell Co., Limited, of which he was president. Mr. Campbell has been very prominent in the milling business of Western Ontario, and for many years was among the largest, if not the largest, of the exporters of flour to Great Britain. His mill is situated on the Michigan Central, as well as on the Grand Trunk Railway, and this enabled him to secure, in the olden days, very exceptional advantages in the way of special freight rates. Mr. Campbell is largely interested in several other St. Thomas industries, among others a land company having large holdings in Saskatchewan, to which he will now devote a large portion of his time.

IS THIS A MISTAKE?

A prominent flour and grain merchant of Quebec City, who has enjoyed a high reputation for honesty and integrity in his business connections, was arrested at the instance of the milling firm of Ogilvie & Co., who charge him with using their brand on bags containing an inferior grade of flour. The accused indignantly denies the charge, and states there must be a mistake.

TESTING THEIR NEW PLANT.

The American Cereal Co. have been putting the products of their new flour plant, which was recently installed in their Peterborough, Ont., mill, to the severest tests, and have satisfied themselves absolutely of the superiority of their products, at every point where quality counts, before offering to the trade their new brand Quaker Manitoba Patent. The high standard this company has always maintained in Quaker Oats and other products, makes it certain they will be a factor in the Canadian flour trade.

TORONTO MARKETS.

Flour.

Business has been uninteresting and without distinctive feature since our last report. Little new domestic trade is reported, and orders have been mainly of a sorting up character. Export trade has shown a distinct break in demand and few orders have been in evidence. Prospects for export are considered good. Prices are difficult to maintain and show tendency to decline. Domestic prices remain firm at previous quotations. We quote :

ST. JOHN, N.B.

Flour, Feed and Meal.

In flour there has been a slight decline in both Manitoba and Ontario grades.

While oats show little change, oatmeal continues to drop off and market seems weak. Prices were considered extreme.

It is thought there is trouble in the combine. Cornmeal is easy.

Beans rather higher, just a fair sale.

Dealers are beginning to take some interest in seeds. Prices are likely to be higher, particularly in clovers, which were already high.

A FINE PROGRESS.

There are twelve creameries in Alberta under Government control, the output being 800,000 pounds, an increase of 80 per cent. over 1904. There are ten private creameries in Alberta. The local output from all factories was a million and a half pounds. A market is found in Yukon, China and Japan, and the industry is growing by leaps and bounds.

NEW FISH PACKING COMPANY.

The Ketch Harbor Fish Packing Co., in which P. M. Duggan and several other well known Halifax merchants are interested, is to start operations as soon as the wharf and store now being constructed at Ketch Harbor for them are ready. It is the intention to buy the fish fresh and then pickle and dry them. Herring and mackerel are to be packed in kits and half barrels, as well as barrels, and new markets will be exploited. A small steamer is to be purchased and when one is secured the company will begin supplying fresh fish for the Halifax market.

SATISFACTORY REPORT OF N. W. SUGAR INDUSTRY

The closing of the year's operations of the Knight Sugar Company's refinery in Raymond leaves a successful and satisfying record. For the three years during which the business of refining has been carried on, there has been a strong advance in the output. The first year it was three-quarters of a million of pounds of refined sugar. Last year the output was about three million pounds. This year's results have been an advance of over fifty per cent. on last year's, the total being four million, six hundred and thirty thousand pounds. About five per cent. of the crop was lost owing to the November storm, but this part of the crop will be available for food, for which purpose it is worth over half as much as it would be for sugar purposes. The crop was somewhat reduced by ravages of the web worm, which stripped the tops in some places in July and so retarded the growth of the root. The subsequent growth might have been expected to reduce the value of the roots, as it was new growth, coming at a time when the plants were strengthening in saccharine properties.

Fine Land for Sugar Beets.

The superiority of the Raymond lands for beet growing is again vindicated by the fine record of 256½ lbs. of sugar per ton of roots, which is about the average for beet lands. From two hundred and fifteen to two hundred and twenty-five pounds per ton is considered a satisfactory return. This record is a direct return in sugar from the beets and is not helped by the process of recovery of sugar by supplementary operations on the residue of molasses from direct sugar extraction from the beet.

Though the results are not as high in the total as hoped for, the year's work has been satisfactory to both refiners and beet growers. The campaign lasted about sixty days without check and a total of 18,000 tons of beets were sliced. These were purchased at the flat price of $5 per ton from the farmers, which means the payment of $90,000 to the farmers in the vicinity of Raymond, Stirling, Cardston and Magrath. In some cases the yield per acre reached fourteen or fifteen tons, but the average is considerably below this.

Cost of Production.

It has been estimated that the average cost of producing the crop including interest on land, seed and labor, is between $18 and $23. When the crop realizes between $40 and $50 per acre it may be seen that this leaves a better margin than could be secured from grain or other farm crop and the general opinion is that beet growing is the best way to utilize land in this district. The refining of sugar from beets is essentially a proposition of more importance from the farming standpoint than from the standpoint of manufacturing. It brings large returns from a comparatively small acreage and may be made a part of a very profitable rotation. It is perhaps the best kind of cropping to bring land forward from a raw state, as it requires deep and frequent cultivation. At the same time it represents important transactions of another kind and affects other commercial interests. During the campaign last year one hundred laborers were employed in the refinery, fifty on day and fifty on night shift. This itself involved the distribution of $20,000 for labor, apart from the superintendents of agriculture and operation, the engineers, chemists and others permanently employed.

By-products.

The pulp is a most important side product of the refinery on account of its feeding value. Last year the culls from cattle sold in the Fall and which were worth not more than $30 per head, by finishing on pulp sold for from $52 to $57 per head. Cattle fatten very quickly on pulp. Feeding does not generally begin before March and only lasts a couple of months

Ready Markets.

The sugar will be sold directly by the company instead of by dealers, and will be distributed between Moose Jaw and the mountains. Most of the sugar of the west comes from Vancouver, with which the Raymond sugar competes. The price this year is about a cent a pound less than last year, due largely to last year being a drought year in Germany, which is a large sugar producer, but it is fair to assume that the bringing to market of nearly 5,000,000 pounds in Alberta this year has been a direct advantage to the consumer.

The bonusing of enterprises such as that of the Knight Sugar Company might be reasonably defended on account of its wide industrial and commercial significance and importance to districts in which the enterprise is established. Most of our sugar comes from refineries which handle the product of the Fiji and other Pacific islands. In these cases nine-tenths of the producing processes are already done and the labor and capital involved in operation are comparatively small.—Manitoba Free Press.

GREEN FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

A SPLENDID TRIBUTE.

During the recent Dominion Fruit, Flower and Honey Show, Mr. A. McNeill, chief of the fruit division of the Department of Agriculture, when showing a Toronto friend some of the choice fruit representing different sections of Canada, offered him some of the first prize fruit. This gentleman suggested instead that Mr. McNeill would allow him to send it to two friends in England, one the Right Hon. Lord Glenesk, proprietor of the Morning Post, London —a paper which in the last few months has paid a great deal of attention to Canadian affairs and dealt with them in a most kindly way. The other lot he suggested he should be allowed to send to Sir Hugh Gilzean-Reid, another distinguished publisher and friend of Canada—although unfortunately opposed to Mr. Chamberlain and his policy. Sir Hugh visited Canada a couple of years ago on his return from St. Louis, where he presided at the World's Press Parliament. The other day Mr. McNeill received the following most cordial acknowledgment from Lord Glenesk :

"139, Piccadilly, W.,
"December 13, '05.

"Dear Mr. McNeill : Did such fruit ever grow out of the Garden of Eden ? Surely mortals and angels might well be excused for yielding to such baits. Canada needs little other inducement to immigration.

"I must thank you over and over again for this proof that Canada, which can supply all that is necessary, can also supply all that is beautiful.

"If Chamberlain comes in, there simply must be a bounty on your lovely fruit.

"With reiterated thanks, believe me,
"Yours sincerely,
"GLENESK."

CELERY EXTRAORDINARY.

The Toronto Globe is responsible for the following particulars of a new description of celery plant, which, if it turns out as expected, will practically revolutionize celery growing :

G. B. Bolton, Pere Marquette station agent at Ruthven, Ont., is in a fair way to make a fortune out of celery in the next few years without growing or handling a single stalk of it, but simply by drawing royalties from a nursery company of Monroe, Mich., on a wonderful new celery plant that came into his possession two years ago. The company has agreed to pay him a royalty on every plant sold, and none will be disposed of for less than $1 a plant. Purchasers are also bound not to sell any of the plants, but only cut the stalks.

The president of the company says Bolton's celery is the greatest thing he has seen in the vegetable line, and that it will surely revolutionize the celery industry. The stalks are round, uniformly crisp and do not rust.

A singular thing is that the Bolton plant is a hybrid and came into existence through an act of carelessness. A farmer named Smith near Ruthven had a few trenches of ordinary celery growing, but only a part of it was gathered before Winter set it. The rest was abandoned. Next Spring Farmer Smith was surprised to see a round stalk of celery growing from the neglected plants. He had never before heard of celery roots living through the Winter in frozen ground. Neither had anyone else. This new hybrid growth proved to be a perennial. He grew them for a few years and then Station Agent Bolton gave him $200 of his savings for all the plants as a speculation. Now he stands to make thousands every year. He has christened the plant the "Silver King."

HIGH PRICES FOR APPLES.

The highest price ever obtained for Nova Scotia apples in the London market is just reported in a lot that netted $7.85 per barrel.

There have been higher average prices than are being realized this season, good as it is, but none that equal the figure given. An orchardist at Port Williams shipped to Northard & Lowe, London, twenty barrels of apples as follows : Twelve barrels Coxe's orange pippin at 50s. ; two do. at 30s., and six Kings at 21s. This means a net price to the orchardist for the whole lot of $7.85 per barrel.

These varieties are grown in England, but the crop there is short this year.

FRUIT-GROWERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

Nova Scotia.

The Nova Scotia Fruit-Growers' Association met again in session recently, and after routine business, appointed delegates to the Dominion Fruit-Growers' Convention, which meets in Ottawa in June next. A resolution was passed to ask the Government to make the apple barrel a standard measurement, and have but one size for all barrels throughout the Dominion.

The discussion of the Fruit Marks Act by Inspectors Vroom and Fitch showed that, having had ample opportunity to form a correct opinion as to the extent that dishonest packing is practiced, they distinctly stated that while cases did sometimes arise which looked like a clear case of fraud, they were comparatively rare. A weak spot in the Act seemed to be in its failure to define what shall be considered second class fruit. As it stands to-da a man may brand any fruit as second-class, and yet be within the law. The speakers gave it as their opinion that much of the complaint heard from some of the dealers in St. John, arose from their buying second and third quality apples, and expecting them to turn out as good as first-class.

A resolution was passed during the session pledging the Shippers' Association the support of the Nova Scotia Fruit-Growers' Association. The officers elected for the ensuing year are:

President—John Donaldson, Port Williams.

Vice-President—G. C. Miller, Middleton.

Secretary—S. C. Parker, Berwick.

Assistant Secretary—J. H. Cox, Cambridge.

Treasurer—Geo. Munro, Wolfville.

Auditors—Geo. Thompson and R. E. Harris.

Executive Board—The president, vice-president, secretary, J. H. Cox, Col. Shippy Spurr, E. E. Archibald, A. C. Starr.

Kaslo.

A fruit-growers' association has just been formed for the Kaslo district. The names of the members will be forwarded at once to the Provincial Agricultural Department, so that the society may receive a charter. An exhibition will be held in Kaslo next Fall.

The officers are as follows: Hon. president, Hon. R. F. Green; hon. vice-president, G. Alexander; president, Theo. F. Adams; vice-president, Alex. Goldsmith; secretary, J. W. Cockle; treasurer, O. T. Stone; auditor, Robert Henricks; hon. directors, Archdeacon Beer, Kaslo: William Simpson, Howser; D. Clark, Ainsworth; Oscar Burden, Crawford Bay; A. G. Fraser, Trout Lake; John Bornholdt, Howser Lake; Wm. White, Lower Duncan River; directors, J. Riddell, J. G. Palmer, G. O. Buchanan, S. H. Green, A. W. Goodenough, H. Giegerich, J. W. Prunk, Jas. Spiers, J. Allan, A. Leet, G. Crawford.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Green Fruits.

The green fruit market is decidedly dull. The holiday trade, particularly Christmas business, was very good. The feature of the week, and a startling one, is the remarkable advance in cranberries. A jump of practically 25 per cent. is noted and they are selling here to-day at $15 to $17 a barrel. This is considerably under market price as they are being sold in New York this week at $20 per barrel. Jamaica oranges are selling quite freely at $4 per barrel and large shipments are expected to be made this month, possibly 1,500 to 1,600 barrels. Grape fruit is quiet at $4 to $4.50. A fair demand for California oranges prevails. Prices, however, are expected to drop from 25 to 30 cents a box, as crop is reported as just as large as last year. California celery is in large supply and in good demand at $5 per crate. Spinach, $3 per barrel. Cucumbers, $2.50 per dozen. Lettuce advanced 40 cents per dozen, selling at $1.25, but it is expected that prices will recede from now on. Florida tangerines are selling at $3 per box and very good quality of fruit. Florida oranges advanced 50 cents per box and selling now at $4.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Green Fruits.

Trade has been distinctly quiet during the week under review. No feature of interest is manifest. General satisfaction is expressed at the run of holiday trade, one fruit firm stating that they had practically cleared right out of stock, their present stock having nearly all arrived since Christmas. Oranges are fluctuating somewhat, the riper stock arriving fetching firm prices. Smaller and inferior qualities are easier. Fancy Spy apples are 10 cents easier. Bananas, for which there has been ready demand, are firming 5 cents to 10 cents.

Vegetables.

Little trade has been doing since our last report. Christmas time in vegetable lines is always considered a quiet time; fruit is more before the public, and vegetables consequently take a back place. Several deliveries of celery have arrived, and McWilliam & Everist are expecting a car to arrive from California at any moment. Domestic rhubarb is expected on the market at an early date.

WINDOW AND INTERIOR DISPLAYS

AN IDEA THAT MADE A HIT.

IN Providence there were two rival department stores that made a valiant struggle for the business. They were located in the centre of the city on opposite corners at the junction of two busy thoroughfares. New advertising schemes were constantly devised by each. One day one of them put into operation a good thing. Beautiful and artistic moving pictures were displayed in the windows. The performance was given every evening and the street was thronged with people, who, after the display, crowded into the store of the merchant giving it. During the show they stood against the great windows of the store across the street, which was deserted all evening. The proprietor thereof suffered much uneasiness. He consulted the subordinates.

"I must do something. Blank is getting all the custom," he said.

"I have an idea I think might help us," an ingenious clerk responded. "The view of their place from our windows is admirable. Why not—"

And an enthusiastic discussion among the proprietor and subordinates followed in which the clerks all participated. At its conclusion there was much chuckling and "Mr. Jones," the bright clerk, was patted on the back until he felt four inches taller.

Then there followed a great activity among the force and a ringing of telephone bells and summoning of mechanics. The next morning the raised curtains disclosed rows and rows of circus-like seats in the great show windows, from which all the goods had been removed, and the morning papers contained a big display advertisement reading:

"The beautiful art display given nightly in Blank's department store can best be enjoyed from our great show windows. We have arranged seats for you free. All are welcome. Come and see a truly meritorious performance."

And thereafter while the show across the street lasted the rival department store was busier evenings than a beehive.—New York Commercial.

CHRISTMAS WINDOW DISPLAY COMPETITION.

The Canadian Grocer, for the encouragement of good window displays, has decided to open a competition for its subscribers. Prizes will be awarded for photos or drawings and accompanying descriptions of the same. The prizes will consist of:

First Prize	$5.00

and $2.00 for every picture and description which is considered worthy of publication.

The competition, which closes on January 15, 1906, will admit of photographs, pen and ink or wash drawings, with good ideas counting more than the pictures, although, of course, all pictures, in order to receive a prize, must be of sufficient distinctness and good workmanship to admit of their publication.

Mark all manuscripts and photographs intended for this department with the words "Window Dressing Competition."

Care should be taken to avoid reflection in the photograph. The best photos are often taken at night.

INTERIOR OF A GROCERY STORE.

The cut of an internal view of a grocery store given herewith is that of G. H. Hyndman, Fort William, Ontario. It shows at a glance the great utility of well arranged fittings; perfect order is thereby constantly maintained, and an immense saving of time effected.

Interior of the G. H. Hyndman Store, Fort William, Ont.

On November 16, 1905, Mr. G. H. Hyndman moved into this new store in Fort William which had just been finished. The store is solid brick, 44x25½, and has electric and gasoline lights. The shelving and counters are American chestnut. One side of the store which is shown in the illustration will give an idea of the arrangement of stock and the up-to-date shelving, and it might be mentioned that the windows are just as neatly dressed. Mr. Hyndman was in business in Murillo for seven years.

KEEP THE WINDOWS CLEAN.

The old problem of keeping the windows free from frost is now a live one. Many methods that have been devised from time to time are well known to the trade, but there are some trimmers who do not take advantage of them. If the windows are well ventilated they will not coat with moisture, or become covered with frost nearly so much as unventilated windows. One of the simplest and quickest methods of removing ice from windows is to place common coarse salt on a dry cloth and rub the frost. You will be surprised to see how rapidly the frost is removed and the glass will not coat again for a day or two, even in very cold weather.

WHOLESALE GROCERS' GUILD.

The Montreal Wholesale Grocers' Guild, at a meeting in the board of trade, elected the following officers: Joseph Quintal, president; A. Orsali, vice-president; J. Ethier, treasurer; S. J. Carter, L. O. Demers, W. Gendreau, directors.

Mr. L. E. Geoffrion, the retiring president, was made the guild's nominee for election to the council of the board of trade.

There were present Messrs. L. E. Geoffrion, president; S. J. Carter, L. O. Demers, Jos. Ethier, N. Gendreau, Albert Hebert and A. Orsali.

HONESTY AN ASSET.

The following interesting article on honesty appeared recently in World's Work :

"In Scotland when a man has arrived at years of discretion and has won a reputation for capability a bank will, simply on his note, backed only by his character, advance him sufficient money (usually a moderate sum) to start in business. This is considered—and the conclusion is based on results—to be a good risk. In large cities, New York and Chicago, for example, business is not so frequently conducted in that way but there is no doubt that our great western country owes much of its wonderful growth to those far-sighted country bankers who realized that the borrower's character was the chief asset to be considered. Naturally, character plays a relatively larger part in the loaning operations of a small bank than in a large bank, in a country bank than in a Wall street bank, and in the beginning of a business man's career. Its relative importance is a matter of environment.

"In 1895 a New York firm of merchants became heavily involved in enterprises that were sound but in which the realization of cash was slow. The head of the house informed the representatives of the banks that they would be obliged to 'carry the firm' through its difficulties or there would be a failure, when the banks would be heavy losers. The banks agreed that this was so, and assumed the burden. In the ensuing investigation it appeared that the head of the house, in securing loans, had omitted certain facts that indicated a lack of frankness, we will say. Six years later that same man was elected president of a newly formed industrial corporation or trust. It appeared in the money market as a large borrower. There was no reason why the accommodation should not be granted, until a particular banker was attracted by the signature of the president, when he recalled the episode of 1895. The final result was that the bankers informed the directors of the corporation that they could only have the credit desired when another president was elected. A flaw in that man's character cost him the presidency of this particular corporation.

"A mining promoter, a man with a charming personality, endeavored to float a valuable mine several years ago in Wall street. He failed to do so. Another man took up the work where he left off and succeeded. Asked why he failed, he said bitterly :

" 'Personally I am honest. Some years ago I had the misfortune to be associated with a man who accumulated his money out of a questionable trade. I was said to be his adviser and confidential man. No one would trust him, and now I find that everyone is reluctant to trust me. I am a "nice fellow, but"—and then I fall down. A good reputation would have been worth a fortune to me in the last few years.'

"One of the most successful Wall street bank presidents was invited upon one occasion to become a partner in a private banking firm. The opportunities for money making were very great. He thought it over and was favorably disposed toward the proposition. He consulted a friend.

" 'But,' said the friend, 'a man of your character could not get along with (mentioning a member of the firm). Why ? He's tricky.'

"Two years later the firm in question dissolved, and the tricky partner retired, but he had impaired the standing of the house.

"The same banker was offered $25,000 to become a director of an industrial company that appeared to be, and was, financially sound.

" 'Your duties,' said the lawyer making the offer, 'will be only nominal. We simply want your name.'

"The banker concluded that he could not afford to be associated with the other men of the board. Surely the character of this man is a very tangible credit asset.

"A Swede walked up to the president of a western bank and said :

" 'Ay tank Ay want to borrow $5,000, and Ay tank Ay get him here.'

"Cross-examined, it was ascertained that he had no money except a few hundred dollars, but he wanted to buy a mill. He was honest, a hard worker and a good trader. The banker liked him so well that he was willing to back his own judgment, and so loaned the Swede the money he needed. The borrower made good and became one of the most useful citizens of that community.

"In a little southern health resort town last Winter I met a young merchant who did a business of $35,000 a year on a borrowed capital of $3,000.

" 'How did you do it, and how did you get the credit ?' he was asked.

" 'I turn my stock over ten times a year,' he replied, 'but the banks here know me, and they know that I am a man of my word, and they knew my father before me. When I say that I will be at the bank to-morrow at 11 o'clock with $1,000 they know that I will be there at 10.55. I am part of this town. I was born here ; my wife and children are here and I expect to die here. The man I bought this business from was not as honest as he might be. I worked for him, and at the same time I protected the two banks with which we did business.'

"I made a few inquiries and the country banker made this explanation :

" 'The man who owns the business now worked for another man who owed us $2,500. The present owner knew that the money was in another bank, and promised us that it would be delivered here at a certain time. The old owner drew out the money and went off on a spree. The present owner, rather than not make good his word, borrowed the money on his own note and paid us off. When the business came on the market we helped him get it, and we are glad to do business with him. We only wish that we could get more like him.'

"There are ten thousand business men in New York who to-morrow might lose every penny they possessed and yet on the day following they would start new careers, full of courage and confidence, backed by the seemingly intangible but very definite assets—brains, health, and, most important, good character."

"I See It Now!"

STARCH INDUSTRY ON P. E. ISLAND.

Twenty years ago there were ten large potato starch factories operating in this province. At that time large quantities of their product were shipped to England and the United States. Unfortunately for this industry, the Germans discovered a process of making a potash fertilizer at a very moderate cost. This cheap fertilizer and their cheap labor, gave them control of the starch markets of the world, and reduced the price of potato starch in England from £15 10s. per ton, which it was in 1890, down to £8 10s. to £9 10s., which it has been for the past ten (10) years. This price would net the P. E. I. maker about five dollars of a loss per ton. In consequence of this, five of the ten large factories have been pulled down—making a loss to the builders of about $50,000.

This season a very large quantity of starch has been manufactured by the five factories now in operation. Three or four hundred thousand bushels of potatoes have been turned into starch.

The United States having raised their duty to a prohibitive point—there remains but one market for Canadian potato starch, and that is the Canadian cotton companies, whose requirements are limited to just so much, which they usually buy in the Fall of the year.

Whatever quantity of potato starch the P. E. I. factories make in any one season over what the Canadian cotton companies require, has to be carried over until the next season. This year there will be about five hundred tons carried over: in consequence of this the output of next Fall will have to be reduced to less than half of this year's make.

There are two or three potato starch factories in the Province of Quebec; they do not pay, and were not in operation this last season.

During the year of the depression in the Canadian cotton industry, the outlook for the P. E. I. potato starch makers was very poor indeed.

The boom in the west and the general prosperity of all Canadian industries, which it has produced, has put the cotton companies in a better position, and made a demand for P. E. I. starch. It is possible that in a few years the increased population of Canada, especially in the west, will require more cotton factories to supply their needs, and that there will be a market every year for the full output of our potato starch factories. At the present they can easily make from four to five hundred tons more than there is a market for.

Delivery of sugar beets at the Ontario Sugar Company's factory, Berlin, has been going ahead. It is estimated that upwards of 47,000 tons will be treated this season. It is thought that nearly all the beets grown in this section of the province have now been hauled.

Fortify yourself against inclement season.

Why Pebble and Pharaoh Cigars Should be the "Chosen Ones"

You see

Pebble and Pharaoh

Cigars are not the same as other Cigars. If they were they might be called by other names. Pebble and Pharaoh Cigars are "particular-named" Cigars because they are "particular-made" Cigars.

In the first place, I personally go to Cuba every year and buy the best tobacco produced. Good tobacco can be spoilt by bad handling in the factory. Not so in my case! As soon as the tobacco arrives at my factory it is placed in humidors, built for the purpose, and kept there for from two to three years at a temperature which, as closely as possible, corresponds with the climatic conditions of Cuba.

In the second place, this systematic "housing" of the tobacco in humidors removes the injurious "gum" and develops that rich flavor known only in my cigars. It is a flavor that wins smokers every time.

Would you like 1,000 of my Cigars on "very easy" terms?

"Payne Cigars are Perfect Cigars."

TOBACCOS, CIGARS AND ACCESSORIES

THINGS A DEALER SHOULD KNOW.

A tobacco company of New York has printed a neat folder on the question of light and dark cigars, containing information which every dealer should know, if only to answer his customers' possible questions.

Referring to the erroneous impression that the color of the wrapper is an indication of the strength of the cigar, the folder says:

"No cigar manufacturer assorts his fillers by shades, or in any other way by which the strength or mildness of cigars of the same brand and quality are differentiated one from another. To make 1,000 cigars, a cigar-maker is given 10 to 20 pounds of filler and sufficient wrappers to cover them.

"The wrappers and filler are of one quality, as near as possible. When the cigars are made they are sent to the packer, who rapidly assorts them, judging by the wrapper only, into light, medium, and dark, merely to get a uniform and pleasing appearance. Thus the filler is in every respect the same in the darkest Maduro as it is in the lightest Claro.

"Few people know that the Spanish dictionary translates the word 'maduro' as 'mature' or 'ripe.' This is the proper significance of the word, which does not convey the idea of strength.

"The smoking quality of the cigar depends almost entirely on the locality in which the leaf is raised and the proper blending of the different tobaccos.

"Every expert tobacco man knows that in a given quantity of tobacco, grown under the same general conditions, the dark leaves will average of distinctly higher quality and superior mildness to the light leaves, for the simple reason that the leaves which cure dark are the ones which came to full maturity before being plucked, while the light leaves were those which were plucked when only partially ripened.

"The persistent demand for light colors has induced many planters to cut their tobacco prematurely in order to get a larger percentage of light wrappers. The majority of these leaves are acrid and bitter and generally burn unevenly. Pale wrappers are thus secured, but at the expense of burning quality and fine aroma. Indeed, there is no reason to doubt that a great majority of the complaints which dealers are compelled to listen to from dissatisfied customers, are due to the craze for pale cigars, which do not give satisfaction on account of this acrid and bitter taste. The smoker has, to be sure, obtained his light colored cigars, but he finds that there is something lacking, that the brand which he once favored is not as good as it used to be, and he forsakes it and tries another.

"Tobacco does not lose quality by age, a fact that is known to every cigar manufacturer. It becomes sweeter and more aromatic and also darker in color. Therefore, a dark cigar is generally more aromatic and better in every particular than the light one, the tobacco of which latter may have been cut too early and spent too short a time in the curing process."

CUBAN TOBACCO CROPS RUINED.

Heavy rains continue in Cuban tobacco districts, and it is reported that a large part of the tobacco crop is ruined. 4.69 inches had fallen in ten days, and since then there has been a constant downpour. The average in December for 30 years is 2.15 inches. Wet grounds spoil the tobacco plant.

Dealers here have received word that only the latest planting will be good, and that is doubtful unless the rain stops. At the weather bureau the rediction is that the end of the rain is not in sight. The explauation is that cold northern winds in contact with warm humidity have caused the precipitation.

ANOTHER ADVANCE IN TOBACCO GROWING.

The Department of Agriculture, through Mr. Charlan, an expert brought out from France, will conduct extensive experiments during the next few months in the curing of Canadian-grown tobacco Through an arrangement with a tobacco manufacturing firm in Montreal, it is stated a large lot of some 30,000 or 40,000 pounds of the raw material will be cured and manufactured under the direction of Mr. Charlan.

GOOD ADVERTISING

A department devoted to the improvement of Retail Advertising. The editor of this department will be pleased to answer questions on advertising and review any advertisements submitted to him.

TWO SPECIMEN RETAIL ADS.

A SHORT time ago I said I would design three or four retail advertisements and give "Reasons Why."

As will be noticed, two have been designed for this issue, one a Christmas announcement, the other a general grocery advertisement.

The Christmas advertisement is given on account of its especial appropriateness, and for similar reasons has been allotted the largest space. It has been constructed with an eye to seasonable phrasing, and so contains one or two general remarks and perhaps a little of what some grocers might style tautology.

But a Christmas advertisement must be to supply you regularly with

We Are Equipped

CHOICE GROCERIES FRUIT AND FISH

We are specialists in blending teas and coffees and have contracted for a new arrival of creamery butter each week.

Out-of-town Customers given good attention.

Prompt deliveries. 'Phone 458.

Carpenter & Son

McKenzie Square.

different from other advertisements. The writer must not be afraid to dwell on what he considers are strong points. The advertisement must have a persuasive tone. It must impress. It must rise above the commonplace. That is why I have done no particularizing and made no mention of prices.

Why should a grocer pay for printing details about his Christmas fruits, etc., when every person who will read his announcement will expect him to have variety? A great amount of grocery advertising should be treated as the major premise of a syllogism—taken for granted.

It will be seen that in the Christmas advertisement appearing on this page I have chosen to put force into words devoted almost to a single theme rather than to divide attention on a list of goods. It will be seen that I have chosen to lay stress on the necessity of getting satisfaction. The fact is, I have written in a way that I think would appeal to me if I were a buyer.

In only one instance has a special note been made in the Christmas advertisement. That is the reference to berry dishes, etc., for which reference there is a particular reason. The grocery store that keeps chinaware and such like commodities is apt to be passed over at Christmas time if there is a crockery store anywhere within reasonable distance. Hence the importance of riveting public attention in this way.

The general advertisement herewith given applies to almost any time of the year. It is framed chiefly on the basis of attracting the new dwellers in the community or the people who have no allegiance to one store. This advertisement is given the smallest space because it would likely appear quite often.

The references to tea and coffee and creamery butter, while perhaps in the ordinary case superfluous, are timely just here. Teas, coffees and butter are among the items on the grocery list that most people are particular over. New customers and "no allegiance" customers are usually "particular."

At other times I have said a good deal about the necessity of courting out-of-town trade. Naturally the general advertisement affords the most continuous opportunities for doing so. Hence my reference.

As will be seen, the typography of both the advertisements contributes its quota in the form of "first impression." Balance enhances or mars first impression. It is one of the greatest essentials in typography. The compositor with an eye to balance avoids, as much as possible, uneven lines, an excess of "turnovers," disproportionate display, and irregular indentations.

"White space" is another important element in the advertisement. If all store announcements appeared next to reading matter white space would not be essential; but as this is never the case the marginal effect is essential as a force for individuality.

Thus shape is given to the advertisement and the continuity of thought preserved. This facilitates reading and strengthens the theme of the advertisement.

That is why you can grasp the contents of some advertisements quickly. And that is why—when there is no balance to the setting—you find everything in the advertisement appealing to your eye at once—one line detracting from the other, and the whole effect weak.

It is just as important that your advertisements should be well set as that they should be well written.

Both of these advertisements are open to criticism and may be entirely unsuited for the class of trade some grocers are doing. I know certain advertisements must have a little slang, others a lot of store talk, others, again, solid facts, no explanations, and many must be devoted principally to farmers. These advertisements have been designed for the majority but there ought to be in them something of value to all.

Christmas Comes But Once a Year

Therefore, let us make the most of it, that our satisfaction be to the full. You want the very best goods at the fairest prices. I have the very best goods at the fairest prices, so you just want what I have.

CHRISTMAS GROCERIES FRUITS, CANDIES NUTS, ETC.

My assortment is choice and inviting—just so much more choice and inviting than other grocers' assortments as to be just that much better. If you would like to make a present of a Berry Dish I have an excellent selection, and Olive Trays, Salad Bowls, etc., also.

Will you call and see me around Christmas time and know wherein my store leads all the time?

JACKSON

Walnut and Farley Streets

I hope next week to give a design of a special sales advertisement.

"TALKING OF ANTS."

The American truth-teller was in form. "Talking of ants," he said, "we've got 'em as big as crabs out west. I guess I've seen 'em fight with long thorns, which they used as lances, charging each other like savages." "They don't compare to the ants I saw in the east," said an inoffensive individual near by. "The natives have trained them as beasts of burden. One of 'em could trail a ton load for miles with ease. They worked willingly, but occasionally they turned on their attendants and killed them." But this was drawing the long-bow a little too far. "I say, old chap," said a shocked voice from the corner, "what sort of ants were they?" "Eleph-ants," said the quiet man.

No matter how good your business, it constantly requires pushing. There are a great many ways to push the retail trade to success. It is the opinion of many that one of the principal ways of successfully conducting business is to have reliable and up-to-date goods.

Made in Canada

These words are the key to the success that every true Canadian heartily desires for this fair Canada of our!

Why should we buy goods of any description that are made in a foreign country? The making of foreign goods does not give employment to our artisans. It does not retain money in this country.

Why use Foreign Salt? We have CANADIAN SALT that is superior to any foreign salt that is made.

Why not help build up Canada by using

Canadian Salt

and thereby employ Canadian labor, Canadian works, and Canadian capital?

Demand of your wholesale grocer Canadian Salt, and if he does not keep it write to us for prices and samples.

CEYLON Tea Talks

No. 6

We have laid before you the main features which go to make a good tea. These are all found in perfect proportions in Ceylon Tea. There are other factors, however, of equal importance, without which the good results are minimized, one of which is absolute purity and absence of extraneous matter.

Ceylon Green Teas are absolutely pure and free from extraneous coloring matter, such as is often used in teas of other growths.

A Two Cent Mistake

Don't amount to much in any business, but the striking point is that a clerk is just as liable to make a mistake of $2.00 as he is of two cents, and a few mistakes like this would pay for enough of Allison's Coupon Books to last a year or more. With these books mistakes are impossible.

IF A MAN WANTS CREDIT

or $10, give him a $10 Allison Coupon Book, charge him with $10, and there you are. No trouble at all. If he buys a plug of tobacco for ten cents, just tear off a ten-cent coupon—that's all. And so on for all his purchases up to limit of the book. NO PASS BOOK. NO WRITING. NO TIME LOST. NO KICKING There are other Coupon Books, of course, but why not have the best? TOLEDO COMPUTING SCALES

Automatic but Springless.

The "Toledo" is a money saver because it positively stops the giving of overweight.

A time saver because it is Automatic.

A labor saver because there are no weights to lift, no poises to slide, or prices to set.

A trade bringer because it indicates to the customer in plain figures the correct weight of the article he is buying.

It is honest both to the merchant and customer.

The Toledo system costs you nothing because it is paid for with the money you are now losing.

PORK PACKERS AND THEIR DIFFICULTIES

The amount of correspondence which has arisen out of the acute situation brought on the packing industries by the decision of the Government to withdraw bonding privileges, has at last reached a crucial stage. So persistent have been the accusations of the existence of a combine that the leading packers are inviting the appointment of an influential committee to investigate the subject. We give herewith the main features of the several letters which have appeared in the press on the subject:

MR. WILLIAM DAVIES' LETTER

"About twenty-five years ago the William Davies Company were doing a very considerable business as export pork packers, but were heavily handicapped by the short supply of live hogs in Canada, and at that time were obtaining about one-half to two-thirds from the United States. The freight and expenses, to say nothing of the shrinkage in weight and mortality, was very heavy, and amounted to what would be a handsome profit, while rivals in the United States were paying but a trifle higher freight than we on their manufactured goods to England, besides which at that time the G.T.R. would make time contracts with them, while our goods were often shut out of ocean steamers at Portland.

Some Missionary Work.

"Naturally we became discouraged, and, thinking seriously of moving our business and following our rivals, who had given up in Canada and migrated to Chicago and other points, we prospected in the Western States, and had very tempting offers made to us to locate there, but before accepting, feeling very reluctant to leave Toronto, we made an appeal to the Government at Ottawa. They agreed to make the bonding regulations a little less onerous and stringent, and we decided to remain here, rebuild, and start a missionary campaign by letters to the press, pamphlets, and addressing farmers as opportunity served.

English Taste Changing.

"Meantime the English taste was changing. The masses refused to eat fat bacon, and the grand Berkshire hog fell into disrepute and disgrace. The Irish and Danish bacon curers solved the problem. They supplied the farmers with the improved large Yorkshires for breeding purposes, and very soon the thick fat that was characteristic of the Dunmow flitch was displaced by a long, lean side of bacon that satisfied the most fastidious epicure. This led the writer to import a number from the celebrated prize-winning herd of Sanders Spencer, Huntingdon, and breeding a large number and advertising their excellence, they were soon scattered from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia. I asked the assistance of Hon. John Dryden, but he said the farmers would not adopt them; they would not be profitable. He has long since kept them on his own farm and recently made the 'amende honorable' to me. To-day, I think I am correct in saying, three-fifths or more of the hogs in Ontario are of the Yorkshire strain.

Profitable to Both Parties.

"With the increasing supply of hogs our business increased by leaps and bounds, and, on the whole, it has been prosperous. We have never posed as philanthropists, and till comparatively recently we had abundant testimony from farmers that they found hog-raising profitable, if not the most so of any branch of live stock.

"A few years ago an agricultural journal commenced a crusade against the pork packers, assuring the farmers they were being robbed; that there was a combine, and the farmer was under the iron heel of their oppressor, etc. The editor of that paper has been very malevolent in his utterances. Dr. Smale, assistant manager of the Wm. Davies Company, recently wrote to him a logical letter, giving facts and denying point blank the accusation of a combine. The editor in the most disingenuous manner distorted the statements.

Fiercest Competition Exists.

"A Toronto daily also appears to have taken a malevolent pleasure in charging pork packers with forming a ring to keep the price of hogs down. Now, seeing that combination is a criminal offence, it is rather a serious matter to make a direct charge against a respectable body of men. Will your readers please bear in mind that there has never been a scintilla of evidence, much less proof, of these charges, and if those who were making them were not wilfully blind, they would know beyond peradventure that the packers are at each other's throats; that the fiercest competition exists, and it is war to the knife to obtain hogs.

With Mr. Dryden.

"Now I have a crow to pick with Hon. John Dryden. I have been proud to number him in my list of friends—a man whom I have respected and in many respects admired. As Provincial Minister of Agriculture I believe he did excellent service to the farming community, hence to the country generally, but the pork packers owe him nothing. After they had got the industry on a plane when it ran by its own momentum, then he found out the business was of importance, and helped it along in a certain way, but was always finding fault with the methods of the pork packers. They did not grade and pay a price accordingly. It is very probable drovers do not grade, and that may easily be explained. A farmer's hogs can be much more easily and quickly bought as they are. Farmers very much object to taking a lower price for one or two, and the drover has found by experience that by offering a uniform price he can make a greater profit after they are graded.

The Question of Grading.

"A few days ago Mr. Dryden was reported in the World as saying at the Live Stock Show that if the packers would grade and give a more uniform price he would guarantee them plenty of hogs. The first thought I had in this connection was, what kind of a guarantee would the honorable gentleman give, and what would it be worth? Doubtless Mr. Dryden is a good practical farmer, and, as I have before stated, has done yeoman service as Minister of Agriculture, but if his methods of running a packing house proved as successful as his manufacturing and commercial enterprises, as I and others know to our sorrow, then heaven help the pork packers. We used to grade, and severely, but in recent years competition is too fierce, each is afraid of his rival. What stronger proof of independent competition can there be?

"WM. DAVIES, Toronto."

HON. JOHN DRYDEN'S LETTER.

"The letter in your issue of Wednesday from Mr. Davies, the senior partner of the Wm. Davies Pork Packing Company, calls for some reply. I therefore crave the indulgence of your readers while I attempt to throw some light on the matters under controversy.

Cause of the Controversy.

"What, then, is the cause of so much controversy in reference to the production of bacon? There are, I think, three separate questions, all of which are in dispute, and concerning which the farmers and the packers cannot seem to find a common ground.

"First, the packers desire the privilege of importing from the United States a class of hogs for use in their packing establishments which are confessedly inferior to the Canadian supply. The farmers very stoutly object to this privilege being allowed, and present two strong reasons: First, the danger, in importing hogs grown in all parts of the United States, of introducing disease; second, the danger which at once presents itself of lowering the reputation of Canadian bacon. We think either of these is a good argument, and taken together they are unanswerable. Hon. Mr. Fisher did himself credit, and has won the gratitude of the people he especially represents in the Government all over Canada by deciding this question in their favor. American hogs, therefore, cannot now be brought in, except at an increased cost, representing the duty which is demanded.

The Problem of Production.

"Coupled with this question, and arising out of it, comes the second subject of controversy. The pork packers assert that sufficient hogs for their plants are not produced in Canada. Our answer is that with proper encouragement an unlimited supply can be presented for consumption by the packers, and that inasmuch as the packers and farmers are dependent on each other, and that so far as this industry is concerned neither can prosper without the other, they ought to confer together and try to come to a mutual understanding by which such sufficient supply could be provided. If this could be done, there can be no doubt in the mind of anyone who looks over the entire province without going outside of it, that the supply could be increased indefinitely.

The Matter of Grading.

"The third point which has been under discussion for some time is in reference to maintaining the quality of the bacon. The buyer insists on purchasing on what is called a flat rate—that is to say, the price is uniform for good, bad, and indifferent. The farmer who produces the ideal hog, which makes the best quality of bacon, receives no more under the present system, than the man who produces a thick, fat hog which, according to the opinion of the packers, is not wanted for bacon curing at all. The packers throw this back at us in our discussion, and say it is for you farmers to produce the article which is needed, and, although we refuse to pay any more for doing so, you ought to, in justice to yourselves, produce it. Now, there are a few farmers who would be willing to produce the best, although they get no more money, simply for the satisfaction which it gives them, but the great mass of people do not look at things in that way. They are doing this work for the dollars that are in it. If, therefore, by being careless and indifferent as to the quality, they can receive an equal amount to the man who takes pains and spends money in securing the best, it is easily seen that there is not likely to be any improvement.

Not Championing Rival Breeds.

"Mr. Davies further complains at my action while administering the Department of Agriculture, and says in his letter that he asked my assistance, but that I would not respond, giving various excuses for so doing. Your readers do not understand his reference, nor what it was he asked me to do. As he says, Mr. Davies at that time was the champion of and a breeder of Yorkshire hogs. He had decided for himself that these were the best for bacon purposes. At the same time the Ingersoll Packing Company had spent a considerable amount of money in importing the Tamworth breed, asserting that this filled the bill the best of any. There were still others championing the improved Berkshire. Now, surely Mr. Davies can see—if he cannot, I think others can—that it would not do for the head of the department to champion any one of these breeds as against the others. In the first place it would not be right to do so, and especially when the head of the department had no personal knowledge of what breed in his judgment was the best.

To Show the Way.

"Now, the department undertook to settle this question in a different way. As soon as it was seen that our system of farming must be changed, that our profits must come from other sources, the department undertook to show the way. To this end the Winter Fair was finally located at Guelph, and the revolution of the hog products of this country, so as to provide material for the best bacon, was undertaken. Special prizes were offered for bacon hogs; the classes were divided; the best bacon producer from Tamworth, from Yorkshire, from Berkshire and other sources. Then the best among the whole lot. This was the only real way of proving what Mr. Davies asserted was true, that one breed was superior to another. The packers were asked to supply judges. They were supposed to be the men who best knew what the ideal hog should be. They were instructed not to give the first prize if no prize animal presented itself, nor a second, nor a third. The first year a number of these prizes were withheld; the second year my recollection is that they were filled, but it was not until the third year that we felt we had come to the time when the ideal hog in some numbers had been produced. This was the year of the commencement of our educational work in connection with this question. Mr. Davies does not seem to have any knowledge of it. The Superintendent of Institutes at that time received permission to use the funds of the institution in bringing lecturers to Guelph and paying their expenses the same as when they go out to speak at institute meetings with a view of giving information in reference to this and some other questions.

Finding the Ideal Hog.

"They were all there and listened to the discussions which took place. The ideal bacon hog and others which were not ideal were brought into the lecture room. The packers were asked to discuss them before these crowds of farmers, including farmers' institute lecturers who were present. Questions were asked, and the whole matter threshed out. The following night these animals were killed and next day were brought in, cut up and showing the quality as described when the animals were alive. This has been continued ever since, but, if we had stopped there, it would have taken a good many more years to bring about the revolution which took place. Following this, under instructions of the head of the department, the Superintendent of Institutes made the bacon hog a compulsory subject at every institute meeting in the province. At every meeting there was some subject taken bearing on the bacon hog. We could not take the live animal into the school house or hall; therefore, large charts were prepared of these ideal hogs which had been seen at Guelph, and of the sides as they were presented to the audiences there, so that in every county at the several meetings held in the local institute the bacon hog was the subject of discussion. This was continued the following year, and in a good many places a third year. The result was an entire revolution in the hog product of the country, and yet Mr. Davies is able to say at this late date that 'the packers of Canada owe the head of the department at that time nothing.' My opinion and the opinion of farmers is that the department has made these men rich and that they are not now willing to share their riches with the men upon whom they depend for their raw material.

"The writer regrets exceedingly that this personal and unjust attack should be made by Mr. Davies, for the reason that I do not think any good can come of it. I had planned to have a conference with Dr. Smale, who had been selected as champion of the packers at our late meetings in Guelph, and I hope I may still have the privilege of holding that conference with a view of ascertaining whether some common ground cannot be reached which will work satislactorily in the interests of both parties "JOHN DRYDEN, Toronto."

WM. DAVIES CO. REPLIES.

"Replying to the article in the Toronto World of the 4th, and to recent editorial comments in the Farmers' Sun.

"(1) Slaughtering hogs in bond. The interest of this company in the bonding privilege can probably best be answered by saying that we have not killed an American hog in bond in Toronto in fourteen years. In the small house we have in Harriston, Ont., we killed about 4,000 American hogs early last Summer, and some 1,000 a few weeks ago, which represents all the American hogs we have killed since 1891. From July, 1905, we were in frequent communication with the Minister of Agriculture, the Hon. Mr. Fisher, urging upon him the necessity of requiring each side of bacon made from American hogs under the bonding privilege to be skin branded 'American Sides,' as we feared injury to Canadian bacon by having the products of American hogs sold as Canadian in England. The Minister decided to stop the privilege rather than to adopt the remedy we suggested. We have no quarrel with him for his decision. We think the course suggested by us was the wiser one, although the above figures will demonstrate how unimportant the whole question is to this company.

"(2) Is there a pork packers' combine? We have stated in your columns before, we have stated in the columns of the Farmer's Sun, that as far as this company is concerned there is no association with any combination of packers for any purpose whatsoever. The statement is now made by you and by the Farmer's Sun that perhaps it is not called a combine, but there is an understanding which is just as effective nevertheless. In reply to this we desire to say that this company has not had, has not now, understandings, direct or indirect, through agents, through 'Joe Harris,' through telegraph or telephone companies, through any sort, kind or form of communication, whereby the price which will be paid for hogs is discussed, or views of values compared, or any condition set up showing collusion of interests upon any matter involved. If this denial still leaves some loophole which you think is not covered, if you will supply the language to cover the loophole, you will please understand that our denial embodies your language. If other packers in Ontario know the price which this company fixes for hogs each week, it is obtained by some means unknown to us, and if you can discover the means you will perform for us a very useful and satisfying service.

The Control of Bacon and Beef.

"This company does not desire, and has not sought, to control the bacon or beef business, either by direct or indirect measures. It has sought to bring all the intelligence it could command to bear upon the business with which it was identified. It has sought for and desires no artificial aid from any source whatsoever. It has believed that industry and intelligence applied to the day-to-day operations of the company were more useful and more self-respecting, and the results secured from such efforts more satisfying, than the same money results secured through combination. We have been guilty of the crime of playing a lone hand, and of taking a pride in the business with which we are associated, being developed along the lines indicated. Hence, as far as we are concerned, the conjectures and suggestions based upon an understanding between packers as affirmed in your article of the 4th, and your writings of the same character over the last two years, as well as those of the Farmer's Sun and other journals, are and have been unwarranted, ungenerous and misleading.

"We make no attempt to conceal our anxiety at the effect of this persistent campaign, establishing as it does want of confidence in the packers. It is vital to the continuance of the bacon industry that a spirit of confidence exist between the breeder and feeder who raises hogs, and the curer who ships the finished product to the English market. Where criticisms of the press upon the packers and the bacon industry are founded on actual knowledge, useful and necessary public service is performed in making criticisms. Where they are founded on conjecture and there is refusal to accept as truthful the statements of those who are cognizant of the facts, a cruel wrong is done, not only to an important industry in which the farmers of the province are interested, but to business men who have invested large sums of money in buildings and plant, the value of which is vitally dependent upon the activity with which they can be operated.

Shrinkage in 1905.

"As an evidence of what this campaign has been able to accomplish, this company, as the most representative one in the business, shows a shrinkage of 100,000 in number of hogs killed during 1905 as compared to 1904, which is equivalent to one-quarter of our business. Our workpeople have for months at a time been from one-half day to three days a week short in their time, and the whole business has been subjected to great anxiety and much concern. This shrinkage in hogs has been produced by unnatural means, as it follows a long period of high average price for hogs, when under normal conditions the quantities would increase.

"We want neither sympathy nor consolation for this state of affairs. We only ask that in simple justice newspapers, so powerful to work mischief as well as to do good, will be fair-minded and cease a destructive campaign, or support their statements by evidence other than mere conjecture or broad assertion.

"We sincerely believe that the cultivation of hogs has been profitable to farmers. We believe that the bacon industry has been possible because of the intelligent co-operation between the breeders and feeders who have produced good hogs and the packers who have cured good bacon. We believe this co-operation is being wrongfully destroyed by a persistent newspaper campaign of insinuation and assertion against packers which is not supported by evidence, and which we say, as far as this company is concerned, is not only misleading, but directly contrary to the whole spirit in which the business is conducted.

Committee Suggested.

"If you, with the editor of the Farmers' Advocate, the editor of the Farmers' Sun and the editor of the Farming World, will arrange for the Hon. Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture in the present Government, the Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture in the late Ross administration, and Mr. Duncan Anderson and Mr. T McMillan, Farmers' Institute lecturers, to join with your as a committee to wait upon us, we will place at your disposal all available information bearing upon your charge that the buying price of hogs is determined or affected by an understanding between packers to which we are a party. If, after this committee has met with us and gone over the evidence which we will submit, you find you have been mistaken in your conjectures and assertions, we will ask you in the interests of a very important industry, to make the amende honorable.

"At the time the committee calls upon us, if there are any general matters identified with the business which are of interest to them, as, for instance, questions referred to in the letter of the Hon. John Dryden in the Globe of even date, and which are outside your particular charges, we will gladly discuss these items in as full a manner as the committee may desire.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETINGS.

ST. JOHN, N. B.

The monthly meeting of the Board of Trade was held on January 2. The council has elected the following additional members: George Robertson, M. P.P., J. H. McRobbie, George E. Barbour, W. E. Foster, E. L. Rising and J. E. Irvine.

The council had urged the Government to make an additional grant towards the Sand Point dredging operations.

T. H. Estabrooks, who was elected vice-president, sent a letter regretting his inability to accept the office.

F. A. Dykeman nominated J. H. McRobbie. The motion was seconded by H. A. Austin and unanimously passed.

W. E. McIntyre was elected a member of the board.

It was suggested that Senator Ellis would be a suitable representative to attend the meeting of the Forestry Association at Ottawa this month. On motion of Mr. McRobbie the matter was left with the president.

With reference to the encouragement of new industries, the president said the Board of Trade was working along various lines. Plans are making for a booklet descriptive of St. John's advantages for manufacturing purposes.

Mr. Hatheway said he thought St. John would be a good site for a flour mill.

Mr. Shaffer, I.C.R. freight agent, suggested that a beet sugar industry might be successfully established here.

OLDS, ALBERTA.

It is now about four years since the Olds Board of Trade was established, and although a mere advisory board it has been of great service to the district. Every question of public interest is taken up and discussed, and when thought necessary steps are taken and representations made. Its work has been done quietly and effectively. Many settlers in outlying districts have been surprised at the erection of a bridge over a creek or river in some convenient place, and wondered why it had been placed there. Reports had reached the Board of Trade that such a thing was a necessity, and they in turn brought this to the notice of the proper authorities, with the result that many improvements such as bridges and road repairs, have been effected for the convenience of settlers.

One of the first things that the board inaugurated was a monthly street fair held on the last Saturday of every month, and how successful these monthly sales were is known to all of us, but owing to the low prices which existed for cattle during last Summer these sales were not so successful, as very few farmers were willing to dispose of their stock at the current low figures. There is evidence that the price of cattle will be higher in the Spring, and the street fairs will again receive the patronage which ought to be accorded to them.

Important questions are now before the board. The question of electric lighting and fire protection is being subjected to keen inquiry, so that when the town council decide to take steps in the matter the Board of Trade will be on hand to see that what is installed is adequate and to further promote and safeguard the interests of the ratepayers.

MONTREAL.

Mr. Alfred Moseley, C.M.G., addressed a well attended meeting of the members of the board of trade on Jan. 8, on the subject of preferential trade within the Empire. Mr. Moseley explained Mr. Chamberlain's idea of preferential trade within the Empire, and said it was often sought to misrepresent him by making it appear that in Canada he would seek to place some embargo, some brake, upon Canada's aspirations as a manufacturing country. Nothing, Mr. Moseley explained, was farther from Mr. Chamberlain's thoughts.

At the close of Mr. Moseley's address, which was most attentively listened to, the following resolution was adopted, on motion of Sir George Drummond:

"That this meeting of members of the Montreal Board of Trade hereby expresses its hearty approval of and sympathy with the policy of reciprocal preferential trade between the component parts of the British Empire and the Imperial ideas in connection therewith, now being advocated by the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, which, if carried into effect, will, in the opinion of this meeting bring increased prosperity to the Mother Country and the colonies."

CALIFORNIA RAISIN CROP.

Advices from Fresno, Cal., state that the entire raisin crop in the hands of the California Raisin-Growers' Co. has been sold to packers on a three cent basis. By the concluding of this sale is ended a season of unrest in the raisin business. At the beginning of the season a combination was formed between the growers' company and several packers. The price was set too high, and the result was that the growers' company were unable to market their raisins.

INTERNAL STORE CRITICISM.

There is little need for explanation in the cut of internal arrangements given herewith—it speaks for itself. A casual observer can see at once that it is set out, not merely by a firm who know their business, but by a firm who know how to economize business. In an earlier issue, it was pointed out, the immense saving which accrues in a well fitted store by reducing the labor of clerks, in having goods ready to hand, and in preserving them in good condition. In the store under review, it will be noticed that, to a great extent, the stock is classified, thus giving every appearance of fine order, and at the same time a good show. This in itself gives a somewhat straight and monotonous appearance. It will be noticed, too, that a show case display of tobacco goods is seen on the immediate right, and could not fail to attract early attention. The crockery counter takes up the centre of the store, probably the the best place, both for light and utility. Grocers thinking of improving their trade would do well to take pattern from this arrangement The illustration shows the store of Horne & Spice, of Lacombe, Alta. This store, which is called the Bee Hive Supply Store, is well named, as everybody is on the hustle in this establishment. The firm formed partnership in May, 1905. Mr. Horne was at one time with Campbell Bros. & Wilson, and Mr. Spice up to that time was a partner in The Great West Trading Co. of Yorkton. The firm does practically a cash business, and finds it a great success. The store, as can be seen by the illustrations, is up-to-date in every department. It measures 40 x 80, and has two large plate glass fronts, hardwood floor, metallic ceiling, and the latest fixtures. Eight clerks are kept busy all the time waiting on customers. as this firm enjoys a large trade in Lacombe and its district.

NOTES.

Don't display goods that you cannot duplicate from your stock. Nothing harms your trade more than to attract customers to your store by a good window display, and for the customer to find out that what is in the window is only samples.

Many grocers attribute their success to the help they have received from their wives. It would be a good plan for grocers to consult their wives in the matter of window dressing. The feminine eye as a rule can discern many features that the grocer would not notice.

A general merchant in Illinois has hit upon a scheme for attracting crowds to his establishment during the dull season. He buys a large assortment of glassware, ranging in price from 75c to $7 a dozen. This assortment is placed in the show window of his store. In the front of the window, for about a week in advance of the date, a sign is placed announcing that all customers buying $1 or more of merchandise during a stipulated period can have a choice of any article in the window for 5 cents. A notice to the same effect is inserted in the daily newspapers. In some cases, glassware that is ordinarily sold as high as $1 apiece is offered at 5 cents. The fact that much of the glassware is sold at pretty near the ordinary rate is overlooked by the purchasers, who think only of the greater values. The dealer has tried the scheme on numerous occasions and invariably finds it to work handsomely.

Interior display.—Horne & Spice, Lacombe, Alberta.

A HANDY FRUIT DISPLAY.

How to display dried fruits? This question has at last been solved. Have a long case made, about as long as a counter, a foot high in the back and about eight inches high in the front. Divide it into as many parts as you have different kinds of fruit. This, of course, is put on a sort of low counter. When it is all finished it ought to be about the height of the average counter. This case should be stained the same color as the other fixtures in the store. On the back of every one of these divisions tack a neat card, with the name of the contents and the price per pound.

POINTS FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS CLERK

NUTMEG NATIONAL BANK.

How many men have started in business on "hot air," kiting checks to even pay their first month's rent, and some of these very men have been successful and have made independent fortunes? Then, again, how many have failed to make good? Of the average American business men, seven out of one hundred only are successful, the other ninety-three go to the wall.

But who ever heard of a national bank being started on "hot air?" But one was started in a prosperous town in Connecticut, and is now one of the most successful in the Nutmeg State. The head of the bank was a "hustler," who formerly had been cashier of another bank in the same place, but who, on account of some disagreement with the directors, had resigned his position. He knew every business man and farmer of means in the neighborhood, and he was known by them in turn to be a very shrewd and trustworthy man.

After resigning the original cashiership, he resolved to start the new bank under a national charter, with himself, of course, as cashier, and the way he started it was unique and amusing. When he approached a person for a subscription to the stock of the new bank, and the person was invariably one whose credit was A1, he first said, "Now, my dear boy. I do not want a single dollar in cash from you; all I want is your note at three, six and nine months," and these he would get discounted at a Boston bank, which had agreed to act as the Boston correspondent of his bank.

With the proceeds of these notes, the new bank would at once take out circulation, and when the notes became due the bank would take them up and the makers would renew them as long as they pleased at the new bank. The scheme worked to a charm, and that cashier had no trouble in negotiating the notes of the subscribers to the bank stock and with the proceeds at once purchased Government bonds and took out national bank note circulation, so that when the notes for the bank stock fell due he had the cash on hand to pay them off and to renew them for the makers at the newly started bank.

Each subscriber to the bank stock, too, finding the project likely to be a success, began to take a personal interest and pride in the institution, and not only deposited his own surplus funds in it, but induced neighbors and acquaintances to do likewise.

Within two years the bank began to pay dividends and to-day there is no more flourishing institution of its kind in Connecticut. That bank was virtually started on "paper and hot air."

CLEANLINESS AND QUALITY NECESSARY FOR SUCCESS.

That there is profit and honor to be secured in following the business of a retail grocer is evident from the successful retailers that are to be found in every village, town and city, as well as at cross-roads stores and out-of-the-way places. Unfortunately, success does not come to the majority, most of whom have hard work to secure a poor living, and yet this great number of distributors do more trade, in the aggregate, than the successful, flourishing minority.

The first feature that strikes the observer is the untidiness of the small store, the appearance of which is far from being suggestive of that absolute cleanliness which is necessary if a purveyor of food products is to enjoy the confidence of the people he seeks to serve.

An untidy store may have on its shelves the very highest grade of goods, but the general untidiness is a libel on the stock and undermines faith in the store service. That lost, success cannot be attained.

It is granted that there are exceptional cases of success on the part of grocers wholly indifferent to style and who care little for appearances, but in most cases of that sort, it will be found that the personality of the storekeeper is such as to make people like the man and overlook his methods so far as they relate to cleanliness. He is scrupulously exact or honest, and therefore patrons are not influenced unfavorably by a slovenly window or disarranged shelves. He may be a sociable fellow, with tact and good address, so that his good nature hides faults in appearance. The exception only serves to prove the rule that confidence is hard to be won for an untidy store.

Inferior goods are responsible for many failures, because there are too many retailers who put more stress on price than on quality, and therefore lose the confidence of consumers. They do not seem to grasp the fact that, unless the food sold gives the buyer satisfaction, confidence is shattered and the customer does not become a "repeater," and it is repeaters that a store needs to win success.

THE SELF-MADE MAN.

Charles M. Schwab, the millionaire steel magnate and self-made man, takes no stock in the assertion of Professor Buttler, who claims that the day of the self-made man is over. Said Mr. Schwab in an interview in the Inter-Ocean, on a recent visit to Chicago: "That statement is foolish. I don't want to get into controversy with the professor, but I am confident that the chances for ambitious young men to make themselves successful were never better than to-day. You hear talk about the corporations throwing limitations about the individual efforts of young men. The fact is that corporations are reaching out for bright youths and pavin well for their services when they find them. I am a friend of colleges, but I see a point on which they cannot lay too much stress. They should teach their students that they are no better socially than the young men who are winning their way in the workshops. The college diploma ought not give any man a superior place in society over the man who has been learning by practice while others are learning through theories."

We have a letter in our possession from a gentleman who has in his employ about 6,000 men. He reiterates the opinion expressed by Mr. Schwab, that there never was a time when worthy young men were so greatly needed as at the present time, or who were more certain of advancement at high salaries. We remember him as a young man receiving ten dollars a week and without any pull but his own strenuous endeavors, his salary is now five figures a year. He says: "For instance, I have a superintendent to whom we are paying $2,500 a year and a bonus that will bring his salary up to $2,750 or $2,800, who started with me Jan. 1, 1901, at $50 a month. Another, who is doing equally as well, who started in 1902, at $60 per month. These had the right stuff in them. I could cite numerous instances. The company, while doing this, expect to get value received in the way of good service, loyalty, etc., but do not ask anything that is dishonorable."

DON'T BE A KICKER.

Don't be a kicker—no man ever made a dollar kicking but a professional ball player. No man ever helped himself up permanently by kicking his neighbor down. Give others a kind word and give it freely. It won't cost you a penny and remember you may want a good word some day. You may have thousands today and to-morrow be without the price of a shave. Don't be a kicker. It doesn't pay. You can't afford it. There is nothing in it. If you want to throw something at somebody, throw cologne, and don't throw mud and brickbats. If you feel that way you are the man that needs kicking. Whatever you do don't allow yourself to become a chronic kicker.

N. S. SUGAR OUTLOOK.

The total imports of sugar imported into Halifax, N.S., for the year ending December 31, 1905, were 46,117 tons, a slight decrease over the importation of 1904. The imports last year were 48,873 tons, but of this amount 2,543 tons were imported from Peru, the balance being from the British West Indies. No sugar was imported from Germany this year.

A notable feature is that during the year every ton of sugar that came to Halifax was imported from the British West Indies, and British Guiana. The sugar business generally has been good during the year. The Spring trade was dull owing to the tie-up on the railways, and consequently put business back to some extent. It improved very greatly later on, however, and business during the latter part of the year was much better than that of the preceding year.

The price of sugar at the present time is low, being probably one cent a pound lower than the highest point reached during the year of 1904. The outlook for the sugar business during 1906 is considered to be very bright.

The assets of E. M. Cory, grocer, Galt, who assigned recently, have been sold for seventy cents on the dollar. The liabilities were $1,500, mostly due to Toronto houses. N. L. Martin, assignee, made the sale.

Mr. H. E. Robinson has been appointed superintendent of the Ingersol, waterworks and has entered upon his duties. Mr. Robinson is a business man of wide experience, having been a member of the grocery firm of Robinson Bros.

George Tay, formerly with W. A. Day, general merchant, Port Stanley, has accepted a position with Estabrooks, the tea merchant, of St. John, N.B. He left for St. John, N.B., last week. On his return he will act as city traveler in Toronto for his new firm.

George H. Campbell, London, for the last five years representing T. H. Estabrooks, wholesale tea merchant, St. John, N.B., Toronto and Winnipeg, in Western Ontario, has been promoted to take charge of the Toronto branch. Mr. Campbell will be much missed on the road, where he made many friends.

Mr. Atkinson was for twenty years with the firm of James Turner & Co., Hamilton, and for the last six years he was connected with the firm of McPherson, Glassco & Co., Hamilton. He recently purchased an interest in the firm of Ross & Parnell, which will be known as Ross, Parnell & Atkinson. Mr. Atkinson will go to St. Catharines at once, but his family will remain in Hamilton until he has disposed of his property, when they also will make their home at St. Catharines.

A very pleasant event took place at Brandon, Man., on December 29 last, when the employes of Smith & Burton, grocers, gathered at the home of Mr. Frank Smith, to bid farewell to Mr. E. B. Smith, the senior partner of the firm who, with Mrs. Smith, is leaving on Tuesday to spend the balance of the Winter in California, after which they will take up their residence in Hamilton, Ont. Mr. and Mrs. Smith were presented by the employes with an address, Mr. Smith with a handsome suit case and Mrs. Smith with a beautiful writing case. After the presentation the evening was pleasantly spent in a social way, music and games being indulged in. The gathering broke up by all singing heartily "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

WHOLESALE GROCERY FOR PORT ARTHUR.

Prominent American merchants who have been visiting Winnipeg have gone to Port Arthur, Ont., with the idea of establishing a wholesale grocery either there or in Fort William. It is said that they have been in the district before and are well satisfied that there is a paying field for the venture.

The construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific and the undertaking of the double tracking of the Canadian Pacific is believed to have inspired the visitors with the idea that there will be a heavy demand for the lines handled by grocery houses during the next few years. They intend to ship groceries both east and west from the lakes. The men are from Minneapolis.

LOBSTER INDUSTRY IN N.S.

To the shore fishermen of Nova Scotia the lobster fishery is beyond question most profitable.

The estimated catch for the world is in the neighborhood of eighty-five million of fish and a very large proportion of sixty-five millions are caught in the waters of the Maritime Provinces, the peninsula of Gaspe and Magdalen Islands and shows the importance of this fishery to the Dominion. Beyond the seven or eight millions of lobsters canned in Newfoundland, equalling about 1,400,000 pounds, the entire production of canned lobsters is confined to this eastern portion of the Dominion, where about 71,000,000 pounds are annually packed for export to the various countries.

The annual taking of lobsters for the province of Nova Scotia varies around 35,000,000 fish, of which quantity about 28,000,000 would be preserved in the canneries and the remaining quantity exported alive to the nearby markets of the large cities of the United States on the Atlantic seaboard. The plant employed in the catching, canning and exporting is valued at $650,000.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

The cheese market remains as strong as ever, and the situation seems to be gaining in strength all the time. Around New Year's there is a general stock "guessing" in the trade. It seems a pity that no reliable figures are obtainable, as "estimates" may prove to be widely wrong, and misleading. However, the knowing ones of the trade seem to have settled their opinion on between 220,000 and 230,000 boxes as the total stocks of cheese in the Dominion of Canada, and as, perhaps, more than half of these are held here for account of British importers awaiting shipping instructions, the total available supplies for new business are very limited. Stocks reported on January 1 from London, Bristol and Liverpool are all considerably below the average of former years, and all markets in the U. K. report advancing prices.

There is a report here also of extremely high bids being made at country points for new fodder made cheese, embracing all goods made, or to be made, up to May 1. The price mentioned is dangerously high, and these bids seem undoubtedly made with the intention of getting the cheese factories started at as early a date as possible, and, as cheese prices are now comparatively higher than prices for butter, it may have the desired effect of getting farmers to insist on making cheese instead of butter where factories are equipped for the making of either product.

Latest reports from British markets speak of great shortage in supplies of butter, with the expectation of unusually high prices, but our Winter made butter is hardly a fit article for export, and other countries will reap the benefit of high prices in the U. K. Butter, made here now, is only good for immediate consumption, and as our stocks of butter are very light, we have a market for the present production right here.

The Dominion dairy commissioner, Mr. J. A. Ruddick, has for some time advocated the testing of individual cows, as it is done in Denmark, which may truly be called the "Pioneer Dairy Country" of the world. The Eastern Townships or the Cowansville district, are the first in the field to start an association in this country on these lines, and we may say that the Eastern Townships have supplied us with the very finest quality of butter, and they certainly demonstrate by this step that they are thoroughly progressive and up-to-date. This method of "cow testing" is decidedly a step in the right direction, of improving the dairy herds, and should be adopted in all other dairy sections of the Dominion of Canada. It will surely pay the farmers in the end, as the expense is very light, and the Government is willing to do the work gratis.

There is plenty of room to increase our dairy interests, and the Government is fully awake and doing all in their power to assist the farmers. Canadian cheese and butter are already standard qualities in the British markets and, with proper care and increase in production, there is no reason why our products should not take the lead in time. We have it in our own hands to accomplish this, and, regardless of politics, we should all do our utmost to capture and command the markets in Great Britain for our dairy products, cheese and butter.

A good dairy country means prosperity in that country. We have the country; it is now up to the farmers to look after their interests and improve and increase their herds. There is a good market for good goods across the Atlantic, and when the farmers are doing well, the country is prosperous.

THE PROVISION SITUATION.

As far as trade itself is concerned, there has been considerable falling off in demand since the holiday. This condition is general at all points in regard to provisions. The new regulations have not been in force long enough to make a very marked effect on the situation; the only indication is a firming in the price of hogs, but no further advance in reported of quotable nature. It is generally considered that the ultimate result, unless some modification is made, will be the reduction of the output of many of the factories. Reports from Montreal denote light deliveries of hogs at that point, so much so that competition at one time reached a most unhealthy stage. At Toronto supplies have been more on a par with the immediate demand, so that prices, although very firm, are not quotably different from last week's report.

There is some talk of a conference between responsible men representing interests of both farmers and packers, with a view of reaching some mutually satisfactory basis. It is to be greatly hoped that something will be done, as the whole Canadian situation at the present moment is a most unsatisfactory one.

In the controversy which has been proceeding with such vigor in the public press, a remark made by the W. Davies Company is worth noting, which was to the effect that that company's output during the last year had fallen very considerably short of previous years. If this has been so under free bonding privileges, what will be the result now that source of supply is stopped?

The cheese situation is a particularly strong one, and is likely to continue so right through the present season. Export demands continue good, whilst available stocks are light at all points, and are mainly held by dealers.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

By Our Own Correspondent.

Contrary to expectation the butter market remained firm throughout the Christmas holidays, and orders continued to flow in from retailers in steady volume. London has been enveloped in impenetrable fog and this has hindered the punctual arrival of the boats bringing butter to this market, and supplies have been consequently very scarce. The Copenhagen official quotation has been advanced 4 kroner, and now stands at 102 kroner as against 91 for this time last year. Reports show that Danish butter on the spot is 14 shillings and colonial 18 shillings dearer than in 1904.

It is now abundantly evident that, in spite of what was promised some months back, supplies of butter from Australasian sources are far from being sufficient. Since Canadian butter began to get scarce supplies from the colonies have grown smaller and smaller, and whereas stocks received during July, August and September were 26,179 cwts., 20,650 cwts. and 26,581 cwts. respectively greater than in 1904, figures for October and November show a falling off in receipts of butter from the colonies of 15,765 cwts. and 3,754 cwts.

On the butter position generally here, one of the daily papers reports as follows: "The Russian revolution, drought in the Netherlands and a larger demand than ever before from the German market have considerably lessened the imports this year into England of Siberian, Dutch and Danish butter. The Irish and Canadian butter seasons are over, and Australia and New Zealand have not sent us their usual quantities of the commodity during the last twelve months.

"That the scarcity of butter is being felt by the community at large is evidenced by the number of letters and telephone messages received daily by wholesale cold storage merchants, imploring delivery of fresh supplies to the retail trade."

With regard to the cheese market, there is not very much to report. During both November and December supplies have been something like 10,000 cwts. less than for 1904, and prices have been very much higher. At present prices are firm at 63 to 64 shillings for white and 65 shillings for colored. Up to Christmas Day stocks of cheese held in warehouse here in London were steadily growing smaller, but during the past four days a further 16,203 boxes have arrived, and total holdings in London are about 150,000 boxes, as near as can be discovered.

ANNUAL MEETING M.P.M.A.

The annual meeting of the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association was held on Monday, January 8.

Mr. H. A. Hodgson was unanimously chosen to represent the association on the council of the board of trade.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

MONTREAL.

Provisions.

The provision market during the holidays was extremely quiet and is still dull. Prices are unchanged. Receipts of live hogs are light, so light that buyers forced prices up in competition, 7c being paid off cars. Fresh abattoir killed dressed hogs are firm at $9.25 to $9.50, while country dressed show an advance of 25c per 100 lbs. and bring $8.75 to $9.

Poultry is recovering from slump due to mild weather between the two holidays. Stocks are plentiful with prices firm. Turkeys bring 13½c to 14c per lb., geese 10c to 11c, ducks 11c to 12c. Chickens are in good supply and easy at 9c to 9½c and fowls 7c to 8c.

So-called strictly fresh have been coming in more freely in the past few days, but the extremely cold weather which has set in will stop supplies. 28c to 32c is about the ruling price, and absolutely, strictly guaranteed fresh new-laid, of which there are a few, are held at 38c to 40c.

TORONTO.

Local conditions denote continued slowness in demand, in consequence of the heavy stocks still on hand from the holiday. Dressed meats continue firm at previous quotations. ST. JOHN, N.B.

Provisions.

In barrel pork while market is firm there is little business. Quite high figures are quoted. Beef, which is not high and is rather easier, finds no better sale. Pure lard is still high, with little except American seen. There is, however, some small offering now of Ontario stock. Refined lard still low and selling well. Smoked meats still high. In fresh meats, a dull market reported. Fresh beef, western stock, is low, and domestic very cheap. Lamb holds at a good price and pork is quite high. Mutton dull. Veal little seen.

Flour, Feed and Meal.

In Manitoba flour price is again quoted lower. There is now just a fair difference between this grade and Ontarios—fifty cents. Market is considered fairly firm. While there is little change in oats, oatmeal is again lower and market easy. Sales dull. Cornmeal is rather lower. Beans quiet. Market firm. In seeds the outlook is for high prices, particularly clover.

Fish.

Frozen fish are having quite a free sale. Prices are reasonable, particularly as compared with the very high prices of dried and pickled fish. Cod, haddock and pollock are sold. Herring are scarce. In dry cod the full prices still rule, though business is rather dull. Pickled herring scarce and very high. Smoked herring also sell at full figures. Haddies unchanged.

WINNIPEG.

Dairy Butter.

Supplies are running somewhat more freely, but there is not much improvement so far as quality is concerned. For the first-class article there is a strong and steady demand at top prices, but for the inferior butter values are uncertain. Best dairy butter, delivered in Winnipeg, is quoted at about 20 cents per pound.

GUELPH POULTRY ASSOCIATION

The Guelph Poultry Association met on the 4th inst. and wound up business for the year preparatory to the annual meeting on Thursday, Jan 11. The past year's work was reviewed briefly and regarded as the most satisfactory in the history of the association. The success at the Winter Fair was particularly noted. A number of the members are now exhibiting at some of the smaller shows throughout Western Ontario. F. W. Krouse has birds at Meaford, and will go to Owen Sound. W. J. Teale will also exhibit at the latter place.

CHEESE AND BUTTER EXPORT.

The average increase in price of both cheese and butter this year is stated to have been about 2 cents per pound. The total estimated value of cheese exports from Montreal for the season is $18,029,358; and of butter $7,397,492. This is a remarkable record, and illustrates the value of the dairy industry to Canada. There is estimated to be still in stock in Canada about 450,000 boxes, which would make the total value of the cheese produced about $22,000,000.

The following table shows the exports of cheese from Montreal for a period of ten years:

	Quantity boxes.	Price per box.	Value.
1905.....	2,120,101	$8.50	$18,029,358

1896.....	1,726,236	6.75	11,605,000

The following shows the exports of butter, with the estimated value, from Montreal for a period of ten years:

	Quantity pkgs.	Price per pkg.	Value.
1905.....	573,449	$12.90	$7,397,492

*Revised. Calculated on a basis of 70-pound packages.

On the whole, the outlook for the Canadian export butter trade has never been brighter than it is at present. Not only is the demand for the Canadian product expanding in the markets of the Mother Country, but it is also finding markets in the Orient and Japan, the shipments to Japan having increased very considerably during the past few years, while indications point to a still greater demand from that quarter, as the Japanese masses are beginning to use butter more freely and the consumption in the near future should be greater, thus affording another outlet for the Canadian dairies. South Africa, too, promises to be a profitable customer at no very distant date. But it is on the United Kingdom that Canada continues to rely for her great market.

POULTRY SHOW FOR ST. THOMAS.

A poultry show was decided upon by the local association and will be held on the 25th, 26th and 27th of the present month.

William McNeil, of London, poultry breeder, will place the awards.

The intention of the promoters is to make the classification for poultry, pigeons and pets, as liberal as possible. An energetic secretary will be appointed to solicit specials and receive donations. Several assurances have been received that if the exhibition were held, subscriptions of a generous amount would follow.

JAPAN'S RICE CROP.

A recent issue of the Japan Chronicle, forwarded by Consul-General Miller, of Yokohama, contains an interesting article on the rice crop of Japan, its insufficiency to meet domestic needs, and the extent to which Japan is dependent upon foreign countries for food supplies. It is pointed out that Japan is rapidly becoming a manufacturing nation, and that this fact, taken in connection with the steady increase in population (400,000 per annum), that foreign countries must be looked to for supplying deficiencies in food supplies, leads to the suggestion that Japan has reason for not imposing duties on importations of breadstuffs.

The last estimate of this year's rice crop, taken by the Department of Agriculture and Commerce on October 24, shows a diminution of 25.7 per cent. compared with last year and of 13.9 per cent. as against a normal year. During the last ten years the annual outturn of the rice crop was as follows:

	*Koku.
1895	39,960,798
1896	36,240,351
1897	33,039,293
1898	47,387,666
1899	39,698,258
1900	41,466,432
1901	46,914,434
1902	36,392,266
1903	46,473,298
1904	51,430,221
1905	38,234,265

*One koku equals 4.96 bushels.

As will be seen from these figures, the yield of rice is subject to much fluctuation according to the conditions of the weather experienced in these years. There can be no doubt that the cultivation of rice is rather an uncertain, not to say risky, industry, for if the elements should conspire against it no amount of labor will avail to prevent the crop from ending in failure. It is not unnatural, therefore, that the Japanese should gradually turn their attention from agriculture to manufacturing industries, which, if fully developed, may enable Japan, like England, to depend upon foreign countries for her food supply. Even now Japan obtains a considerable amount of food from abroad.

Last year's rice crop in Japan was exceptionally good, the yield amounting to 51,430,000 koku. But the supply was evidently inadequate to feed the population, judging from the large amount of food supplies Japan imported from abroad during the same year. The importation of foreign rice in 1904 amounted to close upon 60,000,000 yen in value, not to mention flour to the value of nearly 10,000,000 yen imported during the year. It is true that during the same period Japanese rice to the value of 4,724,000 yen was exported, but the amount is trifling in comparison with the import, and when deducted the balance remaining constitutes the amount which Japan spends in buying rice to fill the inadequacy of the domestic supply.

B. C. FLOUR FOR THE ORIENT.

The C.P.R. steamship Tartar will carry a large shipment of flour consigned to Hongkong from the mills of the Columbia Flouring Company at Enderby, B.C. There will also be a large shipment of flour from Raymond, Alta. Besides this the Tartar will take out a large quantity of Canadian butter, put up at Calgary.

Windsor Salt

must not be confounded with ordinary Salt. In quality, it is as high above the common Salt of trade as can be imagined. It won't cake—it is pure, white, dry. There is no impurity in it because of the care taken in manufacturing. It is sifted, not ground. Every particle of it is a separate Salt Crystal. It pays to sell Windsor Table Salt, because it is so good, clean, pure—

it is all Salt.

THE PACKERS' AND FARMERS' DISPUTE.

In another part of this issue will be found correspondence which has been passing on the important question of the removal of the bonding privileges. Both sides have been making their issues as strong as possible, and, after all is said, it appears clear to any who have followed the subject closely that the real issue at stake is the "flat rate of buying," and associated with it the accusation of a packers' combine. We know that there are two reasons given other than this one, but if what transpired at Guelph, and what has passed in the correspondence since, is carefully gone over, it will be seen that the great objection which rules the situation is the "flat rate." The Hon. John Dryden makes his greatest point on this line, and solemnly lays the whole responsibility at the packers' feet. We believe he is thoroughly honest in his motive and belief when he does this. If a man wears green glasses, the objects within that man's vision will appear green, undoubtedly, but this will not make the objects themselves green, nor make others believe them so. He is, however, overlooking the packers' side of the buying question in his great anxiety to serve the farming community.

No doubt the farmer has his troubles, and some are intelligent and wise enough to understand and agree that one hog will be worth more than another, and would readily fall in with the packers' grading ; but the average farmer cannot understand why certain hogs, which have cost him just as much as others, and received equal care, should bring him a less amount. Therein lies the difficulty, and it is to meet such men, who are by far the majority, that the flat rate has come to pass. Hence the whole question revolves upon the education of the farmer, so that his hog production will be brought to a standard which would bring them all on an equal grading. Careful selection of strains for breeding, good housing, scientific feeding, regular and constant attention, will accomplish everything. The only way for the farmer to maintain supremacy in his market is exactly the same as the manufacturer holds his market, viz., quality. Until that time it is only right and proper that the packer be placed on an equal footing with other manufacturers.

It is a fundamental principle of the tariff policy to admit raw material free, and under our quarantine laws there should be no more risk in bringing in western hogs for immediate killing than any other material. To the objection that some of the hogs thus imported might mingle with Canadian herds, the answer is that the thing is impossible, since every factory is quarantined, and the packer is debarred from selling again an animal on foot under a heavy fine. There would be only the risk of infection by the animals arriving at the factory in carloads, and such risk is incurred daily by all the railways which transport western hogs through Canada to the eastern markets.

With regard to the question of combine, it is noticeable that all these accusations have been particularly vague and general. The letter of Mr. W. Davies fully answers the question, in which he throws down the gauntlet to the accusers, and gives them the opportunity to unearth their mare's nest.

It is devoutly to be hoped that some modification will be made of the order-in-council of the Dominion Government whereby packers will be enabled to continue their export business. Surely the men who have done so much to advance this industry in Canada, from almost nothing to over twenty millions a year, are entitled to some thought for their interests at the hands of the Government. It is greatly to their credit that they have been able to produce bacon from imported hogs to compete with the great Chicago houses in the same lines in the British market.

TWENTY YEARS OF BUTTER AND CHEESE IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Twenty years have passed away since butter was separately entered in the imports of Great Britain. In 1886 the imports of butter amounted to 77,178 tons, of the value of £8,141,438.

Ten years later, in 1896, the butter imports had risen to 151,886 tons, valued at £15,344,364.

In 1904 the quantity further advanced to 212,050 tons, and the value to £21,117,162.

In 1886 the imports of cheese were 86,745 tons, valued at £3,871,359. By 1896 the quantity had risen to 112,226 tons and the value to £4,900,342, whilst in 1904 the imports reached 127,715 tons and the value £5,843,770.

It will be noticed that the imports of butter from all sources have advanced at a more rapid rate than those of cheese.

Three years ago the butter from foreign countries was six times larger in amount than from the colonial supply. A great change was manifest in the 1904 returns—the foreign supply was only three times in excess of the quantity imported from the British colonies.

The large drought area in Central and Southern Europe in the Fall of 1904 compelled many farmers to reduce their milking cows, consequently throughout last Winter and this Spring much less butter was exported from those countries. Australia and New Zealand sent over unusual quantities of choice butter.

There are various opinions expressed in regard to the ability of the Australian farmers to continue largely increasing the output of butter each year.

The imports of cheese into Britain during the past 6 years remained practically stationary, and as the home production exhibits a similar condition, it is evident that cheese is losing the position it once held as a dietary. Trustworthy evidence shows that it is being displaced by the importation of colonial and foreign meat, which, owing to its cheapness and excellent qual- supplanting cheese.

In 1904 the colonial supply was 96,380 tons, and the foreign supply was 25,718 tons. Canada is the main source of supply, the product of the Canadian cheese factories finding much favor among the consuming multitude in Britain.

The enhanced price of cheese which the Canadian factories have received this season will, it is estimated, put in circulation nearly $4,000,000 extra. in the Dominion.

THE EQUALIZED SUGAR RATES.

Mr. John Curtis, of Port Hope, writes the Canadian Grocer as follows:

"Editor Canadian Grocer.

"I have been a subscriber to the Canadian Grocer for years, and I read with a great deal of interest in your issue of the 15th inst., an article, copied from the Port Hope Guide, entitled 'The Sugar Outrage,' also the letter replying to the same, signed by Mr. H. C. Beckett, of Hamilton, who, I understand, is secretary of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild, and your editorial comments on the subject.

"I thank you for throwing your columns open for this discussion, and now, that the Christmas rush is over, I am pleased to accept the opportunity.

"Town editors do sometimes exhibit some 'rare examples of zeal without knowledge,' therefore, we grocers are all glad that you have directed your gifted mind upon this, and have 'given the matter of equalized rates some study,' and also that you have discussed this matter with 'a number of the trade, by very few of whom are they, (the rates), fully understood.' I deem it your duty, as our trade journal, to enlighten us, and shall be glad to have you publish this letter in your next issue, in full, followed by your explanations, for I assume that you have 'taken the trouble to grasp the facts before grasping your pen.'

"Is the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild a combine? (Webster defines 'guild' a business fraternity or corporation.)'

"Is the Guild or individual firms in it authorized by Dominion or Provincial statute to become common carriers, or to fix rates on all transportation lines? (Please give chapter and section.'

"Are the Guild rates to be added to price of sugar as per equalized rates book, the same as those fixed by railways and boats? viz. Hamilton, 4c.; London, 7c.; Toronto, 3c. and Port Hope, 15c. per 100 lbs., all car lots? Are these the rates issued by G. T. R. and C. P. R.? Or does Port Hope and other towns and villages help pay the freight for the cities?

"Please explain why it is necessary for the combine or guild to adhere to a system which you state is so intricate and hard to understand?

"When did a question as to sugar rates ever come before the Railway Commission? For you state, 'for which they have been able to give the Railway Commission a reason that has been accepted,'—please give date when this took place.

"Is the equalized rates system secret and accessible to members of the Guild only? If it is fair, as claimed, why do you not publish it in full?

"Please explain how, according to the Guild rules, page 8, which reads. 'on carload orders, shipments must, in every case, be made by the refiners;' that on carload orders to Port Hope, it is necessary the rate be 15c. per one hundred pounds, while the car rate to Toronto is 3c., Port Hope being only four-fifths the distance, and freight charges five times the cost for 63 miles less from the refinery. The wholesaler, not only does not handle, but does not even see the sugar shipped to Port Hope.

"I am glad that you state in your columns 'that the Grocer holds no brief for any section of the trade in this matter,' and I trust I have not trespassed too much upon your space."

JOHN CURTIS.

Port Hope, Ont., Dec. 26, 1905.

The Grocer's invitation in our issue of December 15th, was for "a clearly defined statement of any wrong suffered by a retailer under the equalized rate system, and not an academic discussion of the system itself. We have given Mr. Curtis's letter space, however, in order that any element of doubt that may linger in the minds of reasonable men may be dissipated.

It may as well be stated in the beginning, that we do not intend to answer Mr. Curtis's cleverly worded interrogatories, categorically for the same reason that Mr. Curtis would very justly refuse to answer yes or no to the question as to whether or not he had stopped beating his wife. He would desire to explain that he had never begun such a reprehensible practice.

In fact, to arrive at an intelligent appreciation of the equalized rates system of selling sugar, a brief reference must first be made to the conditions which prevailed before its adoption by the trade, and thus justify the present plan, or find out if one more fair and simpler can be devised. The adoption of the equalized rates system of selling sugar, commenced in October, 1898, and was the final outcome of years of disastrous competition, and an effort, on the part of the trade, to, if possible, place the handling of this commodity on a better basis.

Prior to the adoption of the equalized rates system, the sugar business was done by all wholesalers, and a large majority of retailers, at a heavy loss. Repeated efforts had been made for years, to improve the condition of the sugar trade, but nothing of a permanent and wholly satisfactory nature presented itself, until the present system was adopted.

In the preparation of this system, and the rates adopted, several important matters had to be considered. First, the adoption of the system would enable the trade to quote the laid down cost price on the net weight to all retailers, and thus, to a considerable extent, improve the profit of the retailer, as frequently, in calculating the cost laid down, retailers omitted to add the weight of the barrel, overlooking the fact that they had to pay freight on same.

Secondly, the question of foreign competition had to be taken into consideration, and a remedy provided to offset the very low rates of freight on foreign made sugars, that could be secured to all points in Canada on through bills of lading.

And lastly, in the adoption of the equalized rates, the advantage of reducing the difference that ruled between the prices ruling at competing points, or large wholesale centres, and the towns and villages tributary to such competing points, was considered to be gain to the retail trade.

Under the old conditions, a merchant in Port Hope, buying his sugar in Toronto, paid the price ruling at Toronto, and the freight from Toronto to Port Hope, in other words, the rate of freight from Toronto to Port Hope being 16c. in less than carloads, to which must be added the cartage and the weight of the barrel, increased the rate or the amount of freight to 18 1-2c. per hundred pounds, which was the amount paid by the Port Hope buyer, thus making the ruling difference between Toronto and Port Hope in less than car lots, 18 1-2c. per hundred pounds, whereas the ruling difference under the equalized rates system is only 14c.

If the Port Hope merchant bought sugar in Montreal, he paid less for his sugar, but paid a higher rate of freight, the freight, in less than carloads, from Montreal, being 26c. per hundred pounds, therefore, if the buyer purchased in Montreal 8c. cheaper than in Toronto, (8 being the equalized rate for Toronto), it would cost him just as much laid down, paying his own freight from Montreal, and buying 8c. cheaper in Montreal.

But, under the equalized rates system, the equalized rate for Port Hope is 22c., notwithstanding the fact that the freight rate in less than carload lots from Montreal is 26c., to which must be added the cartage and the weight of the barrel. The price ruling at Toronto, therefore, affects all the territory tributary to Toronto, and if the price at Toronto were higher, there would, of necessity, have to be a corresponding advance in the equalized rate for Port Hope, and all territory tributary to Toronto, for the reason that the equalized rate is based on the price ruling at the nearest competing point, plus the ruling rate of freight to point of destination, the sugar all being sold at a laid down price on the net weight.

The equalized rates are not freight rates. The equalized rates might be regarded as reduced freight rates, made necessary to meet the conditions incidental to greater differences in costs laid down than otherwise would rule, and their existence to-day is a positive gain to the retail trade.

Manufacturers of many lines of goods see the justice and advantage of delivering their product to all points at the same price, but the fact of their doing so is no evidence that they are doing an injury to the trade in the town where such goods are manufactured. For instance, Surprise Soap is the same price in St. Croix, where it is made, as it is in Port Hope. Would the St. Croix dealers be justified in expecting the manufacturers to sell them at regular prices and allow the freight from St. Croix to Port Hope?

Large quantities of canned goods are packed in Hamilton, and, so far as our knowledge goes, the canners deliver in Montreal at the same price as they sell at in Hamilton. We have not heard of the Hamilton wholesale merchants insisting upon an allowance equal to the rate from Hamilton to Montreal.

We dare say, that if the margin were sufficient to stand it, sugar might be delivered to all points at the same price, as is done on many lines in the grocery trade, but, we fancy the margin is not sufficient to permit of this.

Webster's definition of a guild as being a business fraternity, would, we think, be understood as an association for mutual benefit, and on similar lines to the Retail Merchants' Association. It would be an unwarranted use of the word combine, to apply it to the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild.

The only common carriers we know of, are steam and electric lines, and the boat companies. The fact of a merchant selling goods at a delivered price, does not, in any sense, constitute him a common carrier, and we fail to see the necessity for any Government authority to sell goods at delivered prices; the railway companies have nothing to do with the equalized rates. All sugar sold, whether f.o.b. or delivered, is subject to payment of the regular railway rates. Any loss in freight by reason of selling sugar at delivered prices, is a matter than concerns the seller, not the buyer.

The shipment of sugar in car lots direct from the refinery, is simply to avoid the payment of two local rates, which would be incurred if the sugar were shipped first to the wholesaler's place of business, and then re-shipped to retail merchants' destination. It would be a senseless waste in paying additional freight charges on all carload shipments.

It is not claimed that the equalized rates system is perfect, but the aim has been, as far as possible and practicable, (having in view the small margin under which the commodity is sold), to equalize the cost to buyers, and thus enable all the trade to be on an equal footing. Conditions of competition over which refiners have no control, necessitate, to some extent, what appears to some to be an inequality in the equalized rates, but this condition is much more pronounced in connection with actual railway rates. So long as all the trade are treated alike as to the margin on sugar, there cannot be just ground for complaint. So far as Port Hope is concerned, it appears to us that their position is better to-day than when buying f.o.b., Toronto or Montreal, and paying freight, and, while the equalized rate at Toronto is lower than at Port Hope, conditions other than the freight rates from Montreal prevail, which justify the lower rate. The fact of Toronto being lower than Port Hope, does not harm the Port Hope trade, particularly since Port Hope gets a lower rate than otherwise as a consequence.

The Grocer did not state that the sugar rates had been before the Railway Commission, and no such construction could reasonably be placed upon our words. The point we wished to make was that the inequalities complained of in the sugar rates, were on all fours with the inequalities which are noticeable in freight rates generally, but which have received the tacit or active confirmation of the Commission. To assume that distance is the only or necessarily predominent factor in the determination of the latter is to treat one of the most complicated and involved questions of the commercial world with unbecoming levity.

While the equalized rates system is difficult to explain in detail, and may be difficult to understand, it is not so, in so far as the sale of sugar under the system is concerned. The wholesale grocers adhere to it, because it is the simplest and fairest method that has yet been suggested. There is no secret about it, but the task of working it out is not only laborious, but confusing to one who has not made a study of it. There are over 20,000 calculations required at the beginning, taking several months to complete. The system is so elaborate, that it would require several editions of the Grocer to explain it in full, and, in the Grocer's opinion, it would be a useless expense.

Mr. Curtis will probably be interested in knowing that the secretary of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild is Mr. J. Stanley Cook, secretary of the Board of Trade, Montreal, and not Mr. H. C. Beckett, of Hamilton.

CHRISTMAS WINDOW DISPLAYS

HURRY UP WITH YOUR DRAWINGS

The competition closes this week. Prizes will be awarded for photos or drawings of window displays of Christmas goods and accompanying descriptions of the same. The prizes will consist of:

FIRST PRIZE - - -	$5.00

and $2 for every picture and description which is considered worthy of publication.

The competition, which closes on January 15th, 1906, will admit of photographs, pen and ink or wash drawings, with good ideas counting more than the pictures, although, of course, all pictures in order to receive a prize, must be of sufficient distinctness and good workmanship to admit of their publication.

Mark all manuscripts and photographs intended for this department with the words "Window Dressing Competition."

Care should be taken to avoid reflection in the photograph. The best photos are often taken at night.

CHANGE IN MAKE-UP.

On February 1st THE GROCER will inaugurate a new system of make-up which has become necessary to the proper development, and which it is expected will improve the appearance, of the paper to the consequent advantage of reader, advertiser and publisher alike.

The change will be a development of the departmental idea that has proved so successful heretofore.

With the first issue of February all advertisements not connected with the special departments will be placed in the front and back of the paper, and thereafter no advertising will be placed between the advertising department in the front and the end of the markets. Nor, indeed, has any new advertising been contracted for in this position during the past two years, although the old advertisements have been continued as before.

This will give straight-away advertising followed by straight-away reading matter to about page 40.

This re-arrangement will necessitate a change in the position of some advertisers who have long had certain positions, but as the result will be to make THE GROCER a still better paper, we trust we shall have the co-operation and forbearance of our advertisers until the new arrangement be given a fair trial and its advantages fully recognized.

Sugar—There is no change in the situation of the sugar market. There has been some considerable buying on part of the jobbing trade during the past few days. This is due, no doubt, to the fact, that on Saturday last, the New York market advanced 10c., and with the strong raw and beet market, both in New York and Europe, the impression prevailed that the turn in sugars had come. Since Saturday, however, New York receded slightly, though the beet and raw market remains firm and strong. This is, as usual, rather a quiet time for sugars, and outside of the little agitation of the past few days, no heavy business is looked forward to for some time. Stocks in the country must of necessity be light, as merchants have been buying for some months past on the hand to mouth basis. We quote:

Syrups and Molasses— Molasses are firm, and holders, who are few, are holding out for an advance of 1-2c. to 1c. per gallon over latest quotations. Jobbers report some better inquiry from country points. Corn syrups are in good demand, and at steady prices. We quote:

Tea—Trade is reported quiet. Ceylon and India greens are in short supply, and held at advance prices. Cable advices from Colombo during the last four days, state that Young Hysons are particularly scarce, and those of fairly good finish, pale liquoring, are worth 7 3-4d, which is an advance of about 1-2d. Indians are also very scarce. There is no change in Ceylon blacks, which are firm. It is reported that one house has lately picked up all the Ceylon Young Hysons, (about 400 packages), procurable on spot. Japans are quiet, and dealers do not look for any improvement for a few weeks yet, when it is expected that the trade will have to buy, as old stocks are practically closed out. There is very little enquiry for China Greens. We quote:

Foreign Dried Fruits—In dried fruits there is nothing new to report this week. The local market is dull, and as is usual after the holiday trade, during which fruits of all kinds obtained good sale, business has slackened off. Shelled walnuts are unchanged locally, but latest advices report an advance of 15fr. to 25fr. on small halves. Shelled almonds are unchanged from last report. Dates are receiving some attention, and stocks are fairly plentiful. California prunes have received some attention at the hands of the trade. We quote:

Rice and Tapioca—Business in rice is only normal. The advance noted last week on B. & C. rices does not appear to have stimulated buying to any appreciable extent. Tapioca continues decidedly strong, with no indications of weakening. Both London and New York report extreme firmness. We quote:

B rice, in 10 bag lots	3 05
B rice, less than 10 bags	3 15
C rice, in 10 bag lots	2 95
C rice, in less than 10 bag lots	3 05
Tapioca, medium pearl	0 05½ — 0 06

Spices—The market is dull, little business is doing by the grinders, and prospects for an early improvement are not glowing. Firmness appears characteristic of all lines, except nutmegs, in both the London and New York markets. We quote:

	Per lb.
Peppers, black	0 16 — 0 22
" white	0 25 — 0 30
Ginger	0 12 — 0 20
Cloves, whole	0 17 — 0 32
Cream of tartar	0 25 — 0 30
Allspice	0 12 — 0 15
Nutmegs	0 25 — 0 50

Beans—The market is unchanged. Stocks are fairly plentiful, and sufficient for requirements. Prices are unchanged, and market generally may be said to be dull. We quote:

Choice prime beans	1 70 — 1 75
Lower grades	1 60 — 1 65

Evaporated Apples—Prices of evaporate apples remain firm, with stocks light. The report that evaporators in the west are holding out for a further advance has not stimulated buying. The trade feel, and justly so, that when prices reach a figure which the consumer deems exorbitant, the consumption will drop off, and rather than buy apples, they will turn to imported dried fruits. Ruling quotations are 9 1-2 to 10 1-4, according to quality.

Maple Products—These lines are decidedly on the dull side since the holidays, the demand having fallen off noticeably. Some of the larger dealers anticipate a revival of the trade during the next few weeks. Prices are unchanged. We quote:

Maple syrup, in wood, per lb	0 05½ — 0 06
" in large tins	0 06½ — 0 07
Pure Townships sugar, per lb	0 07 — 0 07½
Pure Beauce County, per lb	0 08½ — 0 09

Honey—There is a fair demand, with prices firm and unchanged. Dealers at Bonsecour market report about usual business, with a preferred demand for white clover. We quote:

White clover, extracted tins	0 08 — 0 09
" kegs	0 07½ — 0 08
" comb, new	0 13 — 0 14
Buckwheat	0 07 — 0 07½

GROCERIES.

Toronto, Jan. 12, 1905.

Trade has been generally slow and uninteresting during week under review. No feature of particular interest has transpired; a few lines have developed strength, and some lines of canned goods denote depleted stocks.

Most firms have been busy stock-taking since the holiday, and a time of protracted dullness was expected.

Canned Goods—Trade has been slow and uninteresting during week under review. There are indications that canners' stocks are getting low, but no movement in prices is expected. We quote:

most dealers to reduce stock as far as possible during stock-taking.

Advices from London, England, denote a much stronger market for lower and medium grades, which are reported as showing better liquoring qualities than earlier arrivals. This is so especially in Ceylons.

The Indian crop has nearly all been marketed, and will be closed till about end of May.

The quality of the leaf usually shows considerable decline as the season advances; this season, however, the reverse has been the case. The importation has been small, and buyers must fall back upon the English or other markets for any supplies which may be required. The probable result being much higher prices.

Some interesting remarks appear in Gow, Wilson & Stanton's report for the closing year, which are as follows:

"The world's tea production has been slightly less than last year, the shortage from China, Japan, and in a less degree from India, not having been fully counterbalanced by the increase from Ceylon and Java. This is a fortunate circumstance in view of the recently over-stocked condition of the North American market and the general paralysis of trade in Russia. Notwithstanding this, the home market has received hardly as much tea as in 1904, the shortage from China being so marked—in spite of an attempt in some quarters to revive the demand for this growth—while the expansion in foreign and colonial markets for British grown tea to the end of September—the latest available date—has been sufficient to overtake the record figure of 1904.

"It is in this field that the main hope of prosperity for tea producers lies, and with all that has been and is being done through the cess funds of India and Ceylon to promote its expansion, there is every reason to expect that increasing success will result, while the Anti-Tea Duty League should prove a useful auxiliary in its efforts to deal with high duties in foreign countries."

Foreign Dried Fruits—Trade on the domestic market has been naturally slow and uninteresting since the holiday. Reports from primal markets denote considerable development of strength. Shelled walnuts are showing strong advance on prices quoted at opening of season, a feature which is usually reversed. Dates have sold freely and are now scarce. Markets abroad are high. Currants at primal points are strong, without quotable changes. Raisins are also firm, quotations for spot deliveries are irregular, the irregularity being accounted for by irregular quality.

N. B. Markets.

Notes of Interest.

Business continues very quiet. There was considerable interest taken in the visit of the Tariff Commission the first of the week. Nearly every business, and particularly the manufacturers, had some complaint or suggestion to make. If all were acted upon the tariff would indeed be fearfully and wonderfully made.

When it comes right home, nearly every one is a protectionist. Perhaps the matter of most general interest urged on the commission was the limiting of the British preference to goods imported through Canadian ports. This was urged by both the Board of Trade and the Manufacturers' Association.

Conditions.

Dull business means in many lines rather easier values. Cream of tartar is quoted lower. Nutmegs continue very cheap. Rice is held firm and new crop for rather later shipment is quoted higher than last year.

Oil.

In burning oil there is still large consumptive demand. Prices continue low. Lubricating oils now have attention; it is value rather than price in this line which counts. In paint oils—linseeds—in original markets, have shown quite a rapid advance, and the outlook is for prices well above last year. Turpentine continues very high. Cod oil is firmer and there continues considerable inquiry.

Salt.

There is nothing new; this is the quiet season. As carrying charges form a large item in such cheap and heavy goods, importers carry as light stocks of Liverpool coarse salt as possible, prefering to take chances of getting stock at time of demand. In fine salt, little or no business.

Canned Goods.

Since the abandoning of the local agreement on prices, in the late Fall, in order to meet lower prices, which it was claimed were being quoted by dealers buying outside of the Canadian Canners' Association, there has been an open market, but while extreme low prices were quoted for a time, stocks are now held firmer; that is, vegetables. The outlook is for low prices in meats; Spring stocks have been largely bought. Fruits unchanged. Salmon held firm. Oysters tend higher. Lobsters continue high; there are fair stocks. In domestic fish, sardines quite freely offered. Haddies and kippers light supply. Clams unchanged.

Green Fruit.

Apples are dull; for best stock Canadian Spies are sold; they bring full price. Cheap Nova Scotia apples plentiful. In oranges, Californias and Floridas rather lower. Valencias now sell quite freely; some very nice Jamaicas offered; price unchanged. Lemons are rather lower; there is just a fair sale. Few bananas are seen. There are no cranberries. Malaga grapes rather quiet.

Dried Fruit.

The trade is disgusted with the California raisin situation; it is, however, the same every year—always something not business like. Now, after the season is over, there is a big drop in price of seeded. It it were only possible to get a good foreign seeded, California would have a poor show. While some of all kinds of raisins held, stocks not large. In loose muscatels, malagas supply the market; these were bought low. Prunes a light stock; higher prices expected. Apricots and peaches firm. Dates to import are higher; fair stocks are held. Figs and peels out of season. Evaporated apples not a large stock; prices higher, but goods could not be replaced even at present figures; demand not large. Dried apples sell quite freely. Onions are rather higher.

Sugar.

Prices are unchanged; there is no large stock; sales are somewhat light; low prices on Scotch granulated have been quoted.

Molasses.

Situation unchanged; there is a full stock of Porto Rico and prices are quite low. Barbadoes are rather a light stock, and prices are somewhat firmer.

N. S. Markets.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 19, 1905.

The grocery market is very quiet at present, though the retail trade is considered to be keeping up to the average.

The demand for dried fruits is now falling off, but other lines are finding good sale.

Canned goods are selling freely, and the market is steady.

No change is looked for in sugar prices at present.

Collections are fairly good, and the splendid condition of the roads in most parts of the province has a tendency to help business along.

Produce.

The produce markets are now very steady, with the prices holding firm. According to jobbers here, the butter market in the upper provinces is a little easier in tone, the demand there having fallen off to some extent, owing to the mild weather. They say that this is only temporary, however.

Creamery prints here are quoted at 26c. to 27c., solids 25c. to 26c., and dairy 24c. to 25c. The weather throughout the province is exceptionally mild for the season of the year, in fact, it is almost unprecedented. In some places it was so mild during the latter part of the week that the stock was turned out of the barns into the fields. The giving of the animals this fresh air, it is said, will greatly increase the milk supply.

Poultry have also been freed from the pens for a few hours each day, and this also will assist them in laying. The egg market is very firm, with stocks becoming somewhat light. Case eggs (for cooking purposes only) are retailing at 38c. per dozen. Limed eggs are quoted at 24c. Guaranteed fresh laid eggs are 40c. per dozen. The supply of these is very limited.

The stocks of cheese in these parts are very light, with prices exceedingly firm, and no immediate change is looked for.

Potatoes are a little firmer, and prices have advanced, being now quoted at 32c. per bushel at the wharves. Dealers are selling them (delivered) at 35c. per bushel.

Poultry and Pork.

The rush for poultry is about over for the season, and some of the jobbers here were hard hit. Long before the holiday season opened, jobbers began heading poultry, and this early demand led the farmers to believe that there was a scarcity of stock. They quoted high prices and declined to sell until they received their figure. The news spread from one part of the province to the other that there was a poultry famine, and up went the prices all round. Jobbers were forced to pay 20c. per pound for dressed Nova Scotia and P. E. Is'and birds, and 20c. per pound and the freight for New Brunswick stock. Besides the tons of poultry brought in from all sections of the provinces, four carloads were imported from Ontario points.

The native birds find more ready sale than the Ontario stock, being of better flavor, cleaner, and they are also drawn. Geese sold from $1.25 to $1.50, ducks about the same per pair, and chickens were 15c. per pound. The soft weather at Christmas and New Years caused a slump in prices, some dealers being obliged to dispose of their stocks at 18c. per pound for turkeys, 2c. per pound less than they cost them. Twenty-three cents was the highest price the dealers quoted for the very choicest birds, but even those who held such first-class stock would not refuse 20c. at the last moment for their birds, most of them being glad to get clear of them at that figure..

Pork is scarce at 8 1-2c. to 9 1-2c. per pound. The supply is not equal to the demand. Small hogs are being greatly sought for, but none seem to be had.

Sugar Imports.

The total imports of sugar to Halifax for 1905 were 46,117 tons, a slight decrease over the imports of the previous year. The imports of 1904 were 48,873 tons, but of this amount 2,543 tons were imported from Peru, the balance being from the British West Indies. No sugar was imported from Germany during 1905. A notable feature is that every pound of sugar that came to Halifax was from the British West Indies and British Guiana. The sugar business, generally, was good during the year, though the trade was hampered to some extent by the tie-up on the railways. It improved later and closed most satisfactory, though the price was about 1c. per pound lower than that of 1904.

Imports of Molasses.

The imports of molasses into Halifax for the year just closed, show an increase over any previous year. This has been brought about largely by the new markets. Halifax is fast becoming the distributing point for the Dominion.

B. C. News.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 4, 1906.

In trade circles there is a general report of quiet business succeeding the very satisfactory holiday trade. In many lines there is a marked stiffening of prices, though in some the local quotations could very well be advanced when compared with the present basis in eastern supply markets.

Groceries.

Dried fruit prices are going up steadily of recent days. The better kinds, that is peaches and apricots, are fully 2 cents higher than opening prices on the new stock last Fall. The quotation is now to the trade 11½c.

Prunes are fully 1c higher all round. The prices range at present from 5c to 8c.

Evaporated apples are quoted at 11½c, and even that price is not as high as eastern quotations would warrant.

In canned goods, stocks have been a little slow coming forward, due no doubt to delayed shipment, not because of any shortage. Nevertheless it is predicted that the supply of tomatoes, beans and strawberries will be short before the season is over. In other fruits California is always available as a source of supply, and canned corn is plentiful, so that the three lines mentioned are likely to be the only ones in which any demand will be felt. Tomatoes cannot be brought in from California or from the Eastern States at present basis of eastern prices. A line of tomatoes in 2-lb. tins selling here at 85c is a new arrival on the market.

By steamship Ping Suey, recently arrived, large stocks of sago and tapioca arrived from the orient, relieving a shortage on this market. The price ranges for these lines from 4½c to 4¾c per lb. Other arrivals by the Ping Suey were Lipton's pickles from Liverpool direct, and also imported French sardines.

Vegetables.

The fresh tomato supply of this market, which has perhaps the widest range of any city in the world, received an accession per steamship Miowera from Australia a few days ago. Unfortunately the stock was shipped too green and being kept in cold storage did not ripen up en route. The consignment will have to be sold to make chow-chow or green pickles of some kind.

A lot of green Bell peppers arrived in splendid shape. They sell at 75c per crate.

Good potatoes are very scarce this season. Even the Ashcrofts are not prime and are not keeping well. Some small supplies of the Yakima Valley potatoes have been imported from Washington and sell at $30 per ton. The Ashcrofts bring $28, if of good quality. Local potatoes are from $12 to $18 per ton according to quality.

California fresh celery, cauliflower, green cucumbers, string beans and green peas are in the market. Celery is $1 per dozen and cauliflower $1.50.

Produce.

All the coast creameries have put up the wholesale price to 35c per lb. this week. The quantity being made is approaching the minimum weekly. Not nearly enough for demand is received. Of eastern and northwest creamery stock the supply is fair with price ranging up to 29 cents, and likely to be more. Even then it does not quite reach a parity with present quotations in eastern butter markets.

Cheese is plentiful, but the price is well up in sympathy with the east. Quotations are 15c and 16c. Local fresh eggs are fairly plentiful now and bringing 35c to 40c per dozen. Eastern fresh case goods are really off the market and pickled eggs are being sold in considerable quantities. The price is 25c.

Next month New Zealand creamery butter will arrive per Australian steamer Moana. Every season several shipments are brought in, but the quantity is never great as the price is necessarily high. It is always prime fresh stock, and compares with the local fresh in the class of trade it commands.

The poultry market is extremely quiet now that New Year's is past. The dealers could scarcely have made any money seeing that the retail prices paid were as low if not lower than the first quotations from jobbers to the retail trade. The same price-cutting occurred last season, and still there does not seem to be any tendency to correct this ratlier unbusiness-like method of handling a very important annual trade. The quantities imported from Eastern Canada indicate the possibilities of legitimate trade, if handled properly.

NEW OFFICERS APPOINTED.

At the annual meeting of the grocers' section of the board of trade for the appointment of officers for the ensuing year, the following officers were elected: President, Thomas Kinnear; vice-president, William Ince; secretary-treasurer, Agnes C. Gray.

WHOLESALE GROCERS AT HOCKEY

In the second game of the Wholesale Grocery League, between T. Kinnear & Co., and James Lumbers, the former team won by a score of 6 to 2. Neither team had any practice this season, and, considering this, the game was fast and exciting. The Kinnear team had the advantage of a little combination, and this no doubt won for them. The Lumbers team will improve a great deal as the season advances, and will certainly be heard from later. The teams were:

T. Kinnear & Co.—Goal, Holden; point, H. Rennie; c. point, Humphrey; forwards, Kinnear, McGregor, Graham, and C. Rennie.

James Lumbers—Goal, "Wes." Lumbers; point, Brethour; c. point, Stinson; forwards, Morton, Taylor, Corodus and Oliver.

Referee—B. R. Brown.

QUALITY—The keynote throughout

THE ROBERT GREIG CO., Limited
White Swan Mills, TORONTO.

AN ANNUAL BANQUET.

A gay and jovial party were assembled in McConkey's banqueting room on Friday, December 29 last, composed of the sales staff of John Sloan & Co., Toronto and Belleville. The party had assembled, as is their annual custom, for friendly intercourse and encouragement.

The chair was ably filled by Mr. C. Parsons, one of the oldest members of the staff, who conducted the proceedings in a masterly and happy manner. In proposing the health of the firm, he commented upon the excellent year's business that had fallen to their lot, and spoke in encouraging terms of the prospects for the opening season. He believed they had never stood on better terms with their many clients, many of whom constantly held their orders over for the firm's travelers, so satisfied were they with the manner John Sloan & Co. conducted their business.

The toast was suitably and happily responded to by Mr. Frank Sloan on behalf of the firm.

The company broke up after a genuinely good time, in which many interesting and instructive incidents occurred.

There were present Messrs. Frank Sloan, C. Parsons, J. Hayden, J. B. Mayled, J. H. Burton, J. R. Smith, W. M. Cole, A. Armstrong, W. H. Maxwell, P. H. Brown, H. Brett, G. Sanderson, F. Tait, F. Ormerod.

VISITOR FROM BOSTON.

The Grocer had the pleasure this week of an interview with Mr. Arthur H. Bailey, of Boston, Massachusetts. Mr. Bailey has the distinction of being the inventor and patentee of an article of diet of such merit that his goods have received the endorsation of the United States Government in the way of orders for his products, namely, Bailey's Extract of Clams. This article is supplied to the navy and army hospitals, homes of physicians, and connoisseurs.

Mr. Bailey is introducing the goods to the Canadian market, and has for some months past operated through his Montreal agents, Messrs. Jason S. Creed & Co., and will shortly introduce them to the trade of Toronto and the west.

SUGAR BEET INDUSTRY.

England has at last taken kindly to the sugar beet, which at Burton-on-Trent has delighted the grower by exhibiting over 16 per cent. of sugar, o 2 per cent. more than the coontinental beet contains. For a long time the soil of England has been pronounced favorable for beet culture, but this is the first experiment to prove it.

In Nebraska one of the largest sugar factories in the United States closed lately because the farmers would not raise enough beets to keep it running.

In Michigan the sugar beet has been found the most profitable crop, and the acreage is increasing. One sugar company gives free seed and free freight, and pays a flat rate of $5.00 per ton.

As beet culture involves a great deal of hard labor, and farmers do not take kindly to it, experiments are now going forward for the development of a single germ seed, which will reduce the process of thinning. The labor question is a severe handicap to beet raising in Kent county, and any new seed that will save time and exertion will be a welcome relief.

NEW MONTREAL TEA FIRM.

Bartley & Reid, 218 Coristine Building, Montreal, have registered as tea merchants, importers and jobbers. The members of the new firm are W. J. Bartley and John G. Reid, and both gentlemen are tea experts of many years standing and training, having been connected for over twenty years with John Duncan & Co., Montreal. Mr. Bartley is well acquainted with the trade west of Kingston, the Eastern Townships and Quebec, having covered these districts for years, while Mr. Reid needs no introduction to merchants in the Ottawa Valley and Eastern Ontario districts. Their many friends in the trade wish them every success in their venture.

TEA MERCHANT MARRIED.

Mr. T. Kusanobu, of the Japan Central Tea Traders' Association, Montreal, took a step on December 27 last which binds him more closely to Canada than any naturalization papers could possibly do. On that day he was joined in wedlock to Miss Mary Murray, of Deer Park, Toronto, by Rev. Dr. D. McTavish. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, and was witnessed by many of the bride and groom's friends. Among the latter was Mr. Shaw T. Nishimura, of the Japan Central Tea Traders' Association. Mr. and Mrs. Kusanobu, after a bridal tour to New York and the Eastern States, took up their residence in Montreal. The Grocer joins the many friends of the young couple in wishing them a pleasant journey through life.

He: Miss de Jones—Clara—I never loved anyone but you. Will you be my wife? She: But I've been told that you proposed to four other girls within a month. He: True, darling; but I did it merely for practice, so that I wouldn't blunder in proposing to you.

Manitoba Markets

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 11th, 1906.)

It has been an exceptionally quiet and uneventful week in local wholesale circles. Business is still of the after holiday nature, and while a steady undertone prevails, and prices hold firm with but few, if any, changes, there is nothing of interest to report and the week has presented no new features.

Canned Goods—The market holds firm at last week's price range, and a steady demand is reported. We quote:

HERRING SEASON CLOSED.

The St. Johns, Nfld., west coast herring fishing season has virtually ended. The American vessels are badly handicapped through their inability to have their fish frozen ashore, this privilege being denied them by the treaty, and will therefore be unable to ship full cargoes. A number of the vessels are leaving daily, partly laden, and all will be gone by the first of next week, fearing to remain longer on account of the ice, which is fast forming.

Right Quality

Would you like us to state why we claim that Orange Meat stands for Right Quality?

Here are the reasons:

First

The large quantity of high-grade Canadian wheat that we have.

Second

The exclusiveness of our manufacturing process.

Third

The absolute cleanliness of our plant.

Fourth

The praiseworthy opinions of men eminently qualified to adjudge cereal values.

Four good and true reasons.

Many grocers, when renewing their orders for have a kind word to say about the Quality. We don't ask for these encomiums, still they come—perhaps from Grocers right in your town.

When one grocer in a town doesn't sell Orange Meat and another sings its praise and orders regularly, isn't it time that the first man looked into the question?

GENERAL CONDITIONS.

The past week has been one of inactivity and depression. There is an increased pressure to sell Winter wheat by country dealers, on account of short storage capacity, which must result in lower prices, if persisted in. As millers have practically ceased buying for the present, prices will of necessity be gauged by export values, which at the present time may be characterized as uncertain.

There has been a decline in actual export trade during week under review. A good deal of movement on account of standing orders is reported, but no new business of importance has been done. Offers from the British market show a disparity of some 30 cents on prices asked, but with the reduced freight rates, dealers are getting nearer together, and the outlook is more interesting.

It is estimated by dealers that the Ontario wheat crop will be considerably below expectations, so that the present low values of Ontario are not expected to continue. Manitoba wheat cannot possibly fill the same bill as Ontario wheat. Demand, therefore, for soft flours will probably be more difficult to fill at a not very distant date, with the natural result of high values.

The heavy sales of Manitoba wheat for export during the past month, combined with the shortage in elevator space during October and November, on account of the shortage in the supply of cars to ship out the wheat already sold, has resulted in the supply of wheat in store this side of the lakes, held for millers' use during the Winter months, being much lighter than usual.

Little or no trade has been sent west from the eastern provinces since our last report. Eastern orders have been slow for some time.

PUFFED RICE IN CANADA.

Once more the American Cereal Co. are extending their mammoth works here. This time they are making an entirely new thing, which will serve two purposes—a cereal and a confection. The new cereal is called puffed rice. It is ordinary rice put through a patent process, which causes the grains of rice to swell to the size of a 5-grain capsule, and also turns it a delicate brown. Puffed rice is very wholesome, pleasant to the taste, and has no injurious ingredients. As a confection it will take the place of popcorn. It has this advantage over popcorn—it has no hull and is very easily digested.

Puffed rice is also a new thing in the United States, comparatively speaking. It was first put on the market by the American Cereal Co., Chicago, and patented by them. It has proved to be a great seller. Thousands of barrels are being sold as fast as the manufacturers can turn it out. In fact, puffed rice has become so popular and such a great demand has been created that the American factory is already 25,000 barrels behind its orders.

So far this new confection has been only offered on the American markets, but for some time the company has been considering the installation of a plant in the Peterborough mills to manufacture puffed rice for the Canadian trade.

While the capacity of the puffed rice mill will be 300 barrels per day it will not be necessary to increase the staff very materially. The machinery will be automatic and every labor-saving device known to the mechanical world has been included in the construction of the new machines. But there will be a big increase in the general business of the mill. This is only one of the many cereals which the American Cereal Co. will be likely to manufacture in their mills in Canada.

A FINE GRIST MILL.

Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture T. A. Peters has returned from Port Elgin, where he inspected a very fine grist mill lately erected there by J. & C. Hickman. The mill is a three-storey structure with a high basement and was built at a cost of about $10,000, having a capacity of 80 barrels per day. It is run by steam power.

The mill started running in December last and has been running full blast since then, being compelled to run very often until 10 p.m. to keep up with the work.

An application has been made for the regular Government subsidy for the mill and a subsidy of $1,000 will be granted the proprietors.

This new mill is the largest in the province with the exception of Sherwood's mill at Centreville, Carleton county, which has a capacity of 100 barrels per day.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Flour.

The local flour trade is extremely quiet and some little shading has been done, originating with the larger Manitoba millers, who made a drop of 20c. in the price of Spring patents and strong bakers. This drop has been in a measure met by Western Ontario millers. It is reported that these latter are doing but light business at present. Export inquiry has been light. We quote:

Rolled Oats.

The feature in rolled oats was the weakness in the market generally, and a decline towards the end of last week of 12 1-2c. per bag, made by the association. The lower prices are due no doubt to the keen competition at present pre-

Feed.

The market for feed of all kinds continues decidedly firm. There is a scarcity of Ontario bran, due, it is claimed, to millers working on short time. We quote:

Ontario shorts	20 00	21 00

Hay.

Business in hay is dull, with ample stocks to fill immediate requirements. There is very little being done in an export way, although the English market is reported firm. There is a lot of No. 2 being offered, but the demand for same is limited, as there is sufficient No. 1 to fill all orders.

TORONTO MARKETS.

Flour.

Business has been uninteresting and without distinctive feature since our last report, and orders have been mainly of a sorting up character. Export trade has shown slow demand and few orders have been in evidence. Prospects for export are considered good. The recent drop in freight rates will be an important factor in encouraging trade. Prices show tendency to decline towards a nearer parity to foreign offers. Domestic prices show decline of 15 cents on Manitoba flours. We quote:

Manitoba wheat patents, per bbl. in bags	4 30	4 70
Strong bakers " "	4 10	4 50
Ontario wheat patents " "	3 75	4 00

Grain.

Trade has been of a very holiday nature, and little feature of interest has been manifest. It is considered that the Ontario wheat crop is considerably below expectations; if this really proves the case a stronger position must develop, as Ontario flours cannot be replaced by Manitoba. Other grains have shown fluctuations since our last report, prices are therefore revised accordingly. We quote:

Breakfast Cereals.

The delivery of grain for breakfast cereals is reported as fairly good at most points throughout the province. Trade, however, is disappointing even at this season, which is always considered a falling one. Prices are unchanged at the decline reported in our last. We quote:

GREEN FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

FEATURES OF INTEREST.

In fruit centres, reports generally denote continued interest, the enormous holiday trade would appear to have been only a feature revealing a strong general demand.

Oranges, which were perhaps the main feature, were left with greatly depleted stocks after holiday sales. Since then car loads have been constantly arriving, and all good fruit easily disposed of. This is especially so in Ontario. Some dealers who, in their anxiety to push trade, allowed unripe fruit to go to their customers, are complaining, but this has increased the sales of the more careful dealers, whose goods were matured.

The lemon situation is interesting; the late season closed on an extraordinarily strong market. Prices had reached well-nigh record figures, and stocks were almost impossible to obtain at that. The new crop coming on was not considered a heavy one, and barely sufficient to meet demand; it was, therefore, expected that prices would rule firm after the opening values had been fixed. This, however, has not proved so, as supplies arriving are over-abundant for the demand. This condition has to a large extent arisen from the influence of the Russian market. Owing to the disturbed condition of that country, Russia has bought but sparingly, being generally a large buyer. The extra supplies have been directed to the Canadian and the American markets, and for the moment exceeded the demand. This, however, is not expected to be a lasting feature. Dealers acquainted with the situation are expecting a development similar to that of last season, when prices reached high figures, but probably not of so serious a nature.

The banana market has met with good encouragement. Previous to the holiday they had been relegated to the back place, and prices consequently ruled easy. There is, however, a healthier demand, and values have advanced materially.

The cranberry situation shows little change. Maritime Provinces stock is quite depleted, and at no point is there abundance.

COLONIAL FRUIT IN ENGLAND.

The results of the colonial fruit show in London shows an excellent list of awards made to British Columbia exhibitors. The show was held under the auspices of the Roval Horticultural Society in London on December 5th and 6th.

The following is the list of prizes: The Province of British Columbia, gold medal; J. C. Gartrell, Trout Creek, B.C., silver gilt Knightian medal; J. R. Brown, Summerland, silver Knightian medal; Thos. W. Stirling, Kelowna, silver gilt Knightian medal; the Coldstream estate, Vernon, silver gilt Knightian medal; Thos. G. Earl, Lytton, silver Knightian medal; Mrs. J. Smith, Spence's Bridge, silver Knightian medal; Kootenay Fruit-Growers' Association, silver Banksian medal; J. L. Pridham, Kelowna, silver Banksian medal.

SUPERIORITY OF CANADIAN APPLES.

Consul Daniels, of Sheffield, England, writes that at a meeting of the National Federated Association of Fruiterers, Florists and Greengrocers, recently held in that city, it was pointed out that Canadian apples were superior to those of the United States, and that they sold at a much better price in the English market. This was attributed to the fact that the Canadian Government had adopted the suggestions made by the National Federation of Fruiterers with regard to the grading and packing of fruit.

Concerning produce grown upon sewage farms, mention was made of the claim by medical men that fruit should not be grown upon these farms, but vegetables so grown did not contain any impurities if boiled. No official action was taken on this matter.

With a view to decreasing the amount of unsound fruit offered for sale the appointment of public inspectors in fruit markets was urged, it being contended that sanitary authorities in some of the large towns were neglecting to pay attention to unsound fruit.

ALLEGED FRAUDULENT FRUIT PACKING.

The fruit division of the Department of Agriculture is determined to put a stop to the fraudulent packing of fruit. The most recent case drawn to the attention of the department is that of Robert Coyle, sr., who was packing apples at Trenton, under the brand of Coyle and Peterson. Mr. Carey, Dominion fruit inspector, entered the warehouse and examined a few barrels which he claimed he did not find satisfactory. During the dinner hour the remaining barrels, it is alleged, were rushed into a car, and when Mr. Carey returned an engine was attached ready to pull the car out of the yard. Mr. Carey insisted upon making a careful examination before the car left, and found fruit marked No. 1 that was little better than trash. Mr. Coyle signed a declaration, admitting that the fifty barrels in the car were the same grade of stuff. An information will be laid under the Fruit Marks Act against the members of the firm.

AUSTRALIA FAVORS CANADIAN FRUIT.

A letter received at Nelson, B.C., from the Dominion Government by the Fruit-Growers' Association, states that according to advices received at Ottawa from the states of Tasmania, Victoria, West Australia and South Australia, the Australians are looking to Canada, especially to British Columbia, for their Winter supply of fruit, as the fruit arriving from San Francisco has been found to be infected. Australia is extremely particular as to fruit inspection. Heretofore, Canadian fruit has been faultless, but a recent shipment of forty cases from Vancouver was badly sorted, and was, moreover, badly affected with black canker. Action will be taken by the Fruit-Growers' Association here with a view to the maintenance of a rigid inspection of all the fruit exported from the province.

POTATOES PLENTIFUL IN GREAT BRITAIN.

The official estimate of the crop of potatoes in Great Britain shows an acreage of 608,473 in 1905 against 570,209 acres in 1904, and 564,286 acres in 1903, with the production of 140,474,350 bushels in 1905. against 133,961,483 bushels in 1904, and 108,778,619 bushels in 1903. In view of the fact that the potato crop of the United States is short, and that the Americans will import large quantities from Europe during the balance of the season, the above figures are, says the Trade Bulletin, of special interest to potato merchants both in the United States and Canada.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Green Fruits.

Trade in green fruits since the holidays has been exceedingly quiet, and dealers do not look forward to any great activity for some weeks to come. The only change of importance to note is a drop in the price of California navels of from 25c. to 35c. per box. It is reported that there is a little war on between the Citrous Fruit Association and the independent packers in the United States, and there is every likelihood of a further decline. Jamaica oranges are meeting with splendid sale, the quality of the fruit being fine and sweeter than any others. Cranberries have taken an abnormal rise and are selling at $15.00 to $25.00 per barrel, the latter for Cape Cods. The price in New York is $26.00 per barrel, and they are practicallv becoming a luxury now.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Green Fruits.

Trade has been of fair interest, and buyers have been making good inquiry. Evidence goes to show that holiday trade was well up to expectations.

Oranges are perhaps the main feature and sell well, and constant arrivals come to hand in improved condition. Marmalade oranges are on the market for the first time, quoted at $3.00 per box.

Lemons are plentiful and much easier at $2.25 to $2.75.

Apples continue to firm up, and show a strengthening market.

Bananas have shown great activity and prices are showing steady advance.

The demand for grape fruit has improved, and shows an upward tendency. All our prices are revised to time of going to press.

FRESH AND CURED FISH

INTERESTING EXPERIMENTS.

"What is believed to be the best evidence of the efficiency of artificial propagation of salmon that has ever been secured was recently obtained by Fish Commissioner Kershaw, of Victoria, B. C., relative to the operation of hatcheries on the Columbia River," said Deputy Fish Commissioner Perry Baker. "Mr. Kershaw received tails and fins of 100 salmon from a single trap owner on the Columbia River that were plainly marked hatchery fish.

"When the hatcheries were placed in operation on the Columbia River a system of marking was adopted for the purpose of ascertaining if any of the salmon turned out of the river returned to their native spawning grounds, and in what length of time.

"The marked fins and tails received by Mr. Kershaw were found to be salmon that were turned out of the Kalama and Chinook hatcheries four years ago. The spawn of these fish was taken in 1900, and the young salmon turned out in 1901. The fish were marked in a manner that leaves no doubt of this fact. The small bones in the fins were cut down and a hole punched in the tail. The cutting of the bones in the fin is just the same as a man losing part of his finger —it never grows out again.

"The Columbia River was practically depleted when the artificial propagation of salmon was commenced on that stream, and the past several years has demonstrated that it has been restocked by some means.

"While only a part of the fish were marked, when released from the hatcheries, the fact that one trap owner on the river found at least 100 of these salmon during the past season is conclusive evidence that artificial propagation is the only solution of the problem to prevent the depletion of the salmon fisheries.

"Mr. Kershaw asked a number of the Columbia River cannerymen and trap operators to watch for the marked salmon, and during the rush of the season it was apparently overlooked, as only one response has been received."

SKEENA HATCHERY DOING GOOD WORK.

A report from the north referring to the Dominion hatchery on the Skeena River says that the past season has been the worst for rain for many years. From the middle of September up to the end of November there had been only about five or six days of fine weather. This interfered in no small way with the work at the hatchery, as floods were of frequent occurrence.

On September 21 there was a very sudden rising in the river which carried away several of the fences which were in the river and also took away entirely one of the pens in which several hundred sockeyes were enclosed and ready for spawning.

In spite of these difficulties the work was continued and the fences again put in place. At the end of the season the officer in charge had the hatchery full of splendid sockeye ova. It is estimated that the spawn secured will number 3,928,000, all in splendid condition. The season has therefore been a successful one.

A flood in the Lakelse River on which the hatchery is located occurred on November 13. This is reported to have been the worst of the season. The water rose over the banks so that there were two inches on the floor of the hatchery. Trees washed out by the roots came down the river, and the employes of the hatchery feared that the works would be damaged. Towards the end of November the floods subsided, the weather becoming colder. The superintendent is Thomas Whitwell, formerly of Victoria.

MOVE SALMON CANNERIES.

The Capital City Cannery Co. will, it is fully expected, erect a cannery before the coming season's operations open. Last year, it will be remembered, this company disposed of the fish taken in its traps to Fraser River canneries. This was done purely to test the traps, and was not supposed to be a proper method of handling the fish.

The company is now preparing for active work this coming season, and it is said that a cannery has been decided upon. The capacity and exact location has not been fully settled, but will come up before the directors within a few days.

It is highly probable, however, that the new cannery will be located on Esquimalt harbor, and will be of about the same capacity as that put up by J. H. Todd & Co. It will likely be built to handle 35,000 or 40,000 cases.

It is also reported that the Capital City Co. will not be the only one to build at Esquimalt this Spring. Dr. Bell Irving, who has trap sites along the straits, will, it is said, put up a cannery here to handle the take from the traps. It is probable that others will also be put up. This is made necessary after the experience of last year, when the fish were sent to the Fraser. It has been found that to properly handle the catch canneries must be near the traps.

It is, therefore, doubtful whether in future any salmon will be sent to the Fraser from the Vancouver Island traps, except possibly in the case of an exceptionally heavy run, when a distribution of the take might relieve the situation.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Fish.

Fish trade has been quiet during the past week. Dealers anticipate a much better demand now that the holidays are over. The present cold, seasonable weather has had a good effect upon trade. Merchants are now ordering frozen as well as salt and prepared fish for their regular Winter trade, with no risk of deterioration.

Haddies are more plentiful and meeting with good demand.

Winter-caught frozen pike, pickerel or dore, also white fish, are now on the market, also singly frozen haddock and cod. These latter are very handy, as they are frozen separately and packed in cases and will keep a great length of time. New frozen herring are also arriving more freely, although the price is held firm.

The demand for bulk oysters is not so brisk as during the holidays, although regular dealers are moving out a fair quantity.

BISCUITS AND CONFECTIONERY

A CONFECTIONERY WINDOW REVIEW.

Some very fine displays of confectionery were in evidence during holiday week, but it was noticeable how few grocers gave prominence to this branch of their business. A few feeble attempts were seen; in one instance a few yards of colored material had been spread out in a section of the window, with an attempt at artistic display, and sundry fancy boxes and articles of confectionery scattered about. Had the idea been given maturity, a very good window would have resulted; as it was, however, a very poor effect was the result, and it is difficult to suppose any material good would accrue. The grocer lost a fine chance.

Nothing lends itself more readily to good effect, as regards confectionery, than a well assorted display arranged in small fancy baskets about twelve inches long and arranged to show well above the window level. This was seen in one grocer's window, occupying only a corner space, and the effect was excellent.

One advantage of such a display is that it takes only a very small quantity of stock to give the best results. The baskets can be of mixed shapes and designs, the variety only adding to the effect. They can be filled up with colored packing, and the candies, etc., arranged in design over the surface, thus getting a fine show at little expense.

Another very effective display was noticed in a well ordered arrangement of shelves around a small window, and was certainly a good idea. The disadvantage, however, is that a good deal of stock is absorbed in the display, and the effect is too straight and heavy for most grocers' space.

It is high time that grocers awoke to the advantages of these confectionery displays; it is evident that the grocer is not getting the full advantage he should from this department. The confectionery sales will move up and down just in proportion to the amount of enthusiasm displayed by the salesman. Put heart and life into the display and behold the result.

USEFUL CANDY RECEIPTS.

Taffy.

Dissolve two ounces gelatine in a little hot water, set on one side. Next place seven pounds of sugar and five pounds of glucose into a copper pan, set on fire and stir it up together; then add four pounds of caramel paste, heating this up with the sugar and glucose; next add two quarts of molasses, two ounces of nuco butter, one ounce of good beef suet or stock, and stir and cook to two hundred and sixty degrees on thermometer; then add the gelatine; pour out quickly on greased marble, and when cool enough to handle, pull well on the candy hook; put back on the table and stretch out into long strips, and cut into lengths to suit your trade. This taffy can be made any flavor desired, by flavoring and coloring to match and just omitting the molasses.

Black Walnut Taffy.

Take three pounds of sugar, three pound glucose, three pints of water, two quarts of molasses, one can condensed milk. Place the sugar, glucose and water in a copper pan, set over a good fire and stir until boiling; let boil a few minutes, then add molasses. After it boils up and settles down again, add the condensed milk; then stir and cook to a good crack. Next throw into the batch three sheets of gelatine, previously soaked in a little water; pour out on a greased marble, and when cool enough to handle pull over the candy hook; spread out flat, then spread some black walnuts on the table; begin on one edge and roll up the batch over the walnuts; flatten down with an iron bar, and put more walnuts on. Form into loaf shape, and cut into thin slices.

Vanilla Chewing Candy.

Dissolve two ounces of gelatine in a little hot water and set it on one side. Now place seven pounds of sugar into a copper pan; and five pounds af glucose, two ounces of nuco butter, one ounce of cocoa butter, four pounds of caramel paste; set over fire, stir well and cook to 256 degrees on the thermometer; then add the gelatine, pour out on an oiled marble, fold in the edges, flavor vanilla, and pull well on hook. When the batch is pulled enough, place back on the candy table, stretch out into long strips, cut off bars and wrap in wax paper, or else stretch out a short piece, cut off kisses and wrap immediately.

INSTALLING A COFFEE PLANT.

Mr. E. D. Marceau, Montreal, is putting in this week one of the latest up-to-date Fraser Gas Coffee Roasters The growth of Mr. Marceau's coffee business has made it necessary to increase facilities for turning out his brands of coffees. The machine in question is one of the most perfect turned out by the Fraser Gas Coffee Roaster Co., having the latest improved stoning and cleaning attachments. When the roaster has been established, Mr. Marceau will be in a position to promptly fill all orders of his rapidly growing trade.

THE FOOD VALUE OF CHEESE.

Dr. F. T. Bond, F.R.S.E. writing in praise of cheese, says: "It has been so much the custom to look upon cheese as an article of diet which is fitted only for the robust digestions of agricultural laborers and other members of the working classes, or in its more select forms, as a luxury to tickle the palate of those who are satiated with a good meal, that its merits as an article of diet comparable in all respects with meat have been lately overlooked. Even as a source of nutriment for those of robust digestion, who can digest it without difficulty, it is much less appreciated, on the ground alike of high nutritive value and its economic superiority to meat, than it deserves. But for those who, whether on the score of age, delicate digestion, or pathological tendencies, are obliged to be careful in their diet, cheese is, paradoxical as the assertion may appear, not only the most concentrated, but the most digestible form of nitrogenous nutriment available. It is not, however, of every kind of cheese that this can be said. It is only the soft curd, unpressed forms of cheese, in their early stages of half ripeness, before the butter fat has begun to undergo the fermentative changes which develop the characteristic flavors which distinguish the commoner forms of cheese, that can be eaten with impunity by the most delicate stomach.

Unfortunately, it is not easy at present to obtain cheese of this type in the British market, in which the prevailing demand has hitherto been for cheese of strong flavor; but there is some evidence that the taste for cheese is gradually undergoing a similar change to that which is producing the replacement of the strongly flavored beers, butters, teas, and other similar articles of food in which our forefathers indulged, by milder brands. If the public could only be got to appreciate the advantages of the milder type of cheese over that which has hitherto held the market, there should be no difficulty in supplying it.

Our French neighbors have for many years manufactured small cheeses of this type, under various names, which are not only delicious eating, but highly nutritious and very digestible, and which may be strongly recommended as a substitute for meat, and especially for those delusive meat extracts in which the public are being so actively inveigled to put their trust as a concentrated form of nutriment.

The principal constituent of cheese (casein) has of late been largely advertised, under various proprietary names, as possessing a high nutritive value, which is quite true. But these articles labor under the disadvantage that they are tasteless powders, sold at a relatively high price, destitute of the fatty element which all good cheese contains and more appropriate for the sickroom than for the dining room table.

Fortify yourself against inclement season.

ENTERPRISE IN GREECE.

Consul Horton, of Athens, writes that the currant company of Greece has on foot two enterprises for utilizing the supply of currants withheld yearly from sale, which are likely soon to be put into effect. A concession has been secured from the Boule (Parliament), for establishing a public automobile service between the various cities and towns of the kingdom which are not situated on railroad lines.

These automobiles will employ alcohol as fuel, and will be under the control of a company having 800,000 francs capital. It is reported that Hamburg capitalists are interested in the enterprise, as well as the Bank of Athens, and other local banks.

A company is also being formed for the manufacture of lamps for lighting that will burn spirits prepared from currants. It is claimed that these lamps give a softer light than electricity, and that they are much cheaper. The Currant Co. will undertake to furnish spirits of wine to both these enterprises at a fixed and reasonable price.

What It Means When You Are on the Right Track

To be a successful cigar-seller in the capacity of grocer is not as difficult as it looks. There are a number of smokers who never go near cigar stores, but buy from their grocer. If you keep the cigars that smokers want you will be on the right track.

Let us see why smokers ask for

Pebble and Pharaoh

cigars, and why, therefore, you should keep them:

"PEBBLE and PHARAOH cigars are made from tobacco I personally select.
"PEBBLE and PHARAOH cigars are made by experts.
"PEBBLE and PHARAOH cigars are full-flavored, even smokers.
"PEBBLE and PHARAOH cigars are widely advertised.
"PEBBLE and PHARAOH cigars are regarded as leaders."

With a stock of PEBBLE (5c.) and PHARAOH (10c.) cigars you are on the right track—the business-getting, profitable track.

Chances for Success

To succeed in tobacco-selling you must, first of all, have tobacco enthusiasm.

Then you must make it a rule to pass over "probables" and to give your attention to "sure-sellers," "favorites." This will mean the selection of the ideal tobacco for grocers to handle.

Your chances for success, then, are just these:

Smokers come into your store to get groceries, see a nice arrangement of Tobacco—T. & B.—and buy some. Then they come to your store, just to get tobacco—which means quite often. A smoker here and there soon counts up.

The chances for your success are good.

When will you start selling T. & B.?

TOBACCOS, CIGARS AND ACCESSORIES

THINGS A DEALER SHOULD KNOW

Terms and Their Meanings.

How many people, even among the most confirmed smokers, know what is the difference between Turkish and Virginia tobaccos?

The smoker, of course, can tell you which is which at the first whiff, but if you ask him what the original distinction is between the two he will tell you that one comes from Turkey and the other from the States.

He is wrong. You could grow Turkish and Virginia tobaccos in the same field, for they are merely two different varieties of the same plant. Turkish is the leaf of Nicotiana rustica, while Virginia is Nicotiana augustipolia. Of course the two are often blended by tobacconists.

Again, what constitutes the difference between "strong" and "mild" tobaccos? It is simple enough. The strong product is so manufactured that it burns slowly, the result being that the contained nicotine is distilled in an unaltered state. Mild tobaccos are those which burn well, and thus their contained nicotine is consumed or decomposed, with the result that a less narcotic smoke is formed.

We often hear cheap cigars spoken of as "cabbage leaves," and doubtless many people believe that these are actually adulterated with other substances than tobacco. Often in such a weed the outside wrapper is noticed to be patched with pale green, and this fact is held proof of the cabbage leaf libel. The piece of greenish leaf is real tobacco, which has been plucked unripe or not properly cured. It is only to be found in thin, poor leaf.

Dry or Moist, Which?

Even in England, where for years the test of a cigar as to condition has been to hold the weed to the ear and pinch it to hear it crackle, there are signs of a revulsion in favor of the American way of keeping cigars moist.

Speaking of this habit of pinching a cigar, it is told of a London importer that he once told a customer who was trying a cigar in this manner, that what he needed was a concertina, not a cigar.

The average Englishman likes a fair-sized "smoke," about five inches long. Then comes the grading of color in the five classes—"claro," light; "colorado claro," semi-light; "colorado," medium; "colorado maduro," semi-dark; and "maduro," dark. Packed in boxes, fifties being the favorite packing, pressed into shape, then arranged in cases of 10,000, they are dispatched by steamer to New York. There they are transhipped to big English liners for Liverpool, whence they journey by rail to London "under bond." On Wednesday of every week the two great bonded warehouses of London, Haydon Square and Crutched Friars, are busy with the arrival of the week's "mail" from Cuba. A dock sample of each is delivered to its consignee, but the bulk is not cleared or the duty paid until the goods are actually required for sale. This avoids the heavy expenses of sinking capital in paying duty long before cigars are used

GREAT DAMAGE TO CUBAN TOBACCO.

Reports from Cuba are to the effect that heavy and continued rains have done great damage to the young tobacco plants. It is feared that only the latest planting in some districts will be saved.

In Pinar del Rio the plants in the low lands were completely ruined, but there is hope that those on the ridges may be saved.

One farmer in the Vuelta Abajo lowland district told a correspondent of N. Y. Tobacco, that the $25,000 which he had spent for 8,000,000 seedlings, and the loans advanced to his tenants, would be a total loss even if the weather should be dry henceforth. The few plants which were large enough to have withstood the rains would have lost all the sap in their leaves, and would be like hay, having lost all attributes of the nicotine weed

WALL PAPER

LOOKING TOWARDS SPRING.

WITH Christmas over and the holiday trade a thing of the past, merchants can now turn their attention with some degree of care to the necessaries for Spring. Will this Spring's business bulk up more than last year's? That is the important question, because week for week and month for month the merchant should attempt to excel his previous records.

To accomplish this there must be no let-up in energy and enterprise. Make all the departments go with an additional hum. Take time to look over every man's samples. There is no knowing when something may turn up which will just suit your particular trade. Even if there is nothing you want it will freshen you up to take a look at what others are buying.

However, there is another way to increase business, and that is to take a department which has not hitherto been pushed, or has been altogether neglected, and make a feature of it.

Profit in Wall Paper.

Have you really worked the wall paper department for all it was worth in the past? The chances are you haven't. Supposing you lay out from now till Spring to open up a good live campaign. Make your selection of papers now when you have the complete range to choose from. Plan big. Order enough to make a good big showing. You can do this without any great expenditure of capital, for wall paper can be bought in very cheap grades.

You will not find a department which will prove more satisfactory than this. It is neat, clean stuff to handle; it is sold in definite quantities, that is to say, in complete rolls; there is no cutting nor measuring required; and finally, it is sold in large enough quantities to make each sale worth while.

Prepare in Advance.

Anticipation is the keynote for the present. The department is quiescent now, but none the less, now is the time to complete preparations. Selections should be made and the necessary quantity estimated. Then decide upon the way you will handle the stock, where you will keep it and how bring it before the public.

It is too often the case that merchants do not look beyond the week in which they are living. After all, is not this one of the chief reasons of success for such men as Timothy Eaton, namely, that they can see far enough ahead to anticipate the wants of the public? Be provident and decide upon your course now while you have time. Novel schemes for assisting sales should be figured out during the quiet season, not while the stress of business is upon one.

"Yes," said the general merchant, "it is true that we propose to establish a hospital as an adjunct to our store." "To treat the victims of the bargain rushes?" was asked. "Yes, but that is merely a beginning. Later on I expect to see the business branch out, and I dare say we shall treat all comers for all sorts of complaints at exceptionally low figures. In my mind's eye I can see our advertisement reading:

" 'SPECIAL THIS DAY ONLY!
" 'Appendicitis Operations at Cut Rates.
" 'Positively, Only One Operation to Each Customer!
" 'Satisfaction Guaranteed or Appendix Replaced
and
" 'Money Refunded!' " —Puck.

Prosperous New Year

GOOD ADVERTISING

A department devoted to the improvement of Retail Advertising. The editor of this department will be pleased to answer questions on advertising and review any advertisements submitted to him.

SPECIAL SALE ADVERTISEMENTS.

The special sales advertisement here given was designed because special sales are now of quite frequent occurrence and because I think that many of the special sales advertisements running in Canadian papers lose their effectiveness for the reason that they are prepared on the itemizing plan.

I take it that a special sale is only the means to an end and that that end is generally the buying of goods other than those advertised at a special price, and also the working up of a larger trade. This is reason enough why a special sales advertisement should be designed to draw the people out rather than to tell them the whole story on paper.

When full details are given, with special prices, opportunities for comparison are within reach of those customers who wish to find out what other grocers are doing as well as what you are doing. Such is not always a desirable thing, unless you are the "lowest" man in every case, and being the "lowest" man has its drawbacks.

When prices are put on paper they can always be used against you, too. People who live at a distance which prevents their dealing with you regularly may see your advertisement and tell their "other" grocer about it. If he "cuts" to secure the trade, that fact may be used against him to catch another grocer, so all the grocers would lose in the end.

By stating the chief lines that are to be sold at a figure lower than usual—but not stating the figure—you create curiosity and stir up the investigating spirit. This means that the people will come out. You, of course, want their entire order and will work with that in view.

"Save your money" is a pertinent, snappy and suggestive heading. It serves to attract, which is the true function of a heading. But at the same time it does not attract to deceive. It is the thought-form of the advertisement, as it were; the story in brief.

I do not care for enigmatical or delusive headings. In the first place, they are unbusinesslike. In the second place, they displease the reader instead of impressing him.

Every advertisement heading should be logically connected with the text. You might as well put the name of a street or a building across the top of your advertisement as some phrases entirely irrelevant. Catching the reader's eye is one thing, but appealing to his reason is a far more important thing.

It will be noticed that the date of the special sale under discussion is repeated and attention riveted on the address. I regard these as salient points in a special sales advertisement.

Many advertisements along this line, often met with, entirely overlook the insertion of the street address. When you are bidding for local trade the appearance of your name somewhere in the advertisement is sufficient. But a special sales advertisement should be framed as much for new customers as for regular customers. Hence the essentialness of name, street address and town or city being well displayed.

Some grocers may think that brief references to the quality of goods, as is the case in the advertisement herewith submitted, are valueless; but the idea of these references is to dispel any misconceptions in the reader's mind as to the grades of the goods.

If it is assumed that this advertisement has appeared in a paper, and the statements about quality were incorrect, the people, even if they came out and did some buying, will not have to buy from the same store again, so it is clear who the loser would be in such a case.

But if the statements were correct—and of course they should be—it would not take some of the people long to figure out just what I have noted elsewhere on this page—that other groceries would have to be purchased to make the special sale a success, from the seller's standpoint.

If there were not a sufficient number of purchases of goods other than the three lines advertised the sale would be a failure from its own standpoint. As regards the future it might be the stepping stone to success.

You ask, "Why a failure?" Simply because you cannot sell two or three lines of first-class groceries cheaper than another grocer unless you are reimbursed from some other source. If the groceries are not first-class (in other words, are old stock) it is a different matter. But special sales of this sort soon run themselves out.

Perhaps you inquire, "If the special sale proves a failure in itself, how can it be the stepping-stone to success in the future?" In just this way: Providing the sale has been correctly viewed your motive will have been to secure increased patronage, steady patronage.

It will be assumed that the special sale drew out a number of buyers who got more than dollar-for-dollar value. These buyers were pleased with your stock and returned to the store when the same goods were perhaps a few cents higher. They would be told that the old price was a special but that the present quotation would compare with any other grocer's quotation and the quality of the goods was as high as at the special. The chances are these buyers would leave an order.

But if the groceries sold at the special had not given entire satisfaction you may be sure none of the buyers would drop into the store again to pay regular prices, or, for that matter, to purchase anything more at special sales.

So it will be seen from the above observations that the special sale that paves the way for a larger and steadier trade in the future—even at a sacrifice—is a sure sale. The special sale that ends in itself—to clean out a stock or defeat a rival—is a doubtful sale.

SODA-CRYSTALS (WASHING SODA)

Foreign Soda Crystals—and some of English manufacture—are being extensively offered for sale in this country which are grossly adulterated with Glauber-Salts (Sulphate of Soda), a cheap product which is not only entirely useless for washing purposes, but is even likely to injure the fabrics with which it comes in contact. The Adulterated Soda-Crystals, although nominally lower in price than BRUNNER MOND'S PURE SODA CRYSTALS, are in reality much dearer owing to the large quantity of useless and injurious matter which they contain.

CEYLON Tea Talks

No. 7

The features of a really good tea are of course consequent upon all constituent parts being properly proportioned and equally balanced. The fact, however, remains that lack of care in the handling and treatment of the leaf, after plucking, will greatly deteriorate its value.

The manufacture of Ceylon Tea is conducted on the most approved methods.

The handling is reduced to a minimum.

Perfect cleanliness rules throughout the entire process.

The old-fashioned hand procedure with its consequent unsanitary results is completely obliterated.

Remember !

CEYLON TEA—Perfectly clean—Free, absolutely, from extraneous coloring matter.

(Green and Black)

The Man Behind the Counter

is the one we recognize. We want the co-operation of the retail clerks throughout the country in extending and increasing the sale of the great Fairbank specialties:

Gold Dust Washing Powder
Fairy Soap, Copco Soap
Fairbank's Glycerine-Tar Soap
Fairbank's Scouring Soap
Fairbank's Sanitary Soap

We are willing and anxious to acknowledge the service they can render us by rewarding them in direct proportion to the interest they display in pushing these goods. Our method of rewarding is "The Fairbank Plan," which is a system of couponing our specialties in such a manner that the coupons can be easily removed when the goods are sold, and giving for these coupons useful articles, the best that money can buy. Our whole aim is to give the clerks the best value we can secure.

The products embraced in "The Fairbank Plan" are easily sold because they are the best value and give the greatest satisfaction to the consumer. They increase the trade of the store and "The Fairbank Plan" rewards the dealer or his clerks for selling them.

Send for a copy of "The Fairbank Plan" illustrated premium list. It will pay you.

"ENTERPRISE" PAYS

The buzz of customers—the ring of the cash register—the clink of coin increase in a grocery store that is Enterprising in methods and equipment. An "Enterprise" Electrically Driven Coffee Mill decreases expense, increases business. A novelty a few years ago, now a necessity in every grocery.

The illustration shows our mill No. 83 fitted with ¼ H.P. motor, furnished for either direct or alternating current. It is 30 inches high, 22 inches long, 14 inches wide and weighs 115 pounds.

The nickel-plated hopper has a capacity of 4 pounds of coffee. It will granulate 1 pound of coffee a minute or pulverize ¼ pound a minute. Each machine is equipped with pulverizing grinders and can be regulated for fine or coarse grinding while running.

We will be pleased to send prices and practical suggestions; also our catalogue showing complete line of Mills, Food Choppers and other "Enterprise" grocers' specialties.

Advice regarding processes of manufacture and technical applications of chemistry.

The Nibble of a Mouse will eventually consume the biggest cheese, and the loss of pennies, nickels, dimes and dollars, if it don't "bust" the biggest business, will reduce the profit to an alarming extent. And you're bound to lose more or less if you do a credit business, and depend on ledger balances taken from the day-book. Throw out your day-books and other time-wasting devices, and adopt the modern Allison Coupon System.

IF A MAN WANTS CREDIT

or $10, give him a $10 Allison Coupon Book, charge him with $10, and there you are. No trouble at all. If he buys a plug of tobacco for ten cents, just tear off a ten-cent coupon—that's all. And so on for all his purchases up to limit of the book. NO PASS BOOK. NO WRITING. NO TIME LOST. NO KICKING There are other Coupon Books, of course, but why not have the best? A SURPRISING FIND

Collections of Half a Century Result in Extraordinary Accumulation Beneath a Cashier's Desk.

Mr. Wright, the National Cash Register Co.'s agent in Winnipeg, has in his possession an old drawer, which was taken from a general store in Kingston, Ontario, where it has been in use for fifty years. Through all changes of system from the establishment of the store, when the proprietor only had access to this cash-drawer, and when all the clerks used it, and during the period it was under the supervision of an individual cashier, the drawer was never changed, occupying a position beneath a cash desk. In the box-like arrangement where the cashier sat there was a false floor about six inches high, which did not cover the main floor entirely. When the proprietor tore out the cashier's desk recently, an assistant gathered up the refuse to throw out into the lane, when, at the suggesion of Mr. Wright, it was sifted.

After all the dirt had been carefully cleared away, one hundred and eighty-six dollars in small gold and silver coins of all denominations, and dilapidated bills, were rescued from this refuse. The proprietor's surprise can be imagined, and yet he said he had never missed the money, and never knew it was gone! The drawer itself is so badly carved and worn by long service, that one might wonder how it now holds together.

ANNUAL MEETING OF EASTERN ONTARIO DAIRYMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

With over two hundred representative farmers and dairymen in attendance the twenty-ninth annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association opened in the Grand Opera House, Peterboro, at ten o'clock Wednesday, January 10.

Among the prominent officials of the association and speakers present when the convention opened were the following: D. Derbyshire, M.P., Brockville; J. R. Dargavel, M.P.P., Elgin; L. L. Gallagher, Wilton; J. H. Singleton, Newboro; Wm. Eager, Morrisburg; Levi Patton, Brockville; James Whitton, Wellman's Corners; Henry Glendenning, Manilla; R. G. Murphy, Brockville; Morden Bird, Stirling; Wm. C. Coo, London, Ont.; H. G. Somerville, Brockville, and J. H. Grisdale, of Ottawa.

Mayor Best acted as chairman at the morning session. In opening the convention he extended a hearty welcome to the dairymen and hoped that their stay in Peterboro would be a most enjoyable one.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

President Derbyshire delivered his annual address, which referred to the satisfactory condition of the dairy interests. He said: "It is a great pleasure to meet the enterprising citizens of Peterboro, and especially the dairymen of this important section, and I desire, on behalf of our directors, to thank you for the very cordial reception extended us.

"With reference to the dairy industry, I might point out that both in the aggregate production and returns realized, 1905 has been the banner year. It is certainly very gratifying that we made about the same quantity of cheese as formerly, and our butter production has beaten all previous records.

Cheese Exports.

"Our cheese exports from Montreal for the season just closed were 2,121,101. I estimate the cheese on hand in Canada at the close of navigation at 450,000 boxes, which would make 2,600,000 boxes, valued at $22,000,000.

Butter Exports.

"Our butter exports from Montreal were 573,449 packages, and the estimated stock in Canada is 125,000 packages, so we made in the season 700,000 packages, valued at $9,000,000.

Bacon Exports.

"The bacon trade, so closely allied with the dairy industry, amounted to about $15,000,000.

"In the above estimates, no account has been taken of our home markets, and this must be looked into, especially for butter, for our Canadian people are consuming large quantities of fine creamery butter each year. Our home consumption in 1905 was about 3,500,000 packages.

A Big Increase.

"You will be glad to know that we received about $10,000,000 more in 1905 than in 1904 for cheese, butter and bacon. It will be noticed that our dairymen produced (excluding condensed milk, milk for our cities, towns, etc.), cheese valued at $22,000,000; butter, $8,000,000; bacon, $15,000,000; and the home consumption was $50,000,000, or a grand total of $95,000,000. We are sending our goods not only to the mother country, but to the Orient and Japan as well, and in increasing quantities each year.

"We are also making advancement. Our factories are being improved and some really first-class ones are being erected, and our makers are becoming better educated. A large number and better qualified instructors have been employed, and doing very satisfactory work. This has been made possible by the liberality of our Provincial Department of Agriculture. We had twenty-six instructors besides our chief instructor, and they have all done good work—visiting, giving instructions and attending meetings—so we have given better service to our factories than in any previous year.

Refrigerator Service.

"Our goods have been finer and more uniform than ever before. Our Dominion Department of Agriculture has rendered splendid assistance by giving us regular refrigerator service, not only on cars to Montreal, but on the steamships from Montreal to the British market, and employed inspectors at Montreal and the different English ports to examine our goods and report weekly to our dairy commissioner at Ottawa the temperature of our goods on arrival at destination. This has been of great importance to dairymen, for the goods were never before delivered to their ultimate market in as fine condition. We want this refrigerator service enlarged and improved, as well as our transport facilities, so our goods the coming season may be landed in perfect condition.

Care in Handling.

"The watching of our goods arriving at Montreal, as well as the different ports on the other side, is working well, for they do not now lie around on the docks, but are quickly taken care of. The erection of two large warehouses at the Surrey Commercial Dock, fitted up with cold storage at London, is of great importance. Our goods are taken from the ships and immediately placed in these warehouses. Bristol is coming to the front with new docks, and other ports will have to do the same or lose the trade. So you see the result is we have finer goods and had them delivered in better condition, thus receiving better prices and increased demand. With the improvement of trade in every line, and high prices assured, we should do very much better in 1906, and I ask for your hearty co-operation in building up the dairy industry.

"While we have had such a splendid season, I think this would be a good time to urge all makers to attend our dairy school at Kingston, which has been greatly enlarged and improved, with a competent staff in charge, where the latest and best instruction is given. I would like to urge all factories to join our syndicate system and assist us to make a uniform high quality of goods."

MR. WHITLEY'S ADDRESS.

At the conclusion of his address Mr. Derbyshire introduced Mr. C. F. Whitley of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, who gave an interesting address on "The Improvement of Dairy Herds." He commenced by saying that there was great room for improvement of the dairy herds of Canada and it was for this reason that the Department of Agriculture had undertaken the work of taking a "cow census," as it was called for want of a better name. He referred to the systematic manner in agriculture, especially dairying, as carried on in Denmark. A hearty spirit of co-operation was prevalent among the farmers of that country. The butter production of each cow in Denmark had been increased by thirty to fifty pounds per year by systematic testing. Mr. Whitley, in concluding, referred to the greatness of the Canadian dairy industry and urged on his auditors the necessity of them making this business the greatest of its kind in the world.

Thursday's session was probably one of the most interesting of the gathering. The attendance was large and the interest manifested of the most lively character. It was cheesemakers' day, and in consequence the discussions were from the viewpoint of that trade. Addresses were delivered by Prof. Dean, of Guelph, Prof. Ruddick, of Ottawa, A. W. Woodard and A. J. Hodgson, of Montreal.

PROF. DEAN'S ADDRESS.

Prof. Dean, of Guelph, opened his remarks in a happy vein. The speaker had been assigned no particular topic for his address, and though his remarks covered a considerable latitude, he turned his attention largely to the question of cheese and butter making, which he discussed from several viewpoints.

Good cows, being the foundation of successful cheese or butter making, were, therefore, the prime essential to be considered. The position which the speaker took on this question was that the men who are selling pure-bred dairy stock must be compelled to produce an authentic record of the animals. What we need in this country in dairy cattle is not so much the fancy physical points as the cows with the "power to perform."

The Feeding Question.

Prof. Dean next turned his attention to the question of the most desirable varieties of fodder. The results of several interesting experiments were cited by the speaker.

"Are we going to continue paying every man the same amount for 100 pounds of milk, regardless of the quality?" asked the speaker, in discussing the question of proper milk tests. While, as a class, the cheesemakers were competent men, there was still considerable inefficiency. He was convinced that inside the next five years a much higher standard of efficiency would be required. In his opinion, the maker who used the least acid was the most expert. He thought that some means would be devised whereby the percentage of curd moisture may be accurately determined.

That a mistake was being made in the present methods of butter manufacture was the speaker's conviction. It should be, in his opinion, manufactured as quickly after it was milked as possible.

The relative returns from milk in its manufacture into cheese and butter were next considered, and the conclusion reached was that the cheese was slightly more profitable, if the by-products were not considered. Taking these into the computation, a difference of one cent per hundred pounds in favor of butter was the result.

MR. J. A. RUDDICK'S ADDRESS.

Mr. J. A. Ruddick, Dairy Commissioner, of Ottawa, was next introduced. He spoke upon "The needs of the dairy industry."

Much had been said in recent years of the necessity for better dairy buildings. He regretfully admitted that the Canadian dairy buildings of our country were, on the average, the poorest in the world. The construction of curing-rooms was next discussed. The speaker was convinced that the cool-curing systems were most desirable.

Diagrams illustrating suggestions for curing-room construction were explaineh by the speaker. The air space has been abandoned in all modern cold storage buildings, and in its place has been substituted a filling of shavings. The space between the walls should be lined with damp-proof paper.

The erection of central storage warehouses was, in Prof. Ruddick's opinion, somewhat impracticable. The proposal was widely discussed, but the increased cost entailed in the handling of cheese would be too great for the successful working out of this system. A system which had engaged his attention was the erection of a receiving station at Montreal, where auction sales might be held daily. There was certainly much room for improvement in the present system of disposal of the cheese.

Probably the most important feature of the meeting on Friday was the presentation of the report of the committee appointed to secure information as to the advisability of licensing cheese and butter factories. It was as follows:

"We, the committee appointed by your association to gather information and report upon the advisability of licensing cheese factories and creameries in the Province of Ontario beg leave to report that in our opinion, while the dairymen of Ontario may not yet be prepared for such a measure, we believe that a thorough measure of sanitary inspection of cheese and butter factories and dairies is in the interests of the dairymen of Ontario absolutely necessary, and this association would most respectfully petition the Government of Ontario to provide such legislation as may be required to insure our cheese factories, creameries, and dairies being kept in a clean and sanitary condition, with a pure water supply.

"J. R. Dargavel,
"H. Glendenning,
"R. G. Murphy,
"Committee."

Mr. Dargavel, commenting upon the provisions of the resolution, very strongly urged the necessity of placing sanitary inspection under government control. He felt that no local effort would be effective; what was required was a thorough and unbiased inspection.

The resolution was passed unanimously.

J. W. MITCHELL, B.A.

Mr. J. W. Mitchell, B.A., superintendent of the Dairy School, Kingston, was the first speaker at the morning session. He gave a most interesting talk upon "Creamery butter making."

While we fell off slightly in our exports of cheese last year, this was more than compensated for in the butter industry. He gave some statistics which, when analyzed, are of a most gratifying character. Speaking with regard to the butter industry, he said that our total exports of butter last year had aggregated almost 8,000,000 lbs., the total production being 48,000,000 lbs. The exports of 1905 had exceeded by 80,000 packages those of 1904, and by 225,000 packages those of 1903. The price conditions had been equally satisfactory, 3½ cents per pound being the average increase over 1904. The prices in the two respective years had been 21½ cents and 18 cents per pound.

As an illustration of the progress made, the speaker instanced the case of twelve creameries in Eastern Ontario, of which the output had been in 1905, 1,280,000 pounds, which represented an increase of 300,000 pounds over that of the previous year.

Mr. Mitchell next turned his attention to a discussion of the best methods to employ in order to secure an improvement in the quality of the butter. He urged the necessity of cleanliness.

He advocated the use of the acid-meter test. Its simplicity and general excellence made its use desirable. The quality of the cream in recent years has shown a decided improvement over that which formerly prevailed.

The better results now being obtained in the butter industry the speaker attributed to the present prompt shipment from Montreal. He advised the pasteurization of cream in the Winter months.

Mr. A. W. Woodard.

Mr. A. W. Woodard, official referee, Montreal, gave one of the most interesting talks of the morning. His principal theme was the best conditions for the cure of cheese. A source of considerable trouble was the fact that in many instances the boxes in which cheese is shipped are frequently too low, the result being that the cheese, when packed on top of each other in the warehouse or on board ship, frequently became disfigured before their arrival in England. We can make, Mr. Woodard asserted, as good butter in Canada as in any other country in the world.

The speaker next dealt briefly with the loss entailed through defective or "under-grade" cheese. There were last year 154,000 boxes under first grade. The greatest loss in this respect was in the hot weather of July and August, when 45 per cent. of the defective cheese had been "acidy" and sour, and of these, 20 per cent. had been third grade. The loss from this was entirely to the cheese maker. If it could be arranged that a fair proportion of this loss would fall upon the patrons, the result, he felt, would be beneficial.

Other speakers present covered much the same ground as those mentioned. The proceedings were enlivened from time to time by a deal of animated questioning on the part of the audience.

The convention reached a conclusion on Friday afternoon, after what may, without exaggeration, be classed as the most important gathering in its history. From the viewpoints of the milk producer, the manufacturer and the exporter alike, was the convention a decided success, and that it will prove pregnant with results is an assured fact. Every possible aspect of the dairy industry has been discussed intelligently and minutely. The speakers have included the foremost men in the dairying industry in the Dominion, and the views and principles enunciated in the course of the discussion abounded with suggestions which can scarcely fail to result in improved conditions in all departments of dairying.

The election of officers took place before the meeting closed. Mr. Derbyshire was re-elected president amid much enthusiasm. He wanted to retire and allow Mr. Dargavel to step up to the position, but the convention would not hear of it. The officers elected for 1906 are: President, D. Derbyshire, M.P., Brockville; first vice-president, John R. Dargavel, M.P.P., Elgin; second vice-president, G. G. Publow, Kingston; third vice-president, T. B. Carlow, Warkworth; fourth vice-president, J. H. Singleton, Newboro.

MONTREAL BROKER MARRIED.

Mr. C. Fairall Fisher, who has been connected with Mr. J. W. Windsor, Montreal, for some seventeen years, journeyed "down to the sounding sea" on Wednesday, 10th inst., and Charlottetown, P. E. I., was the scene on the 11th inst of the marriage of Mr. Fisher to Miss Alberta Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith, of that city. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Fisher left for the balmy orange grooves of Florida, where amidst sunny skies and waving palms the honeymoon will be spent. On their return the young couple willl take up their residence in St. Lambert. The Grocer wishes "bon voyage" through life.

POINTERS FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS CLERK.

AMERICA LEADS THE WORLD IN ART OF SELLING.

By Delia Austrian, in Workers' Magazine.

"The last few years have shown the greatest strides in industrial and commercial life the world ever has known," says Kendall Banning, an authority on modern business methods. "Nowhere is this growth and prosperity more evident than in the large retail stores. They represent wonderful achievements over the small country store where people went both to shop and gossip."

These merchants all declare that this industrial advancement lies in the improvement of modern business methods. It is the ingenuity that exists in the Western Hemisphere that has accomplished it. This includes the two qualities—adaptability and the power of imitation. General Early once said: "The secret of military success lies in an ability to get there with the most men and get there first." This same fact holds good in business. Many owners of great stores have been pioneers—they saw the growing needs and set out to satisfy the wants.

Wanamaker Pioneer of Reform.

Such a man was John Wanamaker, the owner of the first large retail stores. In the early '60s business was conducted along these lines: Men began to work at 6.30 and continued until 7.30, except on Saturday nights, when the stores closed at 11.30. There was no settled selling prices for goods; there was an asking price and the most persistent haggling often took place until some price was agreed upon.

Wages were as unstable as prices. In the making of clothes wages were seldom paid to the working people. The fortnightly payments usually came in groceries, coal, and orders on which the manufacturer had his percentage. The only two things that were plentiful were ideas and plans.

Wanamaker was the first merchant to make sweeping reforms. He said: "We shall give cash payment to workpeople on the completion of their work, and we shall shorten their hours. We shall not have two prices—only one—and lastly we are willing to take back anything sold and return the money."

He and the other retailers who adopted these new ideas said: "Our times demand higher business standards. In the planning and systematizing of our business we shall aim to do things better than they have ever been done. We shall try to eliminate error; work to please as well as to market our wares. We shall give the best goods at the lowest prices possible."

Create New Business System.

They nailed up flags with the stars of their early experiences and the stripes of new colors in business practice. They created a new system, thus helping consumption, economic distribution, and making themselves an educational factor. They knew that they benefited people by treating people courteously before they reach the store, giving them helpful information in a form respectful to their reason. They were bettering economic distribution by reducing prices without reducing qualities. They were making themselves an educational factor by the confidence they were winning from customers and by cultivating the popular taste.

Good Leader Seeks Good Followers.

The successful merchant not only sees new conditions and knows how to meet them but he gathers men about him who also have these talents. For a fountain cannot rise higher than its source, and a leader to be successful needs good followers.

Said one of the managers in one of Chicago's largest stores: "The successful business man makes a still hunt for men possessing the powers of initiation and adaptability. I do not want men working for me to whom I must say, 'Now do this and then do that.' I am looking for men who can carry out ideas and improve on the ones I suggest. To be sure they must be systematic, but must have the judgment necessary to distinguish the essential from the non-essential. They must recognize the due proportion of things along with the size.

"I want as head of my departments men who can see when our employes need training in business methods and will organize such schools. I want men who, when they see how the comforts of our patrons are being slighted, will better the conditions."

But the power to meet conditions is as important to the successful business man as that of initiation. Each day the managers or the heads of departments, and even the clerks, have problems to solve and they must be solved quickly and with judgment. This is true when the powers of people are tested.

The experiences and ideals of our cussessful retail houses are not the accomplishment of chance, but of superior intelligence and ingenuity—the power to foresee conditions, and to solve problems in a hurry.

MIND YOUR OWN BUSINESS.

Common as this expression — "Mind your own business"—has become, there are still many persons who do not seem to know how to apply the principle which it suggests to the most ordinary affairs of life. To mind your own business means that you must cease prying into other persons' affairs, but that is not its only meaning. You may not be a busybody, and yet be one of those individuals who do not mind their own more important lesson, a far more suggestive warning.

It is one of the rarest things in the world to meet a man who is really capable of attending exclusively to his own affairs; a man who can do the work that he is told to do without bothering his superiors with worthless suggestions or worrying himself into a state of utter dissatisfaction with the world because some other individual receives a larger salary than he does.

The successful worker is the man who does not keep the question of wage continuously in mind. If he is employed to perform a stipulated task he goes about it as if that was the only object in life for him, and he finally succeeds in finishing it properly. The man who is always thinking about the small price that he is to be paid for his work is almost certain to make a botch of it. The man who is fearful that he will give his employer too much time and labor in return for the wage he receives, too often ends in cheating the man who hires him by giving him inferior workmanship. The successful man is the man who doesn't spend his time thinking about his wages. If he has made a bad bargain in accepting the terms of remuneration that were offered him he simply makes the best of it until he can find an opportunity to better himself. He does not spend the hours in which he is supposed to be at work moping about and kicking because his pay is no larger. He does the very best work that he is capable of performing just as long as he remains in that position, and his reward, eventually and inevitably, comes.

Having an opportunity to talk with one of these "successful men" a few days ago, I took advantage of the opportunity to ask him how he had succeeded in obtaining a position that brought him such a princely salary, and he promptly told me that he had no doubt but that he owed his success entirely to his method of attending to details.

"When I came to work for this firm it was as an office boy," he said. "My father had taught me that no work could be 'done' until it had been properly done. As the result I made up my mind that I would do all my work properly, and I tried to live up to that mark. My wages were three dollars a week then, but that did not trouble me. When I was told to do anything I did it just as carefully as I could do it, and if the result did not suit me I did it over again. Some of the work was very distasteful to me, for I had been brought up in a nice home and did not know how unpleasant some menial tasks could be until I went to work, but I did not worry my employers with any complaints. If I was told to wash the windows, or clean up some kind of a dirty mess, I took pains that those windows, or that floor, should be so clean that everybody would notice it, and, by-and-by, I didn't have to do such things any more, and I haven't done them since."

This is the story of one man's experience, but it is applicable to every one of us, for any man who will mind his own business and mind it properly may comfort himself with the assurance that his reward is sure to come.

GOOD ADVERTISING

A department devoted to the improvement of Retail Advertising. The editor of this department will be pleased to answer questions on advertising and review any advertisements submitted to him.

CRITICISM OF McHENRY'S NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Seven newspaper advertisements come for review from McHenry's, Brockville, the work of J. H. Saffney. Two of the best are reproduced.

There is a certain similarity between McHenry's advertising and that of T. A. Rowat & Co., London, whose work was reviewed in this department some weeks ago.

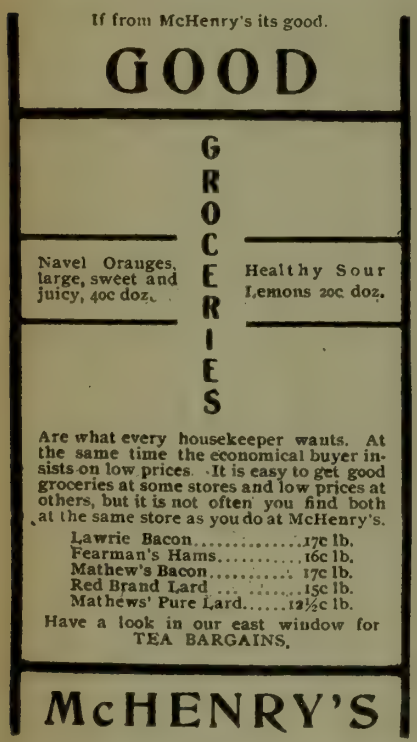
The chief difference is that McHenry's ads are more distinctive in design but less distinctive in composition.

* * *

Mr. Saffney is a facile writer, but sometimes he is rather effusive. There is an instance of this in the ad headed



If from McHenry's its good.
GOOD
GROCERIES
Navel Oranges, large, sweet and juicy, 40c doz.
Healthy Sour Lemons 20c doz.
Are what every housekeeper wants. At the same time the economical buyer insists on low prices. It is easy to get good groceries at some stores and low prices at others, but it is not often you find both at the same store as you do at McHenry's.

McHENRY'S

"Lunch Tongue." When dealing with concrete particulars Mr. Saffney writes clearly and forcefully.

I think it would be better if the street address, etc., appeared in McHenry's ads. I think the points I brought out in last week's talk when discussing special sales announcements might apply here too.

The phrase, "If From McHenry's it's Good," is attractive, and serves to fix the name upon the mind. Of course the phrase is not original, nor is it in substance confined to one grocer.

The "Good Groceries" ad here shown is irregular in makeup, and in that respect scores a point. The reader's eye is attracted by the horizontal and vertical arrangement intermixed. But the ad could not be called a balanced one. There is an excess of detail in the lower portion.

"Lunch Tongue" ad is neatly set and spaced, and the panel work is appropriately conceived. The introduction to the ad proper is overdone considering the size of the total space. This ad is distinguished from the other six in that the designation "R. C. McHenry & Co." is to be found at the close. In the other ads there is just "McHenry's."

"Christmas Groceries and Candies" shows careful preparation and a good conception of arrangement. The typography is chaste and every word stands out clearly. Mr. Saffney appears to be at his best when tied down to details.

"Tea Bargains" is too solid. The general talk about tea could easily be omitted and the space thereby gained be used to lead the matter. The items themselves are businesslike.

In "Where to Secure Pure Wines and Liquors" Mr. Saffney starts to paint a picture and then leaves it. Statements are made, arguments are advanced, but the ad is not "particular." "McHenry's" should have been worked in after the reader was led on to believe in reliability, etc. It was an error somewhat similar to this that I pointed out in Rowat's advertising. Writers should never allow sentences to get ahead of them.

A neat design is employed in the "Easy Buying" ad and no doubt in the newspaper it was attractive. The chief fault of the ad is a paucity of details. "New figs," etc., should have been set in black-face type.

* * *

Mr. Saffney fares better in "Tea" than in "Tea Bargains." He gives more facts and fewer explanations, as it were.

* * *

McHenry is an enterprising advertiser and his attitude on publicity matters is to be commended. He evidently has confidence in the efficacy of the press, for in many instances he gives as much as fifty lines to a single theme—tea, wine, lunch tongue, etc.

McHenry's advertising is poignant and persistent in tone. But to know one of the ads. is to know them all. McHenry's ads are different from others but virtually they are all alike themselves.

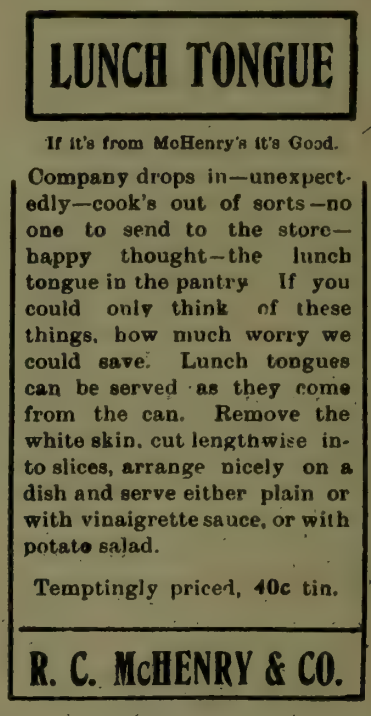
There is always the same prolix reasoning, appeals along the line of general necessity, and more or less unsubdued ostentation. The heart-to-heart talk is missing where one would expect it, and, strange as it may seem, little is left to the reader's perception.

* * *

Mr. Saffney writes too much from the manufacturer's viewpoint. He forgets he is not called upon to deal with elementary principles. The fact that people drink tea is always assumed; the suitability of lunch tongue for "quick lunches" is understood. It is the maker's duty to educate the public. The retailer merely supplies their needs.

* * *

Because a grocer sells more bulk than packet tea is no reason why he should



LUNCH TONGUE
If it's from McHenry's it's Good.
Company drops in—unexpectedly—cook's out of sorts—no one to send to the store—happy thought—the lunch tongue in the pantry If you could only think of these things, how much worry we could save. Lunch tongues can be served as they come from the can. Remove the white skin, cut lengthwise into slices, arrange nicely on a dish and serve either plain or with vinaigrette sauce, or with potato salad.
Temptingly priced, 40c tin.
R. C. McHENRY & CO.

expend money advertising the former. Other grocers are apt to get some of the benefits.

Neither is it necessary that a retail ad should be breasted up on what might be called abstract argument. There is no space so cheap that it is not valuable, and the public are usually more inclined to read "particulars."

As briefly noted elsewhere, McHenry's ads are strongly designed. In that respect they will do good service. In this department I have said enough about type and the art preservative for ANOTHER DAMAGE SUIT—Dangerous liquid stove polish brings more trouble to dealers. The daily papers report the filing of a suit in Nashua' N.H., against the C. R. most grocers to understand by this time that "any style" will not do.

Ad-writing, also, is not an easy thing, though there are a number of people who think it is. An American millionaire is credited with saying that "any person can write a book, but it takes a man of skill to write an advertisement." The case is here put strongly—too strongly—but even such strong statements ought to impress every compiler of the store news with the necessity of going slowly but surely.

It is a good rule to be your own critic in ad-writing. Whenever possible pigeon-hole your ads for a few days. One often sees things from a different standpoint after the lapse of twenty-four hours. The blue pencil sometimes does noble service.

* * *

Just here I might make the request that advertisers send in their specimens in duplicate and in the best condition possible. A compliance with this suggestion will help in the work of criticising and reproducing.

NO CHANGE IN MIXED CARLOTS.

The boards of trades of the west have won their contention against the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, touching the proposed revision of the carload freight schedule and the restoration of old rule 2.

Secretary Patterson, of the Calgary Board of Trade, has received a communication from the Railway Commission, in which it was stated that the schedule could not be changed, except perhaps in some minor instances that would not interfere with the existing scheme of freight transportation in Canada.

The complaint against the carload schedule arises in the small towns which desire to trade directly with the manufacturers and ignore the recognized distributing centres. The same rate is not made on a car of mixed merchandise such as hardware and sugar, as on a car of sugar under the present schedule.

Few retailers can handle a full car of sugar, but it would be possible for a grocery representative, a hardware drummer and a shoeman to travel over a given territory and sell directly to retailers, giving them a very cheap rate on a full car of mixed stock. Therefore, the Manufacturers' Association urged the railroads to make the same rate on full cars of mixed goods as for full cars of single lines.

The boards of trade, all over the west especially, resisted this motion on the theory that recognized distributing centres for wholesale were an absolute necessity to the trade of the Dominion and a recognized factor in commerce, and this new classificatoin would result in infinite confusion.

USEFUL YEAR BOOK.

"Surety Sayings" is the title of a convenient red cloth-bound year book, issued by the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Company, of Baltimore, Md., for which A. E. Kirkpatrick is Canadian manager with office at 6 Colborne street, Toronto. The book provides a blank page for every day of the year at the top of which appears a quotation, each quotation makes a pointed allusion to the surety business. Occasionally a cartoon is inserted with the same object. The book is about as clever a production in its line as could be imagined.

TARIFF POLICY IN P. E. I.

They have a perfectly clear and intelligible tariff policy in Prince Edward Island. They are not divided into the farmers' class or the manufacturers' class. They ask for higher duties on the staple products of the Island, so as to ward off undue competition by the United States, and lower duties where the consumer has to import.

The Tariff Commission was invited to consider lower duties generally for the farmers' benefit, but not to forget higher duties on starch, oatmeal, corn, cornmeal and pork.

This policy is sometimes called protection, but the Islanders are wise in giving it no name, leaving the Government to accede to their wishes, while describing it as free trade, tariff reform, adequate protection, or anything suited to the occasion

A SERIOUS FAILURE.

On Thursday evening, the 4th inst., F. M. Scott, former merchant and dairyman, assigned to J. K. Dowsley. The failure is a big one and affects the whole district. F. M. Scott had several farm properties, four cheese factories and a butcher shop and butter factory in Prescott. He has been operating the lot since last Spring and did a big business with the farmers of the south ends of both Edwardsburg and Augusta townships. He purchased practically all the farmers' milk for the butter factory, paying about $2 a ton more than the cheese factories. All the farmers who patronized him are out two months' milk and some few are out more, having received checks for previous months which they neglected to cash. It is a severe blow to most of them and will have a general effect on business.

It is estimated that the liabilities will amount to about $40,000. The assets consist of four cheese factories, four farm properties, the Prescott stock and cattle. The Traders' Bank hold mortgages on one farm and on two or three factories, and there are lien notes on a good part of the machinery in the factories. The ordinary creditors are numerous and the farmers' claims alone will run up to about $11,000. It is thought the estate may pay ten cents on the dollar.

BUSINESS PERSONALS.

Mr. Chas. H. Farnworth, Eastern Ontario and Quebec representative of the F. F. Dalley Co., Limited, Hamilton, was a caller upon the Montreal trade this week.

Mr. Geo. Fielders, representing Lever Bros., Limited, Toronto, was a caller at the Montreal offices of The Grocer last Saturday. Mr. Fielders says Sunlight soap is still shedding its comforting rays throughout the land.

Mr. Joseph White, who for the past five years has been representing the McAlpin Tobacco Co., Limited, Toronto, between Toronto and Quebec city, has joined the traveling staff of S. H. Ewing & Sons, Montreal. Mr. White will represent S. H. Ewing & Sons in the territory from Ottawa to Quebec and the Eastern Townships, covering both north and south shores of the St. Lawrence. As his personality is one well known to the trade in this district he will no doubt give a good account of himself for S. H. Ewing & Sons.

Mr. J. H. Gilbert, formerly with the Frontenac Cereal Co., Limited, Kingston, is now with S. H. Ewing & Sons and his territory will be in Western Ontario. Mr. Gilbert has had good experience on the road and is recognized as a pushing and energetic salesman.

Mr. A. W. McKenzie, Montreal representative of the Tuckett Cigar Co., Limited. Hamilton and Montreal, was visiting the company's head offices at Hamilton last week.

The case of Harold Lambe, commission merchant, Hamilton, is surprising the doctors. His spinal cord was fractured some time ago, and his lower limbs were completely paralyzed, but he is improving from day to day, and his friends have hope of his ultimate recovery.

Hugh Allan, wholesale produce merchant, member of the Montreal Board of Trade, and a well known business man, has disappeared, and it is thought that the tangled condition of his accounts is responsible for his absence.

Some months ago the cheese and butter warehouse at the corner of King and William streets, and occupied by Mr. Allan, took fire and was damaged to a considerable extent. An investigation by the fire underwriters was held, and it developed that Mr. Allan had made a claim for considerable more cheese han was warranted by the evidence at hand.

The last seen of Mr. Allan he was making his way toward Smith's Falls. He is supposed to have left Montreal over a week ago.

PRICE DEMORALIZERS.

This is a free country and every man who goes into business has a perfect right to demoralize prices if he wants to. But in the great majority of instances the price demoralizer is in the crawfish class before the other fellows are through with him. We can learn by the experience of others. It is undoubtedly due to this fact that the percentage of new merchants who think they can slash their way into trade is growing remarkably less. That is one tendency toward saner methods in merchandising. The public is quite wise. It accepts all of the goods the new merchant will offer below cost and buys the best of the order where it is sure reliable merchandise is being sold at sensible prices. A review of the price slashing campaigns yields very little encouragement to the man who is tempted to go into the slashing business. The day is here when we must win business on smoother methods than selling staples below cost. The merchant who cannot win business on these better methods is due for a shoot down the slide sooner or later.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

The cheese market remains unchanged. New business is very limited at present, but holders remain firm in their views, as the available supplies are considered so light that there may be a shortage under any ordinary consumptive demand before the new season's goods can reach the different British markets. However, meanwhile the demand is anything but brisk, and while all other British markets are reported firm at unchanged prices, the cable report from Bristol actually shows weakness and prices are quoted 1s. lower.

But the recent sharp demand and large shipments of cheese would naturally fill the momentary requirements of the trade and a lull may reasonably be expected until stocks in the United Kingdom show a further material reduction, when a renewed demand may be felt and prices may still be forced higher.

The convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association was this year held at Peterboro. The large attendance made it interesting and successful. The president, Mr. D. Derbyshire, M.P., of Brockville, opened the meeting of the association with an able address, reviewing the production of cheese and butter during the past season, which was a particularly prosperous one for the farmers, and urging upon them further improvements and vigilance, not only to hold the position obtained for our dairy products, but to improve and increase the demand by producing only first-class quality.

Many able and interesting speeches followed. Mr. J. H. Grisdale, of the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, spoke on the subject of individual cow testing in order to grade up a dairy herd to a high standard of production. The Dominion Dairy Commissioner, Mr. J. A. Ruddick, spoke of the advantages of "cool curing cheese."

Mr. G. G. Publow, the chief dairy instructor for Eastern Ontario, presented a report of the syndicate work in Eastern Ontario during the past season. The number of factories that had received instruction was 632, with a total number of patrons of 28,241. Great progress had been made regarding the handling of milk on the farm, and also in the sanitary conditions of the factories. In milk supplied to the factories there had been considerable bad odor from different causes, principally from the feeding of turnips to the dairy cows. The number of fermentation tests during the season was 65,681. On the whole the quality of cheese manufactured in 1905 was above the standard of the cheese made in previous years. Mr. Publow made a comparison between the inspected cheese from syndicate factories and those from factories not under the supervision of the dairy instructors. While they had about 314 of the factories in Eastern Ontario, only about one-quarter of the rejections came from syndicated factories.

Mr. W. A. Woodard, the official referee at Montreal, gave some of his observations regarding the cheese which passed under his notice at Montreal during the past season. A noticeable defect was in the boxing of the cheese. Boxes of inferior quality were used, with the result that they were badly broken when they reached Montreal, and were totally unfit for the long trip across the ocean. Mr. Woodard referred to the excellence of the butter which he had inspected. Canada, he said, could produce as good butter as any country in the world.

Mr. J. W. Mitchell of the Kingston dairy school, spoke of the rapid development of the butter industry. Mr. Mitchell advocated the "gathered cream system." We beg to disagree with Mr. Mitchell on this point and may refer to this in some of our future articles. However, Mr. Mitchell urged on his auditors the necessity of the utmost cleanliness in handling the product of the dairy and in care of the separator and other utensils.

At a subsequent meeting of the board of directors it was decided that the inspectors of the association shall in the future be required to pass a written or oral examination before they can act in the capacity of instructors.

THE PROVISION SITUATION.

It cannot be said that trade has shown any improvement since our last. It is clearly evident that the pork packing industries are in a somewhat awkward fix at the present juncture. Trade will naturally recover itself very shortly and what will be the result is easy to see. With the export trade good and the large packing houses using all they can control to keep that market supplied, the home trade will have to suffer considerably, and the present dissatisfaction will spread to those packers who up to the present have been silent, and have not yet entered the arena simply because their trade has been kept going with local supplies.

There is a rather dark prospect for the pork packing industry if the present condition of things is allowed to continue. The importation of hogs is practically prohibited by a duty of $1.50 per cwt., which means either the farmer must raise more hogs or the packers must be permitted to get their raw material elsewhere, else the packing industry will surely decline.

It is arrant nonsense for the farmers to accuse the packers of combining to depress the price of hogs. The facts are against those who make such a charge.

Instead of grumbling and making unfounded charges against the packers, the farmers would be better employed in raising the raw material for the packing factories. Even if a large increase in the supply were to depress prices somewhat, the margin of profit would still be large enough to make it worth their while to go into this branch of farm work more extensively.

At the present moment, however, and whilst the packers are waiting the revival of supplies, it looks as though not only will packers have to face their difficulties, but the public will have to face greatly inflated prices.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

By Our Own Correspondent.

The position of the cheese market, particularly as regards Canadian, is very satisfactory, and good business is reported for the past week. The public consumption is apparently slightly in excess of recent receipts, and prices are consequently firm. The choicest lines of Canadian white are making 64 to 65 shillings per cwt., and colored 65 to 66 shillings. Prices for New Zealand cheese, for which there is a ready sale, although supplies are very small, are one shilling lower than for Canadian. Between 10 and 11 shillings more is being asked and realized on both Canadian and New Zealand cheese this year than at the same time last year. Taking London, we find that 65,156 boxes of Canadian cheese were received between November 30 and January 3 at the Surrey Commercial Docks, which receive practically all the cheese that comes to this market; we also find that, whereas in November the stocks held in warehouse at the docks were 152,958 boxes, on January 4 they stood at 114,782 boxes. This will show that the demand has been somewhat heavier than the supply. As a matter of fact supplies of Canadian cheese were not very plentiful during the middle of December.

It is worth mentioning, in passing, that there was a little American cheese offered at this time last year at 50 and 51 shillings, but nothing this year. There was a time when the United States had a small share of the cheese business, but it was never much, and gradually disappeared. Australia also once tried to build up a cheese trade with Britain, but the effort was futile.

There is a rumor which, though it requires confirmation, is worth noting, that New Zealand cheese is going to run short. The domestic supply also goes rapidly into consumption.

One cannot help saying that it is a pity Canada cannot spare any butter for export to this country at the present moment. The market is very firm indeed, Australian and New Zealand butter selling well at from 114 to 118 shillings for choicest parcels, and 108 to 112 for finest. There are no prospects, as far as can be seen, of any falling off in values, and any supplies of Canadian origin would be certain to realize good prices.

The retail butter trade have advanced prices a further penny, butter, which is really shilling quality, now being sold at fourteen pence. Even the daily papers, which as a rule do not concern themselves with such topics, have in various instances referred to the shortage of butter and the high prices prevailing.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

MONTREAL.

Provisions.

The provision market maintains its strong tone. Packers complain seriously of the extreme difficulty in obtaining live hogs and considerable complaint is heard against the recent decision of the Minister of Agriculture in prohibiting the importation of American live hogs. Prices to-day are from 7c to 7¼c per lb. off cars. There has been a strong advance made in the price of pure lard and compound lards are also much higher, as will be noted by our price list below.

We quote :

Lard, pure tierces		0 10½

Butter.

The demand for butter during the week has been light and foreign inquiries are also few. The continued mild weather has had an effect of weakening the market somewhat, and as supplies are fairly liberal, particularly of fresh made creamery, dealers are expecting poor business. Good to fine creamery is quoted 22c to 23c, fresh dairy in tubs 20½c, in rolls 21½c.

We quote :

Choice creamery	0 23	0 23½
Finest creamery	0 22½	0 23

Fancy Townships		0 23½
Fresh dairy tubs	0 20	0 20½
Fresh rolls	0 21	0 21½

Cheese.

The cheese market is on the quiet side and little business doing. Cable inquiries are also few, but as holders are firm on this side, holding out for 13¼c to 13½c for finest makes, little business is being done in the way of export. Cheese men generally seem to be resting on their oars.

We quote :

Selected	0 24	0 25
Strictly new laid	0 30	0 32
Pickled and limed	0 20	0 21

Eggs.

The egg market has shown considerable weakness. Supplies are coming in from Western Ontario, where, owing to the mild weather, it is reported that hens have started laying. The price here in consequence of this report has receded considerably and cold storage stock are sold as low as 18c, with limed at 20c and select cold storage 23c, with new laid obtainable at 28c. This is quite a considerable drop from last week's quotations. The weather owing to its extreme mildness has been very disappointing to the trade, and unless firm cold weather sets in shortly a further weakening will no doubt have to be reported.

TORONTO.

Provisions.

There has been little activity since our last report. Trade appears somewhat slow in movement since the holiday closed. A good deal of dissatisfaction is still manifest in regard to the bonding privilege removal, and hope is still expressed that some basis of compromise may be established. In some few lines there is a tendency to firmness with slight advances on quotations. Dressed hogs show an advance of some 25c.

We quote :

WINNIPEG.

Butter.

The steadily increasing demand coupled with the short stocks has resulted in still firmer prices. The advance in the east has had its effect on local values. Prices to the retail trade are as follows :

" " in 28-lb. boxes	0 27
" " in 14-lb. boxes	0 27
" " in 1-lb. bricks	0 29

Increasing supplies of an improved quality of dairy butter have resulted in an easier tone to the market and prices are now quoted at a decline of a cent under the previous week. A large part of the offerings are still far from the mark in the way of quality, but for the first-class article 19c per pound is asked.

Lard.

Provisions.

In barrel pork high prices are still quoted. Domestic stock is scarce. Mess pork continues higher than clear. In the latter there is a wide range in quality. Beef dull and unchanged. Pure lard still very high. Refined quite low and moving freely. Smoked meats are firm. Fresh beef dull and prices lower. There is a fair inquiry for lamb. Mutton has very little call. Veal is scarce and not in demand. Pork is high.

VANCOUVER, B.C.

In produce lines the butter market is upward in tendency, the rise in local fresh creamery noted last week having had a strengthening influence on the price of eastern, which may go up to 30c.

Cured meats, which are mainly from United States packers, have eased off a little, quotations now being 15c to 15½c for hams with bacon 1c higher.

Lard is 11½c to 12½c, according to size of package.

Fresh eggs, local production, remain at 40c, but continued fine weather improves the supply.

A PROSPEROUS TOWNSHIP.

The Township of Finch has the smallest area of any township in the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, but it has sixteen cheese factories within its boundaries and five factories near the boundary lines in the adjoining townships to which farmers of Finch furnish milk. The dairymen of Finch will be paid (approximately) from $400,000 to $450,000 for their milk as patrons of the aforesaid fetories during the season of 1905.

POULTRY EXHIBIT FOR WINNIPEG

An enthusiastic meeting of the Winnipeg Poultry Association was held at the south fire hall, when arrangements were made for its first poultry exhibition. Committees were appointed to secure a hall and revise the poultry list. Another committee was appointed to draft and forward to all the merchants of the city a circular seeking help and cooperation toward extending the poultry industry locally. The astonishing statement went uncontradicted that nearly $100,000 went from the country annually, and an effort should be made to conserve this immense sum for local circulation.

It was further decided to increase the prizes in the case of the more popular varieties of the utility breeds. The opinion was expressed that prizes in some cases, such as the Black Plymouth Rocks, White Rocks, White and Buff Wyandottes, Buff Orpingtons and such utility classes as might attract large entries, should be greatly increased, both in value and number.

R. McLennan, a poultryman of Toronto, but now settling in the neighborhood, was heartily received, and briefly addressed the association on how things were done in Toronto.

The meeting adjourned to meet at 8 p.m. on January 24, when it is hoped definite plans and dates can be made for the forthcoming exhibition.

The exhibitors are grateful to the city council, and have great hopes of the Provincial Government doing something handsome for the association at its first annual venture.

CHANGE OF STARCH PRICES.

The Edwardsburg Starch Co., Limited, in issuing their price list for 1906, have made some slight alterations. A slight advance is noted in both No. 1 and No. 2 corn starch and Canada Laundry. These changes are, however, more in the way of adjustment than regular advance in prices, and the list now is better proportioned.

WINDOW AND INTERIOR DISPLAYS

THE WHITELAW CO., LIMITED, EDMONTON.

The illustration in this issue is that of an internal display of groceries and crockery, and speaks well for the push and go-ahead style of our more western cities.

The store is that of the Whitelaw Company, Limited, of Edmonton, Alberta, and has only been started a little more than a year ago. The arrangement of this store must have absorbed a good deal of thought, care, and ingenuity. No space appears to be lost which is available for display. The adopting of good sized, substantial shelving, above all others, provides an excellent display for canned and such like goods, which are not easily damaged by heat or exposure, besides which it utilizes space for storage of such goods, the space thus provided being sufficient for an ordinary grocer's stock, readily seen and easily accessible.

The show of crockery, etc., on the right of the picture is certainly one to be greatly commended, and appears to be so arranged that there is no excuse for careless breakages.

The show-case immediately on the right as the store is entered—a corner of which is shown in the illustration—adds greatly to the effectiveness of the store, keeping the higher grade china safe, clean and always attractive.

The grocery counter arrangement, too, on the left of the illustration, is well worth noting. No possible space for display is lost; the open-face counter forms a very fine and inviting display, and one well worth copying.

Altogether the interior forms an excellent illustration of how well a store can be arranged to combine utility of space, economy of labor and attractiveness of appearance. One feature of great importance is the arrangement of abundance of space in the centre of store. This is often lost sight of, and many otherwise well-ordered stores have a cramped appearance, and lack in attractiveness.

The store is 42x102 and has two large plate glass fronts, concrete cellar, electric lights, cash carrier system, silent salesman, hard wood floors, and in fact every facility for carrying on a first-class grocery business. Both the interior decorations and the windows show the hand of an experienced and up-to-date trimmer.

Interior display.—The Whitelaw Co., Edmonton, Alta.

MOVING OBJECTS IN SHOW WINDOWS.

Moving objects in windows invariably attract much attention.

In many cities in the United States moving objects in window displays have been all the go of late and the merchants who used them are extremely enthusiastic over the results obtained.

Watch the pedestrians on a prominent thoroughfare as they go along glancing or looking into the show windows. When they come to a window in which there is something in motion they all stop. Many will linger a long time.

A short time since a crowd was noticed standing in front of a Boston store. A basement window about 8 feet wide had been transformed into a mammoth bird cage, the interior arranged in a rustic manner. Small swings and sticks so arranged that they would move back and forth when birds alighted on them were arranged, and the birds, little prettily-feathered things, were flying about in lively style. There was plenty for them to feed on in the "cage," and there must have been as many as a dozen birds. It drew a crowd, and would anywhere.

Acrobats who do stunts in windows attract much attention. They are mechanical toys considerably smaller than Tom Thumb of old. In a drug store window not long ago the miniature image of a man, wearing a full dress suit, large "diamond," and silk hat, went through a continuous performance of turning around and then striking the plate glass window with a little cane he held in his hands. This striking the window made much noise. The thing was operated by a clock-work arrangement.

EASTERN ONTARIO DAIRYMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the above association, held at Peterboro, a report of which will be found in another part of this issue, closed its sitting on the 12th inst. after three days of most successful convention. Never before in the nineteen years existence of the association has there been held a convention of such unqualified success. The subjects treated were such as are of vital importance, and practically covered the whole ground with which the farmer, the manufacturer and the distributor should be conversant.

The importance of the export trade cannot be over estimated. Upon it really depends the commercial prosperity of the Dominion; without it, Canada would soon find her progress arrested and her finances demoralized. Canada's dairy produce is no mean part of that export.

It was with a good degree of satisfaction that we saw clearly manifested at the convention the very valuable work which the dairy commissioner and his staff of assistants are doing throughout the country. If the farmers will only take heed to the many pointers which were laid before them there would appear no valid reason why Canada should not soon become the greatest producer in the world of the highest grades of butter and cheese. As it is our produce stands high in the estimation of the European market. With the extra care and attention portrayed by the several instructors who took part in the proceedings, quality will be advanced, condition will be improved, and the packing for shipment will be more thoroughly done.

A point upon which great stress was laid by one speaker was the importance of quickly cooling the milk after milking, and in his remarks he very forcibly pressed this on the dairymen. He mentioned that much of the dirt which found its way into the milk at the time of milking was covered with infinitesimal animalculae which instantly commingles with the fatty properties of the milk, and were really the main feature in destroying the flavor and keeping properties of the finished product. The only cure for this was to quickly get the milk below 40 degrees, at which temperature they were inoperative and ceased to exist, but as much lower as possible. No amount of screening after the dirt has found its way into the milk would ever remove these microbes; the only two courses to be followed was either to prevent their getting in altogether or to quickly destroy them when in.

There are, however, chemical reasons as regards the milk itself why it should be rapidly reduced, and then maintained at a low temperature, and therefore the lower it was kept the better. Mr. J. A. Ruddick, the dairy commissioner, some time ago issued a report on this very subject strongly advising the laying in of plentiful supplies of ice by both the creameries and the farmers, and it is much to be hoped that this course will be adopted and that the result of this convention will be the perfecting of a system which has already done much towards building up the trade and commerce of our fair Dominion.

LOBSTER INSPECTION NECESSARY

Lobster fishing has been most successful this season. Weather conditions have been exceptionally favorable, and larger quantities have been shipped, one consignment of a thousand cases being despatched to Boston on one day recently. There are, however, serious rumors of dissatisfaction and Inspector Robertson was sent to inquire into the matter. It is understood that gentleman will make a report to Ottawa of great interest. It is said that there are many unsatisfactory features and that the only remedy is a sweeping inspection by officers from the first shipping place.

THE CALIFORNIA ORANGE MARKET.

The California orange market for the past few weeks has been in a demoralized condition, not so much in Canada as in the States, where, directly following the New Year, hundreds of cars of green immature fruit were thrown on the market, knocking the bottom out completely. The invariable remedy has been applied, that of closing the California packing houses for two weeks, which will give all markets a chance to clean up and regain their normal condition. This, coupled with the fact that the fruit now produced is very fine eating, and specially rich and sweet, will be a great feature in not only restoring, but increasing, consumption and create a renewed healthy demand. Oranges are running smaller this season than last, and the crop will also probably run 2,000 or 3,000 cars short of last year.

CHANGE IN BONDING SYSTEM.

New regulations of the Customs Department are making quite a change in the working system of bonded warehouses. Heretofore there were in the city of Montreal about ninety such warehouses, each paying a tax of $40 per year. But, as some of them required the services of an officer during the whole day, while others needed one for only an hour or two, this arrangement was considered unfair, and a new system introduced.

These latest regulations, which went into force last week, provide that warehouses which require the services of an officer during the whole of the day shall pay $480 per annum. In the smaller warehouses taxes are to be levied in proportion to the length of time daily in which an officer's services are required, based on a charge of $5 per month for a warehouse needing the attendance of an officer for one hour a day only.

Merchants in Montreal have been quick to see the advantages of this new scheme, and arrangements have been made by which a group of merchants having bonds in a district may have an officer to use as they see fit by paying the maximum tax.

Judging from the large number of applications for first-class bonds at $480 per annum which have already been received, it is anticipated that the annual revenue from this source will amount to nearly fifteen thousand dollars, as against thirty-five hundred under the old regulations.

DISHONEST POULTRY PACKING.

Our attention has been again directed to the matter of dishonest packing of poultry practiced by country shippers upon city merchants and provision dealers. Buyers find upon opening their cases or barrels of poultry that they are top-dressed with fine choice birds, while below are thin, scrawny goods worth about a third of the price paid for the lot.

The proverbial "big-apple-on-top" scheme seems to be practiced by country shippers with considerable success in the matter of shipments of poultry, if the number of complaints that are met with are any criterion of the case.

The department of inspectors appointed by the Government for the detection of fraud in the packing of apples and other fruits might be conveniently enlarged and authorized to deal with the improper packing of turkeys, chickens, etc. As it is, the trade are put to great loss and inconvenience by the present method, which gives many opportunities to shippers to impose upon the commission houses and dealers, and it is necessary that some action be taken by the trade to protect themselves.

It has always seemed to us a rather poor way of gaining the confidence of dealers by improperly packing and grading fruit, fowls, butter and other country produce, and under the conditions prevailing to-day of ready markets, prompt shipments, etc., it would seem better policy on the part of country shippers to pack honestly. The returns from the commission houses will in the end be better and the relations more satisfactory.

REPACKING AND GRADING JAMAICA ORANGES AT HALIFAX.

There is every prospect of establishment at Halifax of a large receiving and packing warehouse for Jamaica oranges and other West Indian fruits. The volume of business with Canada during the past few years has grown to such an extent, and the establishment of a proper depot in Canada has practically become a necessity. Jamaica oranges have been laboring under a serious disadvantage as regards grading of the fruit, and as the quality of same is considered by many connoisseurs superior to California, shippers and growers have felt that if the fruit were handled and packed in same way as Californias the trade would more readily take hold of them, as the loss by poor grading and packing would be done away with. The fruit would arrive at Halifax and be repacked and shipped from there to interior points, the saving of time in shipping would be considerably in favor of the Jamaica fruit, and the dealer would be sure of securing some clean stock.

It is expected that the steamship company now operating between Halifax and Jamaica will have arrangements completed for next season's trade.

CO-OPERATION INADEQUATE.

Co-operation is at various times suggested by some as a remedy for farmers and working men to use against merchants and manufacturers, but in America the producing sections of the community have never shown that they are able to hold together long enough to build up an enterprise sufficiently large to make its success certain. In Great Britain the co-operative movement is a powerful factor in the commercial world, but it gained its strength before the era of trusts and combines had been ushered in throughout the world.

But has the co-operative movement been of much value to the working class of the Mother Country? Charles E. Russell answers this question in Everybody's Magazine for November in his first instalment of "Soldiers of the Common Good." He clearly shows that co-operation, like trades unionism, is a purely selfish movement organized for the benefit of those "on the inside."

That he sees co-operation as practical under capitalism is inadequate to affect the real cause of poverty is shown in the following extract:

"The slums grow for all of co-operation, the slums and Mayfair, Whitechapel and Park Lane. The enormous estates are no smaller, the great fortunes gather their increment, surplusage and deficiency. Waste and want are exactly as before. Still unchecked in any way, greed accumulates and penury gnaws crusts and remainder old bones.

"In London are 129,000 registered paupers. What is co-operation to them? There are 1,500,000 persons that are practically starving. What is co-operation to them? There is a vast population that crawls about in sub-cellars and filth and misery unutterable. What is co-operation to these?

"In every English city, one-fifth of the inhabitants never know what it is to have enough to eat, never sleep in a decent bed, never know wealth nor decency, nor comfort. What is co-operation to them? Co-operation! They have nothing to buy; they have nothing to save. While the co-operators increase in numbers, steadily increase also the ranks of the paupers, the starving, the degenerate, the brutish, the prowling, and the slinking creatures of the East End.

"Are these the poor we are to have with us always? Not at all, not at all. They are the awful menace and the awful retribution of a system of civilization that must have in it something radically wrong. Wise men in England are under no hallucination as to the meaning of the gaunt, sickly forms that herd and doze about the greasy arches of Whitechapel.

"Royal commissions, appalled at the statistics of the increasing ratios of pauperism, insanity and disease, are laboriously trying to find a remedy for a monstrous and sinister evil against which co-operation avails nothing.

"For the truth is that, compared with the real disease that drags down England and threatens every other nation, co-operation works to save only those that are already saved."

Time spent in trimming a window is never wasted—if the trim is any good at all. Therefore do not think that when the clerk is fixing up a display that his time is being poorly spent. If he has any ability he is earning money for you—more, maybe, than when he is behind the counter.

CHANGE IN MAKE-UP.

On February 1st THE GROCER will inaugurate a new system of make-up which has become necessary to the proper development, and which it is expected will improve the appearance, of the paper, to the consequent advantage of reader, advertiser and publisher alike.

The change will be a development of the departmental idea that has proved so successful heretofore.

With the first issue of February all advertisements not connected with the special departments will be placed in the front and back of the paper, and thereafter no advertising will be placed between the advertising department in the front and the end of the markets. Nor, indeed, has any new advertising been contracted for in this position during the past two years, although the old advertisements have been continued as before.

This will give straight-away advertising followed by straight-away reading matter to about page 40.

This re-arrangement will necessitate a change in the position of some advertisers who have long had certain positions, but as the result will be to make THE GROCER a still better paper, we trust we shall have the co-operation and forbearance of our advertisers until the new arrangement be given a fair trial and its advantages fully recognized.

THE RETAILERS' PROBLEM AND THE MONEY QUESTION.

The following letter has been sent us by Mr. Wilfrid Ledoux, Arnaud, Man.:

January 13, 1906.

"Editor Canadian Grocer.

"Whether the crops are good, or poor, at this time of the year, there is always a great deal of dissatisfaction heard from retailers and wholesale jobbers about slow collections; it appears to be the same old story that there is no money in the country.

"I think that it is time that the retailers should take this matter up, because the question affects our interests more than any one else. We are closely associated with the farmer; in fact, we may say we are in partnership with him, and therefore our success depends on his. If farmers are successful every one of us in the trade will also be, from the retailer to the manufacturer.

"First we must go to the root of the trouble and inquire into the conditions of the farmer, and see why he is not successful and often cannot pay his honest debts.

"The farmer works from 10 to 15 hours a day; he lives cheaper than the average laborer; seldom goes to theatres or spends money foolishly; he never takes a vacation, because he has no time to leave home; he produces eight times more actual cash products than any class of manufacturers, and still he is unable to make a profit.

"It was a surprise to the Tariff Commission sitting at Brandon recently, when it was pointed out to them that the farmers of Western Canada, under normal conditions, were not making any profits on their investment.

"The balance sheet of a farm of 160 acres was produced by Mr. Benson, showing the revenue and expenditures of the farm, for a number of years. It was shown, that after allowing the proprietor and his family the lordly salary of $125.00 per year, he had $14.00 left to the good, which represented his profits on investment.

"The Commissioners asked how it was that farm land could be sold at good prices if that was the case? They overlooked the fact that the largest part of our population were born and brought up on farms, have never, in their life, turned their hands to anything but farming, and know nothing of any other business.

"The farm is a place that they can call home, for the time being, until the mortgagee steps in and takes it. If they sell out the farm, they are compelled to pay their debts with the proceeds, and in most cases would have nothing left and would be homeless; the most prefer to stick to the farm, and this is what is keeping up the price of farm land.

"Why is the western farmer not prosperous? Because he is developing a new country, and he is unable to obtain the necessary capital in order to carry on his business on business principles. The banks have practically closed down on all farmers' 'paper,' and he is therefore unable to obtain the working capital which is absolutely necessary to carry on any business.

"If the banks were to close their doors to our manufacturers, this would compel them to buy the largest part of their raw material and labor on credit; how long would they carry on business successfully? At the same time, this is the position that the farmers are in at the present time.

"The reports in the papers as we see them almost every day, picturing the western farmer as being speculating in land with his money, etc., are misleading in most cases, and are sent broadcast through the country by interested parties.

"I do not deny that a small percentage of our western farmers have made money in Western Canada; but I am safe in saying that only about 10 per cent. have made money; 40 per cent. have made small wages; 25 per cent. are keeping about even; and the other 25 per cent. have failed altogether, and gone behind from year to year.

"The best proof of my assertion is that the farmers this year, with the largest crop on record, are unable to meet any more than 50 to 60 per cent. of their current indebtedness.

"We have, in Western Canada, the finest lot of farmers in the world; they are using all the very latest machinery, and are carrying on farming, not as good as they know how, but as well as they could possibly do it under the present system.

"If the farmers of Western Canada could borrow a reasonable amount of working capital, at say, about 5 to 6 per cent. interest, they would, inside of three or four years increase their production by 25 per cent., and the whole country would benefit by it, because the extra product would be exported, and turned into cash. A country does not begin to make money until its exports exceed its imports. The policy of our money institutions, therefore, should be to assist the farmer financially, in order to enable him to produce more.

"At the present time, the whole country is kept in debt by a simple cornering of money transactions.

"The working capital of the country is being supplied to the manufacturers and wholesale jobbers almost exclusively, although the transaction seems simple enough, but it means millions of dollars every year to those few who are so fortunate as to be in the money business.

This transaction keeps every man in the trade in debt, and all paying interest on the same money. The estimated loss to the farmers could be figured about as follows:

"The jobbers' interest paid to banks is 6 per cent., their cash discounts, 3 per cent. Retailers' interest is 8 per cent., their cash discounts, 5 per cent. Farmers paying interest to retailers, 8 per cent., making a total of 30 per cent.

"These items are all figured out, and added to the price of the goods, and paid for by the consumer.

"Now let us see if the money was supplied at the other end, (or to the farmers), what effect it would have? The farmer would save on his goods, by buying for cash, as follows: The jobber's interest and discount, 6 and 3 per cent.; the retailer's interest and discount, 8 and 5 per cent.; and we have saved 22 per cent.; less 8 per cent. paid the banks for borrowed money. It would thus be a net gain of 14 per cent. Add to this a loss, under the present system, of 30 per cent., as shown above, and we have a total saving of 44 per cent. on everything the farmer buys to-day.

"Money being supplied to the farmer, would enable the farmer, the retailer, the wholesale jobber, and the manufacturer to buy and sell for cash. This same money would be handed from the retailer all around to the manufacturer, and from there back to the banks again, everybody in the trade would have paid their debts, and be free and happy, saving all the interests, collection and exchanges which are being paid by the trade to-day.

"The farmers and the retailers have to pay interest on what? Not on money, because they never had the privilege of using same, but on their debts or paper, so when a wholesale jobber borrows $100.00, to pay the manufacturer, that money draws, say 6 per cent. interest from him, but the retailer, who owes the jobber that amount, has to pay 8 to 10 per cent interest also, not on that $100, but on the debt or the paper which represents that amount; and the farmer, who is also indebted to the retailer for that amount, has to pay interest also, on the same debt, which would be 10 per cent.; so you will see, by this process of distribution, that this $100.00 has an earning power of 24 per cent. Who has to pay for it all? The last man who buys the goods, the farmer.

"This will explain why the farmer is unable to make a profit on his investment, and he can not even make fair wages.

"By this circulation of money, in the wrong direction, is increased its earning power by two-thirds; to the benefit of the few, and to the detriment of the masses.

Trade during the week has been quiet. Travelers do not appear to be able to stimulate much business since going out on their first trips last week. In many sections in the east roads are in very poor condition, which is always detrimental to business. The feature in the grocery trade is a decline of 10c. per hundred in sugar, an advance in lard and provisions, a decline in the price of eggs and butter.

Canned Goods—There is nothing of interest this week in the canned goods situation, and jobbers report trade quiet and about on a par with business in these goods at this season of the year. It is expected that there will be a firmness in tomatoes in the near future, with every prospect of improved business in consequence. At the low price at which teas are quoted, this line is considered good buying. Canned fruits are in fair demand. Salmon and lobsters are also receiving more attention.

Sugar—The feature this week in the sugar market was a decline of 10c. per hundred, put in force by the refiners on Tuesday. There was little buying by the jobbing trade, who also report country orders light, attributing same, aside from the general weakness of the market, to poor country roads. The continued weakness of the foreign beet and raw market was a disturbing factor in buying by the jobbing trade. Many of them are as well engaged in taking stock and naturally do not desire to load up. We quote:

Syrups and Molasses—The molasses market continues unchanged, with holders firm. It is not expected that much interest will develop in these goods until advices as to new crops become more definite. The jobbing trade report only fair buying from country points. The corn syrup trade keeps up well and these goods in some quarters are reported as making good headway. We quote:

Tea—A somewhat better trade has been reported during the week. The market in teas generally continues firm. Cable advices received on Tuesday report Ceylon blacks advanced a farthing, with green teas very firm, and nothing under 7d to 7 1-4d for Young Hysons obtainable. There is very little doing in gunpowders. Pinheads are not obtainable on the market. There has been somewhat better demand for Japans, although trade may not be considered as active. Taking the tea business as a whole, dealers are satisfied with the somewhat better conditions. We quote:

Foreign Dried Fruits—In dried fruits trade keeps moving on quietly, without any excitement to report. Shelled almonds retain their firmness and Tarragona soft shell almonds are reported to have advanced 3s. per bag at shipping port. Shelled walnuts also show a slight advance since last report, and strong bull advices from France, based on smallness of the supply, and undiminished demands, notwithstanding the material advance from lowest point. Although California prunes are, in common with other dried fruits, somewhat quiet, holders are not pressing sales, as they expect as soon as the demand arises to see an improvement in prices. The stock remaining at coast is now pretty well concentrated in the hands of very strong holders. In California raisins, however, the expected has happened and holders have been obliged to yield considerably in their prices. Currants, although unchanged in prices, remain very firm, and it seems impossible to expect any lower prices this season. Comadre figs are now exhausted at places of growth, and the very small stocks are in first hands on this side. Holders, therefore, are obtaining their prices without difficulty. We quote:

Fish.

The fish trade is reported as being good, in fact very good for this season of the year, in all lines. The weather has been rather on the mild side lately and with the advent of settled cold weather a greater improvement is looked forward to. Receipts of all kinds are equal to demand, with the exception of tommy cods, which are somewhat scarcer this week. On the return of the fish from the spawning beds (in about two weeks), supplies will be more plentiful. Fresh Newfoundland frozen herring are now on the market and meeting with ready sale at quotations. In smoked fish, haddies, which are excellent quality, are in good demand. Shell oysters are practically out of the market, but bulk oysters are selling well.

GROCERIES.

Toronto, Jan. 19, 1906.

Trade has been somewhat more interesting during week under review, although it has still a holiday character. Some little surprise has been expressed at the sudden reverse in the sugar situation. There has been a general idea that bottom had been touched, although some are now professing to have been expecting a decline. Anyhow, it is noticeable that many firms have only recently bought ahead. In other lines conditions are normal with no great feature of interest, the exception perhaps being in seeded raisins. The whole dried fruit situation is showing strength.

Canned Goods—Wholesalers report fair trade since our last issue. No feature of interest has transpired, and no change in previous quotations.

Sugar—The domestic market has not been an over active one. It has been noticed on several occasions that buyers showed little disposition to increase their holdings. Although this was clearly the case, few expected that the market would have developed the sudden weakness it has, and that a decline in values would have occurred. On Tuesday last, however, refiners put in force a decline of 10c per 100 lbs. Recently—less than a week ago—the United States reports denoted an advance, the exact opposite move to that which has developed on this side. Willett & Gray in their weekly report review the situation as follows :

"Following the advance in raws all refiners marked up their prices 10c per 100 lbs., to basis of 4.60c. less 1 per cent. cash for granulated. Abundant opportunity, however, was given trade buyers to contract for 30 days' supplies, under the usual guarantee, on basis of old figures, 4.50c. less 1 per cent., which was taken advantage of generally, but prices are now held firmly at the advance.

"Withdrawals are being made in fairly large volume to fill depleted stocks.

"Notwithstanding the comparatively small meltings recently, all the refiners are able to make prompt shipments, with the exception of Arbuckle, who shows some delay on certain grades.

"San Francisco advanced 15 points and New Orleans advanced 10 points."

Syrups and Molasses — Trade in these has been of small volume and uninteresting. Previous quotations remain unchanged. The New York market reports denote a very strong tone to the molasses market, some dealers showing inclination to advance prices. Trade, however, was only of moderate volume.

Coffee—The volume of trade continues good and wholesalers express satisfaction in the outlook of the coffee situation. The demand, however, is still in the main for medium grades. The milder and finer grades appear not to have taken great hold on the market. Reports from foreign markets denote active trade and firm prices. Some instructive notes are given from Willett & Gray's weekly summary :

"A very important improvement is going on in the statistical position of coffee and there will be a decided shrinkage of supplies during the next six months. The American visible (Brazilian) supply is now about the same as this time last year, while the milds are considerably less. The balance of the current crop in the interior of Brazil is small and consuming markets cannot secure it without yielding to the pretentions of the holders, and more especially because it consists of the medium and lower grades that are so much needed. The deliveries express consumption more closely than ever, knowing how scantily the interior is supplied, especially in Europe. The deliveries for the past six months averaged just about 1,400,000 bags per month and to meet a demand of this nature the visible supply will be cut down considerably for the balance of the season. This is the natural influence for better markets and good merchants will not be slow to recognize the force of it ; and comparing values and supplies with a year ago, there is every reason for a rise.

"A year ago exaggerated estimates of the then growing crop were circulating, and the same sort of thing is indulged in now, but the folly of it has been well explained in these reports lately. The trade begins to realize the long continued pessimism in coffee should give place to rational deductions and the actual position itself points the way.

"The steady markets of the past few days bring out inquiries from all directions.

"Brazil seems in earnest with its scheme to help the planters or to protect the industry of its principal product, coffee, and with decreasing production, success is to be expected."

Tea—The local trade has been fairly active since our last report, and some good samples have been seen in evidence on the street, showing attractive flavor and liquoring properties. Sales have been renewed on the London market and opened in good form. W. J. & H. Thompson in their latest report remark:

"The healthy tone which has characterized the current week's auctions is in marked contrast to that experienced at the opening sales in 1905, when prices were feeling the depressing effect of an 8d duty and shrinking clearances. Present conditions, however, are more favorable; with satisfactory deliveries buyers can afford to operate with some degree of confidence in the future, and as a consequence quotations for teas above common have on the whole tended upwards. Opinion on the market is hopeful for an uninterrupted volume of trade during the next few months.

"The London figures for the past twelve months show how remarkable has been the progress of Ceylon; with the exception of 2,000,000 lbs., the entire excess of 13,000,000 in imports has been forced into consumption, while India, though landings were only 1,500,000 lbs. behind, fell short of 1904 by some 5,000,000 lbs. in deliveries."

Foreign Dried Fruits—Trade on the domestic market has been naturally slow and uninteresting since the holiday. Reports from primal markets denote considerable development of strength. Shelled walnuts are showing strong advance on prices quoted at opening of season, a feature which is usually reversed. Dates have sold freely and are now scarce. Markets abroad are high. Currants at primal points are strong, without quotable changes. Raisins are also firm, quotations for spot deliveries are irregular, the irregularity being accounted for by irregular quality. California seeded raisins are somewhat unsettled. Prices have considerably strengthened during the past few days and reports from primal market with regard to the combine purchase are causing a degree of uneasiness.

The market reports good trade for current week, the demand covering all lines that are readily available. Oysters especially have been well maintained, and supply regular and good. N. S. Markets.

Halifax, January, 1906.

The grocery markets do not present anything really new since last report. The holiday dullness still prevails and prices continue firm and steady, there being nothing of special note as regards prices. The dullness following the holiday season is usually looked forward to, therefore the dealers have no special complaint to offer.

Collections on the whole are considered to be very good, and this is one of the most satisfactory points at this season of the year. The commercial notes falling due at the close of the year's business are always quite large, but payments have been pretty well met.

Travelers have been off the road a good deal up to the present, and the orders coming to hand are largely by mail.

Popped Rice a Ready Seller.

An article new on this market, and one which the jobbers say is selling freely, is popped rice, and some of the retail dealers say that it sells so fast that they are unable to keep a sufficient supply on hand for the wants of their customers. The retail price is thirty cents per pound.

Canned Goods.

All canned goods are selling freely, perhaps the most call being for beans, corn, peas and tomatoes, the latter two perhaps having the most call.

Demand for Celery and Lettuce.

The Halifax grocers are handling more green goods at this season of the year than ever before. The hothouses are growing large quantities of lettuce. The demand for it is very great. The first-class grocers handle probably from 25 to 50 dozen of heads per week. The keeping of lettuce benefits the trade in other respects, the sale of canned lobsters having increased very greatly, the lettuce being used largely in making lobster salad. Celery is another article which is consumed very largely in this city, and it is even obtainable fresh from the ground at this season of the year. The growers keep it in their cellars in the earth, and supply the trade weekly with it. Some of the dealers handle as much as two hundred bunches per week.

Butter and Eggs.

There has been a drop in the price of fresh laid eggs, good stock being now obtainable at thirty cents per dozen. The demand for case eggs is light, the consumption having fallen off very perceptibly. The case eggs on the market now are principally Prince Edward Island stock, and they are jobbing at 22 to 24 cents per dozen. They are all cold storage or limed stock.

The butter situation is unchanged. There is very little local butter on the market. Small tubs of fresh butter are hard to get at any price. Nearly all the butter handled by the large dealers is from Quebec and Ontario. The local creameries cannot commence to supply the home demand. Very little butter is being exported from here, in consequence of the present situation. Prices are about the same as last quotation.

Cheese is firm and the outlook promises to continue so. The price here is about 13½ cents, the market being governed largely by the price in Montreal.

There is no scarcity of potatoes on this market. The commission houses have large stocks on hand, and there are several vessels at the wharves filled to the hatches. At Sydney there are no less than twenty vessels tied up at the wharves, waiting for prices to advance. The price here is from 30 to 32 cents per bushel. Large shipments of Nova Scotia potatoes are being sent to the Havana markets. These potatoes are grown principally in Cornwallis, where they are barrelled, and in many cases are shipped direct from points there. They command a higher price than the Prince Edward Island grown potatoes.

The Prince Edward Island farmers who appeared before the Tariff Commission last week strongly expressed themselves as being in favor of a revenue tariff. They asked for increased duty on potato starch, and a reduction of the duty on kerosene oil, favored a duty on sago flour, imported from Singapore, and on barrelled pork imported under the name of ships' supplies for the benefit of Nova Scotia fishermen. They also seek increased duty on mutton, lamb, fresh fish, British gum and dextrine, and American pork, which comes in competition with the Island pork.

B. C. News.

Vancouver, Jan. 15, 1906.

Vancouver wholesale men now fight the C.P.R. boycott alone. The Victoria Board of Trade has notified the secretary of the Vancouver board that the trade of the capital city has withdrawn from the contest. No statement was made other than that the Victoria board had decided to withdraw from the Association of Coast Boards of Trade formed on this question.

Naturally motives are imputed, and it is freely asserted that expected favors from the C.P.R. in the way of developing the island by a railway running its entire two hundred and fifty miles of length, with various branches, have had their influence. Possibly the apparent hopelessness of the struggle as viewed at present has had equal effect.

So far the Vancouver men show no signs of weakening, and leaders in the movement express their determination to continue the fight indefinitely. It is certain that west-bound freight traffic has been largely diverted from the C. P. R., and receipts at Vancouver by that line are at present very light.

Northward at present turn the eyes of all the race of restless, hardy pioneers, who sigh Alexander-like for new worlds to conquer. One and all join in waiting with keen expectancy for the announcement of definite action of the G. T. P. with reference to construction of the coast section. But next Spring there will be a rush of people into all that section of Northern British Columbia through which the line is to pass, whether railway work begins or not. Last season many prospecting parties spent several months in the Cassiar country. Coal and mineral lands, timber and agricultural lands were all sought and bought, and many companies have been formed this Winter to operate and develop much of the valuable territory secured. Large capital has been interested and a good deal of money is to be spent. Already the public hears much of "New British Columbia," and business men are preparing for the trade which will follow the advent of population and industrial operations.

From Seechart Bay, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, where Capt. Balcom last Summer established a whaling station, the first on the British Columbia coast, a large shipment of whale oil, 142 tons in all, was received at Victoria, to be shipped to Liverpool by Blue Funnel steamer Oanfa. Other shipments are being made regularly to San Francisco, the Queen taking out a large quantity this week.

S.S. Tartar, which sailed Monday for the Orient, carried on her cargo list a goodly proportion of western produce. Big shipments of flour from the Columbia Flour Mills, Enderby, B.C., and from Raymond, Alberta, and a consignment of Government creamery butter from Calgary were among the items.

A new brokerage firm handling importations and indent orders has been formed in Vancouver. Messrs. A. K. Evans, formerly of C. F. Jackson & Co., Limited, and W. J. Davidson are the members.

* * *

Mr. J. W. Berry, late of Thorne, Berry & Co., and formerly manager of John Tobin & Co., Limited, has begun business in the wholesale tea trade on his own account. Mr. Berry is an expert in tea and his experience, covering Canada both east and west, was begun in London, where he had many years of practical work. He has also spent much time in the tea-producing districts of India and Japan.

The Standard Soap Co., which recently erected a large factory at Calgary, is to establish a plant in Vancouver also. Mr. A. Nelson, who is to have charge, is in the city making arrangements. P. Burns, the western cattle king, who is president, is heavily interested in the company.

A cargo of raw sugar from Peru was received this week by the British Columbia Sugar Refinery Company. The Kosmos liner Centaur, from Hamburg, brought the consignment.

Groceries show little movement, trade being still dull, the after Christmas torpidity not yet having worn off.

Canned goods are unchanged in price.

Dried fruits are still firm, while other staple stocks have no features of note.

FORTY-THREE YEARS SUCCESS.

Forty-three years in the grocery business in Toronto, as man and boy, clerk, retailer, jobber and wholesaler, is the record of Mr. Thomas Kinnear, of T. Kinnear & Co., wholesale grocers, Toronto, who has recently been elected president of the grocers' section of the Toronto Board of Trade.

Mr. T. Kinnear.
Of T. Kinnear & Co. President of Grocers' Section, Toronto Board of Trade.

Mr. Kinnear's record is one of which he may be justly proud. He was born, as have been many fine lads ere this, at Ballynerra, County Antrim, near the staunch old city of Belfast, coming to Toronto with his father and family as a small boy, in the year 1863, and Toronto has, without interruption, been his place of abode and business ever since.

Much depends on a good start, and the subject of this sketch started in the grocery business, as a boy of sixteen, with Swan Bros., a splendid school. Mr. Henry Swan, in Mr. Kinnear's judgment, was perhaps one of the best salesmen he ever met, and had he not been so cautious, would very likely have been the leading wholesale grocer in Toronto today. Since the day he first put on the apron behind Swan Bros.' counter, Mr. Kinnear has been in the grocery business within the radius of a five minutes' walk from where he first started.

On gathering together, at the age of 25, a capital of $2,000, Mr. Kinnear decided to try fortune for himself, entering upon the retail jobbing trade on the East Market Square, under the firm name of Kinnear & Lang. From the first the new firm was wonderfully successful, and in a little over eight years had increased their capital to nearly $60,000.

By this time, in 1880, the young grocer was again eager to try his wings. He decided to dissolve and enter upon the wholesale trade, leaving the old business to his partner, Mr. Lang.

There were those who were mildly skeptical of the new venture, but Mr. Kinnear never had a doubt. His faith has been amply justified and in the 25 years that have since elapsed, in lean years and fat years, there has never been a twelvemonth in which the firm of T. Kinnear & Co. has not been able to add largely to its capital. "I have never known," Mr. Kinnear is fortunate enough to be able to say, "what it is to be hard up, as my system has been to finance when I buy." Mr. Kinnear has always made it a practice to pay cash and take the discounts whenever discounts are given.

Such uniform success is not so usual as to pass without comment. The explanation is probably Mr. Kinnear's system of "thorough." Beginning as a boy, he knows the trade from the ground up, and has never allowed a detail to escape him.

Mr. Kinnear is acknowledged by the trade, generally, to be thoroughly up on every department of the business. Teas he has made his pet study. Mr. Kinnear knows teas.

This factor is particularly noticeable in his buying operations. In dealing with the brokers, Mr. Kinnear decides quickly. He knows his goods, knows a bargain when it is offered, knows when to say yes or no, and says it, unreservedly, unalterably. As a consequence he has the reputation of being one of the keenest and most far-sighted buyers in the market.

First judgments are best in Mr. Kinnear's experience. "I have found," he says, "that when I depend on my own first judgment I am right, whereas, if I allow myself to be influenced by other considerations, or other people's judgments, I am generally wrong."

The founder of T. Kinnear & Co. has great faith in the younger generation. It is a known fact that he has been the means of helping not a few young men to get a start, young men who now occupy prominent places in the retail trade, both in Toronto and in other places throughout the province. Nothing has been of greater pleasure to Mr. Kinnear than to watch the success of these young men on whose integrity and business ability he placed his faith. Of all the parties thus helped, only one has failed to make good.

Mr. Kinnear is training up his sons to take the burden of responsibility off his shoulders, as time rolls on, if one can imagine Mr. Kinnear ever relaxing that eternal vigilance which has been the price of his success.

He is now fifty-nine years of age and his business hours are from half past eight to six o'clock, taking a half hour for lunch in the middle of the day.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Mr. E. D. Marceau, Montreal, is offering this week some excellent values in teas, in Japan, gunpowder, Ceylon, India and Young Hyson.

White & Co., Toronto and Hamilton, in calling attention to the demoralized state of the California orange market, mention that their storage capacity is so perfect that it has been quite possible for them to hold their consignments until maturity, and thus in great measure rectify the errors of the primal market in consigning imperfectly matured fruit. Their customers have been quite satisfied with their shipments.

BUSINESS PERSONALS.

Mr. William Mann, for several years in charge of the tea business of the Milliken, Tomlinson Co., of Portland, Maine, will act as manager of the tea department of Charles de Cordova, 78-80 Wall street, New York.

Mr. Albert Hugli has opened a manufactory at 15 Fisher street, Toronto, and will put on the market an entirely new line of washing sodas, soaps, etc. Mr. Hugli has had considerable experience and thoroughly understands every branch of the industry. He is particularly acquainted with the Canadian trade, having traveled from coast to coast.

NEW PARTNERSHIP.

When nearly a year ago Mr. C. E. Kyle decided to enter the wholesale grocery brokerage field his wide circle of friends extended generous wishes for success. Those wishes it appears have been pretty well filled, and Mr. Kyle with the beginning of the year has decided to take in a partner to help him look after his growing business.

The partner will be Mr. S. Hooper, for the past seven years manager of the grocery department of the Robert Simpson Company, Limited, and before that manager of Homer & Co.'s store at Rosseau. Mr. Hooper is a practical grocer of wide experience and together with

Mr. S. Hooper
Who enters the grocery brokerage firm of Kyle & Hooper.

Mr. Kyle's connection and thorough acquaintance with the trade the new firm should be a very strong one. Their bankers are the Imperial Bank of Canada.

Among the agencies held by Kyle & Hooper, the style of the partnership, are: Thornett & Fehr, spices, oils, etc., London; Cosmelli, Meyer & Co., London, Denia and Valencia; Bernard & Co., Japan tea; Dandicolle & Gaudin, fancy groceries; A. J. Reggio & Co., fruits, Smyrna; N. A. Mathias, currants, Patras; Parkinson Cereal Co., the Napanee Canning Co., and the Pacific Selling Co.

Right Price

We never cut the price of the 15c package. But we put up a Jumbo package which sells at 25c. This package is put up principally for the people who want 2 packages of Orange Meat for 25c.

The Jumbo package really contains more than double the quantity of a 15c package of other goods. It contains 2½ times as much.

So you see the Jumbo package price compares favorably with 10c goods.

Putting up Orange Meat in different size packages at fixed prices gives a security as well as a constancy to Orange Meat trade—of benefit to you.

That accounts for Orange Meat being regarded as standard goods.

Are you keeping in close touch with the "right-price" goods?

GENERAL CONDITIONS.

Reports to hand are more or less indicative of a general depression at all points of the Dominion. There has, of course, been a certain amount of general trade, which at some points has given a measure of activity, but by no means can business be said to be booming.

At Ontario points the demand during the week under review has at times looked more healthy, and perhaps been a little difficult to execute, but this has been caused by a tendency to hold back supplies rather than to any important demand.

The recent fall in values has had no appreciable effect in stimulating buying, and the general feeling is one of weakness.

No improvement is reported in demand from eastern provinces. Export trade has shown a slight improvement, brokers are reporting more active inquiry, and in some instances fair business has resulted.

The milling demand for Manitoba wheat during the week has been very light, the advance in the price for May shipment putting it above millers' views. Immediately after the holidays, cable bids received by exporters were about one cent out of line, but the last half of the week they have been able to work considerable business, mostly for May-June seaboard at a fair margin over the May price.

A prominent Kingston business man was recently in Port Arthur, and made the statement that Winter navigation on Lake Superior, as proposed by MacKenzie & Mann, was not only feasible but will be in operation in the course of a few years. He was of the opinion this will be the route through which a great deal of the shipping would pass, and as a result Port Arthur would benefit greatly. It would make that port one of the most important of the chain of lakes.

It is reported that a construction company is under contract to begin the erection at Fort William early next Spring of two new elevators. One of the proposed warehouses will be built for the Canadian Pacific, while the other is for an independent firm. The vast increase in acreage to be brought under cultivation next year in the west is said to be responsible for the Canadian Pacific's decision to add to its storage capacity at the head of the lakes.

THE DOW CEREAL AND MILLING COMPANY.

The Dow Cereal & Milling Co., manufacturers of rolled oats, oatmeal, pot and pearl barley, rolled wheat and mill feed, of Pilot Mound, Manitoba, are situated in one of the finest oat belts in Manitoba. The oats from this district have long been recognized by the grain trade of the west as grading with the finest and cleanest oats grown in the great west.

The plant is modern and up-to-date, fitted with the latest and improved machinery to turn out an A1 article, and is equipped throughout with electric light. Since the first of September the mill has been operating 24 hours per day, capacity of plant 300 barrels per day.

Their Buffalo brand (emblem of Manitoba) of rolled oats has a sale from Vancouver to Halifax, and beyond the seas into Great Britain. The Dow Cereal & Milling Co. are also shipping to South Africa, and in time they hope to place their Buffalo brand of rolled oats in every part of the British Empire, on which the sun never sets. They pack Buffalo brand of rolled oats in 90, 80, 40, 20, 8, and 5-lb. sacks. Buyers of car lots east of the Great Lakes can obtain from their sales agents, Nicholson & Bain, Winnipeg, Manitoba, C. & F. prices delivered on track any city, town, or village in Canada, and for C. I.F. price any port in the world.

THEIR OWN GAS GENERATOR.

The Peterborough Cereal Company will have in operation a gas plant of its own, installed by the Gas Supplies and Construction Company, of Toronto. Hitherto the Peterborough Cereal Co. has secured its supply of gas from the plant of the Peterborough Light & Power Co. As is generally known, the Cereal Company employs gas for toasting Canada Flakes, one of the foods they manufacture.

The generator being installed by the Gas Supplies & Construction Co. of Toronto is built along different lines from the ordinary gas generator. This style of generator is in use largely in Europe, but very few are in operation in Canada and the United States. The new system of procuring heat and power is known as "producer gas," and it is claimed that a great deal more energy is derived from the coal than by the ordinary method. The ordinary method of procuring power and heat from coal is by the grate or direct firing, thereby transferring the energy in the coal through the energy of steam generated. Producer gas works upon a different principle. It is made in a generator which allows no escape of the products of the coal from which the gas is generated. Steam which is made from the waste heat from the generator is automatically injected through the heated coal, which is decomposed into the form of hydrogen gas and the smoke and gases which are lost with direct firing are combined in the producer gas and form a part thereof.

CEREAL NOTES.

Manitoba flour dropped thirty cents in price a day or so ago. It is now retailing at $5.60 per barrel. Further decrease in the price is looked for in the near future. Ontario flour is still selling at $5.10 per barrel retail. A drop in the price of Ontarios will

Superintendent of Transportation Price, speaking of conditions at the lake, stated that there was any amount of room for storage in the company's elevators at Fort William. Only about two million bushels are stored there at the present time. This amount is not liable to be increased, as four or five trains leave Fort William every day carrying wheat east by the all-rail route. About one hundred cars are thus shipped out of Fort William daily.

The annual meeting of the Grain Exchange at Winnipeg declared almost unanimously for the establishment of a grain clearing house at Fort William and Port Arthur. This would insure prompt shipments, as the clearing house officials would have power to order any one elevator to deliver a complete cargo to a vessel, thus avoiding loss of time. Expense bills, weight certificates, etc., would receive careful attention, insuring proper and prompt distribution of the grain trade in Winnipeg. The vessel owners, being the ones to obtain the most benefit, would be expected to contribute the largest proportion of the cost

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Flour.

Sluggish conditions prevail. There has been no further drop in price during the week, but buyers are afraid to take chances on quantities, preferring to wait until the market gets steady. Practically the only sales are to merchants who are in immediate need of stock. Stocks are very heavy, some 20,000 barrels more than same week last year. Western Ontario millers are working on half time and holding off supplies. We quote :

Winter wheat patents	4 40	4 70
Straight rollers	4 00	4 20
Extra	4 10	4 40
Straight rollers, bags, 90 per cent	2 00	2 10
Royal Household		4 80
Glenora		4 40
Manitoba spring wheat patents		4 70
" strong bakers		4 50
Buckwheat flour		2 10

Rolled Oats.

A great deal of cutting has been going on owing to new firms trying to secure a footing in the market. This does not mean that oats are declining; they are, if anything, firmer this week than for some time past. The drop in rolled oats is, in consequence, not a legitimate one, and for this reason an impression exists in some quarters that the market is now on the bottom, and no further decline is to be expected. Certainly prices are now very close to cost, and should additional reductions be made producers would be making no profits. We quote :

Fine oatmeal, bags	2 40	2 50
Standard oatmeal, bags	2 50	2 60
Granulated " "	2 40	2 45
Rolled oats, "	2 45	2 50
"		5 30
" 90-lb. bags		2 80
" 80-lb. bags		2 65

Feed.

The firmness which characterized last week's market is still manifest. Bran in particular is very scarce, and can scarcely be obtained under any circumstances. The supply of middlings, however, is pretty well up to the demand, and the market remains very steady. Manitoba bran is in good demand, but supplies are light. We quote :

Ontario bran	17 00	17 50
Ontario shorts	20 00	21 00
Manitoba shorts	19 50	20 00
" bran	18 00	18 50
Mouillie, milled	21 00	24 00
" straight grained	25 00	28 00

Hay.

The market is exceedingly quiet, supplies are plentiful, particularly of No. 2. No. 1 is selling fairly well at quotations. Advices from abroad report markets dull, with supplies sufficient for requirements; export, in consequence, is dull. We quote :

No. 1	8 50	9 00
" 2	7 25	7 50
Clover mixed	6 00	6 50
Clover, pure	5 50	6 00

TORONTO MARKETS.

Flour.

Business has been uninteresting and without distinctive feature since our last report. Orders have been mainly of a sorting up character. Export trade has shown better demand and a few orders have been in evidence at prices which had to be shaded to close the transactions. Prospects, however, are considered more promising, and buyers and sellers are getting nearer together. We quote :

Manitoba wheat patents, per bbl. in bags	4 30	4 70
Strong bakers " "	4 10	4 50
Ontario wheat patents " "	3 75	4 00
Straight roller " "	3 50	3 75

Grain.

Trade has not been over active since our last report; arrivals have been coming in pretty freely. At outside points reports denote fair deliveries at the mills, and tend to show that farmers are disposed to market their grain, although at the same time the opinion is that a good deal is being held back for expected developments. In a few lines prices have firmed up a little, as will be seen from quotations. We quote :

All on track Toronto.
Manitoba wheat, Northern No. 1	0 88½	0 89
" " hard, No. 1,
" " " No. 2	0 85½	0 86

Peas "		0 84
Buckwheat "	0 55	0 56

Breakfast Cereals.

The delivery of grain for breakfast cereals is reported as fairly good at most points throughout the province. Trade, however, is disappointing even at this season, which is always considered a falling one. Prices are unchanged at the decline reported in our last. We quote :

Oatmeal, standard and granulated, carlots, on track, per bbl	5 30
Rolled wheat in boxes, 100 lbs	2 40
" " 50 lbs	1 30
Rolled oats, standard, carlots, per bbl., in bags	4 75
" " " " " in wood	5 00
" " " " for broken lots	5 15

ST. JOHN, N.B.

Flour, Feed and Meal.

In flour prices unchanged since the late decline. Market seems quite firm. Oatmeal unchanged at the lower prices. Cornmeal easier. Beans, while rather firmer, have little movement. Seeds begin to receive attention. Prices all round are high, particularly Canadian clovers. The working of the new law regulating the quality of seed will be watched with interest.

GREEN FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

FEATURES OF INTEREST.

The fruit markets at all points appear to be overtaken by a season of dullness. This is thought by dealers no more than should be expected after the remarkably good time that has been in evidence right through the holiday.

Cranberries are almost an unknown quantity. Prices are ruling high and reaching almost fancy figures.

California navel oranges have met with a sudden check, in sympathy with the U. S. markets, and prices have weakened considerably, showing a decline of some 25c. to 40c.

A feature which is noticeable on the market at this time is the great headway being made in sales of grape fruit. Hitherto it has been somewhat of a slow seller; during the present season, however, more have been already sold than were in the two last seasons combined. The quality of this fruit is particularly good this season.

Apple sales on the British market are reported as very active, with good prices being realized. At most recent sales spies fetched $7.50 per barrel, Baldwins and Greenings $6 to $6.50.

B. C. FRUIT MAKES A HIT AT WINNIPEG.

During 1905 the trade in British Columbia fruit may be said to have reached the importance of an industry in Winnipeg. The exhibits made at the Dominion Exhibition of 1904, and the Industrial of 1905, drew much attention to the quality of the fruit, and the various growers' associations, through Mr R. M. Palmer, of the Bureau of Information, Victoria, made arrangements with the Ottawa Fruit Co. to handle all their fruit on that market.

In all 18,250 packages or parcels of fruit have been handled, comprising peaches, plums, pears, cherries, tomatoes, blackberries, rhubarb, crabapples, apples and onions.

Of these packages no less than 10,000 came from Kelowna, which stands at the head, not only numerically, but also as to quality of fruit and packing. The Kelowna shipments included all the varieties of fruits mentioned.

From Hammond, 450 packages, made up of apples, blackberries, pears and plums.

Peachland, 400 packages, mainly peaches, with some tomatoes and pears. Peaches were excellent.

New Westminster, 100 packages, mainly rhubarb and pears.

Haney, 2,000 packages of splendid fruit, made up of apples, rhubarb, blackberries, plums and pears.

Mission City, 100 packages, rhubarb, pears and plums.

Hatzic, 1,000 packages, comprising rhubarb, blackberries and plums.

Agassiz and Vancouver, small shipments.

Chilliwack, 3,000 packages, mainly plums, with a few pears.

It will be noted that apples, pears and plums seem to be successful all over British Columbia. The blackberries made a splendid record for carrying qualities and for flavor, and another year will find the Winnipeg demand in excess of the supply, unless all signs fail. Apples from British Columbia have been most satisfactory, especially such varieties as russets and northern spys, the latter being of splendid size, magnificently colored, a rich and nutty flavor, and very juicy.

About 1,500 sacks of potatoes were received from Kelowna, and those coming on the market when southern new potatoes were over and local new potatoes had not come in, created a very favorable impression.

The prices obtained for this fruit are interesting, as every housewife will be anxious to compare values. Fine table cherries brought from $1.50 to $3.50 per crate; peaches, $1.00 to 1.80; plums, 80c., $1.00 and $1.75, according to variety; pears, $1.75 to $3.50 per box; blackberries, $2.50 to $4.90 per crate; apples, $1.00 to $2.50 per box. The tomatoes, which were very superior in quality, did not make such a good record as to prices, owing to the keen competition from the east; they ranged from 50c. to $1.50 per crate.

All of the fruit was sold by auction, and may, therefore, be said to have sold upon its merits. The improvement in packing has been most marked this year, and no one who has ever tasted British Columbia fruit has any complaint to make as to its quality and flavor.

Altogether both shippers and handlers have reason to consider the season a success, and the outlook for a fruit supply from the Pacific coast is brighter than it has every been before.

PROPOSED FRUIT SHOW AT ST. CATHARINES.

The St. Catharines Horticultural Society held a well attended meeting Wednesday night, Jan. 10, when the annual reports submitted showed the excellent condition of the society. The officers elected were: President, W. B. Burgoyne; 1st vice-president, W. H. Bunting; 2nd vice-president, Robert Wilker; secretary, H. B. Burgoyne.

A committee was appointed to make arrangements for holding a district fruit, flower and vegetable show in September, similar to that held in Hamilton last year. The event will quite likely be held in the new armory.

TO PROTECT THE ORCHARDS.

As a result of the discovery of specimens of the San Jose scale on Japanese oranges, a round-up of all the fruit of the kind in Vancouver was made recently and it will be fumigated at the local station before being again offered for sale. The collections were made from the wholesale houses and 3,500 boxes were gathered in. Hereafter all Japanese oranges coming into port will be inspected similarly to apples and pears, and fruit found infected will be destroyed. An instant result of this action will be the advance in price of Japanese oranges to 60 cents per box.

Inspector Cunningham stated that the steps were taken solely to protect the orchards of the province. As far as the fruit itself was concerned, the presence of the scale worked no injury and the eating quality was not harmed. But the scale, if introduced in the orchards, would in a short time work incalculable harm, ruining the trees. The scale is often found on fruit from California, but up to the present only casual examination of Japanese oranges had been made for its presence. In his office the inspector has seventeen young specimens which were born under the microscope recently. Although they have had no nourishment since their birth, they were distinctly alive when seen, showing their great tenacity of life.

The fumigation of the fruit is performed with cyanide of potassium and sulphuric acid. It is a rather expensive operation amd may not possibly effect the desired end, but scientists agree that it is the best course. The expense is borne by the provincial government.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Green Fruits

Market conditions are much the same as last week. Business continues very quiet, as the trade has not yet recovered from the holiday lull. California navels have declined 25 to 40c. per box on account of lower prices in New York. Jamaica oranges, however, are quoted at $4 as a steady market, and local dealers are expecting large shipments of this fruit next week. Cranberries are as scarce as ever, and, in fact, they are now commanding a higher price than at any time during the past fifteen years. We quote :

B. C. MARKETS.

Fruits and Vegetables.

In vegetables the potato market is short, supply being very irregular. Locals of varying quality are from $12 to $16 per ton, while Yakima Valley stock in limited quantities brings $28 to $30. Few Ashcrofts offer, and they are worth $25 per ton.

California navel oranges are 25c. per case cheaper on all grades. The supply is liberal though well regulated by shippers. The quality continues to improve as the season advances.

Good apples are beginning to be sought. The lower mainland supplies of better class have diminished, though large quantities of poorer grades still offer. Coldstream and other Okanagan packings come in regularly, and command $1.75 to $2—the top of the market. Other grades bring from 90c. to $1.50 per box.

BISCUITS AND CONFECTIONERY

SEASONABLE ADVICE.

Now is the time for the grocer to look around and see what has been the result of his energy and enterprise. Don't slacken up too soon after the holiday season. Everyone has been making an extra spurt to catch a share of the Christmas trade. Windows have been decorated, and special displays made of all sorts of confectionery. What's the use of dropping right back into the old rut? It's so easy to drift into a humdrum way of doing business, with nothing to enliven things or give the least bit of variety, and a great many actually get thinking that this is all they can do. Just now, while the time for turning over a new leaf is at hand, is a good time to take an inventory of business methods and see if some sort of change cannot be introduced with advantage to all concerned.

Confectionery stands boldly to the front as a very profitable part of the Christmas trade. How have you treated this line of goods? Has it been the success it should? If not, why not? If you have given it a prominent place in your store, there is little doubt that you have proved its advantage as a profit getter. Take up the question, therefore, without further hesitancy; apportion a section of your store for its exclusive display; order in a full line of the goods you have proved to be ready sellers, and keep your stock up-to-date. Confectionery has come to stay, and it is undoubtedly one of the enterprising grocer's opportunities.

USEFUL CANDY RECEIPTS.

Nougat.

Take two pounds of blanched, shredded and dried almonds, two pounds of powdered sugar. Place the sugar in a small copper pan, without water, set the pan over a moderate fire, and stir the sugar with a small spatula until melted. As soon as the sugar begins to pearl up on the surface in the form of small bubbles, add a few drops of lemon juice, then throw in the almonds, stirring all together gently until well mixed, pour out on an oiled marble, roll out with a greased rolling pin, and cut into small squares or oblongs with a caramel cutter. This nougat is used for a variety of purposes. It can be used for pyramids, vases, baskets, cornucopias, etc., or else it can be cast into ornamental shapes by lining small molds previously slightly oiled inside. As each mold is so lined, cut the edges level with the candy shears, before the nougat becomes quite cold, for it is then brittle and breaks. A certain number of these nougat molds with an ornamental caramel sugar handle fitted to it, and afterwards filled with whipped cream and a strawberry on the top of each basket, form a charming garnish for a side dish. When strawberries are out of season, a French cherry may be used.

Cream Filberts.

The filberts can be used as they are, but they taste better when partly roasted, cleaned and then run up. Place the filberts in the revolving pan after cleaning and while they are still hot, or else heat them in a peanut roaster, then cook three pounds of sugar to every pound of filberts to two hundred and forty-two degrees. Let the pan run and commence to charge the filberts, in small quantities at first, with the hot sugar, having a little heat on the revolving pan also. When the sugar is all used up, cook one pound of sugar to every pound of filberts to two hundred and forty-five or six degrees, flavor it and run this sugar on the filberts as fast as it will dry, and as soon as the last sugar is poured on, and before it gets dry, take them out of the pan and place in trays. The last sugar is generally colored white, pink or chocolate.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF FRUIT DEALERS AT WINNIPEG.

A large meeting of the fruit dealers of Winnipeg, including representatives of all the large firms, was held on January 11 in the city council chamber, to consider the matter of securing amendments to the Fruit Marks Act in the interests of the west, and the advisability of sending a delegate to Ottawa to represent the western fruit trade before the parliamentary committee.

President Farner, of the Horticultural Society, occupied the chair, and Joseph Carman, secretary of the Winnipeg Fruit Exchange, acted as secretary. Among those present were J. Phillips, fruit inspector, who called the meeting; A. Macpherson, R. Scott, K. J. Johnston, A. Sinclair, R. B. Wiseman, R. R. Rublee, R. J. Salisbury, W. J. Dawson, and a large number of others.

A very long and thorough discussion of the Fruit Marks Act took place, and finally a committee was appointed to draft such amendments to it as the western trade seems to desire. This committee consists of Messrs. Macpherson, Wiseman, Farner, Phillips and Carman, and it will report at a general meeting of the trade to be held shortly.

The chief amendment desired is a definition of the "XX" apple. The act defines the "XXX" apple, which is the best, and also the "X" apple, which is the third grade, and it has been the practice of eastern shippers to mark anything between the two grades as "XX," inferior fruit frequently coming under that mark. It is also desired to revise the definition of the "XXX" apple, the present provision requiring a barrel marked "XXX" to contain 90 per cent. of "XXX" apples, but saying nothing as to the grade of the remaining 10 per cent.

The subject of sending a representative to Ottawa to place the views of the western trade before Parliament, was also discussed, and it is not improbable that such a delegate will be sent.

No dealer acquires a reputation for courtesy unless he deserves it.

THE MONTREAL MAPLE CO.

88 GREY NUN ST., MONTREAL, QUE.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The twentieth annual meeting of the French Chamber of Commerce of Montreal was held in the Board of Trade building on the 11th inst.

The ballot resulted in the election of the following directors: President, Mr. C. A. Chouillou; vice-president, Mr. G. des Etangs; secretary, Mr. A. F. Revol; treasurer, Mr. J. Salone.

The president in his annual report reviewed the work of the chamber and the principal commercial events of the year. He stated that the number of members of the chamber from its establishment increased from ten to nearly four hundred. During the past five years its correspondence increased four-fold, and the general business showed also a remarkable increase as well as the number of its visitors.

The report mentions an unusual proportion of English agents and tradesmen who came to inquire about possibilities of entering into communication with French firms. This fact is evidently a good result of the warm reception of the Canadian manufacturers in Paris and of the "entente cordiale" on the other side. The French chamber has, therefore, the intention of pushing on this friendly intercourse between the two countries by the publication next Spring of a special number of its Monthly Bulletin. This edition, published in English and French, will be issued at 10,000 copies. It will be fully illustrated and devoted to giving both French and Canadian tradesmen a better knowledge of their own countries and of their natural, commercial and industrial resources.

Regarding the general prosperity of Canada, the report reviewed the wonderful progress of this country during the last year.

The increase of the national income, the excellent situation of financial institutions, abundant crops, discovery of new mines, development of railways, the St. Lawrence channel enlarged and improved, a new direct line of navigation established between Canada and France—such were the points fully covered in the report.

We are especially pleased to point out that the Canadian manufacturers' visit to France is mentioned as one of the most important commercial events of the year, and that the French chamber pays a tribute of regret and admiration to the Hon. R. Prefontaine, who accomplished so many great things in the interest of the country.

In connection with the policy of promoting freer and better trade between Canada and France the Chamber of Commerce are sending out circulars to manufacturers, exporters and shippers, calling attention to the importance of expanding trade between the two countries and asking for co-operation in the work.

Mr. C. A. Chouillou, the newly elected president, is one of Montreal's prominent merchants and an extensive shipper of Canadian products. He is most energetic and enthusiastic in furthering the interests of the French Chamber of Commerce, and his election is not only complimentary to him but to the members as well, and "se va sans dire" that during his tenure of office the position will be filled with credit, honor and ability.

After You Get Started It's Easy

Grocers, take my word for it, if you start the right way it is easy to sell cigars. I make such a declaration because I have the testimony of grocers to support me.

I know that certain arguments are whispered to you against "starting"; but I can tell you that such arguments got life through certain grocers handling cigars that no smoker would buy twice.

I believe—more than that, I know—the

The Powers Behind the Tobacco Throne

1. The Name on the Package smoker changing. If he wasn't satisfied he would change quick enough. He knows what "T. & B." on the package means. He has the strongest proof. If smokers are guided by the name on the package, why not grocers? You know there is no better advertised tobacco than T. & B.; and as the name on the package is always the same, so the tobacco in the package is always the same. Because T. & B. is a sure tobacco you should make it your selection.

HANDLING CUSTOMERS WITH COMPLAINTS.

Probably the greatest test of business capability and character is the treatment of customers who come to the store with complaints. Intolerance of complaint and display of temper on slight provocation always reveal a lack of the equanimity of temperament necessary to success in retail business.

In justice to the public it may be said that few of them make complaints except for cause, and the manner of their treatment on these rare occasions determines whether you are to retain their good will and trade or forfeit both.

It pays, therefore, to suppress all feeling or resentment, whether the complaint be justifiable or not. A little reason and consideration will often rectify the trouble.

AMBER AND ITS IMITATIONS.

Amber, which is used principally for the mouthpiece of pipes, is found only in and on the shores of the Baltic Sea. It is a resinous substance, and is supposed to be the petrified product of submerged pine forests. There are two kinds used by pipemakers. One is the "stone" amber, which is found in pieces ranging in size from the dimensions of a pea up to several inches long. The other is a manufactured article, and is known to the trade as "ambroid." It is made of small pieces of stone amber, fused by a secret process. There is only one factory of it—that at Koenigsberg, on the shore of the Baltic—and it is controlled by the German Government. Few people ever heard of ambroid. Tell the average man that the mouthpiece on his pipe is an artificial product and he will resent it; but if it is more than an inch long, it is very sure to be ambroid. And any honest pipemaker will tell you that it is none the worse for that. Ambroid comes in cakes about an inch and a half thick, three inches wide, and ten inches long. One of these blocks weighs 2 lbs., and looks like an exaggerated bar of soap. Stone amber in pieces larger than 1x1x3 inches costs about five times as much as ambroid, but in very small bits it is cheaper than the manufactured article. You are, therefore, much more likely to get stone amber when you buy a pipe with a very short mouthpiece than you are to get ambroid. It is the amber or ambroid mouthpiece that makes a briar pipe expensive.

TO COLOR MEERSCHAUM.

Don't put a cover on your meerschaum if you want it to color nicely. That will sound like rank heresy to some people, who have been educated to believe that a chamois skin jacket ought to be sewed on a new meerschaum before the tobacco is placed in it at all. But an old pipemaker is the author of the advice. He ought to know, for his father and grandfather before him made meerschaum pipes for a living. In smoking a meerschaum, a "top bowl" should be placed in the pipe bowl proper. This prevents the fire from coming in contact with the bowl. If the fire touches the bowl it is made "raw" and will not color.—Cigar and Tobacco Journal.

A BAN ON CIGARETTE SMOKING.

An unprecedented stand in the matter of smoking has been taken by the cigarmakers' union of Worcester, Mass., who voted that any member of the organization found guilty of smoking a cigarette should be fined $5 for each offence.

The new rule of the union was taken, it is said, to protect the sick benefit fund. An investigation by the sick committee showed that of the members who drew sick benefits the cigarette smokers were in the majority, and it was also argued that more death claims were paid to the families of men who had been addicted to the habit. The members of the union are permitted to smoke pipes or cigars, the rule applying only to paper cigarettes.

FINE TOBACCO CROP.

It is estimated that the crop of tobacco grown in Essex county last season was about twelve million pounds. The crop averaged 1,200 pounds per acre in Essex county. The average yield in Kentucky is 500 pounds per acre.

"Oh, splendid!" she exclaimed, "I'll be delighted to go there."

PROGRESSIVE RETAILING

FORTUNES IN 10c. STORES.

By Jonas Howard.

An active man of good common sense, having no mercantile training of any kind, yet with industry, willingness, and a cash capital of $800 as a minimum, perhaps commands more chances in the mercantile field through the medium of the 5 and 10 cent store to-day than are to be rounded up in all the horizon of business.

For ages man has been despising the day of small things. All his civilized life he has been disposed to consider the house which sells nothing for less than a dime. He has had to be coached in recognizing the house which cannot charge any more than 10 cents for anything on shelf or counter. Thus the jobber in 5 and 10 cent goods at wholesale is meeting the retailer in these special lines more than half way to the establishment of a business which the prospective retailer has known nothing whatever about in any period of his life.

Common sense, industry, activity and tactfulness are the necessary forces in the man. The possession of $800 in addition should establish him in a mercantile line out of which millions a year have been earned by just such novitiates in the world of mercantile business. The up-to-date jobbing house in his lines will assist him in finding the location for his store; it will prepare the outline of a stock suitable to the community in which the venture is to be made; he will be coached in the foundation principles of business, and if the man is all that the credit man of the house desires as a risk, the jobber will credit $200 to $300 worth of goods to the adventurer into business.

Department Store in Miniature.

The 5 and 10 cent store is a department store in little, from which the department store of to-day was evolved. In its experimental stages this prototype of the department store existed when the possibilities of the penny were not to be guessed at. The daily newspaper sold for a nickel, and when three boxes of sulphur matches sold for a dime it was a bargain to be spoken of as the purchaser walked home with them. Then the question was, what are the things that we can sell for 10 cents? Now it might be asked of the small necessities of the household, what can't we sell for a dime?

When the man with the necessary $800 has fixed upon a location for his business the population of the town or of the city neighborhood will have been considered and canvassed. The 5 and 10 cent store has its population limits. At the least 12,000 population in a town will be necessary to an exclusive business in 5 and 10 cent goods, but in a town of 3,000, for instance, the 5 and 10 cent counters in a variety store, with other goods marked to a 50 cent or $1 limit, still can be run for all they are worth. As a proposition for the novice, however, the 5 and 10 cent lines are better from all points of view, and for these reasons the beginner in merchandising should attempt to find the field for a store confining itself to these small lines.

Window Display is Important.

These are the goods of all others which sell themselves largely by attracting first the attention of the purchaser. This purchaser has put down sugar and coffee on a purchasing list; the things she will buy of the 5 and 10 cent store have not been thought of at all — she will need to see them in a window. Therefore the beginner needs to make sure of his window. Even with the window, however, the window must be fronting a street where women and children are accustomed to walk freely and without hindrance of any kind. This will mean a rental above the average for a street, but within the bounds of reasonableness rental will not drive a good man from a good location to a poor one. Better pay $50 a month for a store by which people pass and repass than to pay only half as much for a place to which customers will have to be led

As a general proposition the 5 and 10 cent stores find the likeliest environment in a town which has a fair share of factories and which is surrounded by a thrifty farming community. Between the farm and the factory the small merchant may count upon the most promising constituency. In the larger cities a location in some provincial sort of neighborhood where the residents as a rule do not get down town to the department stores suggests the best opportunities. Necessarily the business of the small store is for cash. But in the case of the person who may be slow pay at the grocer's and drygoodsman's, he is reassured at the door of the 5 and 10 cent shop by recalling that at the most he will not have to pay more than a dime for the thing he wants. Buying the one thing he wants, it remains with the notion dealer to have his stock so arranged and so inviting that another sale or two will be made before the customer gets away.

Stock is Simplicity Itself.

The young man venturing into the small 5 and 10 cent lines may have things all his own way if only he is competent in dealing with human nature and resourceful in his business schemes. His stock is simplicity itself. Most of his 10 cent goods will have cost him from 48 to 72 cents a dozen; his 5 cent lines will have cost him from 20 to 36 cents a dozen, delivered at his door. He will have an almost unlimited freedom in the selection of the goods he shall sell. His grocer friend next door will have to carry large lines of sugar, flour, soap, and the like, upon which he has virtually no profit at all; the notion man may throw out a novelty line at any time it is not paying and substitute something else that will pay. The customer who could not buy the profitless sugar from the grocer would be incensed at the grocer's being "out"; the same customer in the 10 cent store probably finds something else for the nickel or the dime.

The advantages to be summed up for the investor in the 5 and 10 cent lines appeal especially strong to the uninitiated young man who may want to start out for himself in a new business without having had a previous training. The store of this kind is at once an all season store, knowing neither Winter nor Summer as affecting stocks. If the store site is chosen with reference to its accessibility for women and children, a good plate glass front for the window displays will cover a multitude of shortcomings in the price of interior fixtures and decorations. Tables, counters, shelves and decorations may be had at lowest figures, and yet serve every purpose of display if only good taste, neatness and judgment are exercised by the storekeeper. The stock of the average successful 5 and 10 cent store should be turned from six to twelve times a year, as against the possible twice turning of a hardware stock, and in the turning of these goods the merchant has an eye always for the "sellers"—for the stuff that does not lie long on counters, gathering dust. To prevent dust gathering, too, the plain, cash figures on each individual article are essential.

What was Done With $1,500.

As an example showing what may be done with a stock of 5 and 10 cent goods in a town of average possibilities the experience of a live young man in such a field under such circumstances may be given. This man had no experience as a merchant, but he had common sense, and his store was equipped and stocked on a common sense basis. His $1,500 investment was apportioned in stock as follows:

Tinware	$ 200
Enameled ware	80
Hardware	200
Cutlery	40
Woodenware	40
Brushes	40
Glassware	150
Crockery	60
China	50
Sporting goods	30
Horse goods	30
Staple toys and dolls	100
Cheap jewelry	60
Notions	75
Pictures and mirrors	25
Stationery	50
Books	30
Perfume and soap	50
Smokers' goods	20
Dry goods	100
Dry goods notions	50
Clothing, hats and caps	20
Total	$1,500

Before the opening of the store he had done some effective advertising, and the first day's sales were $150. For the first week the sales were $350. Then came a lull in business, until finally the new house struck its gait of $200 a week, with Saturday's sales representing $50 to $75 of this.

A DOUBLE PROFIT

Royal Baking Powder Pays a Greater Profit to the Grocer Than any Other Baking Powder He Sells.

Profit means real money in the bank. It does not mean "percentage," which may represent very little actual money. A grocer often has the chance to sell either:

1. A baking powder for 45c. a pound and make a profit of 5c. or 6c., or,
2. A baking powder for 10c. a pound and make "20 per cent profit," which means only 2c. actual money. Which choice should you take?

Royal Baking Powder makes the customer satisfied and pleased, not only with the baking powder, but also with the flour, butter, eggs, etc., which the grocer sells.

This satisfaction of the customer is the foundation of the best and surest profit in business—it is permanent. Do not take the risk of selling a cheap alum baking powder; some day the customer may find out about the alum, and then your best profit in the customer's confidence is gone.

Royal Baking Powder pays greater profits to the grocer than any other baking powder he sells.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK

THE BUSINESS SITUATION IN CANADA

Mr. Byron E. Walker at the Annual Meeting of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

The thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Shareholders of the Canadian Bank of Commerce was eminently satisfactory, for they had a most prosperous year. The directors' report showed, in addition to a balance of $28,726 39 from last year, net profits of $1,376,167 63, premiums on new stock $564,996 63, so that, in addition to paying dividends at 7 per cent. to the amount of $666,784.27, writing off bank premises $219,233.99 and transferring to the Pension Fund $25,000, there remained $1,000,000 to be transferred to the Rest Account, together with a balance forward of $58,871.76. The reserve fund is now $4,500,000 and the capital $10,000,000.

The feature of the gathering and the talk in Canadian financial circles was the address of the General Manager, Mr. B. E. Walker. It is probably the best review of the business situation in Canada that has ever been presented. We publish his remarks in full. This address, taken in connection with Lord Strathcona's recent prophesy of a population of 80,000,000 for Canada within the century, is flattering to Canadian sentiment and should encourage a conservative investment in both public and private enterprises of a permanent character.

GENERAL MANAGER'S ADDRESS.

In reviewing the business situation a year ago we found it a much more difficult task than usual because of the very varying state of many of the factors which influence our progress. We began the year 1904 expecting some curtailment of a prosperity which had perhaps lasted too long without a check. But although the results from the forest, from agriculture, pasturage and fishing, were all less than we had hoped, the end of the year found us prosperous and more confident than ever. Beyond a doubt, however, we were spending money in all matters, public and private, on an unexampled scale for this usually prudent and economical country, and nothing but large results from industry for the past year would have justified our course. Throughout the whole of 1905, however, there has been no moment of national doubt, and nature seems to have furthered almost every effort we have made. This has clearly produced an optimism which is fraught with great danger, and it is to be hoped that everywhere in Canada the many who did not hesitate to incur debt because they believed in the future, will, now that partial fruition of their hopes has come, hasten to get out of debt before they consider what new expenditure the still further removed future will justify. In saying this I need not apologize for repeating what has already been said elsewhere; indeed, it can hardly be said too often.

It may be well before dealing with details, to consider the main facts which seem to influence our immediate future. So far as our interests are in common with those of the rest of the world, the end of the Russo-Japanese war seems the most important event of the year. The cost of money in the markets of Europe, owing to recent wars, has been abnormally high for many years. If, after the final loans caused by this last war are placed, we are to have a long period of peace, then the value of money in Europe should gradually decline, and this would have a most favorable effect not only in the ease with which money could be got for Canadian enterprises, but in the cost of the fixed charges upon the enterprises arising from such borrowings. Of course the present terribly disordered state of Russia must pass away before Paris and other continental money markets are restored to a normal condition. But in any event, unless China intends to resent her bad treatment by the western nations, it seems as if we may reasonably expect peace and great industrial development in that part of Asia which looks across the ocean to our own Provinces and to those States in the American Union which have their shores on the Pacific Ocean. If so, we are reasonably certain that this bank will share largely in the trade which must come to both Canada and the United States. While the purchasing power of each individual of these Japanese and Chinese peoples may be very small—and that part of it which represents what is called foreign trade is certainly very trifling—still the aggregate, owing to the vast population, will be very large as soon as they are well enough off to buy such staples as wheat, flour, timber, railroad supplies, etc., in any proportion to their desire to obtain these commodities.

Another great factor in the gradual restoration of the money markets to a normal condition is the rapidly increasing new gold supply. The addition in each year to the world's store of precious metals of about $350,000,000 worth of gold and about $100,000,000 worth, at present market prices, of silver, is large enough not only to steady the money markets in the course of time, but also to give great impetus to the efforts being made in some countries to escape from a mere paper basis, and in others which are on a silver basis, to advance to a gold basis. We have entirely recovered from the decline in the volume of production caused by the South African war; indeed the output of $350,000,000 for 1904 means an increase in the annual production of $150,000,000 in nine years. So that we may soon be able to say that the world has doubled its annual new supply of gold in twelve or fifteen years.

Other important facts, but of more local and direct concern to Canada, are our good crops, the enlarged scale of our railroad building, the satisfactory inflow of immigration, the development of steel and iron making, and the tremendously enhanced interest shown regarding Canada in both Great Britain and the United States, particularly exemplified by acute discussions of tariff preference and reciprocity.

It is hardly necessary to enter as fully into the details of our foreign trade as we did a year ago. The fiscal year covered by the Dominion Government reports ended 30th June, 1905, and the effect of the harvest of 1905 on our exports is therefore not yet evident. We again show a serious loss in exports, the total falling to $203,316,000, about $10,000,000 less than in 1904, and $22,500,000 less than the high-water mark of 1903. The loss is practically all in agricultural products, other increases and decreases about offsetting each other. Doubtless in the first half of the present fiscal year the loss will have been made up. The more serious aspect of our foreign trade is on the import side. We had $10,000,000 less to pay with by way of exchanging commodities, and yet we bought $7,500,000 more than for the previous year, widening the unfavorable balance between exports and imports to $63,500,000. From 1895 to 1901 inclusive, but deducting the small contra balance of 1899, the excess of exports over imports was $51,000,000. This has been followed by an excess of imports over exports from 1902 to 1905 inclusive, but practically for only three years, of $125,000,000. As we said a year ago, we are spending money in public and private improvements, looking to the future for a return, but do not let us overlook the fact that we are putting a heavy mortgage on the future. It is well to notice that we imported a little less from Great Britain in the year under review than in the previous year, while our imports from the United States were nearly $11,000,000 greater. Of our imports iron and steel in all forms, including rails, account for nearly $40,000,000. This gives a concrete illustration of what it would be worth to Canada to make these articles entirely, or as nearly as possible, in our own country.

The Clearing House returns help us to understand the growth of the internal trade of Canada. In 1904 the total of the operations of eleven clearing houses was $2,735,744,235. For 1905 the total is $3,336,602,170.

THE MARITIME PROVINCES.

In view of the rather unhappy conditions we had to report last year regarding the Maritime Provinces, it is pleasant to have to deal with a much improved state of affairs this year. The Provinces experienced another unusually severe winter, and this had a somewhat adverse effect on business. For instance it increased the cost and lessened the cut of lumber. The cut, it will be remembered, was being in any event intionally reduced because of a sharp fall in the price of deals. The usual result of this curtailment of product has happily been obtained, and returns for all lumber products are again high while the prices offered for the next season's cut of spruce deals are almost a record, and the demand for freight space at St.

John, N.B., has very greatly increased rates. For fish, prices have been paid which have not been reached before, and results in some kinds of fishing are quite satisfactory. There are, however, details in this important industry which are worth our attention. While the bank and the bay fishing have been equal to the average of the last three seasons, with better prices, the shore fishing, except in lobsters, is nearly ruined by the so-called dog-fish, the predatory incursions of which have almost ruined for the time being the valuable mackerel and herring fisheries. The loss incurred in money is very large indeed, and it is certainly to be hoped that the experiments of the Government, looking to the material decrease of the numbers of dog-fish, may be successful.

The enforcement of the Newfoundland Bait Act, as it applies to United States fishing vessels, is helping the fishermen of the Maritime Provinces as well as of Newfoundland, and the importance of the matter to us makes it an additional cause for regret that Newfoundland is not in the Confederation. Is it not time for Canada to reconsider the modus vivendi arrived at after the rejection by the United States Senate, in 1888, of the Chamberlain-Bayard Treaty? Why should we give United States fishing vessels the very privileges which enable them to undersell us in their markets? We realize that this is a matter which must be viewed broadly if any breadth of view is shown by our neighbors, but we have as yet seen little evidence of that. Canada and Newfoundland together own magnificent fishing areas, large enough to influence greatly the fish markets of the world. As the various countries of the world increase in wealth and purchasing power, the demand for fish, cured in one form or another, must steadily increase. The prosperity of our Atlantic and Pacific Provinces depends virtually on the permanence and increased volume of our fisheries. Why should we hesitate to take every step necessary to protect and develop such a national asset? Indeed it is most pleasant to see that the Department of Marine and Fisheries, under the late Minister, has been exhibiting considerable energy in this direction.

The yield of apples was only about 60 per cent. of a normal crop, but prices are high. In hay, from the lack of which last year great loss arose, there was at least a normal, and, in some parts, a very large crop. Produce of almost all kinds has brought good prices and while there are a few localities where progress has not been made, the general results are excellent. The completion of the Halifax & South-Western Railway should do much for some parts of Nova Scotia. We are able once more to report that the various branches of manufacturing in these Provinces have been, as a rule, very profitable, and that in many cases the yearly output has again been the largest known. In some very important industries the orders in hand are particularly large, and the quantity of coal mined has somewhat increased. Perhaps the most gratifying and important industrial fact is the further improvement in the conditions surrounding the manufacture of iron and steel, and particularly the beginning of the manufacture of rails, the excellent quality of which seems to have been demonstrated at once.

ONTARIO.

To the people of Ontario, as a whole, the year has been one of very general prosperity. The industries of the Province, whether on the farm or in the town, the geographical situation, and the conditions of soil and climate, are all so varied that we can hardly have years in which there are no localities which differ in prosperity from the general average. What is clear, however, is that, while we have not had a year so good for the farmers as 1903, we have had a very much better year than 1904. Crops of wheat, oats, barley and other grains have varied more than usual in yield in different parts of the Province, and in some grains prices have not been as good as last year, but the total result is satisfactory. These crops, except to the extent that they affect the value of cattle fed for the market, are no longer of prime importance. The crop of hay has been heavy in some parts, not so in others, but a good crop as a whole, while pasturage has been abundant almost everywhere. Roots, as a whole, have been unsatisfactory, but this does not apply to sugar beets, which are being grown more extensively each year in several parts of Ontario. Fruit crops have been variable, but shipments of apples from Montreal are larger than in any year except 1903. The total for 1905 from that port is 539,000 barrels, against 348,000 for 1904, and 732,000 for 1903. When we turn to the great farming interest, that of the dairy, the figures become very interesting. Taking, as we should, the results from cheese and butter together, the figures for the past year are almost the largest in the history of shipments from Montreal. The quantity of cheese shipped is about 10 per cent. less than in 1903, and not appreciably more than in 1897, 1902 and 1904, but the average price is so high that 1905 remains the largest in money value except 1903, when both quantity and average price were the largest ever known. It is in the more lately established export of butter that pronounced gain has been made. The total shipments were 573,449 packages, valued at $7,400,000. The price is better than last year, but not as good as for several years previous to 1904. The only year which surpasses 1905 in results is 1902, when a somewhat smaller quantity brought a larger sum of money owing to a much higher price. Taking the two articles together, the totals for the last four years, three of which exceed all other years, are as follows:

1905	$25,426,000
1904	20,704,000
1903	26,366,000
1902	25,863,000

The other great farming interest of Ontario, that of live stock, is less satisfactory, taken as a whole, than is desirable. Shipments of cattle have been larger than for any year except 1903, when they exceeded the shipments of 1905 by 25 per cent. The business, however, has been unprofitable to both grazier and shipper. The grazier paid too much for the cattle he put on grass, and at present prices feels forced, in many cases, to feed them over the winter in the hope of better prices next spring. The home and United States markets for sheep have been good, and the prices paid in Canada for hogs particularly so. Horses also have been in good demand. The general result of all farming industry in Ontario is shown by larger purchases, and by payments on mortgages, implement notes, and other debts, indicating a most healthy and prosperous condition. In the lumber trade in Ontario there has been a reduction in the cut, as in New Brunswick, but prices for pine and hemlock are about at the highest, and the year has been a prosperous one. While there may, in the coming season, be a still further advance in the cost of production, prices are so high as to ensure a good profit, and unless there is a scarcity of water in the streams we shall probably have an increased quantity manufactured.

Interest in mining has been stimulated by the publicity given to the discovery in northern Ontario of rich deposits of silver-nickel-cobalt ores. So far as is yet known, the area in which these ores exist is very limited, all the discoveries of any real value being within about four miles of the new town of Cobalt, where we have recently established a branch. At present nothing definite can be said as to the extent of the deposits or the probable life of the camp. Comparatively little development has taken place, and to what depth the veins of ore may run is uncertain, although a diamond drill has traced one rich vein to a depth of over 300 feet. But it may safely be said that from the veins already discovered several million dollars' worth of ore will be taken, while there is hardly any question but that within the small area which is known to contain the ores further discoveries will yet be made. A large proportion of the ore produced is of a very refractory nature, and difficulty is being experienced in disposing of it at prices which will give returns for all the valuable constituents. It is to be hoped that before long a satisfactory method of treatment will be made available, and that it will be found practicable to treat the ores within the Province of Ontario.

It is probable that during the coming summer there will be a considerable influx of population into the district surrounding Cobalt, and signs are not wanting that an attempt will be made to create not only a mining but a mining stock boom. Serious losses to the public have in the past resulted from attempts to capitalize mere prospects at prices which only producing mines should command, and it is to be hoped that no encouragement will now be given to any movement of the kind.

In the manufacturing centres, large and small, there is, with scarcely an exception, but one experience, that of continued growth. Factories are still being enlarged, manufacturers in the United States are still opening branch manufacturing establishments in Canada, and in important businesses, which have an unbroken record of increased sales for several years, further increases of 20 and 25 per cent. are still not uncommon. This growth again is causing, in cities and towns, an unusual activity in building and a great increase in the saleable values of real estate. Such questions as the building of workingmen's dwellings are becoming acute, and it is evident that the larger manufacturers may have to do what has already been done occasionally in Canada—build houses for their men. Manufacturers, contractors, and even the class of smaller builders, are, as a rule, behind in deliveries of goods or in work being executed. One of the specially noticeable features is the resumption, on a more stable basis, of the manufacture of steel rails at Sault Ste. Marie. While we are speaking particularly of Ontario, many of these remarks apply to Canada as a whole, and of course much of this activity is the result of the great growth of the West. Unfortunately, we cannot have prosperity, apparently, without a general increase in the cost of everything, and in this connection the cost of building and the consequent cost of house rent should be a matter of great concern. When hard times come, as come they must, there will be a sharp adjustment in some direction, because clearly the wage-earner will not be able to continue to pay such rents as are being paid now by the workingmen in our larger cities, both in the east and in the west.

The Province of Quebec has shared fully in the general prosperity of Canada and the only reason for not enlarging upon this fact is the absence of branches of this bank, apart from that in Montreal, and therefore of natural sources of information regarding industrial matters.

In Ontario and Quebec railroad building is proceeding at a pace which marks a new era in transportation in this part of Canada. The Canadian shipping on the lakes is increasing in volume most satisfactorily, while at Montreal there were increases in the number of ocean arrivals and departures, in freight and passenger traffic, in the revenue of the port, and in local canal traffic. Shipbuilding in Canada is now very active, terminal facilities at Montreal and Quebec are being gradually improved, and in almost every direction progress is evident.

We have had, however, on the St. Lawrence route another season of heavy losses. This must be a matter of very great disappointment to most Canadians who have been indulging the hope that the condition of navigation on the St. Lawrence would, before long, be sufficiently improved to warrant the belief that it is in every way a satisfactory highway. We need not hesitate to say that this is one of the most important points in connection with the development of Canadian transportation. There is little use in spending money and energy in the development of the railway systems of this part of Canada unless we can be sure that the communication by sea is as perfect as it is humanly possible to make it. We believe great improvements are being made and are in contemplation, in the way of lighting, and, if there are obstructions to navigation which can be removed, we presume that this will be done, but investigations seem to show that many of the accidents are due solely to the carelessness or incompetency of the pilots. This is a grave charge, and if true no time should be wasted in dealing with it, as well as with any other defects which are capable of remedy. We feel sure that the people of Canada will sustain the Government in practically any expenditure that is necessary in this connection.

NORTHWEST PROVINCES.

At the moment, Canada, to many people in the United States and Europe, means our three Northwest Provinces, and we who live in the east may as well become used to the fact. Having regard to present population, few places are more talked about than Winnipeg. We waited long to come into possession of this country, guarded as it was so carefully from the settler, and in the short time during which we have controlled its destiny we have struggled hard with the two great problems of settlement—transportation and immigration. It now looks as if we are to have our reward. Many claims have been made for this part of Canada which fail to take into account the laborious part which man must play in its development and the probability that, being inherently lazy, he will not quite do his best. On the other hand, there have been writers about the Northwest whose pessimistic views are obviously the result of holding a brief which calls for the counsel of despair instead of hope. The plain statement of the truth, however, as far as it has been ascertained, is all that the country needs. It is clearly a part of the world where many millions of people may work out their material independence; may, in proportion to their industry and intelligence, become owners of property; and where a larger proportion than is often the case in the world may become actually wealthy.

When in August many were estimating the wheat crop at 90,000,000 to 100,000,000 bushels, we sent to London the estimate of our Winnipeg manager, which was 82,540,000 bushels. For all grains together his estimate was 174,125,000 bushels. The crop has now been harvested and largely marketed, and the revised report of the Northwest Grain Dealers' Association at October 15th, was as follows:—

	Acres.	Bush. per acre.	Ttl. bush.
Wheat	4,019,000	21.6	86,810,400
Oats	1,423,000	46.6	66,311,800
Barley	433,800	31.0	13,447,800
Flax	34,900	13.7	478,130

A total of 167,048,130 bushels.

The conditions under which the crop was sown, ripened and harvested were all more favorable than we have the right to expect every year, and a marked contrast to those of the previous year. Perhaps the most satisfactory feature of the wheat crop is the proportion, said to be as high as 80 to 85 per cent., which is classified as high-grade milling wheat. And it is to be remembered that our wheat, when compared with the wheat similarly graded in the United States, is really so superior to the latter as to put our farmers to some disadvantage in obtaining what their wheat is really worth.

The money value, although seriously affected by the fall in the price of wheat, must, nevertheless, be from $70,000,000 to $75,000,000, and to this must be added that of the cattle, hogs, horses, dairy produce, etc. This is not a large sum of money compared with agricultural figures in older parts of the world, but it is a very large sum of money for a country so young in everything which contributes to industrial success. Statistics regarding new countries have much greater significance as indications of the possibilities of the future than as illustrations of the present, and those we submit, regarded in connection with the very small proportion of the available area which has yet been settled, are enough to dispose of doubt as to our ability at some time in the not distant future to supply Great Britain with her requirements in cereals.

When nature is willing to do so much for us it is depressing to consider how badly man often does his part. There is unfortunately no longer any room for doubt that many of the more early settled of the Manitoba farms are decreasing in productive power because the land has been allowed to deteriorate. Farmers who are careless year after year in the selection of seed, who neglect to destroy noxious weeds, who will not consider their land in changing crops from year to year, or protect their crops when being harvested, are simply enemies to the public good, and should, as far as the law permits, be treated as such. If the municipal authorities would carry out the law, both as to farmers who allow noxious weeds to grow on their farms, and as to their own road allowances, a change would at once result so great as to show how criminally reckless is the neglect of such a course. We are glad to hear that the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian Northern Railways, working in conjunction with the officers of the Experimental Farms, are sending over their lines special cars filled with samples of grain and of noxious weeds, and in charge of lecturers who will illustrate the advantage of good seed, the best methods of cultivating grain and of exterminating weeds, and the effect and the loss in money from diseases of wheat. By far the most interesting fact in grain-growing in the Northwest at present is what might be called the discovery that we have great winter wheat areas where until lately we had not even considered that winter wheat could be grown. In 1903 we raised less than 30,000 bushels of winter wheat, while last year the quantity in Alberta is estimated at over 1,500,000 bushels. The highest authorities in the United States are most enthusiastic as to its quality, and as to the value of land which produces such an article of commerce, while in competition with winter wheat from all parts of the United States the best of our varieties carried off the gold medal at the Lewis and Clark Exhibition, recently held in Portland, Oregon. To add to the importance of the discovery, this wheat has, thus far in Alberta, been most largely grown in localities which were not by eastern people included in the wheat, but rather in the cattle, country. Winter wheat has also been grown successfully in other localities, notably in the Swan River Valley in northern Manitoba, where, for four years, experiments have demonstrated its success. These two districts are so remote and so different geographically that it is hardly safe to venture a guess as to what we may not hope to accomplish in this very important development.

There has been a large increase in the shipments of cattle to the east, and as a whole prices were better than last year. While conditions for the profitable grazing of cattle by farmers are not as favorable as we could wish, there will doubtless be a steady increase in live stock shipments, and in time this will be a most valuable feature in farming throughout the three Provinces. There is a noticeable improvement in the character of the breeding of cattle and horses in several localities, but hogs are not increasing satisfactorily in number; nor are dairying and the smaller adjuncts of good farming, such as poultry-raising, obtaining sufficient attention. Our Northwestern farmers should not delay too long developing along lines which have been successful in such States as Iowa, Minnesota and others, especially in view of the deterioration of the land to which we have referred.

In the ranching districts the conditions under which cattle were fattened have varied, being excellent in most parts and in others while not bad, still not quite satisfactory. Sales have been larger than last year, prices better, and the industry has prospered. The sale of one of the largest and best-known ranches in Alberta, however, to the authorities of the Mormon Church, at a price which means the re-sale of the ranch for farming purposes, is only one of many indications that the future of the large ranch is at least uncertain. There are undoubtedly large areas much more suitable for ranching than for anything else, while other parts of Southern Alberta are destined to be converted into successful farms, growing among other things the best of winter wheat. And in this connection we must not forget the important enterprise of sugar-making in Alberta, based entirely on beet crops, grown in that Province.

One wonders how many eastern Canadians realize that there are already in Manitoba alone over 3,000 miles of railway. When we consider what railways have done for Manitoba, we may imagine the intense interest in the new Provinces in the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, which will open up another great stretch of fertile lands; in the entry of the Canadian Northern Railway into Edmonton; and in the proposal of the Canadian Pacific Railway to build from the southeast to the same point. These new Provinces, transected by main lines of transcontinental railways, will need rapidly many miles of branch lines, and we may expect great development of this kind

Saskatchewan and Alberta are each so much larger than Manitoba, and the new settlers are to so much greater an extent going into these new Provinces, that it will try our ability to the utmost to keep pace in railways and all other aids to material progress. These new Provinces are not only possessed of great possibilities as producers of grain and cattle, they also contain in large quantities, coal, lumber, oil and other natural resources. The fur trade of last year for that part of the Territories north of the new Provinces which is tributary to Edmonton, is estimated in value at over a million dollars

Immigration is now very large, the numbers coming from the United States being still much greater than those from Europe, while the movement of Canadians from the east to the west of Lake Superior is almost half as great as the immigration from the United States. The land sales are so large that the railway, land and colonization companies have materially advanced their prices. In this connection we again draw attention to the wide range of land speculation throughout the west. That men should invest or speculate in land where land is almost the one great asset is inevitable; that farmers should buy and try to hold more land than they can easily cultivate, although they are dependent upon an uncertain labor market, is quite natural under the circumstances; but when an entire community — merchants, manufacturers, farmers, professional men and clerks—is engaged in the effort to increase the price of land, trouble must come sooner or later. There are, of course, many things transpiring which will legitimately advance the market value of land in town and country, but these influences are at the moment probably less powerful than the mere views of a community bent on holding for a rise land for which many have no personal use. Some day or other an uncomfortably large number will wish to sell at the same time, and grievous loss will doubtless result.

Public improvements by municipalities and the erection of buildings of all kinds throughout the three Provinces have been proceeding at a remarkable pace. The increase in building during 1904 in Winnipeg seemed to make it improbable that there would be a much further increase in 1905. The buildings erected, however, in 1905, are almost twice as many as in the previous year, although the aggregate cost is not very much in excess. The supply of houses in Winnipeg seems now about equal to the demand, and it is to be hoped that this will cause some check to building of a speculative character.

The payment of debts is of course materially better than in 1904. It is abundantly evident, however, that people throughout the West have incurred heavy debts for the holding of farm and city property, and but for this and the unsatisfactory crop of 1904 the financial effect of the present crop would have been much more satisfactory. We are glad to notice that throughout the West there is a determination on the part of those extending credit to be much more rigid and careful in future.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

While the Northwestern Provinces have had more attention from Eastern Canada and from the outside world during the past year, no Province in Canada has had greater prosperity relatively to its immediate possibilities than British Columbia. This huge Province, destined probably some day to outstrip all others in wealth, with resources which require literally millions of people for their development, has at present but a handful, as it were, of people. It is so rich in products of both sea and river, valley and mountain,—fish, fruit, grain, cattle, timber, coal, and almost all minerals; it is so lovely a country for man to live in; and it can eventually be so largely self-supporting because of its possibilities in producing varieties of food and varieties of manufactures, that no one can doubt as to the character of its industrial future. But the physical and financial problem of British Columbia is by far the most difficult of any of the Provinces, and it seems desirable that the other people of Canada should appreciate what the British Columbians have to do. Individually the people of this Province are well off, and the growth of the city of Vancouver is as startling as that of Winnipeg, Calgary or Edmonton, but the number of people in British Columbia is about the same as in the city of Toronto, and a large part is not of white blood. This small body is called upon to make the initial expenditures necessary to render even the earliest conditions of settlement possible. And these initial expenditures mean roads built in one of the most difficult of countries, bridges across great rivers, etc.; indeed, at every point, the first outlay is most costly, especially as compared with that of the prairie Provinces. And when communication is made, the individual again has to expend unusual labor and money before he can get any return. The ultimate result of such initial expenditure, if wisely made, is not a matter of doubt, but the difficulties explain why British Columbia grows more slowly in population than we all wish

The lumber business, depending as it still does mainly upon the prairie Provinces, has been very satisfactory, as to both volume and price. In coal mining there has been a handsome increase in production of both coal and coke, and several new mines are being opened. There seems to be no reason why these two staple industries should not grow steadily, especially in view of the almost unlimited raw material, until British Columbia takes its place among the great coal and lumber producers of the world. In anticipation of this several large sales of timber limits have recently taken place at good prices, and among the buyers are a good many Americans. Copper mining and smelting are now established and profitable industries. They require large capital and complete technical knowledge, but the results of such a combination seem to be as sure as in other well-managed manufacturing businesses. The year's output of the Boundary mining district is about 1,000,000 tons. There is a marked improvement in lead and silver mining and the outlook seems better than for many years.

The cattle ranching business has been fairly good; important movements looking to the growing of fruit on a large scale are being made; irrigation in some dry districts is being successfully carried on; farming and dairying in the districts where pursued have been profitable, and, generally, all land operations have yielded a good return for labor bestowed thereon. Increase in the value of real estate and activity in building have been as marked as in other parts of Canada, and in Vancouver especially speculation in real estate has reached proportions which promise trouble for some of the investors.

This being the year for the curious quadrennial recurrence of large returns from the Fraser River, salmon fishing in British Columbia has been successful, and the fish have fortunately brought a high market price. The previous three years have been so unsatisfactory that vigorous steps for the preservation of this great industry have become plainly necessary, and we are glad to know that as one of the results from a Commission appointed by the Dominion Government we are likely to have much more attention paid hereafter to the fishing interests of the Pacific than has hitherto been the case. We cannot expect that the next three years will produce satisfactory results, but if arrangements now in contemplation can be completed, the result should be a steady prosecution of efforts at increasing the number of salmon, and, if these are successful, we may in the course of time build up the three lean years of the Fraser River to the level of the fourth year, and we may also improve all other British Columbia salmon rivers. The object is so vitally important to British Columbia that we can only hope that politics will not be allowed in any manner whatever to interfere with the desired result. Salmon fishing is, however, only a small part of the great fishing rights possessed by Canada in the Pacific Ocean and the rivers running thereto. The supplies of halibut and herring are almost inexhaustible, and there are large quantities of other fish, such as smelts, cod, whiting, etc., but at present the business of fishing is not well organized, nor is there sufficient skill in the community to make the best use of this great natural source of wealth. It is doubtful if in eastern Canada and in foreign countries any conception has been formed of the extent and richness of the fishing grounds owned by British Columbia. At the present time the United States fishermen are taking large quantities of halibut, using our ports for refuge in case of storm, and shipping their halibut from Vancouver in bond to the United States. We cannot, of course, interfere with any legal rights they have, but surely, as in the case of the Atlantic fisheries, we ought not positively to aid such a diversion of our natural products. In this connection we should also like to draw attention to the unfortunate effect of the exclusion of Mongolian labor. It was of most noticeable value in connection with both fishing and canning, and the lack of such labor must have a very deterrent effect upon progress in this particular industry.

There has been considerable railroad building in southern British Columbia, and sooner or later large developments must follow the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway across the upper part of the Province. The sale of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway to the Canadian Pacific Railway should also have an important effect upon the development of Vancouver Island.

UNITED STATES.

In common with most other portions of North America, the Pacific coast States of Washington, Oregon and California, in all of which we have branches, have enjoyed unusual prosperity during the past year, exceeding in many respects any record in the past.

The wheat crop in Washington has been the largest in its history; the salmon season has been very satisfactory and profitable, both in volume and in price: the lumber business has improved over that of the previous year; the crop of hops is larger than usual, but the great fall in price has made the business unprofitable; the trade with Alaska and the north has been better than for several years; the end of the Eastern war has been followed by a great increase in the trans-Pacific trade; preparations are evidently being made for the entrance into Seattle of new transcontinental roads; and generally the year has been one of the most prosperous in the history of Washington. It would not be wise for any one to venture upon an estimate of the probable effect on Washington of the development of Alaska which is so rapidly going on; of the trans-Pacific trade now only in its infancy; and of the development of its own vast resources in timber, and in lands suitable for wheat culture. While the gold which has reached Seattle from the Yukon shows a total of only $7,861,000, the results from Nome, Tanana and other sources bring the total up to $18,667,000, and it seems clear that, while there must be decreases in various camps, the total is not likely to decrease for some time to come, especially as so little territory has as yet been worked by dredges or hydraulics.

We find a similar prosperity in Oregon. The product in lumber was about the same as last year, with better prices. The State is said to have in standing timber two hundred and thirty-five billion feet, occupying about 54,000 square miles. This must be one of the world's greatest timber reserves. The yield of wheat has increased, with a better outlook for the next crop than for many years past, and flour exports are larger. The results from fishing were excellent, indeed as good as in 1904. Other industries, such as dairying and wool, have done well, while hops, fruit, etc., have had varying success. The total results of all industry have given Oregon a signal year of progress.

California has had some features of an unfavorable kind, but still the year is regarded as the best in the history of the State. The wheat crop was very unsatisfactory, the yield being but about 12,000,000 bushels, against 32,000,000 in 1899. The character of farming in the State is apparently bad, and the decline can be only partially attributed to an unfavorable season. The receipts of salmon from Alaska were the largest since 1901. The manufacture of redwood lumber has increased and the total for 1905 is about 340,000,000 feet, as against 209,000,000 in 1900, each intervening year showing a moderate but steady growth. The receipts of lumber of all kinds at San Francisco for 1905 were 759,000,000 feet, a handsome increase over 1904. The value of the crops of oranges and lemons is about $40,000,000, as compared with $30,000,000 in 1904. The crop of grapes for wine, table and raisins was about three-quarters of an average, but the quality was the best yet known. The trade in canned and green fruits was very large and profitable, stimulated particularly by the poor fruit crops of the Eastern and Middle States. California is steadily increasing in wealth and population, railroad building is proceeding rapidly, shipping is again profitable, while real estate and building both here and in Oregon and Washington are exhibiting the same activity as elsewhere in the United States and Canada.

Considering the United States generally, the conditions are distinctly prosperous. With another great corn crop, this year exceeding two and a half billion bushels, with a wheat crop of about 700,000,000 bushels—only once exceeded before, and about 150,000,000 bushels larger than in 1904—with other grain crops slightly larger, and with a cotton crop of about normal proportions, the basis of a great commerce is established. The exports exceeded a billion and a half of dollars, while the imports for the second time exceeded a billion dollars, these figures leaving an enormous balance of trade in favor of the United States. Their internal trade has been on a greater scale than ever. There is evidence of this in every kind of business activity, but in nothing more clearly than the usual test of expanding trade—that of iron and steel. Almost every blast furnace is in operation, the volume of ore being transported from the mines, and consequently of pig iron manufactured, exceeding all previous experience. This enormous volume of legitimate and profitable trade is unfortunately, but perhaps naturally, accompanied by excessive speculation in securities, with prices which certainly seem perilously high. The country's requirements for bank loans are very large indeed, and the rates paid for money in New York recently, although only from day to day and for speculative purposes, are a sufficient indication of an overstrained condition. One cannot view without concern such an abnormal state of affairs, and it is to be hoped that the real business interests of the country will not suffer because of the volume and the pace of stock speculation.

Before sitting down I would like to remind gentlemen who are here—and I have said the same thing before—that this report, which is filled with many dry facts, and altogether too many figures, is really not prepared so much for those who are good enough to be present and listen to it, as for the 3,500 shareholders and for the customers of the bank in the various Provinces, and in the various States to which I have referred. I make this statement because it may seem curious to you that we should be interested in many facts which seem quite local. They are local so far as people in Toronto are concerned but they are deeply interesting to people in the various sections with which I have dealt.

The motion for the adoption of the report was then put and carried.

WAS OUT OF SODA.

Tom Ricker kept a country store in Shapleigh, Me., years ago. He was constitutionally tired; hated to move unless it was absolutely necessary. One Summer afternoon, when he was enjoying a nap in his old armchair, his head tilted back against a pile of grain bags, a customer came in.

"I want a package of washing soda, Tom," she said.

"Haven't any." the proprietor drawled, as he stretched his arms and rubbed his eyes.

The customer looked along the top shelf, where he had generally kept his washing soda packages.

"Why, yes, you have, Thomas. I see a package of soda up there on the top shelf," said she.

The trader yawned again, and, still holding down his comfortable seat, replied:

"Yes, I know they's one package there, but it's the last I've got in stock, and, yer see, I don't want ter git entirely out er sody."

Then he resumed his nap, and the exasperated customer left.

"Say, you oughtn't to push me so about that account. I really am short."

"Yes, but why should you be short so long?"

"How often do you kill people on this line?" asked a nervous passenger of a trolley car conductor one day.

"Only once, sir," replied the conductor.

Made in Canada

These words are the key to the success that every true Canadian heartily desires for this fair Canada of our!

Why should we buy goods of any description that are made in a foreign country? The making of foreign goods does not give employment to our artisans. It does not retain money in this country.

Why use Foreign Salt? We have CANADIAN SALT that is superior to any foreign salt that is made.

Why not help build up Canada by using

Canadian Salt

and thereby employ Canadian labor, Canadian works, and Canadian capital?

Demand of your wholesale grocer Canadian Salt, and if he does not keep it write to us for prices and samples.

"Of all Teas those of JAPAN are the freest from objectionable elements and are the healthiest, purest and safest to drink."

The recent analyses made by Dr. Scherer of New York and the foremost analytical chemists and specialists in foods, place teas of Japan and Japanese made teas in the front rank of purest and least harmful teas—you hear and read a lot these days of "Tea Talks"—Why are these Talks (?) necessary? A good thing needs no "bolstering-up" but does its own talking; this is what they speak for themselves and for more than 1000 Years

GROCERS,

have proved

healthful, nourishing and beneficial and a blessing to a people who have recently made the world "sit up and wonder."

Sell

and make your customers "sit up and wonder" why they never used them before.

Cultivating Weeds

wouldn't be considered very profitable by the farmers, yet thousands of merchants are cultivating the weeds of business by continuing the Old Style Pass book—errors every day. Forgotten charges. Hundreds of little things make a big aggregate amount. Adopt the modern ALLISON COUPON SYSTEM and throw away your time wasting devices. Look here—

IF A MAN WANTS CREDIT

or $10, give him a $10 Allison Coupon Book, charge him with $10, and there you are. No trouble at all. If he buys a plug of tobacco for ten cents, just tear off a ten-cent coupon—that's all. And so on for all his purchases up to limit of the book. NO PASS BOOK. NO WRITING. NO TIME LOST. NO KICKING There are other Coupon Books, of course, but why not have the best? TOLEDO COMPUTING SCALES

Automatic but Springless.

The "Toledo" is a money saver because it positively stops the giving of overweight.

A time saver because it is Automatic.

A labor saver because there are no weights to lift, no poises to slide, or prices to set.

A trade bringer because it indicates to the customer in plain figures the correct weight of the article he is buying.

It is honest both to the merchant and customer.

The Toledo system costs you nothing because it is paid for with the money you are now losing.

A SURPRISING FIND

Collections of Half a Century Result in Extraordinary Accumulation Beneath a Cashier's Desk.

Mr. Wright, the National Cash Register Co.'s agent in Winnipeg, has in his possession an old drawer, which was taken from a general store in Kingston, Ontario, where it has been in use for fifty years. Through all changes of system from the establishment of the store, when the proprietor only had access to this cash-drawer, and when all the clerks used it, and during the period it was under the supervision of an individual cashier, the drawer was never changed, occupying a position beneath a cash desk. In the box-like arrangement where the cashier sat there was a false floor about six inches high, which did not cover the main floor entirely. When the proprietor tore out the cashier's desk recently, an assistant gathered up the refuse to throw out into the lane, when, at the suggesion of Mr. Wright, it was sifted.

After all the dirt had been carefully cleared away, one hundred and eighty-six dollars in small gold and silver coins of all denominations, and dilapidated bills, were rescued from this refuse. The proprietor's surprise can be imagined, and yet he said he had never missed the money, and never knew it was gone! The drawer itself is so badly carved and worn by long service, that one might wonder how it now holds together.

Pork Packers and Their Difficulties

The condition of the packing industries continues to develop. The latest features of the situation, whilst being no more than has been fully expected, are none the less alarming. Several factories have closed down in part.

The George Matthews Company, the big pork packing establishment of Hull, announce that they are compelled to curtail the output of their factory owing to restrictions imposed by the Dominion Government regarding the importation of hogs from the United States. About forty men are thus thrown out of employment.

The F. W. Fearman Company and the Fowlers' Canadian Company say that they have been unable to get enough hogs, and have been forced to lay off many of their men owing to the recent order made by the Department of Agriculture.

The Ingersoll Packing Co. have also had to seriously curtail, whilst from all sides reports are of increasing difficulty in obtaining hogs.

The meeting suggested by Mr. Wm. Davies to go into the allegations of a buying combine has at last been held, and whilst not actually accomplishing anything of a definite nature, has been useful as marking another mile-stone of the situation.

The meeting was held in the board room of the company. Mr. Flavelle sat at the head of the table, Mr. William Davies sitting at his right, but taking no part in the meeting. To his right was Hon. Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. John Dryden; other Government officials present being F. W. Hodgson, Dominion Live Stock Commissioner; Geo. A. Putnam, Superintendent of Farmers' Institutes; A. P. Westervelt, Secretary of Live Stock Associations; and Prof. Day, of the Agricultural College, Guelph. Mr. Duncan Anderson, Rugby, and Mr. Thos. McMillan, Seaforth, represented the farmers in person, while the newspaper commentators present were Messrs. W. L. Smith, Weekly Sun; J. W. Wheaton, Farming World; Arthur Hawke, Toronto Daily World; and W. D. Albright, Farmers' Advocate. Mr. R. H. Davies was also present.

At the opening Mr. Flavelle said the meeting had been held at the company's offices to suit their convenience for referring to their books. He desired first to meet the charge that there was a combine among the pork packers, and read extracts from some of the papers represented at the board. In reply to these statements, Mr. Flavelle made a sweeping denial of any combine or understanding in any shape or form.

Mr. McMillan and Mr. Wheaton raised the question of paying for hogs according to quality, and Mr. Flavelle said they did it sometimes, but there were difficulties in the way, and it could not become general under the fierce competition.

"Is not a combination likely to come?" asked Mr. Smith.

"Not unless we get into much worse stress than we are now," Mr. Flavelle replied. Referring to the bonding privilege, he read from instructions to his Montreal agent, who met Mr. Fisher, that while he believed the slaughtering of United States hogs here would do no harm, yet if the Minister of Agriculture decided otherwise that company had no fault to find in the matter whatever. With some heat Mr. Flavelle asked for fair treatment from the press, and in passing said that whatever might have been said against the Ross Government, its Department of Agriculture under Mr. Dryden was always right.

Mr. Dryden and Mr. Monteith moved a resolution which, while giving no opinion, expressed their appreciation of the candor of Mr. Flavelle in laying his case before the conference, and the proceedings then terminated with every evidence of good will.

Mr. Wm. Davies, in a letter to the Toronto Globe recently gave expression to some very instructive remarks. He said:

A misleading statement can be repeated so many times that it grows to have all the force and effect of a true recital. This seems to be the case covering the character of criticisms passed upon pork packers during the past two years by papers having large circulation among farmers. It has been insistently charged that packers have secured improper and greedy gain through combination; that the farmer has suffered and been bled through this selfish greediness, and that in self-defence he ought to terminate an intolerable situation by reducing the supply of hogs.

Though the statements are untruthful in every particular, they have apparently been repeated sufficiently often to convince the farmer that they are true. Thus a great industry is jeopardized, the value of large packing houses and equipment threatened, work people distressed through short time, and interests which should work in harmony are estranged while farmers are told that the packer is their enemy, seeking only to reduce them to being mere hewers of wood and drawers of water for his benefit.

Whether the cultivation of hogs and their marketing in Ontario has been profitable or unprofitable is a matter which can be fairly discussed on its own merits. The statement that it has been rendered unprofitable, and that farmers have suffered through greedy and selfish combination, is untrue in every particular. The writer is under the impression that probably of no business in Canada could it be so properly said that for a long period of years there have been no artificial conditions making for profit or loss. Competition for hogs has been unrestricted, the one governing factor being belief in the market or otherwise on the part of the individual packer.

Unlike the purchase of grain, which can be manufactured into flour or meal, or which can be sold in the condition in which it has been bought, and in either case stored for weeks or months, at the option of the buyer, hogs must be killed on arrival at the packing house, and if the trade which is being done is an export one on absolutely true dates the meat must be taken out of salt and forthwith forwarded to Great Britain. On its arrival there it must be sold, no matter what may be the condition of the market. Hence the buying price of hogs must ebb and flow according to the conditions of the market upon which the product is sold. In naming his buying price weekly the packer seeks to interpret the market conditions, and to decide what will be the probable value of the bacon from the hogs he is then buying some six weeks hence, when the cured product is placed on the market. These considerations take the form of seeking to measure how large are the killings in Ireland and Denmark, and what is the buying price in those countries, what have been the arrivals of American bacon in Liverpool, what quantity of cured product has been carried over the week end unsold, what is the forecast of available supplies of hogs in Ireland and Denmark, and the probable buying price for the following week.

All these items of information reach this house by cable weekly, and, we presume, to a greater or lesser extent, the office of every export bacon curer in Canada.

These items, arising out of the experience of many years, read wisely or unwisely constitute the data making for the judgment weekly as to what buying price will be named for hogs. During fourteen years this method has been followed, and during all that period without conference or counsel, by telephone or telegraph, by letter or personal contact—without any association with other packers or combination with them, actual or implied, we have fixed the price at which we hope to buy hogs the following week.

It has been charged that if such independence of conduct takes place, how does it come that the buying price is so nearly common at all points. A little reflection will show why this occurs. After fixing what is considered a reasonable or necessitous buying price for hogs an added factor is, what course are other packers following? The ramifications of this company for the purchase of its hogs extend over the entire province, from Napanee west. If the buying price we name is lower than the price at which others are buying, as ascertained through actual competition, we hear of it by telegraph or telephone from our buyers from all points, and we must authorize an advance in price or accept the penalty of greatly reduced quantities. We, as well as other packers, must therefore elect to pay the same price or do with a lessened number of hogs.

Sometimes we adopt one course, sometimes the other.

It has been frequently urged upon us that no more improvident and stupid way of buying in the interests of the packer could be conceived than the one we have described, that it placed the business under the unreasonable situation of compelling the packer to advance prices, not on his judgment, but by the competition set up by irresponsible drovers, who pit packer against packer, that if there were only some reasonable understanding between the packers these mistakes could be corrected without doing injustice to any one. While admitting the soundness of this general statement, this company has persistently refused to adopt anv other course than the one outlined above. We have believed that even under such unfavorable conditions, industry and intelligence were better weapons than combination between packers.

It is therefore apparent if the statement we make is a truthful one, that the campaign of the last two years, so persistent and so violent against packers, and in which apparently all the charges were based upon the statement that there was a combination between the packers, which included this company, was wrong in every particular.

It has frequently been charged that because the buying price sometimes goes to a very low point it proves that such a drop in price can only be the result of an understanding between packers. No statement which has been made is more misleading than this, or farther from the truth. The plain fact is that Wiltshire bacon, which is the export article produced by Canadian curers, is subject to great fluctuations in value, and as the bacon is marketed, as above stated, every week on its arrival, the product has to be sold subject to the price obtainable at the time of its delivery in Great Britain. This prompt sale is fundamental to the business, so much so that this company, which during its history has handled from three-quarters of the whole quantity of export bacon, down to the present, when its shipments represent one-quarter, has at no time during its history put a box of bacon into store in Great Britain. We have taken the market price at the time of the arrival of the product on the market, no matter how bitter the punishment. The bacon is cured for immediate consumption. If it is carried it deteriorates in quality, and if marketed in a deteriorated condition it injures the reputation of the brand. Hence the rise and fall in the price of hogs is primarily determined by the price at which bacon is cleared weekly in Great Britain, and by the judgment with which the packer reads a market six weeks hence as to what he thinks will be the then selling price in Great Britain.

We have believed, we believe now, that both the packer and the farmer must judge the value of the hog and bacon industry by the average results secured during the year, or over a period of years, and that the bitter must be taken with the sweet. If losses have to be borne over considerable periods of time, the more reason for farmers and packers remaining in the business to reap the advantage of the inevitable return to a period of high prices.

Service of real value could be rendered to farmers by journals having circulation among them if they carried on an agitation to increase the quantity of hogs at the time there is the greatest demand for bacon in Great Britain, and to decrease the quantity at the time there is the least demand in Great Britain. It will not do to raise hogs only at stated periods. English merchants and consumers who are handling a brand of Canadian bacon want it twelve months in the year. The farmer and curer must therefore have fresh landed bacon on the market every week in the year, but if the farmer will increase his quantity of hogs at the time when the market wants quantity, and decrease at the time when the market does not want quantity, he will contribute to the prosperity of both himself and the curer. The opposite, however, has generally been the case in Canada. Frequently there have been heavy deliveries of hogs when the demand was poorest in Great Britain, and light deliveries when the demand was the best.

This company has not killed a hog in bond in Toronto during the above period of fourteen years. We have believed that the shipment of Wiltshire sides made out of American hogs in Canadian curing houses, without the sides having a brand burned into the skin indicating that the product was from American hogs, endangered the reputation of Canadian bacon on the English market.

Immediately after the first shipment of these American sides was made to Great Britain last year, we urged upon the Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa to make it imperative that all such sides should be skin-branded "American sides." If this course had been adopted we think no injury would have been done to Canadian bacon, no injury would have been done to Canadian farmers, and that the continuance of the bonding privilege would have been wise for all concerned. It would, when Canadian hogs were in short supply, make possible the employment of men in the packing houses on full time—would enable fixed charges to be reduced, and to keep general expenses, so heavy in the packing business, under control. If skin branding were not made obligatory upon all packers, our judgment was, and we so represented it to the Minister of Agriculture, that it would be wiser to cancel the bonding privilege altogether than permit the possibility of American bacon being sold as Canadian, not by the packers' agents in Great Britain, but by the retailer, a substitution which has undoubtedly been practiced during the past six months. That the cancelling of this privilege, however, constitutes any important factor, is shown by the above figures to be quite in error, and the many newspaper statements and comments may fairly remind your readers of "Much cry and little wool, as the man said who clipped the sow."

CHINA TEA TRADE.

Mr. Walter J. Ballard, of Schenectady, N.Y., has sent to the Department of Commerce and Labor an opinion as to why China's tea trade has declined to such an extent in the last few years. He declares that there was a day when the only good tea was supposed to be that which came from China, but it is not so now. For instance, Great Britain used only 5,600,000 pounds in 1905, against 9,900,000 pounds in 1904 and 12,700,000 pounds in 1903. In like manner American imports of Chinese tea decreased from 55,000,000 pounds in 1903 and 53,000,000 pounds in 1904 to 43,000,000 pounds in 1905. At the same time American imports of Japanese tea increased from 37,000,000 pounds in 1903 to 42,000,000 each in 1904 and 1905. American imports of East Indian tea, chiefly from Ceylon, also increased from 6,700,000 pounds in 1903 to 7,600,000 pounds in 1904 and 7,800,000 pounds in 1905. The past ten months Great Britain took 123,500,000 pounds of Indian tea, 74,800,000 pounds of Ceylon tea, and 10,400,000 pounds of Java tea.

Japan exports 40,000,000 pounds of tea this season, against 47,000,000 pounds last season, nearly all of which is used in the United States and Canada. Japanese tea is not popular in Great Britain. The lessened use of Chinese tea is due to two causes: First, a deterioration in its quality; second, the difficulty of obtaining any considerable quantity of good Chinese black tea. A correspondent of the London Times says: "One important result of the lower cost of production has been that, whereas in the beginning India and Ceylon teas displaced China tea by virtue of superiority alone, now they have almost driven it out of the market here by being able to sell it at a price with which the Chinamen can not compete."

VISITOR FROM FORMOSA.

Mr. Matthew Woodley, Formosa Oolong buyer for Jardine, Matheson & Co., made a visit to Montreal this week and called upon the trade with Mr. W. H. Halford, of S. H. Ewing & Sons, who are Canadian agents for Jardine, Matheson & Co. Mr. Woodley has been buyer in the Far East for 22 years and as Jardine, Matheson & Co. are one of the largest operators in Formosa Oolong, he is naturally a very busy man. Mr. Woodley was much pleased to meet Montreal buyers, but expressed the regret that, contrary to the United States trade, more of these delicious Formosa teas are not used in Canada. Mr. Woodley leaves for England, via New York, to visit the London house, and after a three months stay there he will return home via the United States.

TO ENCOURAGE PURE FOODS.

At the annual meeting of the Retail Grocers' Section of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, held in Toronto, it was decided to prepare a card to be sent to every retail grocer in the city detailing the main provisions of the Pure Food Act, so that both the consumer and the retailer might become better acquainted with the law regarding adulteration. The following officers were elected: Chairman, M. Moyer; first vice-chairman, J. H. Walker; second vice-chairman, A. Snuggs; treasurer, John Bond; secretary, F. C. Higgins; auditors, George Good and A. F. Albright. The chairman, the secretary and the general secretary of the association, Mr. E. M. Trowern, were appointed delegates to the convention of the National Retail Grocers' Association of the United States, to be held at Niagara Falls, on the 23rd, 24th and 25th of the present month.

THE WESTERN ONTARIO DAIRYMEN'S CONVENTION.

The thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Western Dairymen's Association opened in the town hall, Ingersoll, where, in 1867, the first Dairymen's Association in Canada was formed. The unusual interest which was evinced in the convention of western dairymen was demonstrated by the large attendance at the various sessions. The meetings were crowded to the doors and every available bit of space was utilized, the back of the platform being occupied largely by the general public. The day sessions were devoted to practical talks, but the evening meetings partook largely of the nature of entertainments, the speakers delighting the audience with plenty of humor.

An important point was raised by Professor McKay in regard to the possibility of increasing the percentage of moisture in butter, but the prevailing opinion seemed to be that it would be unwise to attempt this until further investigation into the matter has been made.

The judges at the Winter Fair spoke very highly of the quality of the exhibits. The principal prize-winners in cheese were: Jas. Paton, Newry; Geo. Cameron, Hagersville; John Cuthbertson, Sebringville; Alex. McCallum, Kintore. In butter—Fenton E. Brown, Strathroy; Thos. Malcolm, Kinlough; W. Waddell, Kerwood, and Wm. McKay, Underwood.

James Paton won the cheese buyers' trophy, and special prizes were taken by John Cuthbertson, J. S. Izard, Paisley, and H. Weston Parry, Preston

Hon. Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture, delivered a long and interesting address treating of many problems. The Minister expressed his interest and sympathy in dairying. The dangers from paternalism were also pointed out. Allusion was made to the importance of the bacon industry, and he regretted that there was a disposition on the part of farmers to rejoice that American hogs had been shut out. He thought that this was not the spirit in which this matter should be regarded, but that there should be co-operation between farmers and packers in advancing the hog and bacon industry.

He hoped that the two parties might get together and arrive at a satisfactory understanding.

Mr. Charles F. Whiteley gave an address on the improvement of the dairy stock. This had to be done through the male. He spoke of the value of keeping records, and touched upon the subject of milking by machinery. "I hope the time will come," he said, "when you farmers will be able to wake up, press a button, turn over and have another snooze, and when you wake up again the cows will be milked"

* * *

Mr. J. H. Monrad, a native of Denmark, advised the farmers not to go in for the purchase of pedigrees which they were not sure would give performance. In regard to breeding, if one farmer could not afford to keep an expensive sire for his herd, he could at least join with others to do so. He argued strongly in favor of co-operation and instanced the good results thus produced in Denmark.

The report on cheese factories was brought up by Chief Instructor George H. Barr. The report recorded a satisfactory amount of work done, but called attention with regret to the objection of some makers to instructors visiting the patrons. There was still a great quantity of tainted and over-ripe milk sent to the factories. "I regret to say" Mr. Barr remarked, "that the number of patrons who have added water or taken off cream is greater than any previous year. I am sorry to have to say that. I think it is a reflection on the farmers of Western Ontario that we should have to make this statement from a public platform." Mr. Barr, however, was of the opinion that the farmers would do better, now that attention had been called to the matter.

Prof. H. H. Dean opened a discussion on Canadian cheese on the British market. Dealing with the cheese required for English markets, Professor Dean said of all kinds they do not require there a hard, dry, bony cheese. Opinions differed, however, as to the size a cheese should be, and on other points. The body of Quebec cheese was softer and suited English markets better, so Ontario must turn attention to that point.

* * *

In his report on instruction at creameries during the past year, Chief Instructor Geo. H. Barr recorded a rapid increase in the creamery industry in Western Ontario, there being now 71 creameries in operation, as against 59 last year. There was also improvement in the quality of butter, speaking generally. There was a considerable quantity of mottled butter during the early portion of the season. This, he considered due to lack of working. Some creameries turned out butter equal to Danish, and why should not all do the same? It was plain from last year's work that the finest butter was made in creameries where the pasteurizer was used properly. He advocated four points—first, every effort to get patrons to send sweet cream; second, cream must be properly pasteurized and cooled; third, a pure culture must be used in cream; fourth, butter must be kept at 40 degrees or under.

J. A. Ruddick and J. A. McFeeters spoke on the subject of Canadian butter on the British market, and attention having been called to a case where mouldy butter had arrived in the Old Country, Prof. Harrison, Guelph, said moulds required air to grow, so the tighter the butter was packed the less chance there was of mould. He advised the use of paper on which was strong formaline to prevent this mould.

The necessity for every care to preserve purity and delicacy of flavor in cheese and butter made cold storage and curing rooms a very important factor in dairying. He had, he said, plans for cold storage plants which could be obtained by any dairymen desiring them, these plans giving best results of some experiments conducted by the Dominion department.

HONORED BY THEIR FELLOW CITIZENS.

At the elections in Westmount, Montreal, held last Monday, 15th, two gentlemen closely identified with Montreal's wholesale grocery interests were elected as aldermen in Montreal's classic suburb. Mr. Wm. Galbraith, of Carter, Galbraith & Co., wholesale grocers, and Mr. A. H. Scott, of Watt, Scott & Goodacre one of Montreal's best known grocery commission merchants and brokers, were elected by handsome majorities. Mr. Galbraith is known as an experienced and vigorous campaigner and had experience in election fights and came out strongly as the champion of needed improvements, and fought his issues most successfully. This was Mr. Scott's first appearance on the hustings and as a worker and vigorous exponent of his views on municipal matters made a strong running mate for Mr. Galbraith. Though entering the contest much later than his opponent, he won by the splendid majority of 127 votes. The election of these two gentlemen by the citizens of Westmount is an honor alike to them as well as Messrs. Galbraith and Scott.

BANQUET AND PRESENTATION

To Mr. T. Gaudin, by the Acme Can Works, Montreal.

Krausmann's Cafe, Montreal, was the scene last Thursday, 18th inst., of an entertainment that in more ways than one deserves more than a passing notice. It was a popular appreciation by one of Canada's prominent manufacturing firms of the services of one of its faithful employes, and in this demonstrated that loyalty, integrity and faithful performance of duty goes not unrewarded.

The occasion was a banquet tendered by the Acme Can Works to Mr. T. Gaudin, who was severing his connection with his employers to take up the responsible position of assistant accountant at the Dominion lighthouse depot at Prescott, Ont.

Invitations to the number of thirty-five had been sent out and included men prominent in commercial, political and military life, and not a vacant chair was seen, proving that all invitees were pleased to do honor to the guest of the evening and the Acme Can Works.

Promptly at 8.30 Mr. Jas. Campbell and Mr. Wm. Pratt, proprietors of the Acme Can Works, took their places at the banqueting table, Mr. Campbell as chairman and Mr. Pratt in the vice-chair.

After the excellent menu had been satisfactorily discussed, Mr. Campbell proposed the toast of "The King," which was enthusiastically honored. This was followed by "Rule Britannia," led by Mr. C. Mann. The following is the toast list, which was carried out under the propositions of Mr. Campbell and Mr. Wm. Pratt, and needless to say they were all duly honored :

In proposing the health of the guest of the evening, Mr. Gaudin, Mr. Campbell remarked that though Mr. Gaudin had only been in the employ of the Acme Can Works some four years he had during that time proved himself a most faithful, industrious and capable employe, one who had never forgotten that the interests of his employers were as his own and had in consequence earned for himself not only the full confidence of his principals but also, through fair, strict and honorable business treatment, the esteem of his fellow employes. Though he left the firm now to better himself, he felt sure that he would fulfill his duties to the Government as conscientiously as he had done with the Acme Can Works. He left with the best wishes of his employers and fellow employes.

Mr. Barclay, an employe of the Acme Can Works, then followed with a humorous selection, "All doing the same," and it may be remarked here that as a thorough comedian in every way this young man would make an enviable reputation on the public stage, as he certainly is an artist.

Mr. Edward Pratt, general foreman of the works, expressed for himself and his fellow employes appreciation of all for the many kindnesses and courtesies shown them by Mr. Gaudin and wished him for all hands God-speed in his new field of labor.

Mr. Jas. B. Campbell followed, presenting Mr. Gaudin with a handsome gold ring set with a diamond and emerald, and said :

"Mr. Gaudin, in the name of the Acme Can Works and your fellow employes I have pleasure in presenting you with this ring, and assure you that it carries with it the best wishes of the Acme Cam Works and its employes, and we trust you will long be spared to wear it. We feel that in leaving us we are losing the services of a faithful and loyal servant but our regrets are mitigated by the knowledge that you go to better yourself. God-speed to you."

Mr. Wm. Pratt, co-partner and vice-chairman, in seconding Mr. Campbell's wishes, claimed to be more used to making cans than speeches, but took pleasure in giving Mr. Gaudin the reputation of being an upright, straightforward man and worker, besides being a jolly good fellow, and felt sure that success would come to Mr. Gaudin if he persevered in the manner in which he had conducted himself and his affairs while with the Acme Can Works.

A song in French, "Oh, Canadienne," by Mr. Chas. Tison, and a few complimentary words by Mr. W. H. Walsh, an old friend, preceded the rising of Mr. Gaudin.

The guest of the evening was visibly affected by the honors that were being shown him and expressed himself as unable to adequately reply. He thanked Mr. Campbell and Mr. Pratt and his fellow employes for their great kindness in thus honoring his services during the years he had been connected with their company, and he felt that in leaving them now he was leaving his best friends and what to him was practically home. He had always tried to do his duty to his employers and be just to the employes. He could hardly express to them how their appreciation touched him on severing his connection, but would always think of them with the kindliest feelings. He desired to say more, but his feelings overcame him, and the words wouldn't come.

Lieut.-Col. Whitley, of the 6th Hussars, followed in a tribute of Mr. Gaudin's manly character, and as a soldier was proud to honor such a crack rifle shot as Mr. Gaudin, who by the way was a fellow Jersey man, and the son of a sire equally famed as a crack rifle shot in the Old Land, as was evidenced to him by a visit to the home of Mr. Gaudin, Sr., in Jersey last Summer, where a room full of trophies gained upon Britain's ranges testified to skill and steady nerve.

A recitation by Mr. Walsh then followed, after which Lieut.-Col. Finlayson, of the Prince of Wales Fusiliers, paid an equally flattering tribute to Mr. Gaudin as a man and crack rifle shot and soldier.

The toast of "The Press" was honored by replies by Mr. Jos. Robb, of the Standard, and Mr. W. H. Seyler, on behalf of the MacLean Publishing Co., Limited. "The Ladies" by Mr. Walsh and Mr. Loisel.

Mr. Edward Pratt, cashier, in an able speech presented the compliments of the office staff to Mr. Gaudin, after which a song by Mr. Jas. Martin was ably rendered.

Mr. Chappell proposed the health of the proprietors of the Acme Can Works, Messrs. Jas. B. Campbell and Wm. Pratt. Mr. Campbell thanked their guests for having honored them with their presence to pay tribute to one of their employes. He hoped that all had spent an enjoyable evening, and their guests' pleasure was as their own. The Acme Can Works only spreads its wings once in a while and he sincerely hoped to have the pleasure of meeting all again on such a pleasant evening. He could take them from the Atlantic to the Pacific and show them where the Acme Can Works was doing business and where their many friends were.

"We try to use our men right in every way," said Mr. Campbell, "and to use our customers equally fair and any success that is with the Acme Can Works is due to this fair treatment of men and customers. We appreciate what our help has done from the smallest boy in the factory to the best paid man. My partner, who comes into contact with the practical work more than I do, can tell you more of the principles adopted and carried out in the works."

Mr. Wm. Pratt in thanking the guests for the toast to his and Mr. Campbell's health briefly sketched the progress of the Acme Can Works since he and Mr. Campbell had taken over the plant. When some 10 years ago the business was bought from Mr. Wm. Walker, 36 hands were employed with an annual turnover of about $35,000. "To-day we are employing 250 hands, paying out $1,500 a week in wages besides the office staff's salary, and our turnover is about $350,000 annually." The business was established by Mr. Wm. Walker about 30 years ago and Mr. Campbell was with the former proprietor for 19 years, when he and Mr. Pratt purchased the plant in 1896. Mr. Pratt's statement shows that the Acme Can Works is one of Montreal's and Canada's most progressive institutions and with the development of the plant and the installation of the most modern machinery lately put in by the company the Acme Can Works is to-day one of the most complete plants on the American continent.

Before closing with the national anthem and "Auld Lang Syne," Mr. Campbell paid a glowing tribute to Boniface Krausmann for the elegant supper, the service and the thoroughly up-to-date manner in which Mr. Krausmann had treated the Acme Can Works' guests. "The finest prepared dinner in Montreal," was the opinion of all.

A brief sketch of Mr. Gaudin will not be out of place. A Jersey Island man, he came to Canada in 1897, and joined the Acme Can Works in 1902. As a militiaman he was connected with the Prince of Wales Fusiliers, Montreal, represented Province of Quebec in the London Merchants' Team at Ottawa four years ago, when he was on the winning team. In 1886 his father won the Prince of Wales' prize at Wimbledon, so his marksmanship is practically inherited, and the numerous medals and trophies in the Gaudin family testify to the best attributes of a soldier.

The list of guests: Jas. B. Campbell, chairman; Wm. Pratt, vice-chairman; Thos. Gaudin, guest; Lieut.-Col. Fred Whitley, of 6th Hussars; Lieut.-Col. J. A. Finlayson, of Prince of Wales Fusiliers; Mr. Jas. B. Martin, of G.N.W. Telegraph Co.; Mr. J. Thompson, of Canada Paint Co.; Mr. W. H. Walsh, of R. Hemsley & Co.; Mr. F. A. Wray, Mr. J. C. ANNUAL MEETING OF E. W. GILLETT CO., LIMITED.

The fifth annual meeting of E. W. Gillett Co., Limited, was held in the company's offices, corner King and Duncan streets, Toronto, on Thursday, 18th inst., at 11 a.m.

A good attendance of stockholders was present and all were thoroughly pleased with the very satisfactory financial statement presented by the managemenat.

In the absence of the president, Mr. Chas. W. Gillett, the chair was occupied by Mr. Wm. Dobie, and the utmost harmony prevailed. All present were thoroughly pleased with the excellent showing made for the year 1905. The sales showed an increase of nearly 25 per cent. and the company again maintained their very unique record of completing another year's business without any losses in the way of bad debts. On account of the really remarkable showing made, the stockholders voted the officers of the company and the superintendent of the factory, 10 per cent. of the amount of their salaries, as a bonus to each, in appreciation of the excellent work done during the year. made justified the board of directors to authorize an increase of 2 per cent. in rate of dividend. The prospects of the company are very bright. The following board of directors were elected, viz.: Messrs. Charles W. Gillett, Jno. Firstbrook, H. C. Barker, M. A. Thomas, and Wm. Dobie. Mr. David Hoskins, chartered accountant, was appointed auditor.

After adjournment of the meeting, stockholders were entertained at luncheon in the building, the catering being looked after by the Harry Webb Co., Limited, who supplied bread made with Royal Yeast Cakes, and biscuits made from Magic Baking Powder, two of the company's products. After luncheon a meeting of the board of directors was held, at which the following officers for 1906 were elected, viz: Mr. Chas. W. Gillett, president; Mr. Wm. Dobie, general manager and treasurer; Mr. Geo. H. Macfarlane, assistant general manager; Mr. Geo. Hepburn, secretary.

At the meeting reference was made to the fact that a fine gold medal was awarded the company's display at the Canadian National Exposition, held in Toronto last year.

REORGANIZATION OF BLACK BROS., LIMITED.

The Atlantic Fish Companies, Limited, has been organized with ample capital and increased facilities to take over the fish businesses of Black Bros. & Co., Limited, Halifax and La Have, N. S., manufacturers of "Halifax" and "Acadia" brands of prepared boneless codfish, Lewis Anderson & Co., exporters of dried and pickled fish, and Hirtle, Rafuse & Co., Limited, general outfitters, both of Lunenburg, N.S. It is the intention of this firm to carry on a general fish business for both home and export trade, and it was found necessary to consolidate these different firms and reduce freight charges, and owing to the small margin of profit at which these goods have been sold in the past it was absolutely necessary that the fishing business on the Atlantic coast be carried on in the most modern methods.

The head office of the Atlantic Fish Companies, Limited, is situated at Lunenburg N.S. (the Gloucester of Canada), with branch offices at Halifax and Montreal, and factories at La Have and Lunenburg, N.S., and this firm already have agents at Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Mr. A. H. Brittain, in charge of the Montreal office, stated that the high reputation which the "Halifax" and "Acadia" brands of prepared boneless codfish had attained on the western market would be maintained, and owing to the high price of codfish used in the preparation of these brands, it was necessary to consolidate this business to reduce expenses, as the goods have been sold in the past at practically cost price to manufacture.

With increased lines car-load shipments can be made from time to time, which will be a considerable saving in expense.

These brands of prepared boneless codfish are specially gotten up for the grocery trade to enable them to secure a share of this business, which in the past they have had verv little of, considering the enormous amount of codfish taken from the Atlantic Ocean yearly (which was over four million dollars at last returns). This line should enable the grocers to make a profit on goods which they have not sold in the past.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETINGS

CHARLOTTETOWN.

The annual meeting of the Charlottetown Board of Trade was largely attended. The chair was occupied by the president, Donald Nicholson.

G. E. Full congratulated the president on the report he had given, but he differed with it on some points. He thought the fees should be raised. He thought in almost everything the board had taken up that it had failed as in the station site and the decrease of freight rates. There were great questions for the board of trade to settle, as the oyster question, the disposal of the I.C.R., the opening of the pork factory and the car ferry or the tunnel. The board of trade should have a room in the centre of the city with leading trade papers, etc., on the table every day.

A. E. Williams urged an increase in the fees in order to better conduct the affairs of the board. Regarding oyster fisheries, he urged consideration for them.

S. W. Crabbe supported the increase in fees, and thought it would be better to dispose of the I.C.R., in agreement with Mr. Full.

The election of officers resulted as follows :

President—W. F. Tidmarsh.

Vice-president—S. W. Crabbe.

Secretary-treasurer—L. B. Miller.

Council—G. E. Hughes, N. Rattenbury, G. E. Full, A. E. Williams, C. Lyons, F. H. Beer, D. Nicholson, F. J. Nash.

The old board of arbitrators was re-elected, as follows :

J. T. Crockett, C. Lyons, George E. Hughes, L. M. Poole, A. Down, R. B. Norton, John MacEachern, W. A. Weeks, Jr., George Wheatley, A. Horne, D. L. Hooper, W. F. H. Carvell, W. E. Bentley.

Votes of thanks were passed the retiring secretary, W. W. Clarke, and the retiring president, for their able and efficient services.

GUELPH.

The Guelph Board of Trade met on 17th inst, in the city hall, and although there was no business of importance for consideration, yet several ideas and suggestions were discussed which may prove advantageous to the city's interests.

President G. B. Ryan was in the chair. Mr. Simpson, chairman of the mercantile committee, read an invitation from the Montreal Board of Trade, asking the co-operation of the Guelph Board at the mercantile convention to be held in Montreal next Spring. Mr. Simpson and Mr. Duff both spoke of the benefits derived from attending these conventions, as new ideas and business methods were learned, and it was resolved to instruct the Montreal board of their endorsation of the convention.

Mr. D. Allan gave some ideas on advertising the advantages of Guelph for manufacturers, which brought forth the fact that the board has that important matter now under consideration.

Mr. F. Frank thought that every citizen, especially every business man, should unite in encouraging manufacturers to locate in their city.

HALIFAX.

A. M. Bell, hardware merchant, was elected president of the Halifax Board of Trade on the 16th inst. The membership of the board now numbers 486, which is 110 more than it was a year ago.

MONTREAL.

The Montreal Board of Trade held a special general meeting in the Exchange Hall last week and passed resolutions to be submitted to the sixth congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire, to be held in London in June next. An amendment was made to by-law 12 of the board.

The meeting was also the regular annual meeting. President W. I. Gear occupied the chair, and explained that the meeting had been called earlier than had been intended, as it was necessary to have resolutions that were to be laid before the congress in the hands of the secretary by the first of February.

The resolutions respecting cable news and British emigration were dwelt upon at some length by the president and carried unanimously. These resolutions are :

"Whereas cable news reports for Canada are gathered and distributed mainly through foreign sources, thereby receiving a coloring which is detrimental to the existence of the spirit of Imperial and colonial unity ;

"Whereas the same conditions to a greater or lesser extent may now or at any time prevail in connection with the cable news service to other parts of the Empire ;

"Therefore, resolved, that the Imperial Government is hereby prayed to devise means whereby cable and telegraph news to and from all parts of the British Empire shall be furnished entirely through Imperial channels."

"That in the interests of the British Empire, and particularly in the interest of the Motherland, measures should be adopted which would direct British emigration to the colonies."

At the conclusion of the above business Mr. Alfred Moseley, C.M.G., was introduced by the president.

Mr. Moseley expressed his pleasure at being present and launched at once into the matter of preferential trade. The Empire, said he, looms large to one who has traveled over it. The great question is to-day, not that of obtaining more of Empire, but how shall we maintain our present Empire in its integrity. He believed men in Canada realized the importance of this question, and that unless we get together the Empire would in a few years fall apart from its own weight.

Mr. Chamberlain well knew what was possible in the way of Empire, and had sacrificed his high position and taken his political life in his hands for his ideal—that of consolidating the existing Empire. He quite agreed that Canada and the rest of the Empire were fully capable of supplying the food demands of the Empire, but unfortunately that day was not yet. Much was supplied by Argentine and other countries by no means favorable to us.

The Chambre de Commerce, the French Board of Trade of Montreal, at a meeting on the 17th inst., passed a strong resolution, calling upon the British Government to have a commission composed of doctors and veterinaries of the United Kingdom, Canada, and other self-governing colonies, appointed to thoroughly investigate the question of whether the British embargo on Canadian cattle is justified by existing conditions. It is pointed out that the claim made in England that disease exists among Canadian cattle has been frequently refuted by investigation, and it is urged that if the action of the British authorities is because of any change in fiscal policy, Canada and the other colonies might curtail the favors they are extending to the Mother Country.

PORT ARTHUR.

The annual meeting of the Port Arthur Board of Trade, which was held in the council chamber on the 16th inst., drew out a larger gathering of the business men than has attended the board meeting in years.

A number of new names were added to the roll.

President Clavet opened the meeting He stated he had no report to bring before the board, and he credited the majority of the members of the board for the responsibility of this, as they had elected him mayor of the town, and in that capacity he had but little time to attend to other than the town's business. He thought, however, that the annual meeting of the board should have been called in April, as it was in that month that he had been elected to the position. He had not been aware of the calling of the meeting for to-night until he read the notice in the Chronicle calling the annual meeting. As the meeting had not been called last year until April he thought that in justice to himself he should have been given sufficient time to prepare a report. He had come to to-night's meeting without a report, as he had been too busy the past few weeks working in the town's interests to prepare one.

Mr. Clavet hoped that the motto of the board of trade this year would be "peace and harmony," having the interests of Port Arthur always at heart. "Port Arthur has a great future in store, but the town has been dormant and not awake to its possibilities. It has a better financial standing than any town in Canada. It cannot be ignored. We have a firm at our backs which will make us one of the greatest cities in Canada—Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann. In a recent conversation Mr. Mann stated that it was the desire and interest of his firm to make Port Arthur the Chicago of the west."

Before the adoption of the minutes of the previous meetings President Clavet took exception to a motion that ex-presidents should be made ex-officio officers of the board of trade.

The matter was adjusted by a motion that no ex-president of the board of trade be a member of the council unless elected to it.

The election of officers then took place.

Geo. Mooring was elected to the position of president.

Before vacating the chair President Clavet stated that he hoped his deficiencies as president of the board would be made up by the new president. He hoped that there would be harmony and prosperity in the board, and he knew that relations between the council and the board would be harmonious.

Mr. Mooring, in taking the chair, thanked the members for the honor that they had bestowed upon him in electing him to this responsible position. He thought that the board ought to make itself felt. He was going to fight first and last in the interests of Port Arthur.

REGINA.

The Board of Trade of Regina held its annual meeting on the 11th inst. In the absence of President Mytton, the chair was taken by Vice-President Pettingell.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, W. G. Pettingell; vice-president, Allan Cooper; council, H. F. Mytton, A. S. Jarvis, B. Whitmore, J. M. Young, Mayor McAra, J. R. Peverett, W. McCausland, Geo. Mickleborough and J. F. Bole.

An important question was raised by Mayor McAra, who said he thought Regina was not getting the advertising it should get, and that in the interests of the city a publicity commissioner, with a salary of $2,000 a year, should be appointed, as had been done in Moose Jaw, Edmonton, and other western cities. The matter, which was very favorably received, was referred to the council, who will meet next week, and issue a report to the board at its next general meeting.

SACKVILLE.

The annual meeting of the Sackville Board of Trade was held on the 13th inst. Mr. C. C. Campbell, the president, occupied the chair.

Mr. Stewart, the secretary, read the report of the council, reporting that action had been taken as follows:

Urging our railway and shipping committee to take strong action on behalf of this board with reference to improved accommodation at the Intercolonial Railway Station for both passengers and freight. The latest report of this committee, of which A. B. Copp was appointed chairman in the place of H. C. Read, resigned, is to the effect that a new station will probably be built here next Summer, and that the officials of the road were in favor of placing it at or near the site of the present station.

Action was taken with reference to the matter of wharf improvements. Three members of the board were appointed to co-operate with a committee from the town council to procure an appropriation from the Dominion Government.

SUMMERSIDE.

The annual meeting of the Summerside Board of Trade, on the 17th inst., was largely attended. The president, Neil McQuarrie, K.C., occupied the SYDNEY.

The Sydney Board of Trade held its regular meeting on the 10th inst, a large attendance of members being present.

The secretary's report has not yet been fully compiled, but will be ready to present to the members of the board in two weeks' time.

The election of officers of the board for the ensuing year resulted as follows: President, J. A. Gillies; vice-president, C. P. Moore; secretary-treasurer, S. P. Challon, re-elected.

The standing committee will be selected by a committee consisting of the president, vice-president, secretary, and retiring president.

After the election of officers the question of the "adulteration of milk" was brought up and ably discussed by Dr. E. C. Thurston, D.V.S. Among other information which Dr. Thurston furnished to the members of the board was the result of an examination of twenty-seven samples of milk which he had secured from the various vendors in Sydney. All except three of these were found to be adulterated, the majority of the samples being of condensed milk which had been highly watered and otherwise adulterated.

CANADA'S TRADE WITH THE WEST INDIES.

U. S. Consul-General William R. Holloway reports largely increased trade between Canada and the West Indies.

It is announced, he says, that special arrangements have been made for a West India exhibit at the Dominion Exposition at Halifax next Fall. The carrying trade this season between Canada and the West Indies has shown a satisfactory increase. All steamers have had full outward cargoes. The shipments of flour, oats and feed have exceeded those of last year. Split peas have been forwarded by Halifax this season instead of going via New York, as in former years. There has been a falling off in Canadian exports of butter and cheese to the West Indies, the country not having so great a surplus, owing to the heavy drought and the shortage of feed last Winter. A good trade is being opened up in condensed milk, also in furniture, canned goods, boots and shoes. The sale of Canadian soaps is decidedly on the increase, as is also that of biscuits. For the latter there is a large field, and more business could be done if it was pushed.

Imports have been large, nearly all the West India crystal sugar having been taken by Canada. Canada has also increased her purchases of oranges and bananas, the direct facilities having helped this trade.

The Canadian consumption of cocoa is yearly increasing. The low price of sugar at present is not very encouraging, the immediate outlook being poor for all except the largest estates and those equipped with the best machinery. However, these estates got good prices up to midsummer, and had a good deal of money to spend.

The present outlook for passenger traffic during January, February, March and April is bright, quite a number of passages already being booked and the inquiries being numerous.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

The cheese market remains firm here, but undoubtedly the elections in Great Britain have materially curtailed any new business, although it may be taken for granted that the consumption of cheese is really larger during these times of public excitement. Stocks in Canada are very much reduced, and the stocks in the different British centres are all reported considerably less than last year and, with any ordinary consumptive demand, the present available supplies would seem insufficient until the new season's make can come on the market.

All this naturally means a strong wind-up of last year's make, and a very awkward beginning for next season's make, dangerously high prices at the opening of the new season, steadily declining markets and great uncertainty until bottom prices are reached. Unless the next season's make of cheese is considerably in excess of the last season's make, prices will again rule high. At present the prospects seem to be that the make of butter will be still further increased, and that the make of cheese will decrease in proportion; but, after all, if the farmers find that cheese pays them better than butter, they may return to making cheese.

We mentioned in our last week's issue that Mr. J. W. Mitchell, of the Kingston Dairy School, advocated the "gathered cream system" at the convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association. Now, whatever Mr. Mitchell's motives may be, it is an established fact that Ontario butter, where the "gathered cream system" is used, is of inferior quality to Quebec butter. It is a good business for dairy supply merchants to sell as many cream separators as possible, it is also convenient for farmers to have these cream separators at home, to keep their skim milk for their stock, and deliver only their cream to the creameries. But carting cream over rough country roads in Summer-time is different to carting fresh milk from which the cream is to be extracted after it reaches the creamery. The finest quality of butter produced in Canada was made in the Eastern Townships of the Province of Quebec. Now, if the farmers in that section put in cream separators, they will very soon lose their reputation for producing "finest Canadian butter," and their product will be placed on the basis of "Ontario creamery," which is only about third on the list.

Let the farmers deliver good milk to the creameries, let the latter do their work right, and we can compete with any country in the world for fine quality of butter, but we distinctly disagree with Mr. Mitchell in his advocating the "gathered cream system."

Mr. W. A. Woodard, the official referee at Montreal, mentioned in his speech at Peterboro at the convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, that a noticeable defect was in the boxing of cheese. Boxes of inferior quality were used with the result that they were badly broken when they reached Montreal and were totally unfit for the long trip across the ocean.

This has been a vexed question for many years, different "freak" boxes being introduced, until Mr. D. M. McPherson, of Lancaster, brought out a box before the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association, which seems to "fill the bill." It is sewn with a waxed cord and lock stitch and it holds the wood together so that it may be landed in the U.K. in an unbroken condition. If this box is generally adopted by our cheese factories, it may fill a long felt want. Mr. McPherson states that he should get an advance of one cent per box, but for the present, at least, he is willing to supply his new boxes at the price of the ordinary boxes.

Another district, Brockville this time, has fallen into line of individual cow testing. This is, undoubtedly, a step in the right direction, and we trust to see this system generally adopted in all dairy sections of the Dominion.

THE PROVISION SITUATION.

It cannot be said that any material change has taken place in the trade conditions since our last review. There have been developments of a more or less expected character, which may or may not arouse the serious attention of the Government. The closing down in part of some important factories is what is referred to. Many hands are thus thrown out of employment, with no immediate prospect of the situation improving. Beside the "unemployed" feature, there is the fact that these men must find other kinds of employment, and therefore the factories have probably lost for good men which it has taken years to bring to efficiency, a feature of no mean importance to a manufacturing enterprise.

Neither in Montreal nor Toronto have supplies been sufficient to go round.

George Matthews & Co., pork packers, of Hull and Ottawa, announce that they will be obliged to curtail their operations, and temporarily throw many men out of work, because they find that it is impossible to secure sufficient bacon hogs to keep their establishment going, owing to the recent order of the Department of Agriculture.

The Hamilton packers, Fowlers' Canadian Company and the F. W. Fearman Company, are also suffering from a shortage of hogs, and have been compelled to lay off some of their workmen and cut down the time of others.

Reports from other centres are of similar nature. The recent conference between packers and farmers' interests it is to be hoped has paved the way for some action in the matter, which will effectually relieve the present unsatisfactory conditions. Prices have considerably stiffened, and there is every prospect of still further advances.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

By Our Own Correspondent.

Butter. Inquiry goes to show that the general position of this market, although it could not be termed positively weak, is by no means so strong as during the past two or three weeks. The effects of the very high prices lately ruling are now having their inevitable result and even in the face of all-around reductions the demand is inclined to flag. As a matter of fact, for reasons which it is not very easy to comprehend, importers are showing considerable willingness to meet possible purchasers in the matter of price. Arrivals from the colonies, however, have been on a small scale, nor does there seem any prospect of our receiving the supplies which importers would wish from that quarter. The Copenhagen quotation has been reduced three kroner and there has also been a reduction of a shilling in the price of choicest colonial. The price for medium is maintained.

Board of Trade returns for December show that the United Kingdom imported during 1905 butter to the extent of 207,393 tons. This is a falling off of nearly 5,000 tons, when compared to 1904. The decrease occurred entirely in foreign receipts; the colonies gave us 221 tons more.

Cheese. Taken in general, the position of the cheese market here is very similar to the butter market. The rush which has been characteristic of the past few weeks has diminished somewhat, and the volume of trade transacted is on a smaller scale. There is this difference, however—the attitude of importers towards cheese buyers is one of greater determination than in the case of butter. It would seem that they are hoping for a more active demand before long, and consequently prices have been maintained. Receipts of Canadian, both on the London market and the northwestern markets, have been small. Consumptive demand is weak and consequently supplies from Canada, small though they are, are slightly in excess of sales. The quality of Canadian cheese continues to be, as a whole, entirely satisfactory.

The demand for Dutch and English cheese is inclined to be weak.

Bacon. It is a pleasure to be able to report that late this week a decided change for the better came over the bacon market. Some sellers, regardless of general shortage, have been voluntarily refraining from selling in the hope that they might realize better prices. Nor have they been disappointed. The retail trade, naturally enough, is not taking very kindly to the present state of affairs, but the market is too strong for them.

The trade for Canadian bacon has been distinctly good and an advance of two shillings has resulted. It cannot, however, be said that quality is all that it might be. Pigs showing signs of premature killing are still being received. Importers are realizing that such a state of affairs cannot unfortunately be avoided, and they are making the best of a bad job.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

MONTREAL.

Provisions.

The provision market is decidedly strong. Live hogs are responsible in a large measure for this. Packers complain of scarcity more with every week, and higher prices must undoubtedly come. Prices are $7.50 to $7.75 per 100 lbs. off cars. Fresh killed abattoir dressed in good demand at $10 to $10.25 and country dressed $9.50 to $9.75 per 100 lbs. Hams and bacon unchanged, with firm undertone to market. Lard steady at quotations.

Butter.

The butter market has tended to weakness, due to the extreme and unprecedented mild weather at present prevailing, and prices in consequence are slightly lower than our last week's figures. Choicest creamery can be had at 22½c to 23c, while dairy is also off from 1c to 1½c per lb. Export trade is quiet and there is no disposition on part of exporters to pay more than 22c for choicest goods to the factories. Retailers also do not evince much disposition to pay the high prices that have lately been demanded and are holding off their purchasing.

Cheese.

The cheese market shows no change and as export business is practically closed, with light stocks on this side, the prices are unchanged from 13c to 13¼c for choice made cheese. Locally there is little doing and the demand from abroad is also light. Holders are, however, hanging on waiting for a recovery from the United Kingdom buyers.

We quote :

Eggs.

The market, owing to the mild weather, has eased off considerably and supplies are coming in more freely of fresh laid eggs. Receipts by express are coming in freely, with the consequent result that prices are lower and fresh laid eggs may be had at 27c for small sized lots. Limed and cold storage eggs have receded to 17c and 19c, the latter being for best stock. Selects are held at 22c. Should the weather harden within the next few days prices will recover materially. The position is a peculiar one and dealers are busy guessing.

TORONTO.

Provisions.

Since our last report there is little change to note in the prevailing conditions. Arrivals are slow to hand, and quality not over fine, with prices soaring to high standard. Actual trade done seems to be of limited volume, although demand has an active tendency. There has been an advancing tendency on all readily selling lines, and quotations are revised accordingly. Hogs in street lots have advanced 50c on previous prices. In car lots, 25c.

Cheese.

The cheese situation continues an exceedingly strong one. In country points makings are practically for local consumption, very little finding its way into the open market. With storage stocks held by large dealers, and foreign markets reporting holdings as below previous estimates, there appears every prospect of continued strength.

We quote :

There is no new feature to report. Arrivals continue to be satisfactory and many factories are well settled down to straight work. Prices show a decline of ½c off previous quotations.

Eggs.

Egg stocks are being drawn upon heavily. New laid have been coming in much more freely. The warm weather has materially stimulated production. Demand continues good for new laid, with a failing off in storage and pickled. Prices have fallen from 1c to ½c since last report.

WINNIPEG.

Butter.

There is a strong demand for the best quality of creamery butter and the price is firmly maintained with a tendency to advance. There is little demand for second grades.

Supplies of dairy butter are increasing but the quality of the greater part of the butter offering by country stores is far from good and the market is glutted with second grade butter. There is a strong demand for the best dairy and the price is about 20c. per lb. delivered in Winnipeg.

TILLSON HOCKEY TROPHY.

Friday evening, January 19, at Varsity Rink, Toronto, two hockey games in the Wholesale Grocery League were played—Brokers vs. Jas. Lumbers, and T. Kinnear & Co. vs. H. P. Eckardt & Co.

The first game ended in a victory for Brokers by 6 goals to 1. It was, without doubt, the fastest game played this year, but somewhat rough. The teams were well balanced, with the exception of the Brokers having a better forward line. Both teams showed lack of training, and a few more practices would improve them.

For the Brokers, Banks, Webber, May and Millman made brilliant rushes, and tried to work in their old-time combination, but being their first meeting they could not get working. Their new defence—Wilson, Bidwell and Ferguson—is a tower of strength.

On the opposing team Wessie Lumbers played a phenomenal game in goal, and the playing of Fred. Lumbers, Stewart Oliver, and James Morton, must not be overlooked. They are good stick handlers.

The line-up was :

Brokers—H. Ferguson, goal; W. E. Bidwell, point; J. Wilson, cover point; T. Webber, rover; W. W. May, right; A. Millman, centre; S. Banks, (capt.), left.

Referee—H. Rennie.

In the second game Eckardts went down before Kinnears by 7 to 0. It was a poor exhibition of hockey. Some spectacular plays were made by Tom Kinnear and Little Rennie. Bert. Brown made some brilliant plays and seemed to be the only one in condition. It seemed to be an off night for Eckardts.

The line-up was :

T. Kinnear & Co.—C. Holden, goal; H Rennie, point; G. Humphrey, cover; T. H. Kinnear, rover; A. B. McGregor, right; Graham, centre; C. Rennie, left.

H. P. Eckardt & Co.—Robinson, goal; Powers, point; B. Brown, cover; Chapman, rover; Hill, right; Thompson, centre; McCormick, left.

Windsor Salt

must not be confounded with ordinary Salt. In quality, it is as high above the common Salt of trade as can be imagined. It won't cake—it is pure, white, dry. There is no impurity in it because of the care taken in manufacturing. It is sifted, not ground. Every particle of it is a separate Salt Crystal. It pays to sell Windsor Table Salt, because it is so good, clean, pure—

it is all Salt.

PREMIUM COUPONS

and the Recent Legislation re Trading Stamps

Under the law recently enacted by the Dominion House of Commons, the issuing of Trading Stamps which are redeemable in goods at some central agency or elsewhere than on the premises of the merchant who issues them, is illegal.

It is, however, strictly legal and in thorough compliance with this recent legislation for any merchant in the Dominion to issue Premium Coupons to cash-paying customers, such Coupons being redeemable in goods in the shop or premises where the purchase was made and where the Coupons were issued, provided the goods given in redemption of the Coupons are the exclusive property of such merchant, and provided also that every Coupon bears its value printed or stamped on its face, as well as the name and place of business of the merchant who issues them.

The merchant is in no way bound to redeem these Premium Coupons in cash. Our system of Premium Coupons has been successfully operated by over two thousand leading retail merchants throughout the Dominion during the past ten years, and as we place our system EXCLUSIVELY with one merchant in each town, its advantages as a cash trade winner are decidedly beneficial. We will be much pleased to instruct our traveller to call upon any merchant interested in Premium Coupons, on application, for the purpose of explaining the benefits to be derived from introducing our system.

IS THE LAW AGAINST BUSINESS MEN.

The prosecutions which have been instituted against some of the business organizations in Canada raise some important points. One in particular is in regard to the legality of any organizations which business men may see fit to create.

In this day and generation, organizations amongst business men are a necessity. Where they do not exist, there is a crying need for them, whether it be among retailers, wholesalers, or manufacturers. It is born of the conditions which exist to-day, where competition is the life of trade. But there is competition and competition. When competition is excessive or unjust, ruin is certain to follow.

Organizations, as a rule, are born of the desire, not to resort to unjust methods, but to remedy evils which exist. Even the organizations of the master plumbers and the supply men were at first created for this purpose. It was only when they became masters of the situation that they became arbitrary. Had they stuck to the early intentions of their organization no one would have had just cause to complain.

Now, however, that the courts have started upon the repression of unjust combines or associations, it is just possible that such a narrow interpretation of the law may be taken, that wherever there is an organization of business men prosecution for conspiracy or restraint of trade may follow.

Should it be found that this narrow interpretation of the law leads to the penalizing of organizations of business men who had no intention of either restricting trade or conspiring against non-members or anyone concerned, the law should be amended at the earliest possible moment.

Some 34 years ago, when the printers of Toronto struck for the nine-hour day, it was found that those engaged in the strike were guilty of infraction of the law, and several of the leaders were arrested, among them being the late E. F. Clarke, M.P. for Centre Toronto. Sir John Macdonald, however, came to the rescue and passed legislation which removed the disability under which trade unions then rested.

No one then, or since, has questioned the amendments that were made to the law; nor will anyone question the right of business men to organize for legitimate purposes, but, judging from the turn which affairs are taking before the courts, it will be necessary for the law to be amended in some way in order to protect such organizations from narrow and unjust prosecution.

The business men of this country, whether they are manufacturers, wholesalers, or retailers, need organization, and if the present law prevents them from enjoying this, the disabilities under which their labor must be removed.

If working men, lawyers, doctors and others can be allowed to create what are practically close corporations, surely business men cannot be denied the right to organize simply for the purpose of rectifying evils which exist in their several lines of trade.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Start to work while the year is young. It's the way to make your business year eclipse any of the past. Now's the time to plan for the trade of the prospective buyer.

Cutting prices leads to bitterness and animosities between competitors, it is a very dangerous plan and generally results in demoralizing local business as competition retaliates. If you decide to lower prices to meet catalogue house competition, talk it over with others in your town who handle the same goods, explain your position and what you are going to do. Work together. If a spirit of protection against foreign houses is maintained, all can surely work in harmony and all will be benefitted.

FIGHT FIRE WITH FIRE.

When you find mail order advertising circulating in your territory which actually misrepresents, go after it.

You cannot do this by talking in the store. While you are discussing such misrepresentation with a few people many more are taking the bait and sending their money away.

There is an old saying that you must fight fire with fire. You must fight retail mail order advertising with advertising just as positive and even more convincing.

An exchange tells of a North Dakota retailer who has found it necessary to begin a campaign of education against retail catalogue houses. He uses both prices and general argument. He analyzes the weakness of the offers made by retail mail order houses, compares their goods with his goods and their values with his values. One of his recent circulars, printed on a mimeograph, is an argument which no farmer can dodge. He must confess that the local merchant has proven his case.

Even with such work as this there are people who will persist in sending their money out of the district, but do not weep too long over them. Every community has them. Do the best you can. Hold as big a percentage of the trade at home as possible and bear in mind that the man does not live who can hold it all.

CHANGE IN MAKE-UP.

On February 1st THE GROCER will inaugurate a new system of make-up which has become necessary to the proper development, and which it is expected will improve the appearance, of the paper to the consequent advantage of reader, advertiser and publisher alike.

The change will be a development of the departmental idea that has proved so successful heretofore.

With the first issue of February all advertisements not connected with the special departments will be placed in the front and back of the paper, and thereafter no advertising will be placed between the advertising department in the front and the end of the markets. Nor, indeed, has any new advertising been contracted for in this position during the past two years, although the old advertisements have been continued as before.

This will give straight-away advertising followed by straight-away reading matter to about page 40.

This re-arrangement will necessitate a change in the position of some advertisers who have long had certain positions, but as the result will be to make THE GROCER a still better paper, we trust we shall have the co-operation and forbearance of our advertisers until the new arrangement be given a fair trial and its advantages fully recognized.

THE CANADIAN GROCER.

WINDOW COMPETITION CLOSED.

The notice of our window dressing competition, which closed on the 15th inst., has been taken up in a most encouraging manner, and we have received some meritorious illustrations. We are going carefully over these, and will announce the awards in our issue of February 2.

LOBSTER INSPECTION.

The following letter, which has been received by the editor, fully confirms the need expressed in a recent editorial for a strict Government inspection :

Editor Canadian Grocer :

Dear Sir.—Have noticed from time to time the requests which have appeared in your paper re canned lobsters. I am now, I suppose, considered one of the old stagers in the grocery business. Years ago we bought lobsters by the carload, where we buy 100 cases or less to-day. My recollection is that years ago we had very little trouble with our lobsters, but of late years it seems that you never get through the season without your lobster department showing a loss and creating a lot of trouble. I believe this is the experience of both wholesale and retail merchants all over, so I think that a Government inspection of the lobster industry would be a good thing, and some sort of stricture be put upon the sort of stuff that is being put up. Then, again, when you have disputes with the canners it generally results in a most unsatisfactory manner. Am sure what I say will be corroborated all over the country.

Yours truly,
KICKER.

FRAUDULENT PACKING.

It should not, but it mostly does, take a long while to bring home to people that "the path of duty is the path of safety." There is no other safe road, and travelers on any other are sure to meet with just recompense sooner or later.

The result of the recent prosecution for fraudulent fruit packing cannot fail to meet with the approval of all fair-minded men. If anything, the decision erred on the side of leniency.

If men will not be guided by moral suasion and the higher instincts of integrity, then the law, severe, righteous and unrelenting, must be called into being. What is the use of spending unlimited time, money and energy in establishing relations with all parts of the globe, if unscrupulous packers are going at one fell swoop to ruin the whole business ?

Just recently we published a report of remarkable success that an exhibit of Canadian fruit had met with in England. What use, indeed, is it all, if our growers are so blind to their interests and so lacking in common honesty that in place of good, sound, honest fruit, mere scrubs are packed, fruit not fit for any market. To impose a fine of whatever amount seems almost too lenient. Our inspectors are greatly to be commended, and the prompt action of Mr. J. Carey, as came out in the evidence, may well be followed by other inspectors.

No fruit should be allowed to be packed for export except the very highest quality, free from scab, scale or blemish. This is especially necessary where the journey is likely to be protracted and any packing violating the law should be met with imprisonment without the option of a fine. This is a question of public importance in its broadest sense. Canadian success hangs upon the measure of her confidence abroad, and any man or men who will wilfully, carelessly and indifferently jeopardize such confidence deserves the severest handling. We trust that Inspector Rutherford, of Ottawa, will not rest content with the laurels thus earned, but will push ahead with unrelenting energy.

WELSH COAL FOR CANADA.

Mr. W. A. MacKinnon, the Canadian commercial agent at Bristol, England, sends us a clipping from the Western Daily Press, of that city, reproducing from the columns of this paper a paragraph in regard to the possible strike of the coal miners in the United States and of the threatened shortage in the supply as a result thereof.

Ever since his appointment to the commercial agency in Bristol, Mr. MacKinnon has advocated in his official reports the advisability of Canadian importers establishing a connection with Welsh exporters of the best anthracite coal, which is claimed to be superior to the Pennsylvania product. Mr. MacKinnon believes that it would be well for Canadian importers to make these connections before the probable strike takes place and not after. This is the business-like way of looking at the matter and it is to be hoped that importers in Canada will act upon his advice.

We all remember the unfortunate position we were placed in some three or four years ago when the miners in the anthracite districts went out on strike and deprived this country for some months of its regular supply of coal.

The poultry products of the United States annually exceed in value that of the country's wheat and corn crops combined. The country's poultry produce in the past five years annually increased in value 20 per cent., with the supply not equal to the demand.

A QUESTIONABLE PROPOSAL.

At a recent special meeting of the Winnipeg Board of Trade a resolution was passed asking for certain stringent legislation from the present session of the Manitoba Legislature with the object of compelling insolvent merchants to protect their creditors. President A. L. Johnson, in the course of an able speech, characterized by his usual clearness of expression, said that cases were far too common of merchants selling out their stock at a discount and then coming to their wholesalers to effect a compromise. Legislation was required to stop the practice.

It was decided to ask the Legislature to pass a bill consisting of seven clauses providing that in the sale of any stock of goods it shall be the duty of the purchaser to demand, and of the vendor to furnish, a list of the creditors and the amounts owing, such written statements to be verified by a statutory declaration ; and unless such statement and declaration is forthcoming the purchase and sale shall be null and void as against creditors of the vendor. Provision is to be made for the vendor to produce to the purchaser a consent in writing stating the terms of sale, and signed by not less than 50 per cent. of the number of creditors and 75 per cent. of the value ; if such is not given by said creditors the purchaser shall pay the proceeds of the purchase into some trust company, said company to distribute said proceeds under provisions of the Assignment Act of Manitoba, providing for all creditors receiving a pro rata share of proceeds of sale ; also that it shall not affect any sale of an executor, administrator, receiver, trust or any public officer acting under judicial process.

A similar resolution was championed by Mr. Johnson in Regina last June at the convention of the Northwest Boards of Trade, and after a long and somewhat acrimonious discussion it was thrown out by a large vote. At that convention it was evident that the wholesale and retail interests were opposed on this question. The retailers argued that unnecessary and irksome restrictions were being placed upon the honest dealers in order to stop sharp practice by a very few. Mr. Johnson and his supporters argued with considerable force that it was not the object to hamper the honest man and that the honest man would not suffer. At that convention the retail interests won.

As the question will soon come up for consideration in the Manitoba Legislature The Grocer will welcome an expression of opinion by retailers and wholesalers. Address to the Winnipeg office.

WESTERN ASSOCIATION NEWS

"The Canadian Grocer" the Official Organ.

Address all communications for this department to THE CANADIAN GROCER, 511 Union Bank Building, Winnipeg, Man.

It has been decided to hold the annual meeting of the association in Winnipeg during the Bonspiel week, February 13, 14 and 15. The first meeting will be in Manitoba Hall (on Partage avenue, opposite Eaton's) on the afternoon of February 13, at 2.30 sharp. Merchants attending the canvention will have the benefit of the single fare rates sold by the railway companies from Feb. 9 to Feb. 12. These tickets are good for return until Feb. 20, and, therefore, are available for association members. As these rates apply only so far west on the C.P.R. as Moose Jaw, and on the C.N.R. as far as Waiman, merchants from Alberta and Western Saskatchewan are advised to buy regular return tickets to these points, and there buy the reduced fare tickets. The arrangement is advantageous, and it should ensure a bumper attendance at the convention.

During the last month Secretary Coulson has been busy completing the organization and enlisting the support of merchants in various Manitoba towns. The following encouraging list of new members has been secured since the last list was published in this paper: L. Landry Laurier, Man.; V. Trottier, Laurier, Man.; Boisvert & Co., Laurier, Man.; J. E. Trottier, Laurier, Man.; E. J. Oliver, Ochre River; Wolff & Scarp, Ochre River; T. J. Hare, Tenby; McRae & Williams, Plumas; John Burgoyne, McCreary; Peter Riddell, McCreary; Solomon Burgoyne, McCreary; Campbell & Co., Mackinac; John Drew & Son, Snow Flake; Eli Shilson, Snow Flake; Hoffmann & Jacobs, Manitou; the Crosby Co., Darlingford; J. W. Mitchell, Mowbray; G. Tremoth, Belmont; Wilkins & Hicks, High Bluff; J. C. Lowrie, Bagot; J. E. Farncomb, Bagot; Merrick Bros., McGregor; A. B. Murdoch, McGregor; W. Holmes, McGregor; Walter Clifford, Austin; Wheeler & Duncan, Austin; D. McLennan, Sidney; John McElrea, Sidney; F. M. Stanley, Sidney; A. E. McCowie, Douglas; Jas. Brydon, Hilton.

From Alberta comes most encouraging news of the progress of the movement in that province. The strong Edmonton section met recently and appointed a permanent secretary, W. G. Harrison, to devote his time to the association work. An executive council of twelve was elected, six of whom are from Edmonton, the remaining members being divided among Strathcona, Fort Saskatchewan, and St. Albert. The Edmonton representatives on the council are John T. Mills, John Somerville, Jr., A. A. Morrow, H. W. B. Douglas, H. Aldrich, and W. Goldsmith. J. H. Morris and John A. McDougall were the delegates appointed to attend the Winnipeg convention.

The approaching Winnipeg convention promises to be an important gathering, at which several weighty matters will be discussed, and association members from all parts of the west should make it a point to be present. New officers will be elected for the coming year, and it is important that a wise selection should be made. When the association was organized in Winnipeg last February the membership was almost entirely confined to Manitoba, and, naturally, almost the entire executive was chosen from the merchants of that province. During the year the movement has spread to include the trade of the three prairie provinces, and hence the new executive must be composed of members from all three provinces. The growth of the association may make necessary some changes in the by-laws.

Then, again, preparations must be made for effectively dealing with bad accounts. As has been mentioned in these columns before, the secretary has a plan whereby the association can do most effective work in this matter. Every merchant has had experience with "dead beats," who run accounts in different stores, and move from one district to another preying on the good nature of dealers who are not acquainted with their financial standing. The association can render effective assistance in this matter not only in collecting accounts, but in warning members of these commercial derelicts.

CONVENTION DATES.

The annual meeting of the Western Retail Association will be held in Manitoba Hall, Winnipeg, on the afternoon and evening of February 13, 14 and 15. Single fare return tickets may be bought February 9 to 12, good to return until February 20.

Merchants are asked to send the secretary in duplicate copies of such accounts. As secretary of the Association of Retail Merchants he will write to delinquent debtors, and it has often been found that such letters have the desired effect. Moreover, the secretary is preparing a list of such delinquents for the use of association members, and it is for the coming convention to decide whether to have this list published in circular form every month, and what form it shall take.

There is also the important question of fire insurance. It is proposed that the association should undertake to insure its members against fire, thus saving part of the present fire insurance rates, which are believed to be exorbitant. The hardware association have some such proposal in view also, and as the plan has been worked successfully by several American associations, there is no apparent reason why it should not succeed here. Advantageous arrangements may be made by the association with some fire insurance company, or the association may itself undertake the work.

BUSINESS PERSONAL.

Harry Keys, of Keys, Man., is opening a grocery and confectionery business in Lariviere, Man.

Ed. Gaul & Co., of Manitou, have sold their business to Sharpe & Button of the same town, who, in turn, have disposed of the stock to Hoffmann & Jacobs.

Mr. Kidney, of Wing & Kidney, grocers, Calgary, was in Toronto last week. Mr. Kidney is an old Toronto boy, and when he first went west was engaged in ranching. He is now a prosperous merchant in Calgary.

Mr. James Innes, of the Sutherland-Innes Cooperage Concern, Chatham, Ont., is in Montreal this week. This company have offices in New Orleans, New York, Minneapolis, Liverpool, Bordeaux, and Hamburg, and do a very large trade in cooperage, box shooks, etc.

Mr. Arthur P. Tippet, of A. P. Tippet & Co., Montreal, left for his European tour last week and will visit England, France, Italy and Sicily while abroad. Mr. W. H. Tippet, of the Toronto branch of A. P. Tippet & Co., is in Montreal during Mr. A. P. Tippet's sojourn abroad.

Ed. Jordan, of Darlingford, Man., has sold his grocery and general store business to the Crosby Co. Mr. Jordan is now in Portage la Prairie, and is at present undecided as to his business future. J. Frank Crosby is the senior partner of the new Crosby Company, of Darlingford, Man. He has recently come west, having for years been in business in Ottawa at the corner of Bank and Somerset streets. He sold his Ottawa store to A. Carruthers.

The many friends of Mr. Louis C. Armstrong, so well known for many years past as one of the Red Rose tea staff, will be very much pleased to learn that his health is greatly improved, and he hopes to see many of his old friends and customers in the near future. His employer, Mr. T. H. Estabrooks, has, however, arranged that he will not cover near as much territory as in the past, so that he will have the fullest opportunity to regain his former health and strength. The territory that he will do for the present will be points that can be easily reached by rail.

Mr. R. S. Shannon, of Campbellford, was a caller on The Grocer this week, on his way to the States. Mr. Shannon is taking an extended vacation, and intends visiting a number of the leading cities across the border. As an experienced and successful grocer, Mr. Shannon cannot fail to find much to interest hin in the ways and means of his brother grocers in the States, and we hope to be able to give our readers a few notes of his observations after his return. Mr. Shannon gave to The Grocer a few ideas of the possibilities of Campbellford. He is quite enthusiastic on the possibilities of the power development of that neighborhood, and considers it an ideal place for the establishment of manufactories.

The Best Test We Know Of, Is the Sale Test.

14,000,000 PACKETS ANNUAL SALE

Fourteen years ago, with a thorough disregard of old-time ideas and precedents as to what should constitute a passably good Tea for the people, the promoters of "SALADA" launched upon the market an article of such remarkable "Top-Notch" quality and value as to have defied all competition, and established a sale without precedent in the annals of the Tea Trade. This fact is unquestionable.

Therefore, it matters not who the dealer is, where located, or under what conditions, whether operating a large concern or conducting a village grocery, "SALADA" Ceylon Tea used as a "leader" must of necessity prove immensely beneficial, as it sells readily, and never can be matched or counterfeited. Hundreds have tried to do so, and fallen by the wayside.

ARE YOU HANDLING

CELLULOID STARCH?

Live dealers realize that substitution doesn't pay. People enjoy being the judges of what is best for them and it is wise policy to give them what they want.

The extra profit made from trial sales of unknown brands is very insignificant compared with the continuous profit from repeated sales, sure to be the lot of any meritorious article aggressively advertised to the consumer.

Celluloid Starch does what is claimed for it and the present heavy demand is the result.

Its success is a "continuous performance."

Sugar—The market is quiet and unchanged. Refiners report little business with jobbers, and the latter say there is no buying of any account by retailers. Foreign beet market is weak and New York reports raws as tending easier. In that market it is expected, according to latest reports, that the arrivals of Cuban and Porto Rico sugars in February may affect the market still further. We quote:

Syrups and Molasses—Since our last report there has been a slight weakening on part of holders and they are disposed to let go more freely. This is no doubt due to the near approach of the new crop and the fact that the trade is fairly well supplied with stock for requirements. No change, however, is noted in prices by jobbers. Corn syrups are selling well. We quote:

Tea—The tea market shows no change since last report. Ceylon greens are very firm for desirable qualities, and good teas are commanding higher prices, with very few offering. Ceylon blacks are also improved, with a very fair run of orders. There is very little doing in China teas. Imperial, pea leaf and pinhead are commanding good prices and are firmer, if anything. Japans are about the same, with somewhat better inquiry during the week, particularly for faunings and siftings. Taking the market altogether, business may be considered to be tending towards an improvement. We quote:

Coffee—There is no change to report in coffee. The market continues strong. From the latest statistical report at hand, large operators from New York look forward to a maintenance of a firm tone that has during the past six months been apparent in the coffee market. Locally, dealers complain of quiet trade, due to the mild weather and the rather unsettled condition of the road. Watt, Scott & Goodacre, in their report of January 22, say re Brazil coffees: Stocks in Rio and Santos are 513,000 bags less than even date last year. The total visible in Brazil is only equal to the world's consumption between now and March 1.

The stocks in Europe are 1,113,000 bags less than even date, 1905, and more than 2,400,000 bags less than in January, 1904.

The visible supply for the U. S., of Brazils, is 16,000 bags less than a year ago, and of coffees other than Brazils, 149,600 bags.

New York is about 5-8c. below even date of a year ago, and the option market 85 points below same date last year.

With no substantial evidence of speculative manipulation discoverable, it is not necessary to look farther for the cause of present advance.

On the present basis coffees are cheap, and a liberal line of afloats should make money. Confidence in the position of coffee is quite pronounced and prominent U. S. interests are good buyers.. We quote:

Foreign Dried Fruits— There is very little new to report in dried fruits this week. The local demand has somewhat slackened off in Valencia raisins. There has been some business transacted in currants, which show a slight advance in the primary market. Comadre figs are fairly held at recent quotations. Dates have advanced in London, as the stock is reported to be very much smaller than this time last year. In shelled nuts, walnuts have held their firmness and in some qualities a slight advance in price is asked. Jordan almonds are very scarce. There is no change in California prunes. We learn of the probability of an advance by the syndicate on seeded raisins, as they now appear to have control of the remaining stocks. Generally speaking, stocks of all kinds of dried fruits are in very moderate compass, and while there is no very active demand on the moment, holders will make no concession in prices.

Rice and Tapioca—There is no change to report in the condition of the rice market. The firmness lately reported is maintained. As Japan is an importer of rice, the scarcity of this article in that country has had the effect of strengthening the market generally. As regards tapioca, the market still maintains its firmness. New York is strong in futures, which are ruling above spot prices. We quote:

Spices—The general condition of the spice market shows an improvement all along the line. Gingers, particularly, are higher and supplies are reported as being scarce in the East Indies. Nutmegs, which have been very low, have lately shown a slight advance. Peppers are also stronger, and cassias firmer. As far as the local market is concerned, no appreciable effect is noted. Beans—There is no change. Bean market, despite the fact that local dealers are well supplied, maintains a firm tone. Producers in the west appear to be fairly well cleaned up, and say market should recover from the slight weakening noted during the past three or four weeks. We quote:

LAST MINUTE PROVISION MARKETS.

Montreal, Thursday, Jan. 25th, 12.30 p.m.

BUTTER—Market unchanged. Easy tone. Export business light. Colder weather yesterday will improve conditions. Dairy, 20 to 20½c. for rolls; 19½ to 20½c. for tubs. Choice creamery, 22½ to 23c.

CHEESE—Quiet market and unchanged prices, 13¼ to 13½c.; firm; quotations according to make.

EGGS—Steady market at easier prices of past few days. Undertone weak. Strictly fresh, 26 to 27c.; selects, 23c.; limed, 17 to 19c.

PROVISIONS—Firm tone. Scarcity of live hogs cause of complaint on packers' part. Hams and bacon firm. Lard stiffer.

Evaporated Apples— Firm market. Several carloads were sold this week equal to 10 1-4c. delivered. Western evaporaters maintain that higher prices are bound to come, though the trade here think that, owing to present high prices, the demand is bound to be curtailed. We quote:

Winter varieties	0 09½ 0 10½

Maple Products—Trade is extremely quiet. Little inquiry; what there is, is for fancy stock maple sugar. Syrup demand is also light; dealers look for an improvement with the approaoch of Lent, when the demand is generally good. We quote:

Maple syrup, in wood, per lb	0 05½ 0 06
" in large tins	0 06½ 0 07
Pure Townships sugar, per lb	0 07 0 07½
Pure Beauce County, per lb	0 08½ 0 09

Honey—Somewhat better business is reported in honey this week. Dealers say demand is good locally and inquiries from country merchants are better. White clover is held firm at 8c. to 9c. We quote:

White clover, extracted tins	0 08 0 09

Buckwheat	0 07 0 07½

Fish—Despite the warm weather that is at present being dealt out, the fish trade, on the whole, is in good position, and the demand for fresh fish of all kinds is good. Naturally, with the advent of settled cold weather, dealers hope for a strong improvement. There is a fair demand of fresh herring of the large Newfoundland kind, on the market at present, though stocks are not over-plentiful. The same may be said of tom cods, that is un-spawned fish, which are practically cleaned up, and there will not be any new arrivals for about a week or ten days. In salt fish Labrador herrings are selling freely and prices are a little lower since our last quotation. Stocks of these, however, are not large. This indicates that prices may be expected to be firmer. In green cod, stocks in this market are not large; the demand is fair, but towards the approach of Lent, will be much heavier, and dealers look forward to higher prices. In prepared and smoked fish, there is about the usual demand for this season of the year. Bulk oysters are selling well, and the quality arriving daily is in first-class condition. Malpeque shell oysters may be said to be practically out of the market. We quote:

An evil life is not changed in a moment — it is the work of long, painful years, the process slow and the transformation gradual.

Ontario Markets.

GROCERIES.

Toronto, Jan. 26, 1906.

Trade has been uninteresting and without any special feature since our last report. On the street things have been particularly dull, no life being noticeable in any lines. Travelers' reports speak of outside places being seriously affected by the continued mild weather. In foreign dried fruits markets are reporting great strength at Mediterranean primal points. Nuts are also firm, with higher quotations for present business Fish has fallen in demand, with the exception of dried fish, for which there has been fair inquiry. Quotations for furs have been slightly rearranged to meet better classification.

Canned Goods — Wholesalers report fair trade since our last issue. No feature of interest has transpired, and no change in previous quotations.

Sugar—The domestic trade has been slow and uninteresting during week under review. The sudden drop, reported in our last issue, has by no means stimulated movement; buyers are slow to lay in more than required for immediate consumption. The universal reports denote a weakening condition, Speaking of the refined situation, Willett & Gray's latest report says:

"Weakness developed early in the week, resulting in a cut by all refiners of 10c. per 100 lbs. in sugars for prompt shipment only, to basis of granulated at 4.50c. less 1 per cent. cash, while leaving the list prices unchanged basis of 4.60c. less 1 per cent., which is still asked for 30 days' privileges. The Federal further reduced their prices to basis of 4.40c. less 1 per cent. cash.

"New business has been very light, the trade, generally, having full supplies booked under contracts, but the distribution is quite satisfactory, the withdrawals showing deliveries since the beginning of the year larger than those of a year ago.

"The market is likely to continue unsettled for some time, while Cuban sugars are pressing heavily on the market. New Orleans also declined to basis of 4.50c. less 1 per cent. cash.

"Reports from European markets continue decidedly unfavorable for improvement in values. Mr. F. O. Licht has further increased his estimate of the European beet crop by 55,000 tons, to 6,930,000 tons, which is 180,000 tons in excess of the largest previous beet crop in history, while the visible world's supply of sugar has increased to 4,026,000 tons, which is, also, the largest visible supply ever known in history. Beet sugars are quiet at 8s. 3d for prompt and 8s. 8 1-4d for August delivery."

Syrups and Molasses— Trade in these has been of small volume and uninteresting. Previous quotations remain unchanged. The New York market continues to report a very strong tone to the molasses market, dealers showing inclination towards higher prices. Trade, however, was only of moderate volume. We quote:

Coffee—Trade has shown little interest during week under review; a moderate demand has been in evidence, but nothing above ordinary requirements. This is somewhat disappointing in coffee, as the prospects at the close of the year were of a most promising nature. It is to be hoped the decline is but a temporary one. Advices referring to crop conditions are interesting at the present moment. Willett & Gray's latest report says: With six months of the current Brazil season behind us, comparisons of the new crop movement are justified. The Rio crop varies, but the Santos crop is usually marketed with great regularity, and comparing with the two previous seasons it is probable the result will be about the same. The receipts of the past two weeks were very light, but not taken seriously, generally supposed to be due to the weather. But if these small receipts were believed to indicate the balance of the crop in the interior, the market would have quickly advanced 2c. to 3c. per lb. However, not excluding the probability or importance of a continued light movement, the outturn may be taken to be about the same as last season, say about 10,000,000 bags, which competent people consider 2,000,000 bags less than the requirements of consumption of Brazil coffees to-day. In making this crop comparison with a year ago, comparisons of supplies and prices then and now reveal a strong and healthy situation.

The reports we have given of late about the mild crops are fully confirmed. Direct advices again state Guatemala will export at least 25 per cent. less coffee than last year, as the now current crop is not more than 450,000 bags compared with 600,000 bags last year. Some districts in Guatemala will hardly give one-third of the previous crop. Similar conditions to those in Guatemala are said to prevail in other Central American Republics, including Mexico. A 20 to 25 per cent. smaler crop is expected elsewhere. The combined Central American and Mexican crops last year were about 1,900,000 bags. If the quantity is to be cut down to less than 1,500,000 bags this year, it is worthy of note, as mild stocks are very light and the shortage must be drawn from other kinds, probably Santos.

Foreign Dried Fruits—Trade on the domestic market has been slow and uninteresting since our last review. Reports from primal markets denote considerable development of strength. Shelled walnuts are showing strong advance on prices quoted at opening of season, a feature which is usually reversed. Dates have sold freely and are now scarce. Markets abroad are high. Currants at primal points are strong. Raisins are also firm, quotations for spot deliveries are irregular, the irregularity being accounted for by irregular quality. Califonia seeded raisins are somewhat unsettled. Prices have considerably strengthened during the past few days and reports from primal market with regard to the combine purchase are causing a degree of uneasiness. We quote:

Fish—There has been a particularly dull market since our last report. Demand has shown considerable shrinkage, the soft weather being a feature to which is attributed much of the decline. There is a scarcity of ciscoes on the market. Winter caught white fish are now on sale at 9 1-2c. per lb. The demand for salt fish has been particularly good for time of year.

N. S. Markets.

Halifax, January, 1906.

The most notable change in the Maritime grocery markets during the week was the drop in the price of sugar, the Acadia Sugar Refinery Company having reduced the price on all grades of refined sugar ten cents per one hundred pounds. This is the first change in the prices here for eight weeks, and it was certainly not expected by the trade, who had advised their customers that the market would probably remain steady for some time, and that any change expected would probably be in the opposite direction. The prices here at present rule about as follows: XXX granulated, $4.30; Austrian granulated, $4.20; bright yellow, $4.10; No. 1 yellow, $3.80.

Produce.

The mild weather has assisted the egg market, and the receipts of fresh stock are improving. The market is well supplied with case eggs, the best of which are selling at 24 cents per dozen. The demand is rather light at present. Fresh eggs guaranteed are coming in more freely, and the price ranges from 28 to 30 cents. Consumers prefer to pay the advanced price for the good stock.

The butter markets are quiet and there is no notable change in either the price or the receipts. The local supply of butter has not improved any, and it is not expected to show any increase in the immediate future. Prices rule about as follows: Creamery prints 26 to 27, creamery solids 25 to 26, dairy tubs 23 to 24, and rolls about the same.

Cheese.

The market is quiet but firm and is jobbing here now at 13 to 13½ cents. The demand is not very great, and shipments from these parts are light.

Pork and Smoked Meats.

The shortage of pork in the Maritime markets is estimated at 50 per cent. Dealers are now commencing to wonder where their supplies are to come from. The demand for pork is good, and it finds ready sale at 8½ to 9½ cents. Very few hogs are coming to the city from Prince Edward Island, and it is stated that some of the local packers are drawing supplies from Ontario points. This is without doubt a remarkable state of affairs, when it is considered that the island is the great pork raising centre of the Maritime Provinces. There is also a notable scarcity of hams and bacon, the local dealers not being able to procure sufficient hogs to cure their own stock.

Review of Year's Business.

At the recent meeting of the Board of Trade, James Billman, chairman of the wholesale grocery committee, in reviewing the trade of the past year said:

"The wholesale grocery firms of Halifax report a satisfactory business for the past year. Owing to the snow blockade in January and February, sales were small during these months, but most firms report that their total sales were larger than the previous year. Owing to the uncertain state of the sugar market the profits on this article were not as good as some other years. The same might be said of molasses, but on the whole profits have been good, and no serious declines in values have taken place. Owing to the scarcity of Canadian hogs, which caused high prices on all kinds of Canadian provisions, large quantities of American lard have been imported into Halifax in spite of a customs duty of two cents a pound.

"Collections are reported to be as good as previous years, and no large failures among the retail trade have occurred. The number of firms engaged in the wholesale grocery trade has been reduced by one firm."

Review of Fisheries.

The following interesting review of the fisheries of Nova Scotia was submitted by Mr. C. H. Mitchell at the annual meeting of the Board of Trade. Mr. Mitchell is a member of the firm of G. P. Mitchell's, Limited, which annually handles large quantities of fish, and therefore his opinion on the subject naturally carries some weight:

"The season's operations have been disappointing, and this, following the poor fishery of 1904, is very discouraging to those interested. The same causes that contributed to the short catch of 1904 were in evidence this year. These were the scarcity of bait and the prevalence in increasing numbers of the scourge of the fishermen—the dogfish.

"Our shore fishery especially was much below the average. Prices have ruled high right through the season, and this has in some measure offset the shortage in the catch. The shore catch of cod has been much less than last year and the bank catch somewhat less. Prices opened in the early Summer at $6 per quintal for bank fish and later declined to $5.25 and again advanced in the Autumn, when they reached $6.25 per quintal, which is a record price for this grade of fish. Owing to the short supply of our own catch dealers were obliged to import a large quantity from Newfoundland and elsewhere. If our cod fishery continues to decline it becomes a serious question with the trade as to supply of suitable fish to carry on our export trade.

"The valuable fishery of mackerel has rapidly declined and the catch this season is the smallest on record. For some reason these fish do not frequent our shores as formerly. In some sections where there have been more or less caught in previous years there have been none taken for several years. It is very discouraging to see a valuable fish disappear from our waters, and we would like to see a commission appointed by the Government to inquire into the cause.

"The herring fishery, too, was much below the average, and as with the mackerel, they do not frequent our waters to the same extent as formerly.

B. C. News.

Vancouver, Jan. 18, 1906.

Though left to fight the battle without the aid of the wholesale trade of Victoria, the merchants of Vancouver are putting up a bold front. This week all arrangements are being made to send a delegation, backed by eminent counsel, to Ottawa, to argue the case before the Railway Commission. Undoubtedly the C.P.R. is making equally careful preparations, so that a very wide interest will be aroused when the matter comes up for settlement.

A leading wholesale grocer is authority for the assertion that the committee has informed the C.P.R. officials that while there is nothing of personal animus in the contest, they are determined to fight it to a finish, and to that end will keep up the boycott, refusing to allow any freight to come in or go out over C.P.R. lines that can be routed any other way. The same authority said, in discussing the situation, "We want nothing unfair, and we have so stated the case to the general freight agent, Mr. Greer. All we ask is that Vancouver receive equitable treatment in this matter of rates to points fairly to be considered as in her territory.

Northern business is now very quiet for this season, though outgoing steamers are carrying considerable freight, such as lumber and other construction material used by the White Pass and other big companies in the north. A less amount of "over-the-ice" trade is being done this year than last because of the fact that stocks all got down the river to Dawson in better shape this season, all important lines being sent forward early. A very small quantity of perishable goods can be sent forward over the Winter trail, but until very late in the season not much is sent out. The people of the northern camp are not able to get much fresh stock for many months between closing of navigation in Fall to the opening late the following Spring.

R. A. Alley, representing the new company which will put a line of steamers on the Vancouver-New Zealand run, direct, is in the city this week to make some final arrangements. A very good location has been secured on which wharves will be built, and the first sailing date will be announced before long. At first a steamer will leave every two months, but later the service will be much increased, if, as it is hoped, a good trade is worked up with the southern commonwealth. Messrs. A. H. B. MacGowan & Son are local representatives of R. A. Alley & Company.

The Market.

Local wholesale dealers report trade quiet. Stocks are not changing much, as but little is coming forward and not much more going out. In dried fruits there is a continued firmness of prices. The canned goods situation is devoid of feature, no price-cutting being indulged in, and not much demand existing at the present moment. Canned tomatoes in 2-lb. tins, the first time of offering on this market, as previously noted, have found favor and are selling well at 85c.

In flour circles a change has come over the situation. Those dealers who have in the past month or two indulged in close-shaved flour prices, have decided that they cannot make money that way, and wholesale trade and retail trade alike is settled down on the fair market values. 6Leading brands are quoted at $5.70, with some other varieties about 20c. per barrel less.

In produce the continued mild weather has brought in local fresh eggs very freely, and brought the price down to not more than 35c. per dozen in a jobbing way. Lower than that they are not very likely to go, because the price of pickled eggs is up too high to permit of it. Selected pickled stock will bring 26c., as the market now is.

Butter is not heavily stocked. Eastern butter comes forward slowly, and no one is getting large quantities. It is selling at rather close margin, considering present eastern market conditions. Here choice eastern creamery in 1-lb. bricks is quoted at 28½c., while boxes bring a cent a pound less. Some quotations on a slightly lower basis are heard of, but not general. There is apparently no Northwest Government creamery held here, and none comes forward, so that this stock is cleared off the market.

The local creameries, such of them at least as are operating, find no difficulty to sell all their present output at 35c. wholesale. The demand is considerably over the weekly amount available. These creameries, too, nave no held stock this season.

By the next Australian steamer, nearly a month from now, the first New Zealand butter will arrive. It is to be on the market at 32½c. Oregon and California butter is too high yet to get into this market. By the time it is down, local stocks will almost surely be up again.

In fruit, the first car of bananas this year arrived to-day from Central America, via New Orleans and the Southern Pacific. Though it took 15 days to make the trip, the fruit arrived in very good shape. Coldstream apples are getting short. The last car of Northern Spys will be in this week. Prices have stiffened up, none selling now at less than $1.75 per box. Local lower mainland apples are very short too. California oranges are still in sufficient supply, though the recent frosts have injured the crop in the Golden State. This week, too, the report is received that rains steady and continuous have caused all the packers to close down till the weather becomes finer. On account of the large crop the prices are not likely to be affected. The range is all the way lrom $2.25 to $3.50 per case, the latter for "Rose Brand," the choicest sold from California.

The SS. Moana, in to-day, brought a shipment of pineapples from Honolulu. They are extra large, averaging 7 lbs. They sell at $4.50 per box.

In vegetables, new California cabbage brings 3½c.; cauliflower, $1.75 per doz.; celery, 90c. per doz.; radishes, 40c. per doz., and Brussels sprouts, 11c. per lb. New ripe tomatoes from California are quoted at $2.50 per case. Victoria hothouse lettuce is standard at $1.50.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Tea buyers will find something of interest in this week's advertisement of the Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

Seeded raisins are being offered by the Eby, Blain Co., Limited, at very low prices.

The Eby, Blain Co. Limited, have a snap in finnan haddie in 15-lb. boxes. The quality is absolutely the finest ever offered the trade.

COCOA AND CHOCOLATE DEMONSTRATIONS.

Frank L. Benedict & Co., Montreal, who are Canadian agents for Suchard's chocolates and cocoas, are demonstrating their products in Montreal grocery stores. At present exhibitions are being held at C. E. Box's, Westmount, A. A. Perry & Co. and the English Provision Co., St. Catherine street. The demonstrations are satisfactory alike to retailer, consumer and Messrs. Benedict & Co.

Mr. D. A. Gordon, M.P., president of the Wallaceburg Sugar Refinery, Wallaceburg, was a visitor to Montreal during the early part of the week.

FLOUR AND CEREAL FOODS

There has been a more general activity manifest since our last report, although the volume of business done has not given satisfaction. The slow condition into which things had fallen since the holiday has developed a measure of unhealthy competition, which has resulted in a material falling in values, particularly amongst the larger companies. The effect has not been felt at some local centres, but it is really pretty general. Export inquiries are reported as being plentiful, but closing of sales is being often delayed through disparity in prices. There is no doubt that the English buyers are somewhat justified in holding out for a slight giving way on dealers' part, as the present prices are just on the margin which would seriously affect the price of bread in the densely populated districts of England. There is a price for flour beyond which it is not safe to go, as in that case the price of bread must be raised to the consumer, which means the consumption of bread will seriously decline, and incidentally the sales of the dealer for flour will decline also. It would appear that present prices are very much at that margin.

Advices from the mills report a slightly better demand for flour from the lower provinces, one of the mills reporting a sale last week of 1,000 barrels choice 80 per cent. blend at $4.35 per barrel, in wood, f.o.b. cars, shipping point. This was an exceptionally good sale and high price, as the mills generally report competition very keen, with flour offering in many cases apparently below the cost of production. As the price of the highest grades and best known brands of Manitoba flours is reported to be only $4.95 f.o.b. Halifax and St. John freights, it will be seen that the sale reported is nearly equal to these figures, although eastern dealers usually want to buy Winter wheat flours at 30c to 40c per barrel below the prices of Manitoba.

THE WORLD'S RICE CROPS.

The prominence attained by Louisiana as a rice producer since its western prairies reaching from Lafayette to the Sabine River have been put under rice culture is attracting the attention of the statistical world. The United States has now become the fourth largest rice producing country of the world, and if the educational campaign be continued, and the American people be taught the real merits of rice as a food, far away above and beyond the scores of advertised breakfast foods, we should take a still higher position as rice producers, as, from a geographical point of view, we are only just starting in the culture.

As we do now successfully compete with Europe in producing wheat in competition with the great grain producing plains of Central Europe, so we may in time compete with India in the production of rice. If we are ever able to do this it will be because of our successful adaptation of machinery to the planting, cultivating and harvesting of the crop.

A recent Government report estimates the various rice crops of the world as follows:

	Short tons.
India	2,766,500
Siam	946,500
French Indo-China	757,000
United States	102,427
Japan	51,500
Dutch East Indies	42,500
Italy	41,000
Corea	21,000
Spain	15,000

The list of great rice importing nations presents some novelties, for Japan, a notable rice producer, leads all the rest. Japan imports for 1904 were made large because of the war, but the figures are as follows:

	Short tons.
Japan	982,000
Straits Settlements, for re-exportation	511,000
Great Britain	323,000
Germany	301,000
Philippines	293,000
Holland	261,500
France	233,000

The rice exports of the world in round figures amount to 5,000,000 short tons, valued at $100,000,000, or one cent per pound, about the same as wheat. One-half of this comes from India and one-fourth from Siam and French Indo-China.—Louisiana Planter.

THE LATEST CEREAL.

Egg-o-see is the name of the latest cereal food to be placed on the Canadian market. Egg-o-see is manufactured in Quincy, Ill., and Buffalo, N.Y. It has been pushed very largely in the United States where it has attained a large sale at home and abroad.

The placing of Egg-o-see on the Canadian market has been entrusted to Mr. B. H. Blakeslee, with whom the trade are acquainted through his connection with the placing of another cereal food on this market a couple of years ago.

Mr. Blakeslee has taken offices at 43 Scott street, Toronto, which will be the Canadian headquarters of the Egg-o-see Company, and is getting in shape to make a strong bid for Canadian business.

The new package is an attractive-looking one, the body being of a dark green with a spray of wheat blades in gold across the name Egg-o-see in strong black letters, with the words "Crisp and delicious" standing out in white on a panel of bright red.

Egg-o-see is a wheat product of a beautiful golden, flaky nature, and possessing a flavor of fine quality, and should find a ready market.

To the trade the Egg-o-see Company make the appeal that they give no premiums, no coupons, and have no schemes. They go to the trade with Egg-o-see as Egg-o-see, and claim to give the dealer a very attractive margin.

The Egg-o-see literature is of a high order. A representative of The Grocer

A BRIEF ESSAY.

Flour is an absorbent of damp and gases when exposed, consequently flour warehouses either at the mills or elsewhere should be dry and well ventilated. Not only should the buildings be in themselves well ventilated, but the flour should be so stored that air—fresh air—can reach every sack all the time it is in store. Measures of that kind are necessary to insure pure flour. Flour may be made as pure as is possible, and yet afterwards become vitiated by exposure to poisonous gases and impure air.

Capacity, through to Montreal, 70,000 bushels; on Upper Lakes, 110,000.

Speed, light, 12 miles an hour; laden, 10 miles.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Flour.

Trade is fairly good, though if roads throughout the province were better conditions would no doubt be improved. It is difficult to predict accurately, but the opinion of experts seems to be that flour has now reached its bottom price. The fact that no further declines have been registered during the past week would appear to confirm this idea. Small mills are said to be attempting to force sales. We quote:

Winter wheat patents	4 40	4 70
Straight rollers	4 00	4 20
Extra	4 10	4 40
Straight rollers, bags, 90 per cent.	2 00	2 10
Royal Household		4 80
Glenora		4 40
Manitoba spring wheat patents		4 70
" strong bakers		4 20
Buckwheat flour		2 10

Rolled Oats.

Demand is fair, and quite up to expectations. In the Province of Quebec this branch of the trade is generally somewhat dull at this season of the year, so that present trade conditions are satisfactory. There is still a good deal of cutting going on, in which the smaller mills are the aggressors. We are quoting this week a general decline. We quote:

Fine oatmeal, bags	2 20	2 30
Standard oatmeal, bags	2 30	2 40
Granulated " "	2 20	2 25
Rolled oats, "	2 25	2 30
"		5 10
" 90-lb. bags		2 60
" 80-lb. bags		2 45

Feed.

A great scarcity of bran and shorts is still the feature of the markets. This, taken in conjunction with an active demand, tends to keep prices very firm. The trade is fairly well stocked with middlings and pressure has been relieved. Prices have not changed during the week. We quote:

Ontario bran	17 00	17 50
Ontario shorts	20 00	21 00
Manitoba shorts	19 50	20 00
" bran	18 00	18 50
Mouille, milled	21 00	24 00
" straight grained	25 00	28 00

Hay.

Market easier owing to liberal supplies. Local consumption is good and export business is also in good shape, but not large enough to clear off the offerings. Prices, despite heavy stocks, show no change. We quote:

No. 1	8 50	9 00
" 2	7 25	7 50
Clover mixed	6 00	6 50
Clover, pure	5 50	6 00

TORONTO MARKETS.

Flour.

There is little improvement to report in trade conditions; demand is slow and uninteresting. Some competition has been going on in selling prices, apparently with the idea of stimulating trade, but the only apparent effect has been to give lower quotations. Export inquiries have been good, and fair amount of sales effected, but at unremunerative prices. We quote:

Manitoba wheat patents, per bbl. in bags	4 20	4 40
Strong bakers " "	4 10	4 20
Ontario wheat patents " "	3 75	4 00
Straight roller " "	3 50	3 60

Grain.

Trade has not been over active since our last report; arrivals have been coming in pretty freely. At outside points reports denote fair deliveries at the mills, and tend to show that farmers are disposed to market their grain, although at the same time the opinion is that a good deal is being held back for expected developments. In most lines prices have firmed up a little, as will be seen from quotations. We quote:

All on track Toronto.
Manitoba wheat, Northern No. 1	0 90	0 90½
" " " No. 2	0 87½	0 88
Red, " per bushel.	0 83	0 83½
White, " "	0 84	0 84½

Oats, new, "	0 38½	0 39
Peas "		0 85
Buckwheat "	0 55	0 56
Rye, per bushel, "		0 76

Breakfast Cereals.

The delivery of grain for breakfast cereals is reported as fairly good at most points throughout the province. Trade, however, is disappointing even at this season, which is always considered a falling one. Prices are unchanged at the decline reported in our last. We quote:

Oatmeal, standard and granulated, carlots, on track, per bbl.	5 30
Rolled wheat in boxes, 100 lbs.	2 40
" " 50 lbs.	1 30
Rolled oats, standard, carlots, per bbl., in bags	4 75
" " " " " in wood	5 00
" " " " for broken lots	5 15

B. C. HERRING SENT TO THE ANTIPODES.

After a continued small run, the herring at last arrived in the harbor in large numbers, and all the local companies are busy smoking and packing in order to fill the large number of orders, which had accumulated from outside points, and which it was impossible to fill until the present time, owing to the lateness of the arrival of the fish in large enough quantities to fill the demand for the Nanaimo article.

One of the large shipments was made by James Watson, the Nicol street grocer, local representative of Jas. Brown, of Exit Channel, on the outskirts of Newcastle townsite.

The shipments consisted of 150 cases of kippers and bloaters for Winnipeg, and 200 cases for Australia. The latter will be taken over on the Joan to Vancouver, where they will be reshipped on one of the liners to their destination.

GOOD ADVERTISING

A department devoted to the improvement of Retail Advertising. The editor of this department will be pleased to answer questions on advertising and review any advertisements submitted to him.

A SPECIAL SALE CIRCULAR

E. A. Pritchard, Billerica, Que., had an advertisement run in one of the papers and then he made a circular out of the matter, This advantageous use of "standing" type would mean a considerable saving in composition, and would permit of other circulars being issued.

* * *

I do not know why it is that grocers choose such large circulars when they launch into this phase of publicity. Is it the belief of the larger the advertisement the larger the returns, or is it a result of hasty choice? I am afraid the latter is more often the case than the former.

* * *

Mr. Pritchard's circular is 8 x 13, yet the body type looks to be bourgeois old style, comparatively a small face. So you will see at a glance that while circulars of this style are cast on a large plan they are not set in large type. In that respect they are poor specimens.

* * *

With the same amount of paper and details as Mr. Pritchard has used, I think I could have gotten out a more impressive and artistic announcement. I would have folded the present sheet twice, designed some panel work, and have had the matter set page for page. Then the type, at present incongruous, would have been in unison with the layout.

* * *

The grotesque looking circular will not do to-day with modern methods and splendid exemplars in reach of all. Merchants must not give the preparation of their advertising matter the small end of attention or small returns will be the result.

* * *

So far I have spoken of E. A. Pritchard's circular in a general way. The faults I have found with it are characteristic of most circulars prepared by grocers. Therefore, I think too much emphasis cannot be laid on these faults.

Of the manner in which Mr. Pritchard has put together his items, I have little to say other than in praise. He appreciates the necessity of tangible divisions of text, yet he does not employ the ugly turned rule to denote these divisions. He also knows the value of headings and what might be called "salutation" lines.

The circular is businesslike at the beginning and no time is wasted in redundancy. The list of goods is pretty complete and the seasonableness of the goods well established.

It is to be regretted that the compositor saw fit to make an attack on the tacit pauses—as will be noticed, the circular is quite "legal" in the omission of commas, full stops, etc. "A comma has been known to alter a man's whole fortune," writes a noted lexicographer. Be that as it may, there is a possibility of wrong conclusions being reached on some of the Pritchard items through the comma's absence. Also, I would like to see more dollar signs in evidence, and at least 5-em spaces between the contraction "c" and the price it is related to.

Canned Goods

Pritchard

BILLERICA QUE.

The authenticity of facts is perhaps open to question in one or two of the items. For instance, "a genuine Waltham movement for $5.50." And in others one searches in vain for the "special" price. There is nothing particularly attractive about the prices of "canned goods" in Mr. Pritchard's circular. A number of grocers are quoting approximately the same figures, and they are not quoting "specials" either.

Take the details under the heading "Other Gifts, More Serviceable Perhaps." How many of the prices strike you as bargains?

If the "Ceylon Tea" is "very fine" it is cheap at 25 cents per pound; and one can be sure there is an "extra" pound of granulated sugar in the "21 lbs. for a $."

* * *

Mr. Pritchard ostensibly has divided the bargains and in that respect he is an ingenious advertiser. But his plan is practically the fulfilment of what I stated in this department two weeks ago: "You cannot sell two or three lines of first-class groceries, or other commodities, cheaper than another grocer unless you are re-imbursed from some other source."

* * *

The difference between the plan I suggested for a special sale and the plan Mr. Pritchard has put into concrete form, is just this: My plan, in brief, as you will remember, was to enumerate one or two lines as an attraction and to state no prices. Mr. Pritchard enumerates practically everything he has for sale and gives prices whether they are specials or not.

* * *

In connection with his circular Mr. Pritchard issued a memo card—"Jot Down Your Wants." I do not know whether these cards were sent around or whether they were brought into service in the store. Mr. Pritchard didn't mention the point. But they ought to prove a valuable auxiliary to a circular, folder, etc.

* * *

A grocer once explained his reason for employing the "white space" advertisement in these words: "Women think quickly and forget quickly. I want them to write their needs on the margin of my ad." Pretty logical when you look into it! and why not have the memo scheme when advertising other than in the newspaper?

A.A.B.

We haven't heard of a Canadian storekeeper yet adopting the plan used by a Western States merchant to bring customers to his store, but it's a good one, and as sleighing will soon make the country roads in splendid shape for traveling merchants in various sections should try the plan. The westerner advertised that he would give $10 to the person who, on a certain day, brought into the place, and deposited in front of the firm's store, the largest number of people on one vehicle. All sorts of conveyances appeared, and it seemed certain that the farmer who brought in eighty-six persons on a wagon fifty feet long would gain the prize. But at the last moment there appeared a singular vehicle, eighty-five feet long and twenty feet wide. It moved on eight wheels, and was drawn by eight horses. From it descended 110 people.

GREEN FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

The extremely unseasonable weather which has been ruling since our last report has had the effect of considerably reducing trade, there is consequently little to report with regard to trade itself. This appears to be the feature at all points.

There are indications that the action taken by the Californian packers has had the effect of materially strengthening the situation and restoring a measure of confidence. Jamaica oranges are in good demand, with supplies showing short, and consequently a strong tendency, and in Montreal a decided advance.

The prompt action taken by the Government in regard to illegal packing of fruit has been largely commented on by dealers and commission men, and is universally approved; it is expected to have a decidedly beneficial effect. The unreliable grading from certain districts has been very disconcerting to the dealers.

In vegetables, no feature has transpired. Californian celery has been coming in freely, and prices have somewhat weakened. Altogether there has been little activity in the fruit and vegetable markets generally, and dealers are consequently somewhat depressed with the immediate prospects.

IMPORTANT POINTS IN FRUIT TRANSPORT.

The transportation Committee of the Ontario Fruit-Growers' Association held a meeting recently and decided to ask the Railway Commission to compel the railways to furnish cars to fruit-growers within a week of placing the order; to maintain a minimum speed of 12 miles per hour during transit, and to furnish "tracers," by which shippers can learn where cars are at various stages in the journey. It was shown by Mr. W. H. Bunting, of St. Catharines, that experiments in shipping tender fruits from St. Catharines to Winnipeg demonstrated that the journey was made in five and a half days when the car was accompanied and in seven or eight days when it was not accompanied.

The Railway Commission will be asked to bring about a reduction in the rate on apples; that apples in barrels be accepted at a fixed weight of 150 pounds, and that equipment equal to the best now in use be supplied for the carriage of fruit. The Government will be asked to enact legislation placing express rates under the control of the Railway Commission.

Mr. Bunting reviewed the concessions obtained from the railways, one of them being a reduction in the freight rate on grapes, and another a reduction of 18 per cent. on mixed tender fruits.

SUGGESTED CONFERENCE ON THE FISHERY QUESTIONS.

The proposition which has been submitted by the British Columbia Government to the Dominion authorities for the purpose of taking over whatever interest the province has in the fisheries, will not likely be decided until a conference has been had with all the provinces in regard to this and other outstanding unsettled matters. There, however, seems to be a disposition on the part of the Dominion authorities to view the British Columbia matter favorably, but in addition the Victoria Government want to get their share of the Halifax fishery award. Down by the Atlantic there is also a strongly expressed desire to have a rearrangement of the system of distribution of the award.

The Marine Biological Board held its annual meeting at Halifax. Professor Prince presided. Work will be commenced at once on the marine scientific station founded by the Government near Nanaimo. A series of technical reports dealing with river pollution, sawdust, etc., the food of the fishes, etc., are ready to be issued. Professor Knight said that there was less damage to fish by sawdust than many imagined. Dams in the river were more serious. Investigations on the Labrador coast will be taken up by the society.

CALIFORNIA ORANGE SHIPMENTS.

The California orange market is decidedly stronger and during the past day or two prices have advanced on the average 20c to 30c a box. Shipments from the coast are unusually small for the season; instead of the 100 or 150 cars a day which is usual at this time of the year, the quantity being sent out is averaging less than 50 cars.

NIAGARA FRUIT AND THE TARIFF.

The Niagara Peninsula United Fruit-Growers' Association held their adjourned meeting on the 18th inst. to discuss the tariff question. Various propositions were made and the question was given a spirited discussion.

Finally it was decided to ask the Government to arrange the tariff on fruit on the following flat rate basis: Strawberries, 3c. per pound instead of 2c., as now; raspberries, gooseberries, cherries, blackberries, currants, remain at 2c. per pound, as now; plums, 1c. per pound instead of 25 per cent. ad valorem; peaches, 2c. per pound instead of 1c.; pears, 1c. per pound instead of 20 per cent., ad valorem.

Mr. E. D. Smith, M.P., Winona, declared that it was absolutely necessary in the interests of the fruit-growers of Canada that a prohibitive duty be placed on Californian peaches for a while. If California peaches are kept out of Manitoba and the Northwest, Canadian fruit-growers can send thousands of bushels up there and develop a profitable market.

The association passed a strong memorial to the Ontario Minister of Agriculture stating that in the opinion of the fruit-growers it is most desirable that an experimental fruit farm be established in Southern Ontario, which might be planned on a broader scale than the existing experimental stations of the province.

ILLEGAL PACKING.

Discussing recent reports of the shipment of illegally marked and useless Canadian apples to foreign countries, Mr. F. C. T. O'Hara, superintendent of commercial agencies, said it was the policy of the Trade and Commerce Department to ascertain in every such case the names of Canadian shippers of the fruit, in order that a practice so fraught with danger to Canada's reputation abroad, might be put a stop to. To this end commercial agents are empowered, under confidential instructions, to forward particulars in every case coming under their knowledge in which Canadian products are fraudulently packed or are not up to sample. The commercial agent at Cape Town, where a large quantity of Canadian apples was recently destroyed, owing to the fruit being affected with disease, and the agent in Mexico City, where a consignment of apples from this country proved to be practically worthless, have been written to by the department and instructed to forward full particulars as to the shipments. When these details have been obtained publicity will be given to the facts concerning the fraud, so that a repetition of it may be prevented.

The department not long ago obtained information from Mr. Ross, the agent in Australia, which has led to action being taken in the court by a Vancouver merchant who shipped the worthless fruit in question against the dealer from whom he purchased it. Another case pending is that of a Quebec exporter of leather, which the Australian importer found to be far below standard sample in quality.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Green Fruits.

Weather conditions are making for a slow market in all green goods. Commission merchants report that the demand for nearly all fruits is falling off greatly. A cold spell is looked for, however, when the sale of these goods will pick up. Jamaica oranges have advanced, owing to light receipts and a very good demand. They are the best sellers on the market, at present. It is expected that California oranges will shortly be raised in price from 25 to 40 cents per box. Shipments have been very light, and it is not thought that the market will go as low again this year as they are at present. Another increase

The market, generally, is dull and featureless. The mild weather is against good trade, and particularly is this the case so far as domestic vegetables are concerned. BISCUITS AND CONFECTIONERY

A STUDY OF BISCUITS.

Biscuits are probably of very ancient date. Some are inclined to think they find an allusion to them in the first book of Kings, where Jeroboam sends his wife to consult the Prophet Ahijah about his son who had fallen sick, bidding her take with her "ten loaves and cracknels, and a cruse of honey."

All the countries of Europe have been biscuit-making from time immemorial, and most of them have a name for the things indicating that they originally underwent a double process of cooking. Bis-cuit means "twice cooked."

Even the old Romans had their panis biscoctus, "twice baked bread," and there is at least one kind of biscuit still made by a double cooking. The cracknel is first plunged into boiling water and then baked, though whether the "cracknel" of the modern factory at all resembles the "cracknels" of King Jeroboam's time one cannot say.

Most, if not all, other kinds are nowadays biscuits only in name.

The original form of the thing was simplicitv itself. It was just a mixture of flour and water spread out thin, and baked till all the moisture was driven out of it. It was their extreme dryness that permitted of their being stored for eighteen months, or two years if necessary, without spoiling; and it was in order to get them as dry as possible that they were made thin and cooked twice, and thrice, and sometimes four times over. Not only was the moisture of the dough thus driven out of them, but the water originally embodied in the flour was evaporated also; so that ten pounds of flour would make only about nine pounds of biscuit. They were, no doubt, in the first instance, merely a form of unfermented bread especially adapted for storage, and particularly on board ship during long voyages. Hence the Roman panis biscoctus nauticus ("sea biscuit").

BREAD FROM BARK.

In Norway bread is sometimes made of the inner rind, next the wood, of pine trees, and it is not an uncommon thing to see these trees standing with all their branches dead, stripped of the bark to make this curious food, and blanched by the weather, resembling white marble—mere ghosts of trees.

By the process the rind is taken off in flakes like a sheet of foolscap paper, and is steeped or washed in warm water, to clear off its astringent principle. It is then hung across a rope to dry in the sun, and looks exactly like sheets of parchment.

When dry it is pounded into small pieces, mixed with corn, and ground into meal on the handmill or quern. It is much more greatly used than visitors suppose. There are districts in Norway in which the forests suffered very considerable damage in past years, when bad crops and other causes reduced many to bark bread. It is not very unpalatable, nor is there any good reason for supposing it unwholesome, if well prepared, but it is very costly. The value of the tree, which is left to perish on its root, would buy a sack of flour in the English market.

SOME USEFUL RECEIPTS.

Common Sense Cough Drops.

What we call a common sense cough drop may be made as follows: Boil in the usual manner to the hard crack, 7 lbs. sugar, 2 lbs. glucose, 1 quart New Orleans molasses, 1 quart water. When nearly cooked add 1½ lb. good butter, boil it in, then turn the batch on the marble; when cold enough turn it up, add a medium strong flavor of oil ginger and two ounces tartaric acid; work all together and pass through medium-size drop rolls or any other you choose. When cold break up and sift them, then dust them fairly well with dried XXXX or extra fine sugar, and bottle them or pack in packages, as you choose. If preferred they may be made with moist brown sugar, in which case leave out the molasses.

Common Taffy.

Eight pounds sugar, 1 quart water, 2 lbs. glucose, 1 quart New Orleans molasses, ½ oz. ground ginger. Boil in the usual manner to the hard crack degree. When cooked add 1 lb. butter, let it boil in, then pour it on your marble; when nearly cold add a good flavoring of lemon and vanilla, work it in, then cut up with large, flat drop rolls; when cold break up, sift out and wrap in wax paper.

Chocolate Rocks.

Boil in the usual manner to the hard crack: 4 lbs. sugar, 3 lbs. glucose, 3 pints water. When cooked remove it from the fire and add half a pound of butter, return it to the fire and let it just boil up again; then add two pounds well-roasted blanched almonds, coarsely chopped, stir them lightly in and pour the boiling on the marble; when cold break it up and pound it medium coarse in a mortar, return it to your kettle (which must be dry) and add sufficient melted cocoa or chocolate to make a stiff paste, then with a spoon and fork drop it in as rock-like pieces as you can onto wax paper, and set aside to set. These may be flavored with vanilla.

A Novel Idea.

A novel scheme has been evolved by W. D. Sweet, a master baker at Wilkesbarre, Pa., to draw custom. Once a month he announces in the local papers that the person who holds the cash register coupon for purchases made on a certain day, usually two to three weeks back, will get his money back if the coupon is presented at the bakery. As it is the custom of almost everybody to throw away such coupons immediately, this scheme did not cost Mr. Sweet much in the beginning, but it is said that people are getting wise and are saving their coupons, so it will only be a question of time when the "beautiful" idea will have to be abandoned.

BEST BISCUITS

The name "Mooney" is a guarantee of goodness in Soda Biscuit making.

PERFECTION CREAM SODAS

are favorites to-day for that reason. "Perfections" are packed piping hot at the oven's mouth in air-tight, moisture-proof tins. That extra palatableness is the result.

It is easy to say certain goods are the best. It is just as easy to prove that are the best. We are prepared to state that Perfection Cream Sodas will keep longer and retain more of the "oven" flavor than any other biscuits obtainable. Our process is sure, so the result is certain.

Amongst our

CHOCOLATE GOODS

There's one that's everybody's favorite.

It's called

"Chocolate Gem"

and this is no misnomer.

A light crisp chocolate coated biscuit, about the size of an ordinary chocolate drop —that's the "Gem."

People who disapprove of rich sweets for children are good customers for this line, as well as tasty folk who appreciate dainty yet wholesome confections for the tea table. A splendid line to "mix in" with others.

PROSPERITY HERE TO STAY.

Leaders in the business and financial fields in the States are very enthusiastic about the outlook for 1906.

Andrew Carnegie.—I do not recall a single year that has been so generally important to the world as the one now closing. The world never had, nor has it now, anything that can be compared with this country as a wealth producer.

Frank A. Vanderlip.—The last year has witnessed a truly wonderful awakening of the American conscience. Never has there been so high an ethical standing among our business men. We have come through the fire regenerated, awakened, full of fine purpose and optimistic ambitions. The signs of the future are all of hope. Americans may well turn toward the coming years with cheerful hearts.

Charles M. Schwab.—Everybody is busy. The steel and iron mills of the United States have more orders than they can fill, and still the orders continue to come it. There can be no better indication for good times than this. In this country we have solved the great problem of economic output, and our next great industrial problem is to beat all other countries in the quality of our products. My own experience in the American steel industry convinces me that no standard can be too high in manufactures. There is a ready market awaiting those who have courage enough to turn out the best material and workmanship.

Paul Morton.—Prices in Wall street are not necessarily an indication of the general state of things, particularly in regard to the prosperity of the people. In fact, the country at large is really more prosperous now than at other times when Wall street prices seemed to indicate that the country was well off. The country is much more prosperous than ever before.

J. J. Mitchell.—General business conditions were never better. The outlook for the next twelve months could hardly be brighter.

James R. Keene.—The country never was so prosperous as it is now, and never was the promise for the future so bright. There is no room in the United States for a man who can't see the bright side of the future.

E. H. Harriman.—Nothing can stop the progress of this country, and when at the end of the coming year we look back upon what has been done we will have ample cause for amazement and congratulation.

John W. Gates.—Not at any time in my life have I seen business conditions so prosperous. What particularly struck me was the fact that there is plenty of money in the west, and it is easily obtainable at low interest. That is the best indication of prosperity. The banks have money and so have the farmers and the merchants.

E. H. Garv.—There is every reason to say that the country is in a prosperous way, and there is no particular reason for saying that this prosperity will not continue. However, no man can look into the future and say with any certainty what may happen.

It's a two-to-one shot that a man's first smoke never makes him as sick as his first milliner's bill

"My men have their hearts in their work because they have been brought up on the Payne Principle."—J. Bruce Payne.

The Payne Principle is "Please at any Price." Every cigar that goes out of my factory bears the impress of that principle, because, by educating my men to see my ideals, I have won their confidence, incited their zeal, and ripened their skill.

No person can pick up a

Pebble and Pharaoh

Cigar without at once seeing the fruits of what I have labored for—viz., to produce perfect cigars at perfectly satisfactory prices—to all.

The Payne Principle is one that should receive serious consideration at the hands of every grocer. I want to feel that I have your confidence just as I have the confidence of my men.

Will you, Mr. Grocer, show that you are interested by ordering 1,000 of my cigars, assorted, specifying the Pebble (5c) and the Pharaoh (10c)? I shall make the terms so easy that you will be delighted with the transaction.

TOBACCOS, CIGARS AND ACCESSORIES

COLORING A MEERSCHAUM PIPE.

Once upon a time there was a smoker who spent eight of the best years of his life coloring a meerschaum pipe, only to find at the end of that period that he had been nursing a piece of "massa-kopfe" instead of the genuine "ecume de mer." The "massa-kopfe" is a composition made of the parings of genuine meerschaum and a mineral clay. The parings are triturated to a fine powder, boiled in water, and molded into blocks, with or without the addition of clay; each block is then cut into a bowl, but as it contracts considerably, it must be left some time to dry. These bowls are distinguished from the genuine meerschaum by their greater specific gravity, but there is no absolutely certain test by which the real meerschaum can be told from the composition.

In forming a pipe from "ecume de mer" the silicate of magnesia is prepared for the operation by soaking in a composition of wax, oil and fats. The wax and oil absorbed by the meerschaum are the cause of the color produced by smoking; the heat of the burning tobacco causes the wax and fatty substances to pass through the stages of a dry distillation, and becoming associated with the products of the distillation of the tobacco they are diffused through the substances of the bowl, producing those graduations of tint which are so much prized.

In some cases the bowls are artificially colored by dipping them, before being soaked in wax, in a solution of sulphate of iron either alone or mixed with dragon's blood.

Good meerschaum is soft enough to be indented by the thumb-nail. It yields readily to the knife, especially after having been wetted. There are various densities; some kinds sink in water, others float on its surface. Those of medium density are preferred by the pipe-maker, for the light varieties are porous, and even cavernous, and the heavier kinds are often made up artificially. Many judges assume that the heavier kinds are spurious, but there is no absolute proof that such is the case. A negative test may be mentioned; the composition bowls never exhibit those little blemishes which result from the presence of foreign bodies in the natural meerschaum. Therefore, if blemish occurs in a meerschaum bowl—which is very frequently the case—the genuineness of the bowl is rendered most probable; but as blemishes do not show until after the bowl has been used for some time the test is not of much value.

TRICKS FOR SELLING GOODS.

A brisk looking young man, with his hat well tilted back on his head and a small satchel in his hand, stepped inside a lawyer's office and said:

"I hope I am not intruding, sir, you are a man of business and so am I, and I can tell you in one minute what I am here for. My observation is that five out of every six professional men in the large cities are addicted to the tobacco habit in some form or another. A habit, once formed, becomes second nature.

"There are thousands of men who spend their substance and drain their vitality by incessant smoking, who would be glad to be released from the slavery whose chains they have fastened upon themselves, and to such men I bring the means of deliverance. I guarantee that this preparation"—here he took a small package from his valise—"which is called 'Smoke bane,' will cure the craving for tobacco in every form, absolutely in one month or money refunded—"

"Young man," said the lawyer, "you are wasting your time on me. I am not a slave to the tobacco habit. I have no craving whatever for tobacco, though once in a while I smoke a cigar if it is a good one—"

"Yes, sir," interrupted the other in turn, quickly replacing the package in his valise and producing another one. "Let me sell you a box of the celebrated 'John Quincy Adams Perfectos,' two dollars and a half, twenty-five in a box, couldn't sell them any cheaper if you were to take a thousand. Warranted to be the best 10c smoke on the market."

Before the lawyer had fully recovered from his surprise he had bought the box and the brisk young man was on the next floor hunting another slave to the tobacco habit.

One firm turned to good advertising account the notices in the local papers offering a sizable reward for information leading to the arrest of the offenders in a daring jewelry robbery. Several of these notices were pasted inside the glass in their show windows, with the big scare lines above in red ink, and underneath also in red, the following notice: "When you get the above reward, you can afford a box of our—blank—cigars. Come in and look at them now, anyway."

The "Thistle" Brand Fish

The fact that fo over twenty years we have sold the "Thistle" Brand of Canned Haddies, Kippered Herrings, etc., is pretty good evidence of the high standard of quality of the goods. By high quality we mean, first, the very best fish put up in the very cleanest way; second, the preservation of the rich, delicate, natural flavor by prompt action after the fish are caught.

There has never been any attempt by the owners of the "Thistle" Brand to produce their goods as cheap goods—quality has been their watchword first, last and always. They have never pretended to compete on the basis of price and they never will. The "Thistle" Brand is to be the best by every test and regardless of expense.

The Manager of the company is unsurpassed as a fish-curer, as his father was before him. The buyers of the "Thistle" Brand can be absolutely sure of perfection. It is the standard from which the quality of all other brands is judged.

HINTS TO RETAIL MERCHANTS

ARTICLE 1.—HOW TO DOUBLE YOUR PROFITS AND PLEASE YOUR CUSTOMERS.

Many of your best Customers do not know that there are four grades of Canned Peas, namely :

No. 4, known as "Standards."
No. 3, known as Sifted, labelled "Early Junes."
No. 2, known as Extra Sifted, labelled "Sweet Wrinkled."
No. 1, known as Extra Fine Sifted, usually labelled "Petit Pois."

"The Standard" is the largest grade and although tender and sweet, it is not as select as the smaller varieties ; besides, in this grade the profits are usually cut very close.

"Early Junes" are a smaller grade than the "Standards," uniform in size, tender and sweet. "Early Junes" invariably sell at 2c. per tin (24c. per dozen) more than "Standards" and the cost is only 7½c. per dozen extra.

"Sweet Wrinkled" is probably the choicest grade packed, small-sized, sweet and tender. If your customers had their attention called to this luscious grade, it would not only mean greatly increased sales, but trebled profits and well-pleased customers.

"Petit Pois," Extra Fine Sifted, sweet, tender and simply melt away when eating. Superior to imported French peas because they are free from coloring and other injurious preparations.

Your customers, when they know, will greatly appreciate the better grades of Peas and will gladly pay the extra price. If you require any of the extra quality, and have not the four grades already in stock, write at once to your wholesaler and obtain supplies—if only one case of each of the finer grades. Take a little time with your customers to explain the difference in quality and you will have an established trade for high-class quality, with greatly increased profits.

A little care and attention will easily treble your profits, and not only that but greatly please your customers. A good recipe for preparing for table will be found at foot of page.

There is only one more important question in this connection, namely :—when buying, to insist on getting the old established brands, which have stood the test for the past quarter century, namely Aylmer, Log Cabin, Horse-Shoe, Auto, Little Chief, Lynnvalley, Maple Leaf, Kent, Lion, Thistle, Grand River, White Rose, etc, etc., for sale by all the leading Wholesale Grocers in the Dominion of Canada.

Yours respectfully,

THE CANADIAN CANNERS, LIMITED

DIRECTIONS FOR PEAS.—Open the can, empty contents into a colander and thoroughly rinse with hot water, then turn into a saucepan ; add butter about the size of a walnut, or if preferred half a cup of sweet cream, and heat thoroughly. Season to taste.

"Ceylon Tea (a spoonful) speaketh
"stronger (in the cup) than the strong
"man in his wrath."

Why "Ceylon Tea Talks"! we are asked.

Well, we "talk" because we have something to "talk" about, something good, something worth telling.

That's why we buy space in the "Grocer"—just to "talk" to you, and because we can "talk" to more of our friends in one week this way, than we could in a month any other way.

Ceylon Tea itself "talks," too, in the best way possible—the grocer's coffers.

Ask the greatest and most successful tea dealer you can find, and he will tell you Ceylon Tea "talks." "Talks" satisfaction, "talks" increased trade, "talks" fat bank balances, "talks" dollars.

In fact it has "talked" the old teas clean off.

It came to fair Canada, young, strong, pleasing and vigorous, and the old teas couldn't stand up against it.

"Ceylon Tea Talks"—why surely—the "Grocer's" readers are Ceylon's admirers.

"HOVA" TEA is absolutely Pure and Blended from the choicest Teas from the gardens of India and Ceylon, the greatest care being taken to select only those growths specially suited to the water of this district.

"HOVA" TEA can be enjoyed without the slightest fear of injury to the digestive organs, and is recommended to invalids. Its refreshing qualities and complete freedom from "Tannin," and similar injurious acids, so often found in other "low grade" Teas, renders it a delicious and sustaining beverage. BRANTFORD PREPARED CORN STARCH won its first success in the kitchens of practical housewives. The recipes printed on the boxes were not the conventionally absurd kind, compiled as if for Royal households or millionaires' palaces, but were of the common-sense kind, They "worked" and at once became widely popular, popularizing at the same time the "Brantford" brand of corn starch.

Ground slowly, without overheating, bolted through silk to microscopic fineness, free from grit or grain and with the delicate aroma and delicious natural flavor of bottomland corn retained, was quickly recognized as very different from and superior to other brands. Good advertising lent a finishing touch to success.

BRANTFORD PREPARED CORN STARCH

"THE FAIRBANK PLAN"

LOOK INTO IT

and see just what "The Fairbank Plan" is. While we spend hundreds of thousands of dollars every year advertising the six great Fairbank specialties:

Gold Dust Washing Powder
Fairy Soap, Copco Soap
Fairbank's Glycerine-Tar Soap
Fairbank's Scouring Soap
Fairbank's Sanitary Soap

and educating the public regarding them; and while we intend to continue doing this, we realize fully that advertising alone has not accomplished the splendid results we have enjoyed in the sale of these goods, but that "the man behind the counter" has been an important factor in extending and increasing our trade. It was the realization of this fact that gave birth to "The Fairbank Plan," as a method of rewarding the retail clerks for their earnest co-operation in selling these goods and, consequently, a portion of our immense advertising appropriation is now set aside for the recognition of the dealer and his clerks.

"The Fairbank Plan" is an absolutely fair method of rewarding the clerk in direct proportion to the interest displayed in pushing the six specialties, as each package of these goods is couponed in such a manner that the coupon can be easily removed before the goods pass into the hands of the consumer. For these coupons we offer many valuable articles.

If you will send for an illustrated premium list of "The Fairbank Plan" it will convince you that this is no cheap trading-stamp scheme.

It has many definitions, all depending on the manner in which it is applied. Here is one :

Freedom from foulness or dirt:
Free from fault or taint,
Free from that which defiles and pollutes.

Coffee is a most delicate and sensitive production of nature.
Foreign substances absolutely spoil it as a beverage.
The public taste is getting more highly educated each year.

A SURPRISING FIND

Collections of Half a Century Result in Extraordinary Accumulation Beneath a Cashier's Desk.

Mr. Wright, the National Cash Register Co.'s agent in Winnipeg, has in his possession an old drawer, which was taken from a general store in Kingston, Ontario, where it has been in use for fifty years. Through all changes of system from the establishment of the store, when the proprietor only had access to this cash-drawer, and when all the clerks used it, and during the period it was under the supervision of an individual cashier, the drawer was never changed, occupying a position beneath a cash desk. In the box-like arrangement where the cashier sat there was a false floor about six inches high, which did not cover the main floor entirely. When the proprietor tore out the cashier's desk recently, an assistant gathered up the refuse to throw out into the lane, when, at the suggesion of Mr. Wright, it was sifted.

After all the dirt had been carefully cleared away, one hundred and eighty-six dollars in small gold and silver coins of all denominations, and dilapidated bills, were rescued from this refuse. The proprietor's surprise can be imagined, and yet he said he had never missed the money, and never knew it was gone! The drawer itself is so badly carved and worn by long service, that one might wonder how it now holds together.

OLIVE INDUSTRY IN CALIFORNIA

By M. E. Dudley in "Grocery."

A peculiar interest attaches to the olive and its culture. It is associated with the scenes of both sacred and secular ancient history. Its origin seems to be contemporary with the earliest records of the human race. The wild olive is a native of both hemispheres, and when explorers first landed they found this tree growing in Florida and the Carolinas, and gave to it the name of Olea Americano. The process of making oil from olives, and of preserving them in brine, was well known in ancient times, for pickled olives, retaining their characteristic flavor, have been found in the ruins of Pompeii.

An almost limitless number of varieties of the olive have been brought to California from the olive-growing sections of the globe, but none has proved so valuable as the Mission. The name Mission is significant of its origin, though this tree furnishes a great many distinct types. The olive, like some other fruits, has a tendency to revert toward the wild types if propagated from seed; therefore, in these ancient orchards may be seen trees of willowy tendency, those of upright growth, and others of a decidedly dwarf habit. Some trees produce large fruit, while others, near at hand, yield berries, which are too small for pickling, and also are valueless for oil. Doubtless the seed brought from Mexico was taken from the varieties grown in Spain at that time, but many of the different types have arisen from new methods of propagation and changed climatic conditions.

California has an ideal climate for the culture of the olive; this tree cannot bear extremes of heat or cold. It may be seen waving its gray-green plumy boughs along the slopes and mesas of the higher foot-hills, or thriving in perennial loveliness in the low valleys at sea-level. It thrives where other trees cannot be grown with profit. The growing of the olive for commercial purposes is yet in its infancy, but the alert orchardist is taking to the idea that it is one of the safest horticultural propositions in the state.

The Los Angeles Olive-Growers' Association alone reported a yield of more than 50,000 gallons of oil for the season of 1903. It has 1,100 acres in bearing in the San Fernando Valley. The pickle crop of Southern California is estimated at $75,000, and the present output of oil will yield the olive growers $500,000 more yearly. These conservative figures show the olive industry to be already a rather lusty infant. The manager of La Mirado ranch reported recently that its new olive press would crush ten tons every twenty-four hours. This would give at least 300 gallons of oil a day, for olives yield from twenty-five to thirty-five gallons a ton. La Mirado ranch has over 500 acres in olives, about 125 of which are at present in bearing. Of the varieties grown here, the Mission and Pendulina do best.

In the past few years large areas have been planted to the olive in this state, and statistics show that in the neighborhood of three million trees are in a flourishing condition. In California bearing olive orchards are singularly free from insect pests, with the exception of black scale, which, if allowed to breed, leaves its unsightly soot-like deposit on bole and branch and fruit. The Australian ladybird (Rhizobius ventralis), which has recently been imported by the State Board of Horticulture to combat this scale, is proving one of the best aids in its destruction which the olive grower has. The grower provides safe resting places for this insect by attaching little nests of inverted corn husks among the olive branches, where it abides, sheltered from the cold and storm of the wet months.

On account of the extreme bitterness of the fruit, even when fully ripe, it is given a wide birth by birds which yearly destroy much of California's choicest orchard products. In the young orchards one may sometimes find a small beetle, called the borer, which leaves tiny heaps of sawdust where it has entered the heart of the growing wood. When his work is thus discovered, a wire is thrust into his new abode and twisted about, and the invader destroyed.

The olive, being a long-lived tree, does not produce fruit in paying quantities until seven or eight years old. Therefore, many land owners, who have been desirous of quick returns from their farms, have hesitated to plant extensively to this tree; they have reserved the more fertile areas for other fruits which come earlier into bearing, crowding the olive back upon rocky slopes. This has added to the beauty of the landscape, but has not given the olive fair play; it needs water, pruning and cultivation, and repays a hundredfold for intelligent care.

Olive trees when in full bearing will average two hundred and fifty gallons of berries each, annually. The orchardist realizes that he must go to a new and untried market with his 6,000 carloads of pickles and his 2,000 carloads of oil, which the orchards now planted will furnish in the near future. He must create a demand for his products. The taste for pickles and oil is an acquired one, but as both are delicious and healthful articles of diet, he can be fearless in forcing the gates of the world's markets.

Somewhat recently an olive grower shipped to a friend in the grocery business in the Mississippi Valley, a barrel of pickled olives. The barrel was opened, and the curious onlookers at once pronounced the olives spoiled, because they were black, and they had never seen other than the green bottled commodity. Without waiting to communicate with his friend, the grocer ordered the olives to be thrown into the river. His disgust was small compared to that of the grower when the tidings reached him of the disposition made of his cherished gift.

The green colored olives found in our stores are the unripe fruit prepared for market, and not a special variety, as many people suppose. They are not nearly so rich in oil, nor is the flavor as good as that of those cured when the berry is fully matured.

The olive ripens from December to May. This is an advantage, as Summer fruits come on the market nearly together, and hired help is at a premium. The olive grower has an opportunity to secure his crop when day laborers are unemployed; he can thus obtain efficient help at reasonable prices.

Olives for pickling are gathered at four stages of maturity; when green, when of a reddish tinge, ripe, or dead ripe. The process of curing in either of the four conditions is practically the same. The olives are carefully graded, both as to ripeness and size, and placed in separate receptacles. There are two methods used to extract the bitter principle, namely, the water process and the lye process. Veteran olive growers of the state use both of these methods with success.

If olives are processed by water, it requires from forty to eighty days. The olives are carefully gathered, that they may not be bruised. Some use canvas baskets, others rake them from the trees into sheets of canvas. They are then poured into shallow vats containing water, which is changed every day, or every other day for the period stated. Then they are placed in brine. The lye process is much shorter, and requires but a few days to extract the bitter principle. Olive trees should be found in every family orchard. The amateur grower need not use either of the foregoing methods of curing, as they require skill, patience, and much labor. The following method is simple and gives the very best results:

Pick from one to three gallons of black olives. With a thin-bladed knife slit each olive lengthwise into a vessel containing fresh water. A five-gallon kerosene can with the top removed is excellent for the purpose. You will be surprised to note how quickly you can prepare three gallons in this way. Change the water every day for two or three weeks, and when the bitter is all extracted put the fruit in water in which has been dissolved a large teacup of salt, more or less—it is a matter of taste. Olives prepared thus are delicious, and will keep several weeks—provided the family is small.

The method of extracting olive oil is practically the same as that used two thousand years ago, except that machinery takes the place of labor of men and animals. There are only a few olive mills in this state. One of these is located in the Ojai Valley, at Nordhoff. It is equipped with the very latest machinery used for the purpose of oil manufacture. This mill stands close to the Ojai Valley railroad depot, and the oil produced is of the very finest quality, and is easily transported to good markets. The thud of its machinery was a new and never-ceasing sound to the dwellers at the Ojai for some weeks, but facilities were limited, and the management ran the mill only during daylight for the last two months of the campaign of that year. The capacity of the mill is four tons of olives per day, and the output of oil from the four hundred acres of olive orchard which supply it will be in the neighborhood of 6,000 gallons.

Ordinarily, fifty-pound fruit boxes, which one sees in any orchard, are brought to the eastern entrance of the main building, full to the brim with glossy black olives. They look decidedly tempting, but only a novice will be so rash as to taste the bitter beauties. The olives are weighed in boxes and stacked temporarily on a broad platform at the door, whence they are carried on trucks to the fanning machine just inside the building; here leaves and other refuse are winnowed out before they are raised by an elevator to the next storey, where they are placed two inches deep on shallow trays to dry. This apartment occupies the whole storey, having a storage capacity of seventeen tons of the drying fruit. The olives remain here from five to fifteen days. Sliding windows, which are constantly open in fair weather, are arranged on both the north and south sides, and wooden shutters swing open on the west end of the room, thus securing abundant ventilation. It is clean and cool here, and one sits on the edge of a low pile of trays, with the subdued noise of the machinery sounding pleasantly from the storey below, and examines with interest the stacks of trays containing olives in varying stages of dryness, from the freshly spread fruit hardly an hour from the green branches, to the shrivelled drupes that rattle like seed-corn as one moves them about with the hand.

Near the east end of the drying-room is a hopper six feet square, with a chute leading down to the olive-cutter in the room below. This wooden chute has two sliding doors, the space between holding a charge of olives, which is about fifty pounds. When the lower door in the chute is opened the olives slide into the cutting machine. This cutter has two large steel cylinders, which are so nicely adjusted and geared that the olives are not crushed in passing, the skin only being slightly cut. There are stationary scrapers, which remove the cut olives that may adhere to the cylinders, and two others, which place the olives in the path of these rollers. The cut olives fall into a pan below. All the receptacles for grinding, crushing, and receiving the broken berries are made of metal, that they may not become rancid, for olives absorb odors readily.

The fruit taken from the cutter is next made into cheeses in shallow frames, covered with burlap, and piled one above another in two metal baskets, and the pressure applied from the bottom. Here is a hydraulic press of 150 tons force, with a capacity of one thousand pounds. The cheeses remain under pressure one and one-half hours. This removes the water from the olives, and secures from six to ten per cent. of virgin oil, and is termed the first pressing. When the cheeses are removed they seem dry and compact, but they have not yet yielded all their oily theasure; therefore, they are crumbled and thrown into a receiving tank, and from thence fed into the crusher, or mill, and ground for half an hour. This process breaks up the tiny cells in the olive pulp, which are stored with oil, and likewise crushes the pits. When it is ground sufficiently, the pomace is again put into the press, as before. When removed the oil is all separated from it, then it is run out by machinery to the dumping ground outside the building, where it lies, a blue gray mass, to be sold as hog-feed, fuel and fertilizer. It is valued for these purposes at $3 per ton.

Back in the receiving tank in the mill stands the newly expressed crude oil. The process of cleansing is begun by removing it to a washer, where it comes in contact with water, and is washed, much as one cleanses a soiled garment. From the washer it goes to the clarifier, where it deposits any sediment drawn into it from the washer. Again it is removed into settling tanks, where it remains until ready to be conveyed to the filtering room in the basement. It is two months or more after the oil is pressed from the olive before it is perfected by this last process.

Hitherto one has moved cautiously about in the mill-room, for from floor to ceiling it is reeking with oil—although it is not the vile liquid one has always associated with that word, but pure, fresh, fragrant, directly from nature's storehouse. One steps into the elevator, and, presto! he stands in a delightfully clean, attractive basement. Rows of upright, cylindrical, iron storage tanks stand spotless on one side. Opposite the tanks on the farther side of the room are long, low racks holding one hundred shining glass jars.

At a table at one end of the room a man is filling bottles and cans, appropriately labelled, with the delicious product of the olive, for the market. You are permitted to sample the yellow liquid, and feel grateful accordingly. If you are very fortunate indeed, perhaps you may be invited to carry away a dainty bottle of the precious product of the olive mill.

PRUNE VINEGAR.

From experiments which were made at the Oregon experiment station, it seems that small and apparently unsalable prunes can be utilized for making vinegar. The process is described as follows: The prunes were first washed and then run through a home-made machine with spike rollers which lacerated and tore them. The pulpy mass then was inoculated with pure yeast. This caused a strong and rapid fermentation, which broke down the cell walls of the prunes, thus liberating the clear juice, which flowed into a receptacle below the vat. This method of securing the clear liquid was inexpensive and very satisfactory. A little more than three gallons of juice was secured per bushel of fruit. The juice was fermented in open barrels. Fermentation was completed in ten days, when the juice was found to contain 10 per cent. of alcohol. It was then inoculated with a pure culture of vinegar ferment by floating it on the surface of the liquid by means of pieces of cork weighted so as to bring the culture in contact with the liquid. It is said that vinegar thus produced is of excellent quality, with a good body, and fruity flavor, containing 6.89 per cent. only of acetic acid.

THREE DAYS WITH UNITED STATES GROCERS

A Short Review of the Topics Discussed by the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States.

It is a far cry from Niagara Falls, N. Y., to Dallas, Texas, yet in convention assembled at the Cataract City last week the National Retail Grocers' Association of the United States decided to meet next year in the Lone Star State city.

This fact alone gives one some idea of the importance of the association and the extent to which the retailers of the republic to the south have perfected their organization.

The great assembly hall in the Natural Food Conservatory was the scene of the convention and when the urbane countenance of President John A. Green, of Cleveland, beamed on the assembly and his gavel rapped smartly on the table, there were before him several hundred keen, capable, well-fed looking men representing the cream of the retail grocers from practically every state in the union. California left no doubt of her presence. Texas sent an imposing delegation. Georgia, Louisiana, Colorado were eloquently represented. Indiana, Ohio and New York were undeniably present. Probably the most conspicuous delegate was Col. Moran, of Missouri. The gallant colonel wore a profusion of long silver-grey hair over his shoulders, an oratorical presence, and was gifted with a basso profundo voice of deep resonance, an organ of wonderful eloquence, which he did not fail to use with telling effect upon his auditors. The colonel's eulogy of Missouri was one of the features of the convention and was only rivaled by the gentleman from Colorado's passing reference to sunshine sixty feet deep and drifting.

A Business Convention.

The convention was a business-like one from the word go. They got right down to work and proceeded with an alacrity and energy that was inspiring. But time was never too pressing to pass a joke or a good story. The fund of humor was inexhaustible and the delegate who failed to elicit a good hearty guffaw was a rara avis.

But if the delegates took their fun as it passed they were far from being in a frivolous state of mind. They had grievances, and had no hesitation in stating them and demanding their abatement.

The Grocers' Problems.

The problems which face the grocers of the United States are in many instances similar to those met with by the retailer on this side of the line. They are in advance of us in the matter of organization, but suffer on account of the conflicting authority of the state and federal powers in a way quite foreign to the situation in Canada.

A most interesting feature was the short reports from the representatives of the various states on the condition of the trade and the organization locally. The evidence was cumulative and overpowering in demonstrating that by means of association the grocer is able to better his position and get recognition and justice from the law-makers of state and nation alike.

Cordial to Wholesalers.

The relations between the association and the wholesalers seem on the whole to be most cordial and this fact was emphasized at the concluding meeting, when a representative of the Wholesale Grocers' Association extended an invitation to the retailers to be present at their annual meeting in June. There were one or two complaints as to the wholesaler, but these had reference to what was called the semi-jobber, of whom there were no two opinions. The legitimate jobber was recognized to be the friend of the retailer and the association expressed frankly its belief that the interests of the two branches of the trade were mutual and that association tended to a better understanding and more cordial relations.

The pure food question loomed largely before the convention and a strong stand was taken in favor of a federal pure food bill that would prohibit the introduction of anything deleterious to health in food products and would place the responsibility upon the shoulders of the man who put up the food and not the innocent vendor of the same. The view was advanced and received considerable support that adulterations not injurious to health should be allowed if the package were plainly labeled so as not to deceive the purchaser.

Bankruptcy Law.

As if the long-suffering grocer had not enough otherwise to contend with, the primrose way of the ubiquitous deadbeat is made even more easy south of the line by an easy bankruptcy law that permits him to escape paying his grocery bill. The association is seeking to have the law amended. This fact should be a warning to us in Canada in case a bankruptcy law should ever be devised by our parliamentarians to keep a sharp lookout to protect the interests of the retailer against the professional beat.

The Premium Evil.

When the question of premiums was reached the convention sat up and hair began to bristle. Each separate and individual grocer present had a separate and individual grievance and wanted to express it. Every denunciation of the premium evil was received with applause. Many delegates stated that they refused to handle the goods of firms that gave premiums and that they suffered nothing from the stand taken. A strong stand was taken and the association pledged itself to use every means to fight the premium system.

Parcel Post.

Department stores, mail order houses and the proposed parcel post law were inextricably mixed up together in the minds of the retailers present and all were enthusiastically consigned to outer darkness. The evil wrought by these institutions has been marked in some quarters of the United States and the convention were determined that it should not be extended by a further development of the parcel post system. A delegate from Southern California reported that the mail order houses had been successfully met in his state by the retailers refusing to handle the goods of any firm that supplied the mail order houses.

Mutual Fire Insurance.

Organization has become so well established among the trade in some of the states that they have been able to establish mutual fire insurance companies. The reports go to show that the system has been very successful. Not only has it strengthened the organization but the trade have been able to get their insurance at a much lower rate than from other companies.

Net Weight.

A matter that has been agitating the trade of late across the line has been that of the net or gross weight in package goods purporting to contain a given amount. After a hard fight the association has secured the agreement of the National Biscuit Co. to put a pound net in every one of their pound packages hereafter. The association went on record as demanding that this principle be made universal.

Rate Cutting.

A resolution that secured enthusiastic support demanded that manufacturers of proprietary articles establish the prices at which their goods are to be sold to the retailer, and to refuse to sell to those who cut rates. This resolution was aimed principally at department stores, it being the custom of these institutions to cut rates on well known grocery specialties in order to draw crowds, trusting to making up the difference on lines not so well known.

While in Niagara Falls the delegates were practically the guests of the Natural Food Company, and right royally were they treated. The fine large assembly room of the company was placed at the disposal of the association for the convention, and every attention shown them. Tuesday evening with their wives they were the guests of the Natural Food Co. to a theatre party at the International theatre. Wednesday they were indebted to the hospitality of the same company for a trip around the Gorge route and on their return were tendered a most elaborate dinner in the Natural Food Conservatory, where nearly 1,000 plates were laid, followed by a ball continued to the wee sma' hours.

The menu was as follows :

MENU

Blue Label Chicken Soup.
Salt Sticks. Celery Hearts.
H. J. Heinz Pickles. Condiments and Sauces.
Chilled Fresh Salmon.
Sauce Tartare.
Shredded Wheat Patties a la Montglas.
Roast Stuffed Turkey.
Cranberry Sauce.
Creamed Potatoes. Russian Salad.
Neapolitan Ice Cream. Assorted Cake.
Toasted Triscuit.
MacLaren's Imperial Cheese.
Coffee.
Gold Seal Champagne.
Key West Cigars.

The toasts, presided over by President Green, were of a fine, breezy flavor, as may be gathered below: "The Retail Grocer, the Salt of the Earth," Wm. Smedley, of Philadelphia; "Why I Like to Sell Shredded Wheat," William Gray, of Brooklyn; "Why the Yankees Eat Shredded Wheat," A. C. Dowse, editor the New England Grocer, Boston; "All Flaked Foods Look Alike to Me," P. G. Hanson, of Minneapolis; "Do Grocers Ever Read Trade Papers?" Robert E. Lee, editor Eli Grocer and General Merchant, St. Louis; "Does the Grocer Believe the Trade Paper After He Reads it?" Julian Capers, editor the Retail Merchant, of Dallas. Music by the Natural Food Company orchestra.

The trade press, it will be observed, came in strong, and the recognition received by the several editors must have convinced Mr. T. A. De Weese, advertising manager for the Natural Food Co., that the trade press is indeed the trade's press.

Canada was represented at the convention by Messrs. Higgins, Moyer and Trowern, of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, Mr. D. B. Gillies, of The Canadian Grocer, Mr. B. H. Blakeslee, of the Egg-o-see Cereal Co., and Mr. John Hewitt, Canadian manager of the Shredded Wheat Company. The Canadians were very warmly received on every hand and extended every courtesy throughout the course of the meetings.

The delegates had a good time, but more than that, they went away filled with enthusiasm for their trade and their association. They were encouraged in their fight against grievances and will go back to their homes better, brighter and bigger business men than when they left.

The Grocer will welcome a movement for the first Dominion convention of retail grocers. Who will start the ball rolling?

TO DETECT ADULTERANTS IN JELLIES AND JAMS

The present generation has seen a great increase in the number and diversity of prepared foods that may be obtained on the market.

Many foods that were formerly prepared chiefly or entirely in the home, may now be secured of the grocer ready for the table. A great burden has thus been lifted from the shoulders of the housewife, but responsiblities have not been lessened.

A study must be made of the subject of prepared food if the table is to be supplied with foods of the same quality as those that "mother used to make."

Home-made jellies are made from fruit juice and granulated sugar, and jams from the pulped fruit and sugar. Some manufacturers aim to produce an article that is equal to the home-made in every respect, while others supply the demand for cheaper goods by using lower priced substitutes for the fruit or sugar or both.

Thus apple juice, or a solution prepared from dried apple cores and peelings, is often used where higher priced fruits are understood to be employed, and glucose is frequently used in place of sugar.

Jellies and jams are both commonly adulterated with preservatives (usually salicylic acid and benzoic acid), coloring matter and glucose. Artificial coloring matter is frequently employed, sometimes to give a fictitious appearance to relatively cheap goods, sometimes with a high-grade article, in order that the color may be permanent when exposed to light for long periods of time on grocers' shelves.

The tests described above may be employed in the kitchen by one who has had no chemical training, and will serve to point out some of the forms of adulteration practised with those products. These tests are simple, but must be used with judgment. They require considerable practice from the operator before satisfactory results can be obtained. Dr. W. D. Bicelow, U. S. Bureau of Chemistry.

Starch may be detected as follows: Dissolve a teaspoonful of jelly in a half teacupful of hot water, heat to boiling and add, drop by drop while stirring with a teaspoon, a solution of potassium permanganate until the solution is almost colorless. Then allow the solution to cool and add a single drop of tincture of iodine. If starch is present a clear blue color is produced. Artificially colored jellies are sometimes not decolorized by potassium permanganate. Even without decolorizing, however, the blue color can usually be seen. Both potassium permanganate and tincture of iodine can, of course, be secured at any drug store.

For the detection of glucose, a teaspoonful of the jelly may be dissolved in a glass tumbler or bottle in two or three tablespoonfuls of water. The vessel in which the jelly is dissolved may be placed in a vessel of hot water if necessary to hasten the solution. In case a jam or marmalade is being examined, the mixture is filtered to separate the insoluble matter. The solution is allowed to cool, and an equal volume, or a little more, of strong alcohol is added. If the sample is a pure fruit product, the addition of alcohol causes no precipitation, except that a very slight amount of proteid bodies is thrown down. If glucose had been employed in its manufacture, however, a dense white precipitate separates, and after a time settles to the bottom of the liquid.

In addition to the form of adulteration to which jellies are subject, jams are sometimes manufactured from the exhausted fruit pulp left after removing the juice for making jelly. When this is done, residues from different fruits are sometimes mixed. Exhausted raspberry or blackberry pulp is sometimes used in making "strawberry" jam, and vice versa. Some instances are reported of various small seeds being used with jams made from seedless pulp.

With the aid of a small magnifying glass such forms of adulteration may be detected, the observer familiarizing himself with the seeds of the ordinary fruits.

Many of the artificial colors employed with jellies and jams may be detected as follows:

One or two teaspoonfuls of the product are dissolved in a half teacupful of warm water, the solution heated to boiling, after adding a few drops of hydrochloric acid and a small piece of white woolen cloth or a few strands of white woolen yarn. The wool should first be boiled with water containing a little soda, to remove any fat it may contain, and then washed with water. The wool is washed first with hot and then with cold water, the water pressed out as completely as possible, and the color of the fabric noted. If no marked color is produced, the test may be discontinued. Otherwise the fabric, which may have taken up coal tar colors, some foreign vegetable colors and (if a fruit product is being examined) some of the natural coloring matter of the fruit, is boiled for two or three minutes in about one-third of a teacupful of water and two or three teaspoonfuls of household ammonia, freed from liquid as much as possible by pressing, and removed.

The fabric will usually retain the greater part of the natural fruit color, while the coal tar color usually dissolves in the diluted ammonia. The liquid is then stirred with a splinter of wood and hydrochloric acid added, a drop or two at a time, until there is no further odor of the ammonia, and the liquid transferred to the tongue by means of the splinter with which it is stirred has an acid (sour) taste.

A fresh piece of white woolen cloth is boiled in the liquid and thoroughly washed. If this piece of cloth has a distinct color, the food under examination is colored artificially.

This color may be a coal tar derivative, or it may be one of the vegetable colors (prepared from certain lichens) now largely used with foods. If of the latter class the dyed fabric is usually turned blue or purple by ammonia.

GOOD ADVERTISING

A department devoted to the improvement of Retail Advertising. The editor of this department will be pleased to answer questions on advertising and review any advertisements submitted to him.

HOW ADVERTISEMENTS MIGHT BE IMPROVED

I. Space and Wording.

J. A. McGregor, Appleton, ran a 65-line double column ad in the Carleton Place Herald to announce special prices on sugar and tea. Outside of a "want" line on butter, etc., and the name at top and bottom, there was no other matter in the ad.

Ostensibly, too much space was used for the amount of matter. Forty-five lines, double column, would have been sufficient space.

"J. A. McGregor, Appleton," at the top of the ad is superfluous when the same appears at the close; and, while a grocer may argue that this repetition helps to fix the name on the minds of the readers, I think it mars the ad.

People are interested, not in you, but in your goods. If what you advertise measures up to what the people are looking for, they will soon find who you are and where your store is—they will find it all at the bottom of the ad.

Have You Tried Our Japan Teas ?

We have special teas at 25c per lb. that we claim is the best ever offered in Canada — that covers a large space—but we shall be pleased to give you a sample for to try, and we shall be satisfied with your good judgment.

The above interrogatory and declaratory sentences are ambiguously connected and one is clumsily worded. Are the "special teas at 25c per lb." Japan teas ? "That covers a large space" is a poor way of qualifying one's utterances. Why not say "a big statement," "rather broad declaration," etc. ?

* * *

There is no need for two prepositions preceding "try." In fact, the whole three words might be omitted without any loss of meaning. A sample is usually given "to try."

Ben Madden, of Dresden, Ont., advertises in 35 lines, double column, half of which he devotes to a few general statements about groceries.

* * *

When a merchant carries more than one class of merchandise, like Mr. Madden, his advertising has to be handled with especial care. I think the best plan in such cases is to divide over two parts of the paper space which under ordinary circumstances would be utilized in one position. There would then be announcements on single themes.

Buy Groceries Here

We have a clean, up-to-date stock of groceries of all kinds and solicit your patronage.

* * *

When a grocer says "Buy groceries here" doesn't he "solicit your patronage" and wouldn't a few enumerations be in season ? Mr. Madden must have some grocery items that are worth calling attention to.

Forty-five lines, double column, is allotted to a 30-word ad of Forbes & Whitelaw, Woodstock, which is inundated with white space and encloistered in a heavy border. White space is nearly always acceptable when in harmony with dimensions, but no merchant should ever think of having more white space than reading matter.

If he does, the people will begin to reason that he has nothing to advertise. White space performs the function of giving individuality to a particular ad in a crowd of other ads.

The text of Forbes & Whitelaw's ad runs as follows :

Fresh Groceries

If not satisfied with the quality of your groceries

Try Ours

Everything fresh and strictly pure. Stocks complete. Orders promptly filled.

* * *

Using so much space to say so little was injudicious. In 30 lines double column I could have said the following :

Fresh and Pure Groceries Obtainable at our Store

If you are dissatisfied with the goods you are getting come and see our

First-Class Groceries

If you are satisfied, come and see us anyway. If we cannot supply you with better groceries we may be able to fill your orders just a little more promptly.

* * *

The second thought in the above is introduced for a particular purpose. There are so many people who are satisfied with "their grocer" that if you desire to increase your custom you must have a stronger drawing card than one which if interpreted literally means "stay at home if you are satisfied." Your policy is to convince the people that you are the only grocer whose goods and service will satisfy them.

* * *

The Maple Leaf Grocery, Fort William, Ont., devote about 30 lines of a 55-line single column space to "cream candies." In comparatively small type there is a brief reference to groceries. The case should have been reversed. The only parallel I can find for publicity of this kind is the incident of the druggist who filled his store window with corks—something he could make about twenty-five cents a month on.

IDEAS FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS CLERK.

BUSINESS HONESTY.

It was the banker James H. Eckels who said "Be it enacted" never yet uplifted mankind. He advocated commercial ethics versus statute ethics. Lawyers can drive a coach and four through the most rigid statute ethics. But the commercial ethics established by the merchants of Venice, the British guilds and the counting houses of the world have done and are doing more for the world than any other force except religion. The upright moral merchant is the strongest moral force in any community. He exerts influence by example, not precept. The fundamental principles of successful business life remain forever the same. Business based upon wrong principles cannot permanently be successful. The results of wrong-doing are its best antidote. It is sometimes asserted that the standard of business honesty is not as high as it once was. The writer is inclined to think this an error so far at least as this and the mother country are concerned. The merchant who practices fraud seldom gets very high up in the profession. Large business interests can only be built up on a sound reputation for honesty. Without this neither capital nor smartness can hold out long against lack of public confidence. It is not too much to say that the wholesale houses of Canada as a whole have a very high standard of honesty. They recognize that a reputation for square dealing is their best asset and in their business affairs uphold a standard of commercial integrity which invites and maintains the confidence of other men.

A BULLETIN ON GOOD SERVICE.

Gerald Byrne, of the Simpson-Crawford grocery department, New York, believes that it pays well to familiarize the salespeople with the best methods of placing the goods before the purchaser. To that end he issued recently a bulletin as follows :

"1. The first requisite is to look cheerful ; always greet customers with a smile.

"2. Don't ask, 'Are you waited on ?' Remark politely 'Something you wish, madam ?' or 'Can I assist you, madam?' Never refer to customers as follows : 'Something you want, lady or gentleman ?' Always address a customer 'madam' or 'sir.'

"3. Don't ask a customer who has purchased one item. 'Is that all ?' Such remarks have a tendency to make a purchaser feel cheap, and that we are unappreciative. Address such customers : 'Is there anything else you wish ?'

"4. Don't allow any person to attract your attention (excepting when we are very busy), until the customer you are serving receives her package and change. Always give customer a gracious smile and 'Thank you ; please call again.' These attentions are expected by customers and are greatly appreciated by them.

"5. Explain to the best of your ability the merits of the goods, and at all times show your willingness to help the customer to decide on the article that will prove the most satisfactory. When a customer points to an article and asks, 'What is that ?' don't reply in an abrupt manner, 'Breakfast food' or 'Chocolate.' Be more explicit, and state it is Malt Breakfast Food and the price is 14c. per package, $1.65 per dozen or it is Baker's Premium Chocolate, at the same time stating the peice and other information pertaining to the item referred to.

"6. Persistent application to your duties, cheerfulness, with a pleasing smile, and a willingness to cater to the wishes of all patrons, are the most essential elements to bring success to the salespersons, and to insure an increasing clientele for the model grocery store."

IDEAS OF A FAMOUS GROCER.

Keep the key of your store yourself.

Buy your own goods and see that the quality and quantity is what you paid for.

Make every price made in your establishment the absolute and fixed retail price.

When wholesale prices are to be made, follow your own judgment.

See that your customers get what they buy at the price and time agreed on.

Teach your clerks the cost, quality and value of your goods. To do this, you must first know them yourself.

Lead your help, don't drive them.

One good pair of eyes is worth six pairs of hands.

Industry together with knowledge will give you a clean store.

Keep a young lady to do your detail work and let you know every day what has been transacted in cash, credit, total sales and purchases.

Keep in touch with your clerks, your customers, your stock and what is going on.

Know, do not guess.

Remember, knowledge and industry is the price of success.

System is the carrying out of a set of rules. Necessity causes the creation of these rules. Any rule that is not required by necessity is foolish and a hindrance in your business instead of a help.

Don't mistake activity for usefulness.

You can disorganize men more in 10 minutes in the morning than you can build up all day.

Give your employes only pre-digested knowledge.

A merchant should know the following things : First, how he can buy intelligently ; second, how he can conduct his business and make of his employes good citizens and honorable men and women ; third, that he must extend loyalty if he expects to receive it ; fourth, that if he tries to do more business than his capital will warrant, he will fail.

THINGS TO QUIT.

Gossiping.

Fidgeting.

Grumbling.

Hairsplitting.

Saying fate is against you.

Finding fault with the weather.

Going around with a gloomy face.

Faultfinding, nagging and worrying.

Taking offence where none is intended.

Dwelling on fancied slights and wrongs.

Talking big things and doing small ones.

Scolding and flying into a passion over trifles.

Boasting of what you can do instead of doing it.

Thinking that life is a grind, and not worth living.

Talking continually about yourself and your affairs.

Depreciating yourself and making light of your abilities.

Saying unkind things about acquaintances and friends.

Exaggerating, and making mountains out of molehills.

Lamenting the past, holding onto disagreeable experiences.

Pitying yourself and bemoaning your lack of opportunities.

Comparing yourself with others to your own disadvantage.

Waiting around for chances to turn up. Go and turn them up.

Writing letters when the blood is hot, which you may regret later.

Thinking that all the good chances and opportunities are gone by.

Thinking of yourself to the exclusion of everything and every one else.

Carping and criticizing. See the best rather than the worst in others.

Dreaming that you would be happier in some other place or circumstances.

Belittling those whom you envy because you feel that they are superior to yourself.

Dilating on your pains and aches and misfortunes to everyone who will listen to you.

Gazing idly into the future and dreaming about it instead of making the most of the present.

Longing for the good things that others have instead of going to work and earning them for yourself.

Looking for opportunities hundreds or thousands of miles away instead of right where you are.—Success.

THE ART OF REMEMBERING.

To remember a man's name when you meet him is one of the greatest assets any business man can have. To be able to call a customer by name when he enters your store or your department makes him feel that he is really important, and if, when he has given an order for goods to be delivered, you can put down his address without asking him what it is you will score a hit every time.

The Western Bank of Canada has opened branches at Tiverton, Ont., and Victoria Harbor, Ont.

The James Innes Milling Co., of Hartney, Man., have orders from Quebec for 10.000 bushels of seed wheat.

Two schooners have been purchased by local parties as the nucleus of a fleet which will engage in the coastal and bank fishery from Sydney, Cape Breton. Other parties are now negotiating for the purchase of a steamer to engage in the similar work.

The equipment will be modern in every respect and when completed Waterloo County will have one of the largest cold storage plants in Canada, those in Montreal and London alone exceeding its capacity. The cost, it is understood, will be in the neighborhood of $20,000.

It is announced that Mr. R. A. Welsh, of Vancouver, has purchased the cannery and fishing equipment and plant of the Washington Packing Co., South Bellingham. The plant was operated last season by Mr. Welsh, Mr. G. I. Wilson and others and was a success financially. It is understood that the figure was $10.500.

It is the intention of the manufacturers to advertise Wilson's fly pads much more largely during the season of 1906 than heretofore. The increase in sales for 1905 was 45 per cent., and Mr. Wilson is satisfied that liberal and judicious advertising will result in similar extensions of the demand for some years to come.

The Rolla L. Crain Co., Limited, of Ottawa, are meeting with the success that the merits of their Crain continuous ledger deserves. Among their latest customers are the Northern Bank of Winnipeg, for savings and deposit ledgers for their branches; and the Bank of New Brunswick of St. John, for complete outfits for all their various branches in St. John and other points in the Maritime Provinces.

The Daisy D cheese factory situated about two miles west of Norwood, Ont., was destroyed by fire on Jan. 17. The origin of the fire is a mystery, although it is believed in some quarters to be of incendiary origin. The farmers of the district made a big attempt to save the factory, but their efforts were futile, as the fire had made strong headway before it was discovered. The factory was owned by Mr. D. Oakley, of Norwood, and the loss is about $2,000 partly insured. The factory was one of the best in the Peterboro district.

The sixth annual meeting of the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Consumption and other forms of Tuberculosis will be held in the Railway Committee room of the House of Commons, Ottawa, on March 28 next. Hon. Senator Edwards will preside in the afternoon. In the evening a public lecture will be delivered in the lecture hall of the Normal School by Dr. Arthur J. Richer, of Montreal, which will be illustrated with steriopticon plates showing the stages of consumption and some of the appliances now in use to check and cure the disease. The chair will be taken in the evening by His Excellency Earl Grey.

The Port Huron Herald publishes the annnouncement that the Marine City Sugar Co. has given notice to the stockholders that the company had been compelled to suspend, on account of the great cost of Canadian sugar beets and the drop in the price of sugar, leaving a profit insufficient to meet expenses and pay dividends. Many well-to-do Marine City men are losers, W. F. Sauber and M. Sicken being amongst the heaviest. The factory, which was recently built at a cost of many thousands of dollars, shut down after the longest run in one season of its history. The failure will affect none of the local banks.

The Napanee Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association are to be congratulated on the success of their first annual poultry and pet stock show, held in the town half on 16th, 17th and 18th ult. A large number of entries crowded the hall, and the probability is that a larger building will have to be secured for next year's show. A decided impetus will be given to the raising of first-class fowl in the town country, a large number of spectators having expressed their intention of raising some thoroughbred stock next season, and numerous inquiries are being received by exhibitors as to price of eggs and stock. To the indefatigable efforts of the president, Mr. M. H. Fratick; the secretary, Mr. Geo. Walters; the committee, Messrs. A. F. Chinneck, H. Meng, A. Steacy and G. Degroff, and the members of the society, much of the success of the show is due.

MOLASSES.

Most recent news from Barbadoes indicates that the crop there will be an exceedingly early one this year, and prospects are for crop of about same quantity or possibly a little more than last year, but a greater portion will be put into fancy molasses than usual. First shipments of this were made about the 26th of December, and first quotation on molasses was on the 13th inst., when price was cabled as 13c. puncheon included, first cost. Although we understand that business was cabled on this basis, we have not heard of any being confirmed for prompt shipment, as the crop will not be moving in quantities until towards the end of February, and in view of the low prices, planters are disposed to hold their product, hoping for a better market later. This quotation would figure about 25½c. landed Montreal as compared to 34c. or 35c. last year, at which price the bulk of the purchases were contracted for.

CANADIAN TRADE WITH ITALY.

Visiting Canada at the present time, on an important mission as the embassy of the Italian Government, is the Marquis Doria, a young nobleman of particularly pleasing appearance and manner.

Marquis Doria, while here, is interviewing the Canadian Government, boards of trade, and prominent business men, and making an effort to interest them in the establishment of a direct steamship line between Canada and the ports of Italy.

He points out that vessels coming to this country from Mediterranean ports can always obtain cargoes, but returning they have more difficulty. This, he claims, is not as it should be, for there are many products which Canada is able to supply, and which Italy now imports in large quantities from other countries that could be just as well obtained here, thus opening up new markets to our Canadian producers, and also enabling vessels to carry on this trade at a profit.

For instance, it is no secret that the dried fish industry of Canada has not been what it should be during the past few years. The Italian people are among the largest consumers of this class of food of any country in the world. Last year they imported no less than 8,700 tons of dried fish from Sweden and Norway; 8,100 tons from Great Britain; 7,000 tons from France, but only 2,000 tons from Canada.

Marquis Doria is of the opinion that these figures might be very materially increased should we have more direct means of communication. There are dozens of other commodities which the marquis is also confident could be exported in paying quantities should we but have the proper means of transportation.

He also pointed out that the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and other railways, would necessitate an extra amount of this class of labor coming into the country, and as this is done to a great extent by Italians there was no reason why steerage passengers should not be carried in addition to the freight business done.

HIS CAPITAL WAS CHARACTER.

A business man in Toronto failed a few years ago. When he had settled with his creditors he was without any money whatever and to all appearances shut out of a business career.

While in business, however, he had been honest as well as industrious and had established a reputation for these qualities. The cause of his failure was adverse circumstances over which he had no control, and when it appeared that he would have to become an employe instead of an employer some of the wholesale houses came to his relief and sold him goods on credit and without any security in order that he might have a chance to get on his feet again. One wholesale house alone gave him credit to the extent of $10,000. To-day he is a prosperous merchant.

This man's chief capital was his character, and reminds one that after all, in spite of the cynical who think otherwise, "honesty in the best policy" for employers as well as employes.

DECLINE IN HOG PRICES.

It was not to be expected that the high prices which have been ruling for hogs could continue. As pointed out by The Grocer in a recent issue, prices were altogether out of proportion to values. The immediate cause of the present drop of 25c on live hogs is primally due to the weakening of the European market, and an indisposition of that market to maintain the high prices for Canadian products.

TRAVELERS MUST GET ORDERS SIGNED.

An interesting and important case has just been decided at Osgoode Hall which demonstrates very clearly the great need for accuracy in every detail of business transaction.

A traveler when taking an order from a customer is usually satisfied to write down the order in front of his customer and to hand him a duplicate copy, the general idea being that this constitutes a legally binding order. This is not the case, however. If the order goes through, well and good, everything is all right; but if for some reason or other the customer refuses to accept delivery, why, then the situation changes. Who is to bear the inevitable loss which follows? At first sight one would say the would-be purchaser, but the law says no.

In the case under review, defendant said that he countermanded the goods before they reached him, and then refused to accept them, and he pleaded the statute of frauds. Plaintiffs' traveler took the order from defendant; there was no signature by defendant, and defendant contended that there was no evidence to support a finding that plaintiffs' traveler was authorized to sign the order for defendant.

Plaintiffs contended that the order in writing defining the goods, the invoice of the goods sent, and the subsequent letters refusing to take the goods and recognizing the order were sufficient to satisfy the statute, and also that the order written by plaintiffs' traveler was in itself sufficient.

The upshot of all the cases as quoted at the trial is that the traveler or salesman of a wholesale dealer is presumably not authorized by the persons who buy from him to sign a contract for them as purchasers. And the presumption is not rebutted by the memorandum of the order being made up in the purchaser's presence in duplicate, one part being given to the buyer and the other part forwarded to the wholesale house.

In cases where travelers are calling at short intervals, say weekly, the point is not a very momentous one, as little difficulty is likely to occur which could not be dealt with on the next journey. But where a traveler calls only once or twice a year it is of great moment. He may take orders which require special treatment for an individual customer, and if that customer is permitted to just go back on his order, simply by virtue of the technicality that the salesman is not the buyer's agent, the wholesale dealer is placed in an awkward predicament.

Now that this point has been demonstrated it is clear that the only course to adopt is for travelers to secure signatures to all the orders they collect.

CHRISTMAS WINDOW DRESSING COMPETITION.

The awards for this competition have been given as follows :

First Prize—Gibbons Bros., Toronto.

Second Prize—I. F. Pelan, St. Thomas, Ont.

Great credit is also due to those sent in by Aaron Graeb, Hespeler, Ont., and I. H. Gaffney, Brockville, Ont.

Many of the photos sent in showed signs of great merit as far as window display went, but were necessarily ruled out by reason of the photo being incapable of reproduction, a qualification which was pointed out as essential.

THE PURE FOOD QUESTION.

The recent prominence which the activity of the Government inspectors has given to the fact that there are on the market many food products, more or less adultered with foreign substances, is causing a good deal of excitement, and rightly so.

It is a necessity of paramount importance that the health of the public be rigidly guarded, that the pure food laws be such that not only can these adulterations be detected and made public, but that the punishment which becomes necessary shall be administered to all the offenders, and not fall upon one party alone, who may or may not be an innocent transgressor.

There is no doubt that competition, generally speaking, has a great deal to answer for in regard to this adulteration. Every manufacturer wants to go one better than his competitor, and every dealer wants to buy one better than his neighbor, and thus, questionable measures are resorted to to reduce cost of production.

We understand it was stated by one of the inspectors who has been active in the recent prosecution in Vancouver, that analysis had proved it to be a common practice among manufacturers to use a large quantity of vegetable pulp in the jam they make, an ingredient harmless in itself, but necessitating using other foreign ingredients to cover the deception. The time has now arrived for definite action on this question, and none are more capable of tackling the question than the army of retailers themselves.

Canada is a young country, growing fast, and she cannot afford to waste time experimenting this issue. Let her learn from the examples of older countries.

We do not want to become a nation of faddists who, when they get started on their hobby, do not know when to stop. A good illustration of this is the fining of United States retailers for selling the old reliable Lea & Perrins' Worcester sauce, and Crosse & Blackwell's mushroom catsup because the formulas contained salicyclic acid. The proprietors in both cases have backed up the grocers by paying their fines, which in the aggregate ran up into a large sum of money. In the case of the former, the old sauce has been withdrawn from the market and a new sauce without the preservative substituted. In the case of the catsup it is said to be impossble to get anything that will take the place of salicylic acid to prevent the goods from deterioration.

Nor, on the other hand, do we want to become an open market for any mixture branded a taking name and flavored to popular palate.

In Britain an excellent system of inspection has grown up and, while it cannot be claimed that nothing injurious as food is there sold fraudulently to the public, any vendor who makes false representations or fails to truly state the nature of the goods he sells, incurs the risk of prosecution and punishment. The law should be so designed and enforced that every purchaser would know the extent to which adulteration was practised.

There is a measure of uncertainty as to whether or not some of the adulterants in common use are injurious, but a strict law with regard to labelling would enable the purchaser to decide for himself as to their use. The law should also require that where the bulk of any package is broken by the retailer, its actual contents be announced to every purchaser.

A VIRTUE TO CULTIVATE.

There is no habit the young man entering business can more profitably cultivate than that of promptness and faithfulness in keeping appointments. Nothing is more exasperating or more inexcusable than the failure to keep a business undertaking or appointment. It is not only a personal affront to the other party, but has wasted his time, upset his arrangements and generally thrown his plan of the day's work out of gear.

A gentleman recently starting in business in Toronto has very justly been voicing his grievances owing to the failure of the telephone company in installing his 'phone. Here was a case of direct money loss to the unfortunate business man, as the telephone was absolutely necessary for him, particularly on account of the many petty errands required before his work was put in smooth running order.

Another case in point was in connection with a small printing order. The job was promised at a certain time, was expected, was not delivered. The order was eventually filled, but will be the last one for that printer.

On the other hand the firm or man that wins or deserves a reputation for promptness and reliability need never be on the search for business or employment. Business will seek him.

It may mean a sacrifice of personal comfort to deliver goods just exactly on the minute agreed upon in some instances, but failure to do so may be just the thing that loses the trade of your best customer. Be prompt. See that your employes are prompt. You can confer on them no greater benefit than a sound training in this most desirable habit.

HIS SALARY RAISED AT 72.

There is a commercial traveler in Canada who is a standing rebuke to Dr. Osler's old age theory. He is seventy-two years of age and has been on the road for about fifty-five years.

He is still considered one of the best travelers on the road, and that his principals still have confidence in him is evidenced by the fact that at the beginning of the new year an increase of $300 was made to his salary.

As he is still vigorous and is likely to maintain his vigor for some time we may look for another advance in his salary at the beginning of next year.

This gentleman, it might be said, represents a large manufacturing firm with factories both in Canada and the United States.

WHOLESALE GROCERS' DIRECTORY.

We just received a copy of Thacker's New Wholesale Grocers' Directory of U. S., for 1906. This is the twelfth edition and is right up to date.

Mr. Thacker shows great painstaking, and appears to be possessed of the best facilities for getting information in regard to changes from time to time. The 1906 directory will show nearly four hundred changes compared to the 1905 edition. In fact it is said to be absolutely correct to date. The price is $1 per copy, or six copies for $5.

To any one requiring such a list it should be a great boon. It can be obtained from Mr. Orrin Thacker, Columbus, Ohio.

BACON HOG PRODUCTION.

If the bacon trade of Canada is to continue to improve it is necessary that hog raisers adhere to the class of animals most suited to the requirements of the British market.

In the production of hogs of the lard type Canada cannot compete successfully with the United States. A visit to the Chicago Stock Yards and to western cattle feeding centres affords ample evidence of this. A large proportion of the cattle are fed on snapped or shelled corn. Herded with these are hogs that thrive and fatten on the undigested corn left by the steers. These hogs constituting a by-product of cattle feeding are produced at a cost much lower than pork can be raised in Canada. All United States hogs are not fed in this way but a large proportion of them have, at least, the advantage of cheap corn, than which there is no better feed for producing fat hogs of the lard type. Let the Canadian farmer go back to the thick, fat type of hog, as some talk of doing because they feel they have a grievance with the packer, and it will not be long before the price of Canadian bacon will have fallen to a level with the United States product, which is usually from ten to fifteen shillings per hundred and twelve pounds lower than the quotations for Canadian Wiltshire sides.

It seems to be very generally supposed that pork is more cheaply and easily produced from hogs of the thick, short American breeds than from the three English breeds which are favored for bacon production. Why such a belief should be so general is difficult to understand as repeated tests conducted at various experiment stations have shown that hogs of the Yorkshire, Berkshire and Tamworth breeds produce pork as cheaply as those of the Poland China, the Chester White or the Duroc Jersey breeds. In the opinion of Prof. Day, of the Ontario Agricultural College, who is foremost among authorities on bacon production, the lusty, growthy pig of the bacon type is the most economical pork maker we have, especially when reared, as bacon hogs should be, largely on such foods as roots, soiling crops and dairy offal.

There is much difference of opinion regarding the cost at which hogs fit for market can be produced, and there is probably as much difference between the cost to one feeder and the cost to another as between these opinions. Under general conditions the production costs in the neighborhood of five dollars per hundred pounds on an average. In Summer under favorable conditions the cost may be somewhat lessened, but in Winter pork can hardly be produced at the figure mentioned. As in all other lines of production the cost will vary according to the character of the animals fed and the amount of intelligence exercised by the feeder.

Taking one year with another the Canadian farmer on good land who understands crop growing and hog raising can undoubtedly raise hogs as cheaply as the figures quoted, and probably for less. He will keep only such sows as produce large, lusty litters of the right type. He will grow such pasture and soiling crops as clover, alfalfa, rape, vetches, mangels, sugar beets and such coarse grains as yield the greatest number of pounds of hog feed per acre. In other words, he will manage his operations in such a way that will return him the greatest return in hogs per acre of land, and in so doing will learn to reduce the cost of raising hogs of the best type to a minimum.

THE STARCH MERGER.

Letters patent have been granted to the Canada Starch Company, Limited, with a capital of $1,250,000 of 7 per cent. non-cumulative preferred stock and a similar amount of common stock.

The incorporators are Messrs. George Frederick Benson, William Strachan and Charles Rudolph Hosmer, of Montreal, James John Warren, of Toronto, and Joseph Ruddy, of Brantford. From this it will be seen that this is an amalgamation of the Edwardsburg and Brantford Starch Companies, but the new company will also absorb the Imperial Starch Company, whose plant at Prescott has been closed down for the past four months.

Those interested consider that better results can be obtained by the proposed arrangement, the cost of production decreased, and savings made in the distribution of some of the company's lines of goods.

No details with regard to management have been settled yet, and none of the new officers appointed, but an organization meeting is to be held in Montreal on February 2 to pass the by-laws and elect directors.

Of the new directorate we understand that the Edwardsburg Company are to have five directors, the Brantford Company two, and the bondholders of the Imperial Company two, making a board of nine directors.

The head office of the company will be at Cardinal, Ont., but no radical changes are contemplated with regard to the terms of doing business or in the personnel of the Edwardsburg and Brantford companies.

The disposition of the preferred stock, we are informed, is in the proportion of $675,000 to the Edwardsburg shareholders, $136,500 to the Brantford shareholders, and $175,000 to the bondholders of the Imperial Company. The shareholders of the Imperial Company will receive some common stock amounting to 50 cents on the dollar on the par value of their preferred stock, and 50 per cent. of what they paid for their common stock. It is well known that the latter company has not been a money-maker, and the shareholders are considered fortunate to get any of the new stock, in view of the large amount of bonds on the property.

We understand that it is not the intention of the new company to operate the plant at Prescott, as those who should know say that glucose and syrup can be manufactured very much more cheaply in the works of the Edwardsburg Company at Cardinal, this plant having taken care of practically all the glucose and syrup business of the Dominion last Fall, during the three busiest months of the year, when the Prescott plant was out of operation and while the St. Lawrence plant was also closed down in this department while making certain repairs and alterations to their plant.

The Brantford Company has a good starch business in the west, and it is considered that very satisfactory results can be obtained by co-operation between the Edwardsburg and Brantford plants in the starch business.

STANDING STILL IS GOING BACKWARD.

In these strenuous days the world of trade is constantly going forward, so that the merchant who stands still is relatively going backward. You must progress to retain your mercantile equilibrium.

Have you ever stepped on a moving platform? You had to face in the direction it was going, or take the chances of being thrown; or if you stood outside and looked on, you were no part of the show.

The merchant who is not stepping forward with the other forward-steppers in trade is slowly but surely being pushed back into the idle crowd of loafers that line the edges of the procession. He has no place among the quick-thinking men who give character and expression to modern affairs. He is advertising himself as a present or prospective "has been." His standing still is a confession that the pace is too swift for him. But the procession shows no mercy to laggards and the lingerer sneaks from the ranks into oblivion. You must go forward and keep going forward, to keep your feet. Once down you are "down and out."

GROCERIES.

Montreal, Feb. 2, 1906.

The conditions of trade are reported as not of the best. Travelers report that country merchants are complaining of the condition of the roads and the consequent stagnation of business. Orders are light. The absence of snow and the consequent poor condition of the roads has had a serious effect on trade. Reports from the Ottawa Valley and lumbering districts of Quebec are not encouraging and dealers, as a rule, look forward to quiet trade towards the Spring. It is reported that a number of large lumber firms have been forced to lay off a goodly proportion of their hands, claiming that the lightness of the snow and the heavy rains have made it difficult to get the cut to the rivers and lakes. A number of failures, small ones, however, are reported by the jobbing trade, but renewals are asked for rather more frequently than is pleasant or desirable. In groceries, the drop of 10c. per hundred in sugar does not seem to have had any appreciable effect on the market, nor has it stimulated buying. In all other lines of groceries, trade is only normal. As regards provisions, the high price of live hogs has tended to hold up the markets, particularly in hams and bacon. Eggs, owing to the mild weather that has prevailed, have eased off and the retail trade has been buying more freely. Butter, also, is somewhat easier and considerable more turnover is noted for local consumption.

Canned Goods— The local canned goods market is extremely dull, and there is nothing of interest to report. Inquiries are of a sorting up character, and principally for odd lines of fruits, salmon, lobsters, and haddies. In some quarters it is anticipated that tomatoes, which have been going into consumption more freely than last year on account of the better retail selling prices, will advance shortly. We quote

Sugar—The sugar market since the decline of 10c., made by refiners last Friday, is unchanged. Business is quiet in the jobbing trade, while refiners also report that the demand has slackened off somewhat. Inquiries for yellows have been larger than usual at this season of the year, but the reason for this is not apparent. It has been reported that several lots of Scotch sugars have changed hands around $3.85 to $3.90. We quote:

Syrups and Molasses— The molasses situation shows no change. The opening of the market in Barbadoes for new crop is reported somewhat lower than last year, but the trade do not seem to be overly keen to place orders and are looking for a modification. Local stocks are practically cleared out, as noted in The Grocer last week and holders of any are disposed to shade prices a trifle. The general situation, however, remains unchanged and the jobbing trade has made no concessions, and our quotations, as under, still rule.

Tea—The tea market shows little of interest; the main characteristic is firmness in practically all lines. Local brokers report inquiries for China greens, principally gunpowder, pinheads and pea leaves, as somewhat better. In Ceylon green the advance noted lately is maintained and all advices from London and Colombo indicate a very firm market. Ceylon blacks are also firm, in sympathy with greens. In Japans, little business is doing, and stocks, which are light, are held firm. In China blacks there appears to be a somewhat better inquiry. The jobbing trade report business from country points as light in teas. We quote:

Coffee—The coffee situation is unchanged, the firmness in prices being well maintained. Local grinders and and dealers report business fair. Latest New York reports indicate the market steady with a firm undertone. We quote:

Foreign Dried Fruits—Foreign fruit trade is quiet. Valencia raisins are moving somewhat better and particularly layers and selected fruit, of which there is a good stock available. Currants are unchanged since last report. Dates, which advanced as noted in last issue, are selling somewhat better this week. California raisins continue easy, while prunes are firm, with some inquiry for best brands. We quote:

Rice and Tapioca—There is nothing new to report in the position of the rice market; the characteristic feature, however, is firmness. In tapioca the market is decidedly strong and with holders few prices are firm and likely to be higher. We quote:

Spices—The spice market is firm all along the line. A slight weakness in nutmegs is reported from New York markets, but insufficient to affect present quotations. Gingers are held firmer, with pepper steady and quiet. Local business is about as usual, and not of any great volume. We quote:

Honey—There has been no change on the honey market, although business is reported considerably improved. It is noticeable that retail grocery stores are pushing these goods, as is evidenced by the numerous window displays of honey throughout the city. Prices remain unchanged as under.

" kegs	0 07½	0 08
" comb, new	0 13	0 14

Beans—The bean market is still quiet and somewhat weaker. This is due to the fact that the market is well supplied. Dealers, however, are not anxious to push sales, owing to the fact that growers and operators in the western bean districts are reported as pretty well cleaned up. The ruling price is $1.65 per bushel on track, and $1.70 in a jobbing way.

Choice prime beans	1 70	1 75
Lower grades	1 60	1 65

Evaporated Apples—The market continues firm at $10.25 to $10.50, with but a limited demand. These high prices have considerably restricted buying on part of the jobbing trade, despite the fact that evaporators are very firm in their demands and convinced that higher prices should be obtained. Stocks are reported small, and this has a tendency to confirm holders in their strong demand. We quote:

Winter varieties	0 09½	0 10½

Maple Products—Business in maple products, during the week, has been dull. Very few sales were made, and these only for fancy stock. Blenders seem to be well supplied for all requirements, and are not looking around or keen to buy, owing to the proximity of the new crop. We quote:

Maple syrup, in wood, per lb	0 05½	0 06
" in large tins	0 06½	0 07
Pure Townships sugar, per lb	0 07	0 07½
Pure Beauce County, per lb	0 08½	0 09

Fish—The demand for fish of all kinds is improving, the harder weather for the past few days having stimulated the demand, and the trade look for improved business. Stocks of the different varieties, with the exception of large frozen herring and tom cods, are ample for present requirements. There is, however, no over-stock. As soon as the tom cods return from the spawning beds, which will be shortly, it is expected that stocks will be plentiful and prices easier. In western fish, the demand for dore, white fish and trout is about as usual at this season of the year. The same applies to salmon and halibut. The quality of these fish is excellent and they are ready sellers. Good salt herring and green cod are scarce, and dealers look for higher prices as Lent approaches. In prepared and smoked fish there is only the usual demand. Shell oysters are practically out of the market, with bulk in fair demand. We quote:

Ontario Markets.

GROCERIES.

Toronto, Feb. 2, 1906.

The general conditions of trade have been disappointing; trade has been moving with more or less uncertainty; some lines, such as canned goods and staples have shown a measure of activity, but generally speaking, business has been dull. Sugar has shown a further decline of 10c., and is still weak. Dried fruits are holding very firm, but demand is slow and no change reported, but there is every possibility of one. In other lines no feature of interest is reported.

Canned Goods—Reports since our last review denote good trade in these lines. It is evident that retailers are inclined to buy on more moderate lines than formerly, thus keeping steady buyers on the market. The heavy trade at the holiday time seems to have been fully warranted, and buyers are now coming into the market for re-stocking.

Sugar—The important feature which we have to report is the decline of 10c. per 100 lbs. on all sugars, since our last issue. It is difficult to give a reason for this drop. The market has had a weak tendency for some time, and no confidence has been felt; at the present time buyers are slow movers. The foreign markets continue uncertain, with a little stronger forward tendency. Willett and Gray's latest report speaking of raw sugars, says: The future course of the market will depend to a considerable extent upon the offerings from non-privileged cane producing countries. Based on the actual consumption of 2,632,216 tons in the United States last year, plus the average increase for a series of years, nearly 5 per cent., we may expect the consumption in 1906 to amount to, say 2,745,295 tons, against which the estimated crop of Louisiana, Texas, domestic beet, Porto Rico, Hawaii, Philippine and Cuba, less local consumption in the islands, should give supplies of privileged sugars amounting to 2,522,000 tons, leaving only 223,295 tons to come from non-privileged countries, plus any fall short in crops, and plus any part of the Philippine crop of 125,000 tons, which may go to China, Japan, or other outside markets. Last year 438,383 tons were required from non-privileged countries. European beet sugars are not likely to come here in quantity, the competition to supply this small deficiency will be between such cane-producing countries as West Indies, Brazil, Peru and Java. It is probable that Java, with its cheap labor, can compete with Cuba more successfully than other countries.

In refined sugars throughout the week the market has been dull, with a perceptible falling off in demand. The American and Howell advanced their list prices for all soft grades 10 points and Confectioners' A 5 points, leaving granulated and other hards unchanged. These refiners, however, are shading their list 10 points to basis of granulated at 4.50c. less 1 per cent. cash.

Arbuckle Bros. reduced their list to their prompt shipment selling prices, basis of granulated at 4.50c. less 1 per cent., and are not offering to give 30 days' privileges.

Federal still quote granulated at 4.40c. less 1 per cent. cash for prompt shipment and are receiving the greater portion of the new orders coming in.

The unseasonably warm weather recently experienced in the United States, causing buds to start in many localities, followed by heavy frost, will result in some damage to fruit crops, the extent of which it is yet too early to estimate.

The tendency is for refined to follow the course of raws, slowly.

Tea—Local trade has been particularly slow and uninteresting since our last report. Demand has been very half-hearted and buyers have a tendency to hold off. Latest foreign reports denote rather a weakening in prices. Recent sales in London were heavy, with offerings, in consequence of which, only the better grades were considered. In Indians the quantity on offer was rather too large for the trade to adequately deal with, and the tone was in consequence easier for nearly all grades. Medium leaf teas held their ground fairly well, a slight improvement in quality being sufficient to keep rates steady, but where this was not apparent, bids were sometimes only within 1-2d per pound of previous quotations. Brokens throughout sold slowly, the best liquoring of each class alone meeting with active support, and a good many parcels of ordinary character were withdrawn between 5d and 8d per pound. The best tippy kinds, however, made satisfactory prices, the proportion on offer being small.

In Ceylons the sales were the heaviest put forward in any one week since last August, and rates throughout showed a distinctly easier tendency. An actual decline is difficult to quote, owing to the variable and largely inferior character of invoices, but broken pekoes between 6d and 9d frequently dropped 1-2d per pound, while the prices of both common and fine kinds were marked by considerable irregularity. In comparison, leaf teas were steady, and only where quality showed a falling off were sellers obliged to accept lower rates in order to meet the market. For good liquoring descriptions demand was strong at an occasional advance. Withdrawals were more than usual. Under 5d there was no animation and the presence of some quantity of second-hand low priced tea did not tend to improve quotations. A feature of the auction was the active inquiry for medium dusts and fannings which were more difficult to buy.

Coffee—Local trade has been dull and uninteresting, but is considered by dealers as mainly due to too heavy buying at earlier dates. Willett and Gray in their most recent report, give some instructive notes of the general situation. They say:—

The trade is very properly giving closer attention to the merits of the actual position. It is this that will influence the course of the market more than anything else, and beyond doubt there is a substantial decrease in the world's visible for January.

The receipts for this month, especially in Rio, have been very light, and it must be surmised they have been retarded by some such causes as a break in the railroad or inclement weather, for otherwise, were the receipts to be taken to indicate the true state of the Rio crop the market would be entitled to a very smart advance, considering that a year ago the future was discounted on promises of a Rio crop 4 1-2 to 5 millions! The continued heavy discrepancies in Brazilian predictions of the future crops, either too large or too small, must convince the coffee world that to attempt to discount in January the coming Brazil crop is a totally unsound speculation for merchants to enter into. It is always safer to go by the facts of the actual situation as nine out of ten Brazil crop predictions have been wrong.

Current statistics show continued large consumption, far beyond production. This is so pronounced that it is already apparent the world's large consumption, in the face of diminishing supplies from the mild crops, would require a very large Brazil crop to obviate a further decrease of supplies next season. But such a crop in Brazil is by no means to be taken for granted, judging by the past three crops. Early estimates tried to guess the product on the trees, but the harvesting, year after year, proved the actual results were almost one-third less than predicted.

The total American visible supply of all kinds, made up to-day, is 270,000 bags less than the same date a year ago.

Foreign Dried Fruits—Trade has made little or no improvement since our last issue. Reports from primal markets all report continued firmness. In Valencias this is particularly marked, stocks being short. Shelled almonds are also very high on primal markets, and any well sized fruit is readily sold. Currants are also well maintained, and in view of the bank arrangements, are not likely to show any weakening. Nuts are uninteresting, the great season for nuts having now passed.

Hides—The market has a still further downward tendency, but except in country hides no quotable change is apparent. The conditions are still those of uncertainty, and little confidence is expressed by dealers. Arrivals are still in fair quantity, but no more than demand requires. Mink, red fox, cross fox, muskrat and wolf remain the same; and racoon, lynx, skunk and marten are a trifle firmer, while bear and weasel are down 10 per cent. Trading brisker as a result.

N. B. Markets.

St. John, Jan. 30, 1906.

We are having most unseasonable weather; not only have we no snow, but the weather has been extremely mild. This affects all lines of business, particularly those relating to the Winter season. In business in general it is very quiet. The wholesale grocery trade is always light during January; it is by far the quietest month of the year. Last year we had too much snow, and it was more than usually quiet, as was February. This year the very open weather has very largely the same effect. Lumbermen and farmers both need snow. In markets there is naturally little of interest. Pork products continue extreme. The situation is one which ought not to be. Certainly Canada can grow pigs. Then why the present situation and the present outlook? Rice is, perhaps, not as firm, though still above the average price for some few years. Hops are unchanged. Cream of tartar is quite low, being well below the average. In spice, ginger is higher; pepper hardly as firm; cloves still high, while nutmegs continue low.

Oil.

The season of best demand for burning oil is over, but sales are still large. Prices are unchanged; they continue low. Linseed oil has been a surprise; present prices are high; considerable Spring business has been booked. Turpentine is still very high. Lubricating oils are being pushed at this season. Cod oil is held firm at full figures.

Salt.

In Liverpool coarse salt stocks not large; demand light; prices firm. Small lots are landing regularly, and there is quite an advantage buying ex ship's side. In fine salt, sales at this time not active.

Canned Goods.

While it is thought that corn and tomatoes are good stock, low prices are still quoted. Peas keep very low; sales at present not large. Gallon apples have improved sale. They are cheap when compared with green and evaporated apples. There is a fair stock of lobsters, but the high price means light business. Salmon plenty. Meats rule low. Oysters firmer. This is not a large line here. In domestic sardines fair stocks held. Haddies and kippers are in limited supply.

Green Fruits.

Apples move slowly. For best stock good prices obtained, but there are too many poor apples. Even some western stock, costing high, is turning out badly. Oranges tend rather easier. Valencias chiefly sold. Lemons also lower. Bananas more plenty this week, a fruit steamer arriving from Jamaica. Cranberries extremely high.

Dried Fruits.

There is a better demand than usual at this season for Valencias. Prices are low. Muscatels sell slowly. Malagas chiefly held. They cost lower than even the present figure on Californias. In seeded the sale has been unsatisfactory, owing to the high price. Dealers all have some stock, on which, because of the decline, they must make a loss. It will be some time before the low priced goods are on the market. The market is already again firmer. Small prunes scarce and higher. Apricots and peaches held at full figures. Currants are firm; a steady sale for package goods. Dates, while costing higher are still low. Evaporated apples are high; sale is light. Dried have a fair demand. Onions show little change; no large sale.

Sugar.

Prices are still at the low figure quoted last week. There is a fair sale. Some Scotch granulated continues to be received; it is quoted below Canadian prices.

Molasses.

New Barbadoes here; fancy grades. The question is: Is it syrup or molasses? Generally the trade feel it is molasses, and entitled to the low duty. Some, fearing the competition with Porto Rico molasses, favor the syrup idea. The decision of the customs is awaited with interest.

Fish.

There is a good sale for frozen cod and pollock, and fair supply. Frozen herring in demand but supply light. It is said there is a good catch of fish, but American buyers at the islands pay big prices and get the goods. Dry fish, while high, hardly as firm. Pickled herring scarce and high. Smoked hold firm. Prepared smoked fish are selling quite freely.

N. S. Markets.

Halifax, January 30, 1906.

The grocery markets are in a healthy condition and collections are good. The market is well supplied with all seasonable fruits. Malaga grapes are still on the market, and find a good sale. Some dealers are selling them at retail for 15 cents, while others quote them at 20. The quality is pretty much the same, and it seems rather difficult to understand how there is any money in them at the first mentioned price. Jamaica oranges are in good supply and the demand is good. The stock is first-class, and they are selling at retail for 25 cents per dozen, which price is considered very reasonable. They are quoted at $5 per barrel repacked.

Fruits.

The demand for apples is rather light, the high price keeping the consumer from buying. Baldwins, Spys and Golden Russets are quoted at $3.50 per barrel. The fruit is marked No. 1, but it is below the average. Many of the commission houses have large stocks on hand and some of the jobbers have been forced to send the cullage to the auction rooms. It is stated that there are large holdings of Nonpareils in some of the storehouses in the Valley, but they will not likely be placed on this market before next month. Other varieties have been pretty well cleaned up.

Vegetables.

There is a good supply of vegetables on the market. Potatoes are a little firmer, as the vessels at the wharves have been closed for the Winter. Prince Edward Island Calicoes are now quoted at 38 and 40 cents per bushel, and New Brunswick at $1.50 per bag. Turnips are 90 cents per bag of 150 pounds, carrots $1.25 per bag, beets $1.50, parsnips $1.75. Cabbage is becoming a little scarce, and is now selling from 50 to 60 cents per dozen.

Produce.

The receipts of eggs and butter are improving slightly and the market is a little easier. There has been a drop in the price of case eggs, they being now quoted at 21 cents. Nearly all the case eggs on the market are from Prince Edward Island. The price of butter is still about the same. Prints are quoted at 25 to 26, small tubs the same, solids at 25, and rolls at 23. Cheese keeps very firm, and the tendency now is that it will advance still higher. The price quoted here is 13½ for large and 14 for small. The market is almost bare of fresh killed poultry. Dealers say that good stock cannot be procured at any price. There is a lot of poultry in cold storage here, but the price is high and the dealers do not care about handling it.

WINDOW AND INTERIOR DISPLAYS

A FORT WILLIAM STORE.

The rapidity with which Canada is growing is fully exemplified in the advance made in the grocery trade. The small, untidy, indifferent looking store is fast giving place to the up-to-date store of to-day. Prominent among those towns which have gone ahead are the sister towns of Fort William and Port Arthur, conveniently situated at the head of the great lakes, and thus with undoubted opportunity.

Our illustration this week is of the interior of one of the older stores of the former town, and we are indebted to Mr. W. F. Hogarth for its production, who sent us the photo. This store is 27 by 25 feet and is lighted by electricity. It is fitted up with most of the modern improvements for the economy of labor and utility of display, and is altogether a sample of a modern, progressive store.

Interior of the store of W. F. Hogarth, Fort William.

The excellent arrangement of shelving for crockery stands prominently out immediately the customer enters, and at the same time is sufficiently back not to appear awkward. Crockery has become such an important feature in the grocery store that ample provision for this department is an absolute necessity.

The double showcase on the right is also an excellent idea, and provides a secure show for finer class goods, one, say, for confectionery and one for tobacco.

No room appears to be wasted in this illustration. Towards the rear of the store stands are provided for the handy and convenient display of more frequent goods.

Mr. Hogarth has been in the business for upwards of twelve years, and is now the possessor of a well established, substantial patronage. At the rear of the store is a 40x25-foot storeroom for reserve stock, a room absolutely necessary for the proper conducting of a good business.

WINDOW ADVERTISING.

Try to dress the window in a style entirely different from that of every window display in the vicinity. If the grocers round about think that breakfast foods or crackers are the very nicest things to show, do not follow meekly in their tracks. If the others show pyramids, you show horizontal designs; if they display a flat arrangement of goods you make your display perpendicular. If you have tried Autumn leaves and Autumn vines and flowers for a while, go suddenly to the other extreme and show a bare window as regards all trimmings and decorations, for it is necessary to avoid slavish copying of one's own successes as well as the successes of neighbors. Originality is the most necessary quality in advertising, and especially the window-dressing branch

MAKING THE GROCERY ATTRACTIVE.

There is a last word and it involves a strictly modern idea—good fixtures.

A grocery equipped with modern store fixtures is a store whose arrangement is a constant source of satisfaction to the dealer, his clerks and his trade.

The goods are well displayed and facilities are so convenient as to save time.

There is order and harmony combined with attractiveness throughout.

The store is clean and all food products are carefully preserved from contamination with dust and dirt.

This sanitary quality is so well appreciated that people are well content to pay a little more for their groceries in order to trade at the store whose goods always look well.

The story of there being no money in the grocery business is silly.

The real grocer who thinks with his head instead of his lungs knows better. He knows by running a modern store and with the quality policy added he can't help but make good.

THE SUNNY WINNIPEGGER.

Frank G. Carpenter in Minneapolis Tribune: I like these Winnipeggers. They are so pushing, strenuous, enthusiastic and happy. They claim their city has the best climate on earth, and they would not exchange the biting winds of the prairie for the kissing zephyrs of New York, Boston or Washington. They prepare for the season. Just now every Winnipegger who can afford it has on a grey overcoat made of coon skins. The fur is long, and it stands out like the bristles of a hot hog. This doubles the size of the wearer. It makes him look at least a foot broader, and, as it is long, at least six inches taller. He adds to his height by a fur cap, which can be pulled down over his ears. This makes him still bigger. Indeed, the town just now is peopled with furry giants, who are breathing out smoke, for the frost congeals the air from their nostrils, so that it rises like the vapor of an incipient volcano. The women here also dress in furs. Their cheeks are blushing under Jack Frost's amorous kisses, and the ozone of the atmosphere paints their eyes bright. They look too sweet to be the wives and daughters of the giants beside them, but we doubt not the fact when they open their mouths and begin to talk about Great Winnipeg.

VISITING WINNIPEG.

J. Meredith McKim, who has during the last eight years been manager of the London (Eng.) office of the Maclean Publishing Company, is in Winnipeg this week visiting the local office of the company, and getting in touch with trade conditions in the metropolis of Western Canada. He will be in Winnipeg for several days.—Winnipeg Telegram.

One morning remarked to his granny,
"A canner can can
Anything that he can,
But a canner can't can a can, can he?"

POSSIBILITIES OF A GREAT INDUSTRY.

The oyster industry of the Maritime Provinces is capable of being developed beyond any other branch of the fisheries. With laws which would permit the enlistment of capital, the present paltry production of less than $200,000 annually would, in five years, increase into millions.

In the bays which indent the coast line of the three provinces along the Strait of Northumberland and the Gulf of St. Lawrence, is a vast area of the finest oyster producing bottoms in the world. From the extreme north of New Brunswick down the coast to the most easterly point in Cape Breton, as well as in the great bays which bisect Prince Edward Island, oyster producing territory abounds, as well as in many of the estuaries in other parts of the province. Here Nature produces unaided an oyster which excels in flavor and commands the highest market price.

When the writer was in New York last winter it came to his notice that the Waldorf-Astoria, the finest hotel on the continent, was importing the famous Malpeques at a cost of $22 a barrel. When it is remembered that New York is the centre of the oyster industry of the United States, where the celebrated Blue Points can be had for seven or eight dollars per barrel, it will be seen that the Canadian oyster must have very superior qualities.

In the year 1903, the last for which official figures are at hand, the total quantity of oysters produced in the Maritime Provinces was 96,571 bushels of a value of $160,785. Of these the greater quantity, 54,999 bushels, value $91,665, were produced in Prince Edward Island, the production in the other provinces being : New Brunswick, 37,410 bushels, value $62,350 ; and Nova Scotia, 4,062 bushels, value $6,770. As showing the wide distribution and great extent of the natural oyster beds the quantity in barrels gathered in 1903 in the several localities is of interest.

The production in Nova Scotia at the several places was as follows : River Dennis 260 barrels, Little Narrows 43 bbls., Baddeck Bay 6 bbls., East Bay 8 bbls., Tracadie 108 bbls., Tatamagouche 200 bbls., Malagash 619 bbls. In New Brunswick there were produced at Caraquet 650 bbls., Shippegan 100 bbls., Miscou 60 bbls., Neguac 1,250 bbls., Bay du Vin 3,008 bbls., Chatham .1,200 bbls., Richibucto 860 bbls., Buctouche 2,200 bbls., Cocagne 6,000 bbls., Shediac 1,500 bbls., Botsford 2,000 bbls., Sackville district 1,000 bbls., total 12,470 bbls. In Prince Edward Island in the same year were produced at Narrows 1,800 bbls., at Grand River 950 bbls., Richmond Bay 2,800 bbls., Summerside 250 bbls., Travelers' Rest 3,150 bbls., Carleton 200 bbls., Malpeque 2,250 bbls., Brae 298 bbls., Bedeque 910 bbls., Lots 5 and 6 340 bbls., Wellington 400 bbls., Tracadie 3,025 bbls., New London 100 bbls., Point Prim 350 bbls., Wheatley River 150 bbls., Lot 65 1,150 bbls., Bay Fortune 10 bbls., total 18,333 bbls.

That the yield should be as great as the above, shows what a foundation exists for the creation of a vast industry.

It must be remembered that the above oysters were produced by nature unaided by cultivation, and absolutely without outlay by capitalists. It should also be remembered that the natural oyster is as inferior to the cultivated in like waters, as the wilderness apple is to the products of the well cared for orchard, and that the yield of oyster bottoms can be increased by culture in the same manner that the straggling native apple trees of the valley have been supplemented by almost continuous orchards with their large annual production. In the State of New York there are few natural oyster beds, the product being almost entirely the result of planting and cultivation. Yet last year the waters of New York State—which perhaps, do not exceed in extent the available grounds in P. E. I.—produced seven million dollars' worth of oysters.

It is not an exaggeration to say that, given the necessary capital and the necessary legislation, in 30 years' time the oyster industry of the Maritime Provinces would be as extensive and as valuable as the codfishery. This is the one industry in which there is no uncertainty as to a market. Canada imports annually over a quarter of a million dollars' worth of bulk oysters from the United States. With the rapid increase in population, the home requirements must steadily enlarge. The English market is open for an unlimited export trade.

Oyster planting is the placing of small or "seed" oysters upon bottoms which are favorable to their growth. Planting adds greatly to the value of the oysters as they grow more rapidly, and are of better quality when thus scattered, than they are upon the natural beds. In a recent experiment, $13 worth of small oysters yielded, after they had been planted two years, oysters which were sold for $114. Oyster culture consists of the cleaning of water areas, and distributing over them large quantities of old oyster shells which catch the "spat" floating in the water from the natural beds and propagate and grow upon the old shells. At the present time no old shells are laid down and the greater part of the "spat," having nothing of a suitable nature to attach to, floats into the ocean and never becomes productive.

In talking this matter over not long since with a leading citizen of Summerside, Prince Edward Island, he said : "If the Provincial Government will give me the exclusive right to the oyster beds of Bedeque Bay, I will form a company to cultivate them, and will pay annually for the privilege a sum equal to the total revenue of the province." Until the local legislatures of the several provinces take action and pass measures under which property rights may be acquired in lands under water, the oyster industry will be prosecuted in the present desultory, ineffective and ruinous manner.

"Do you keep fresh eggs ?"

"Yes sir."

"Well, you'd better keep these and sell the fresh ones."

PERSONAL NOTES.

Mr. H. P. Eckardt left Toronto on Thursday on a trip to the Mediterranean. Mr. Eckardt is accompanied by his family and expects to be away till May.

J. E. Linihan, of Buffalo, N.Y., president of Egg-o-see Cereal Company, was in Toronto last week visiting the trade in company with Mr. B. H. Blakeslee, Canadian manager. Mr. Linihan expressed himself as being very much pleased with the outlook in Canada.

Mr. W. P. Downey, Montreal, left Montreal Thursday, February 1, for Europe, sailing via Halifax Monday per steamship Parisian to Liverpool. Mr. Downey, who represents a number of prominent English manufacturers of grocers' and confectioners' specialties, will visit Liverpool, Gloucester, Bristol, also Paris and Nice, France.

TRADE CONDITIONS IN KENTVILLE

This has been a queer Winter. We had four weeks good sleighing in December and only four inches of snow. Merchants, however, all report a good trade. This month has been, as you know, too much Summer and I am afraid bad for future hay and fruit crops. To-day the ground is bare of snow, while a year ago there was so much snow that we had neither trains nor mails.

Many of the Boards of Trade hold their annual meetings this month. Our local board is still alive and Mr. Creed, the secretary of the Maritime Board of Trade, is doing good work for that organization and is as active as ever.

Business in the town is rather quiet just now on account of local causes, but the outlook for the future is all right. In the Valley times are good and everything is in good shape.

M. G. De W.

HE KNEW ONE THING.

They call him "Barney the Blunderer" because he made so many mistakes. He had been working for a coal dealer about six months, and was an earnest, honest soul, but he did not seem to learn anything concerning the details of the business.

One morning, after having delivered coal to two wrong addresses, he was rather short and crusty in answering a regular customer, so the proprietor discharged him, saying "Go to the office and get your money. I've been as patient with you as I could be, but you are too thick-headed to ever learn anything."

"All roight, sir," answered Barney. Mebbe Oi'm t'ick-headed, as yez say, but Oi've learned wan t'ing, annaway."

"If you have really learned one thing, and learned it well, I'll not discharge you," said the proprietor banteringly. "Now tell me what you have learned."

"Oi've learned, sor, that siventeen hundred makes a ton in this place," replied Barney, and he went back to work.

FATE OF A FAMOUS MILL.

The famous old mill at Corfe Mullen, near Dorchester, England, which is mentioned in the Domesday Book, and has probably been worked ever since, has ground its last sack of flour. In future it is to be used for pumping water through the mains which supply Poole.

THE GREAT WEST

WESTERN ASSOCIATION NEWS

"The Canadian Grocer" the Official Organ.

Address all communications for this department to THE CANADIAN GROCER, 511 Union Bank Building, Winnipeg, Man.

General interest is being manifested by dealers throughout the country in the approaching annual meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada. It is now almost a year since the association was formed in the Trades and Labor Hall, Winnipeg, almost in fear and trembling, and perhaps not the most sanguine merchant present at those first meetings really expected that the next annual meeting would show the substantial progress which has been made during the year. Practically the entire trade of Manitoba outside of Winnipeg and Brandon has been enlisted, and a secure footing has been gained in the two new provinces. Undoubtedly the membership list is larger than was expected one year ago.

But the work has not been confined merely to the enrolment of new members, although that is the necessary preliminary. The secretary has organized many portions of the west into separate association sections, each with its own officers, and separate arrangements as to handling of produce and prices of staple lines in which cutting had formerly been prevalent. In this way the various sections have been shown a method of helping themselves and settling their own difficulties in their own way.

A few unreasonable complaints have been received by The Canadian Grocer and by the secretary of the association from merchants who fail to realize the extent of territory which Mr. Coulson has had to cover. A merchant in Wellwood, Man., wrote Mr. Coulson recently, somewhat as follows:

Wellwood, Man., Jan. 10, 1906.

"Mr. W. A. Coulson, Winnipeg.

"Dear Sir,—Some time last August we paid you $5.00 for membership fee in the Retail Merchants' Association on the understanding that this district would be organized some time in the near future. So far there has been no move in that direction, although districts on all sides of us have been organized. We still believe in the organization as a move in the right direction and we would like to know when you are going to organize this district. If you have no intention of doing so we would like you to remit us our $5.00 at an early date. Why can't you organize this district before going west?

"Yours, etc."

Now The Canadian Grocer makes no pretensions to special knowledge of the particular circumstances of this case. It is a matter between Mr. Coulson and the complainant, but it might be well at this juncture to point out that there is a limit to what any one man can do. Mr. Coulson has messages from dealers in all parts of the west, and he cannot possibly respond to all the Macedonian calls for help. Sections have been organized in places where the dealers were most ready and willing to render assistance. The secretary is doing the work of three or four men and it is inevitable that some places should be apparently overlooked. Immediately after the annual meeting the parts of Manitoba yet unorganized will be visited by the secretary in order to put them in line to handle the Spring produce to advantage.

The association has also grappled courageously, and in most places with an encouraging measure of success, with the long credit problem. It would not be correct to say that in all places the recommendations of the association respecting the closing of all accounts on Nov. 1 and the absolute refusal of credit until April 1, have been carried out in their entirety; but it is undoubtedly the case that in the majority of towns and villages where the merchants have been organized, a marked improvement has been already experienced. The best possible proof of this has been furnished Mr. Coulson by the merchants in a number of Manitoba towns. Complaints had been received that they were not keeping their agreement. Their answer was to submit their books for inspection by the secretary. Surely no stronger proof could be desired.

NEW YORK GROCERS' OUTING.

Frank W. Meyer, president New York Retail Grocers' Association, was among the many delegates at the National Retail Grocers' Association at Niagara Falls last week. For some years past Mr. Meyer's association has made an annual trip to Canada, their trip to Ottawa two years ago being a notable one. Mr. Meyer informed the representative of The Grocer that he had just completed arrangements for their trip in 1906, which will include a visit to Toronto and the Ontario highlands.

Manitoba Markets

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 25 a.m. Thursday, February 1, 1906.)

General grocery business is quiet this week and values show little change. Continued mild weather has had an effect on business the reverse of beneficial, and the movement of goods is very light. Sugar dropped last week 10c. for all grades and all points, but the change came on Friday, too late for publication. Some lines of starch have been advanced and details will be found below.

PRODUCE AND PROVISIONS

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

The elections in Great Britain certainly interfered with the business in cheese. There is still a total absence of orders, but the situation this year is so very strong that there is no weakness in the market in spite of this lack of demand at present. We have still three months of non-production ahead of us and it is calculated that there is hardly more than about 30,000 boxes of cheese unsold in Canada; any new demand coming on would very quickly absorb this. Of course there are probably about 200,000 boxes still here, or say about 170,000 boxes sold, but not shipped out; but even this quantity is a mere trifle for the regular consumption in the U. K., especially when the light stocks in first hands in Great Britain, and the light holdings of retailers there are taken into due consideration. Supplies are certainly short, prices are high and this may curtail the consumption to a considerable extent, but consumption needs to be curtailed or there will be a famine. There is certainly a limit to a rise in prices of any article of food, as other goods may take its place, if cheaper and, therefore, within easier purchasing power of the great masses of consumers.

Meanwhile, the situation on cheese is a very strong one and it is not likely that the holders of the small available supplies will get nervous and part with their goods at a sacrifice.

Good work is being done at present at the different dairymen's conventions. The twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Province of Quebec Dairy Association was held at St. Lin, Que., a few days ago and proved decidedly successful.

One of the most important matters brought before the meeting was the restriction of small, unsanitary factories run by incompetent men. The consensus of opinion was that these factories injured the trade and retarded the progress of the industry. The farmers unanimously expressed the desire that steps should be taken by the Government to prevent the operation of factories by incompetent and inexperienced men. A resolution was adopted, recommending that the Government be petitioned to pass a law authorizing the incorporation of dairy produce factories and licensing cheese makers.

Mr. J. A. Ruddick, the Dominion Dairy Commissioner, gave an interesting account of his trip to Europe, and described the condition of the dairy industry in the various countries he visited. Canadian butter, he said, stood next in reputation in England to the Danish, which was considered as the highest standard. In some instances Canadian butter had sold as high as the Danish product. An interesting fact, which he had noticed, was that some countries, which used to compete with Canada in supplying butter to England, now had to import supplies themselves as a result of changed conditions. This left a larger market for Canadian goods, and Canadians should see that they got their full share of the extra business.

Mr. Ruddick also called attention to the fact that improvement in the butter trade meant improvement in the cheese trade as well. It had been proved that when prices for butter were high, there was less cheese made than usual. This had the effect of strengthening the cheese market and bringing higher prices to the farmers.

Next week an interesting convention is to be held at Cowansville. This district is getting more and more a butter centre, and pastures are fine, and the farmers are undoubtedly progressive, and, as hogs are sorely needed to build up our Canadian provision trade, it is easier to raise them in a butter producing section, and the Eastern Townships are handy to the Montreal market. The once famous Eastern Townships cheese may give way to the more famous Eastern Townships creamery butter, and the district may at the same time supply the much needed Canadian hog.

THE PROVISION SITUATION.

There has been very little development in the provision situation since our last report. Trade has been anything but satisfactory; demand has not been by any means excessive.

The class of hogs coming to hand is considered most unsatisfactory, and do not warrant the high prices now ruling. It is clearly evident that the pork packing industries are in a somewhat awkward fix at the present juncture. Trade will naturally recover itself very shortly and what will be the result is easy to see. With the export trade good and the large packing houses using all they can control to keep that market supplied, the home trade will have to suffer considerably.

There is a dark prospect before the packing industries, unless some radical change takes place promptly. Already the output is seriously curtailed, besides which the present cost of hogs practically precludes any development of export trade. The market in England has already reached a point for Canadian bacon which removes it from popular demand. The farmers' side of the question, important as it no doubt is, has practically blinded the eyes of the Government to the great and important issues as stated on the commercial side of the question.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

By Our Own Correspond-nt.

January 20, 1906.

Butter. The past week has been a very unsatisfactory week in every respect. The market has developed from a very weak to a positively stagnant one, and holders are endeavoring to effect sales at considerably reduced prices. In spite of this concession, however, buyers are apparently convinced that importers can still be forced down to lower offers, and are therefore disinclined to accept at the present quotation. The demand having thus collapsed, sellers are finding themselves hampered by considerable stocks, of which they would be glad to dispose if they could. Apart from this question of price, the general elections have adversely affected the trade by keeping many members from the butter markets.

Under these circumstances, it is not surprising to find that Australian choicest has gone down 3 shillings this week, finest 2 shillings, New Zealand choicest 3 shillings, finest 2 shillings. The Danish committee has lowered the Copenhagen quotation by a further six kroner.

Cheese.—The features of the market for cheese during the past few days have been very much the same as at the time of our last report. One or two sellers have shown an inclination to accept one shilling less, but on the whole they are holding out in the confident expectation that the demand will wake up somewhat before long. Inquiry amongst the retail trade, however, seems to show that that branch of the business have sufficient stocks on hand, although they certainly have been buying very cautiously of late, to keep them going for a week or ten days to come. It is clear that they object to the high prices now ruling—11s. per cwt. dearer than at this time last year—and it remains to be seen whether they or the importers will be forced to give way.

The demand for Canadian cheese has been very slow, owing, it is said, to the fact that large supplies were purchased early in January. To-day (January 20) choicest Canadian is realizing 64 and 65 shillings, choice 62 and 63 shillings.

Bacon. In the matter of price, this market continues on a firm basis, supplies still being exceedingly short. In the middle of the week Canadian peafed bacon went up in price 4 shillings all round, bringing it to 62 shillings. It is noticeable, however, that the demand is growing weaker as time goes on, owing to the fact that the consumptive demand is not at all good, a fact which buyers do not altogether regret, as bacon is affording but little profit to them. The consumer, too, is being asked a very tall price. Both Irish and continental killings have been small, and this fact has led sellers to believe that they can force prices still higher. It is difficult to believe, however, that such a policy will be a success.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

MONTREAL.

Provisions.

The provision market shows a firmer tone this week. Owing to the continued and increasing scarcity of live hogs packers have been forced to advance their prices. Dressed hogs, fresh abattoir killed, are quoted at $10 to $10.25 per 100 lbs., while country dressed are $8.75 to $9.50. Hams have been advanced ¼c. to ½c. per lb. and lard is also firmer. Poultry is selling moderately well and though the weather is soft there is little complaint of damaged stock.

Butter.

Butter market though dull is steady, owing to the renewed spell of mild weather. Business is quiet, as is usually the case, and dealers do not look for any marked improvement for some weeks. Holders are not disposed to sell freely in consequence. Stocks are fairly good and equal to local requirements. In the export way trade is dull and some exporters are offering local dealers.

Cheese.

The cheese market shows no change. Firmness is the underlying tone of the market. Exporters are looking forward to renewal of foreign demand, but owing to the weak condition of the United Kingdom market prospects for an early improvement are not bright. Quotations are still around 13 to 13¼c.

Eggs.

The mild weather has produced a good supply of eggs and a consequently easier market. Stocks generally appear to be larger than was at first estimated. Prices this week are around :

TORONTO.

Provisions.

Since our last report there is little change to note in the prevailing conditions. Arrivals are still slow to hand, and quality not over fine. Actual trade done seems to be of limited volume, although demand has an active tendency. There has been an advancing tendency on afl readily selling lines, and quotations are revised accordingly. Hogs are difficult to procure and continue firm at quotations.

Cheese.

The cheese situation continues an exceedingly strong one. In country points makings are practically for local consumption, very little finding its way into the open market. With storage stocks held by large dealers, and foreign markets reporting holdings as below previous estimates, there appears every prospect of continued strength.

The warm weather has materially stimulated production. Demand continues good for new laid, with a falling off in storage and pickled, stocks of which are showing depletion.

Prices for first-class creamery butter are very firm, but there is little demand for the poorer qualities. The really fancy article is commanding a good price. We quote prices to the retail trade as follows :

In barrel pork, market is very firm, but sales are light. Beef shows a range in price; it is quite freely offered, but there is little demand. Smoked meats are very firm at full figures. Canadian pure lard about out of the market; it is not to be had; American supplies the market; price keeps high. Refined lard, while showing a small advance, is still low, and has a good sale. In meats, beef continues low; business is dull. Lamb and mutton quite firm. Veal is little seen; when offered it brings a good price. Pork is still high. We quote

THE WORLD'S EGG SUPPLY.

The Irish egg trade of the past season has been a very satisfactory one. The quality has been exceptionally good, and high prices have ruled throughout.

Danish eggs also experienced a good demand, and shipments were cleared promptly each week at remunerative prices for the shippers in Denmark.

As far as the Canadian egg business is concerned, owing to the high prices ruling in the Spring, fewer pickles were put away, and prices for fresh eggs were kept up throughout the year. The demand has been exceptionally good, and no surplus stocks were left over from week to week. The quality has been the best experienced for some years back.

The past season in Russian eggs will generally be looked upon as an exceptionally unsatisfactory one, as doubtless exporters as well as importers have in many cases deficits to show on the season's transactions. Owing to the great heat in Russia last year the quality of the eggs deteriorated considerably. The reaction in the business was hastened on by the strike of the dock and railway men in August. Numerous complaints of bad quality and the apprehension of further disturbances brought about a complete slump in the demand. In the autumn trade dragged on very unsatisfactorily and unprofitably until the end of September, when the quickly diminishing supplies of Russia caused several advances to follow in quick succession in the London market. Finally the great scarcity of grain, owing to the bad harvest, has to be taken into consideration, as real corn eggs were practically never on the market.

OUR BUTTER EXPORT.

Canada's trade agent in Manchester states that the exports of butter from Montreal for the season just closed amounted to 573,449 packages, being an increase of 83,449 packages over 1904 and 235,172 over 1903. Good prices were realized right through the season, the average advance over the year previous being twelve to fourteen shillings per cwt. A much better market for Canadian creamery butter has existed this year than ever before. The quality has been satisfactory, and at no time in the season has there been so much butter stored as in former seasons. Some creameries are still shipping butter of lower grade than ought to be the case.

BUSINESS AND ASSOCIATION MEETINGS

The Editor will be glad to receive reports and notices of any business meetings of interest to the readers of THE GROCER— short, gossipy and instructive.

NORTH SYDNEY.

At the annual meeting of the Board of Trade the following officers were elected for the ensuing year : President, Hon. J. N. Armstrong ; vice-president, E. J. McCollough ; secretary-treasurer, J. W. Mann. Members of the executive—J. P. Brennan, Robert Musgrave, J. W. Ingraham, F. L. Kelly, J. C. Robertson, C. W. Lovett, J. J. Dooley.

A vote of thanks was passed to the retiring officers and executive, special reference being made to John Vooght, who has been seriously ill in England. On motion of F. L. Kelly a resolution was passed similar to that of the Halifax board asking for a Government bonus for steel shipbuilding.

PETROLIA.

The Petrolia branch of the Retail Merchants' Association held its first annual meeting in the council chamber on Wednesday, January 17. President Geo. Primmer was in the chair. After reading minutes of last regular meeting, which were adopted, the secretary read several communications, which on motion were ordered received and filed.

It was then moved by Mr. G. S. Pitkin, seconded by Mr. A. McDermand, that the committee appointed at last regular meeting to interview the mayor re early closing by-law, be further empowered to wait on the new council relative to securing enforcement of the law. Carried. The committee is composed of Messrs. Mann, Snively and Ford.

The treasurer's report was read and adopted, and a general discussion then took place on the work done by the Dominion association during the past year.

The election of officers resulted as follows : President, Geo. Primmer ; first vice-president, H. Mann ; second vice-president, C. R. Polley ; treasurer, G. S. Pitkin ; secretary, R. S. Ford.

After appointing a committee to collect the fees from members, the meeting adjourned.

OTTAWA.

The annual meeting of the Ottawa Board of Trade was held on the 24th ult. in the Board of Trade rooms. Mr. Denis Murphy, the president, presided. The various annual reports were read and the election of officers for the ensuing year took place, and resulted in Mr. Denis Murphy, president ; Mr. J. W. Woods, first vice-president ; Mr. P. Whelen, second vice-president, and Mr. C. A. Douglas, treasurer, being re-elected by acclamation.

The reports were read and adopted.

There was considerable discussion over the report of the civic committee. This committee, of which Mr. J. R. Reid is chairman, in their report called attention to the lack in Ottawa's industrial development. The belief was freely expressed that if Ottawa made as much of an effort to get industries to locate here and offered equal inducements, the city would develop much more rapidly. Particular attention was desired to be called to this at the time when Mayor Ellis' proposal for a greater Ottawa was fresh in the public mind.

Several present disagreed with some of the views expressed in the report, contending that Ottawa could not get many industries no matter what inducements were offered. Mr. J. W. Woods stated that Ottawa was bound to become the Washington of the north in every respect, but it would never become an industrial centre. The fact of the Government being centred here and spending $60,000 each year in beautifying the city would raise the value of property for residential purposes, but at the same time prohibit the location of large industrial concerns. A mere monetary inducement or free sites or exemption from taxation would not attract large concerns, because Ottawa is not a city of artisans or cheap labor. Again, he argued that the great development of the west called the companies to locate more westward, as in most cases the goods manufactured would be to a great extent shipped to the Canadian west.

The report, with a very slight amendment, was adopted.

Before the meeting concluded the officers present who were elected by acclamation expressed their thanks for the honor again conferred upon them.

The meeting then adjourned.

SASKATOON.

The annual meeting of the Board of Trade, held on the 22nd ult. in Cairn's Hall, was marked by a strong determination on the part of the hundred members present to be equal to the large opportunities which are looming up before Saskatoon in 1906.

Considerable interest centred in the election of a president for the board. Mr. F. R. Oliver and Mr. W. A. Coulthard were the nominees : on the ballots being counted Mr. Oliver was declared elected by a majority of eight votes. F. E. Harrison was made vice-president, F. M. Brown secretary, A. E. Young treasurer.

The council were instructed to consider ways and means for a commissioner of the Board of Trade who should devote his entire time to the work of serving the town.

On a motion of W. A. Coulthard the board decided to ask the council for $2,000 for 1906 to be used in furthering the general interests of the town.

Criticism was made of the high freight rates charged by the C.P.R. on the Prince Albert line. Mr. Alex. St. Laurent on behalf of the company said that on through freight the C.P.R. gave a rate of 20 cents a hundred to the east coast whereas the C.N.R. charged 24 cents from Langham. He advised the board to interview Mr. Lanigan this week in regard to matters in general. A deputation was appointed in accordance with the suggestion.

WELLAND.

The following have been elected members of the Welland Board of Trade for this year : President, Geo. C. Brown ; vice-president, Geo. H. Burger ; secretary, John McCaw ; treasurer, J. S. O'Neal. Council—John Goodwin, W. H. Crowther, Geo. W. Sutherland, O. H. Garner, J. J. Sidey, C. H. Hanson, J. H. Crow and Mr. Duff.

BANQUET OF THE O. V. G. ASSOCIATION.

It was a festive company that gathered around the tables in the dining hall at Webb's last night. The annual banquet of the Toronto branch of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association was the lode stone which brought together the most representative gathering of the members in the history of the association.

George Syme, jr., president Toronto branch Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association, presided, while seated to the right were Hon. Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture ; Mr. Emery, president Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association ; George Syme, sr. ; Herman Simmers ; H. B. Cowan, secretary, and Tom Rennie.

To the right of the president were W. F. Maclean, M.P., Hon. J. W. St. John, Archie Campbell, M.P., and Joseph Rush.

Among the vegetable growers present were Thomas Delworth, W. Hamilton, W. Elford, Jas. Alford, R. Steel, T. Barton, J. G. Brown, Jos. Rush, jr., Jas. Allen, H. Hurrell, S. Leggatt, E. Seeley, W. Mosely, Mr. Lankin, W. Cruickshank, J. McKay, R. McKay, R. Summers, Robert Barker, G. Nicholson, W. H. Lucas, R. Reid, J. Hoskins, W. J. Jennings, A. Shuter, W. G. Carter, R. Punnett, J. C. Callicott, E. Mead, J. E. Guthrie, J. Williamson, and R. H. Guthrie.

Responding for the Dominion Parliament Mr. Maclean entered into a discussion of the relative merits of an ad valorem as compared with a specific duty with special reference to the wants of market gardeners. With a high protective duty to the south it was imperative that the industry be guarded in a moderate degree. The duty of the Government at Ottawa was to frame a duty to suit the changing conditions with respect to the arrival of fruits and vegetables. A sliding scale could be adopted which would meet all the exigencies of the case, while inflicting no loss upon the country.

Mr. Campbell opposed the imposition of specific duty on vegetables as inimical to the best interests of the country. The Government would afford some measure of relief at the approaching session.

"Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association," proposed by Frank Reeves, was responded to by H. B. Cowan, Mr. Emery and Thomas Delworth.

"Provincial Legislature," proposed by Mr. Hamilton, was responded to by Hon. Mr. Monteith and Hon. Mr. St. John.

Co-operation, declared the Minister of Agriculture, was the keynote of the situation. The association was one of the most successful offsprings of the new Government. The Minister made the important statement that the Government were considering and would shortly establish an experimental station in a more suitable location than Guelph.

Hon. Mr. St. John urged co-operation, and assured the association of every assistance in the power of the Government.

"Municipal Institutions" brought replies from Reeve George Syme and Councillor George Henry.

"Our Guests" was coupled with the names of Herman Simmers, Tom Rennie and Joseph Rush. The committee in charge were M. Hamilton, E. Elford, T. Delworth, George Syme, jr., and Frank Reeves.

N. B. WHOLESALE GROCERS' GUILD.

A meeting of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild of New Brunswick was held in the Board of Trade rooms, St. John. The matter of delegates to a meeting of the Dominion guild was left with a committee, and there was discussion of matters which might be brought before the Dominion guild. Other business of the meeting was private. Among those present were A. H. F. Randolph, of Fredericton, and J. F. Edgett and J. H. Harris, of Moncton.

White & Co., Limited, Toronto and Hamilton, wholesale fruit and produce importers and auctioneers, held their first annual meeting of shareholders at their offices, 64 Front East, Toronto, Jan. 25. The report presented covered a period of seven months, being the elapsed time since their incorporation, and was most gratifying to the shareholders. At a subsequent meeting of the directors Mr. James Langskill, Toronto, was elected president, Mr. George Acheson, Goderich, vice-president, and W. H. Despard, manager and secretary-treasurer.

The company have enjoyed a most successful season. Mr. Anderson, manager of the Hamilton branch, was also present at the meeting.

HOLBROOKS, LIMITED.

On January 5, after the annual conference of the representatives of Messrs. Holbrooks, Limited, the annual dinner of the managers, travelers, and clerical staff took place at the Acorn Hotel, Birmingham, England. The company numbered about seventy.

Mr. A. H. Thompson, managing director, presided, and Mr. Callard, director, also attended.

After the loyal toast a capital musical programme was gone through, most of the items being rendered in first-class style. In the humorous portion Mr. Sands evoked much merriment by the exceedingly funny manner in which he presented the characters represented.

Mr. Callard, in proposing the toast "The Travelers," extended a hearty welcome, and remarked how pleasant it was to meet them all at this festive season, coming as they did from every part of the country.

Mr. Bridgens responded, and in a humorous speech showed that although a traveler's life might not be all sunshine and smiles, there was a good deal outside of the prosaic to be obtained by those who, in moving about, kept themselves fully alive as to what was going on around them.

The company dispersed after having spent one of the most enjoyable meetings since the institution of these Christmas gatherings.

During the evening it was remarked that in the company present there were twelve persons whose connection with the company averaged a period exceeding 25 years, a fact upon which the gentlemen referred to are to be congratulated.

GREEK CURRANT SITUATION.

The following review of the currant situation has come to hand from Hancock & Wood, Patras, Greece, and is of special interest at the present moment:

"In consequence of the charter granted last July to the Privileged Company for the Protection of Currant Production and Trade, business in the article in this country has been carried out under novel conditions. It will be remembered that, in return for several important concessions granted to it, the company guaranteed minimum prices for the various growths which, according to the average exchange ruling during the last six months, are equivalent to 13s. 6d. f.o.b. in quarter-cases for the lower kinds, 14s. 6d. for the medium sorts and 15s. 6d. for finest quality; these prices the company is compelled to pay to anyone tendering said description of currants and is debarred from exporting them excepting in the shape of wine or alcohol, unless circumstances admit of their being resold locally to exporters at the price of drachmae 160 per mill, which at to-day's exchange is equivalent to 17s. f.o.b. in quarter-cases. In addition, the company is compelled to advance four-fifths of the guaranteed prices to anyone depositing good merchantable dry currants into its warehouses, which are established in all the currant districts, charging only 6 per cent. per annum interest; said fruit is returnable to the depositor on payment of the advance, but he has the option, before the new crop is harvested, of declaring that he wishes the company to retain it at the guaranteed price of the growth to which it belongs. It will be readily understood that many growers have availed themselves of this privilege, for it enables them to cover their immediate financial requirements, still retaining possession of their fruit, which they have the option of selling on the open market or to the company.

"At the end of December, 30,800 tons had been handed over to the Privileged Company in return for the retention warrants; the company pays nothing for this fruit, but it is not allowed to export it excepting in the shape of wine or alcohol, and this, of course, is one of its principal assets; 28,000 tons had been deposited against advances, and 4,600 tons had been sold outright at the guaranteed prices, about 75,000 tons have been exported to various consuming markets, leaving 25,000 to 30,000 tons still in growers' hands, or say 53,000 to 56,000 tons still disposable.

"Owing to the novel conditions prevailing there has been, throughout the season, no pressure to sell and prices have undergone but slight fluctuations, the decline in the rate of exchange being principally responsible for any changes there may have been. The company's charter covers a period of 20 years and dealers in the article are assured, as long as it exists, that currants cannot be sold profitably from this country under the guaranteed rates and that any important fluctuations are unlikely."

BUSINESS PERSONALS.

Mr. Wm. B. Stewart, representing the Hamilton Cotton Co., Hamilton, Ont., is in Montreal this week.

Mr. R. S. McIndoe, one of Toronto's best known grocery brokers, was met by The Grocer on St. Paul street, Montreal, last Tuesday. Mr. McIndoe reports good business and favorable prospects in all lines, notably Wm. Clark's and Bovril.

W. T. Howard and Geo. Howard, grocers, Isabel street, Winnipeg, have left for their old home, Garrison House, Rothdowny, Queens county, Ireland, where they intend to spend three months looking up relatives and old acquaintances, after an absence of twenty-four years.

John Horne, who for several years has been sales manager for Campbell Bros. & Wilson, of Winnipeg, was transferred last week to Calgary to assume the management of the branch in that town. Paul Johnson succeeds him in Winnipeg. Mr. Johnson will have charge of the buying department in addition to his new duties as general sales manager.

Mr. George W. Cameron, Ottawa, late of the A. K. Mills Company, has been appointed western representative for J. Hirsch & Co., cigar manufacturers, of Montreal. He went into the sugar business, making a careful study of the growing and manufacturing, and is now looked upon as one of the masters in the trade. From his good appearance one would judge that life in the Sandwich Islands was particularly to his taste.

FLOUR AND CEREAL FOODS

We cannot report great things by any means during the week under review; trade has been of only moderate interest. The general conditions throughout the Dominion since the holiday season have been those of uncertainty and inactivity.

There has been a slightly better demand from the eastern provinces, and although the business is not nearly so good as is generally looked for at this time of the year, the slight improvement is regarded as an indication of a better demand later on.

The export trade has again fallen flat. Prices on the English market have considerably weakened, and fallen to a point at which offers are distinctly unremunerative and in consequence dealers are refusing trade.

The domestic trade continues fair and quite what is expected at this season. Many firms carried heavy stocks for the holiday season, which they are naturally anxious to work off, the continued weakness of the market being a pregnant feature in making hesitating buyers.

The very mild Winter, the record for December being the highest temperature in over twenty years, and the light fall of snow have awakened inquiry as to the condition of the growing crops. A prominent man who is familiar with the best wheat districts of Ontario gives it as his opinion that no harm has been done so far. There has not been sufficient severe frost to injure the growing plant. The heavy fall of snow which appeared to be general throughout Ontario the latter part of the week will afford more protection to the growing wheat than it has had so far this Winter.

A report from Winnipeg is received to the effect that the condition of Fall wheat in Alberta is first-class. The acreage is reported as being largely increased as compared with that of 1905 and the progress of the plant is good in every instance.

PRICE SCHEDULE WITHDRAWN.

The Oatmeal Products Millers' Association has come to an end, having been unable to meet the competition of two or three large millers who remained outside the combination. The announcement of the breaking up of the association came in the form of a brief telegram which was sent out to all the members from the head office in Toronto. The message read:

"Price schedule has been cancelled until further orders."

This means that the members of the association are once more at liberty to sell to anyone at any price they may choose and in any way they may choose.

Before the inauguration of the association there was so much cutting of prices in the rolled oat trade that many millers found it hard to make a profit and at best the business was a very uncertain one. The smaller millers in the country who had their supplies of oats driven right up to the doors of their mill by the farmers could easily undersell the larger firms who bought their supplies by the carload and had to pay freight and other incidental expenses. In years when the export trade was dull some of the larger millers could hardly make enough to keep their establishments running on account of the keen competition for the local trade and the cutting of prices down to the smallest margin of profits.

The association was founded to protect the larger millers about three years ago. The plan of organization was very cleverly worked out, attention being given to every detail of the business. Its failure was caused by the fact that several large firms were unwilling either to enter the combine or be bought up.

The number of oatmeal milling companies in Canada at the time of the formation of the combine was about thirty. The combine included about ten of these. The remainder with the exception of two or three were paid a fixed rate per annum, according to the capacity of the mill, to manufacture no oatmeal products whatever. The combine virtually rented these mills and closed them up, though the millers were allowed to manufacture patent breakfast foods or cornmeal if they wished to do so.

AMERICAN CEREAL CO'S NEW STOREHOUSE.

With the completion of the new addition to the American Cereal Company's plant, the home of Quaker Oats at Peterboro has an increased floor space of an acre, and the storage facilities are greatly enlarged.

The estimated cost of the work is placed at $30,000. The new building is five storeys in height, and its dimensions are 100 by 83 feet. It is of a most substantial character throughout, and is in every way adapted to the purpose intended, i.e., for storing the products of the cereal and flour mills. The floor space is about one acre, and even this big addition will not be found too much as the demand for the mill products, and, consequently, the output, is increasing daily.

In addition to these big departments, the American Cereal Company will, in a short time, commence the manufacture of puffed rice, a new product that will be made with the carefulness and skill that have made famous other articles turned out by the company, and that should achieve the popularity gained by Quaker Oats. The machinery for its manufacture will soon be ready for use.

About 500 employes are at work in the various departments at the present time, and the interior of the buildings presents a very busy spectacle.

With the new addition, the amount of ground covered by the buildings is nearly two acres, and the total floor space is estimated by Contractor Langford at ten acres. The department used for storage purposes is 240 feet by 80 feet. The mill is 135 by 90 feet, the dry house 60

At a banquet given at Peterboro by Warden Johnston, Mr. Robert Stewart, treasurer of the American Cereal Co., was quoted as authority for the statement that if the company were sure that the Trent Canal would be completed within a few years, they would erect in Peterboro a flour mill with a capacity of 5,000 barrels per day. Cheaper carrying rates by water, direct from Fort William, of wheat, and of the finished product to tidewater, are factors in determining the company's action.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Flour.

More than the usual dullness has characterized the week's trade. Inquiries have been few, and sales small, so that dealers seem to be justified in their assertion that trade is almost at a standstill. Prices have remained stationary, and, aside from its sluggishness, the market shows no feature.

Grain.

Things are very quiet in the grain market this week, except for the good demand for oats. This is perhaps the one bright spot of the situation in a season which is notoriously slow. All ex store:

Conditions are, if anything, more disappointing than last week. Goods are moving very slowly so that even at a season which is always dull, sales are scarcely up to expectations. Prices are unchanged.

Flour.

There is little improvement to report in trade conditions; demand is slow and uninteresting. Some competition has been going on in selling prices, apparently with the idea of stimulating trade, but the only apparent effect has been to give lower quotations. Export inquiries have been good, but few sales have been effected. The Liverpool market has set itself against present quotations, and prices offered are much below what dealers are prepared to accept.

Grain.

Trade has not been over active since our last report; arrivals have been slow to come in. At outside points reports denote only fair deliveries at the mills, and tend to show that farmers are disposed to market only a portion of their grain, a good deal being held back for expected developments. In most lines prices have firmed up a little, as will be seen from quotations.

In flour, a steady business. There seems rather less confidence in the market. Oatmeal is somewhat lower and very dull. Oats unchanged. Cornmeal is lower. GREEN FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

A week of extreme quietness has been the condition ruling. No feature of particular note is reported.

In the Maritime Provinces the leading feature has been the apple trade, and that is reported as falling slow. The complaint seems to be of inferior fruit. The local fruit has not been up to the standard, and western fruit is said to be turning out badly, and not at all equal to prices paid. Any really good fruit is fetching high prices.

Montreal reports very little activity. Grape fruit has been a little exciting on account of arrivals not keeping pace with demand and a consequent stiffening of prices.

Cranberries are pretty well depleted and any arrivals at whatever points are fetching high prices. The vegetable situation is unusually dull. It is expected to be quiet at the close and opening of the year, but should begin to move quickly after. At present, however, life is absent. Some imported cabbage have come on the market and are showing good quality.

WRAPPING APPLES IN PAPER.

The apple shipments from Ontario and Nova Scotia points continue this Winter in somewhat increased quantities to previous seasons and almost every steamer leaving St. John for London, Liverpool and Glasgow carries away several car loads (about 180 barrels to the car).

The packers of apples in Ontario at this time of the year seem not to be much rushed and have leisure to wrap each apple in paper, and as they reserve the choice of their orchards for this style of shipping the goods prove very attractive when in nice clean boxes. One steamer left Halifax a few days ago with 10,000 barrels of Nova Scotia apples.

FRUIT-GROWERS RESOLVE.

At the annual meeting of the New Brunswick Fruit Growers' Association in Fredericton on the 26th, instructive addresses were delivered by President John C. Gilman, Prof. Macoun, of Ottawa, and others. A resolution was passed recommending that the Ontario barrel be made the standard for Canada.

The committee recommended for discussion at the fruit growers' convention to be held at Ottawa, the extension of cold storage and refrigerator car systems.

That express companies be brought under the supervision of the Railway Commission.

That the use of barrels below legal size be prohibited.

That the Department of Inland Revenue take steps to prevent the adulteration of fruits and jellies.

That nurseries be inspected for dangerous scales and insects.

That the Federal Government be urged in every way to safeguard and develop our export trade.

It was decided to make a fruit exhibition the annual feature in connection with meetings.

INSPECTORS FOR DOMESTIC MARKETS.

The Retail Merchants' Association of the city of Toronto, sent a deputation to see the Board of Control with a request that council appoint a fruit inspector for the city, whose business it would be to attend at the market and inspect fruit arriving in the city to see that the classification was right, and that the fruit on the top of the package was a fair sample of it all the way through.

They had with them A. McNeil, chief Dominion fruit inspector, who explained that the Government looked after inspection of fruit for export and locally at distributing centres. To appoint inspectors locally, such as the retail merchants wanted, would involve an immense cost.

The board decided to get a report from Dr. Sheard before coming to a decision.

EFFECT OF MILD WEATHER ON FRUIT.

W. H. Bunting, president of the Niagara Fruit-Growers' Association, and Robert Thompson, a leading grower in the Niagara Peninsula, report that while hopeful regarding the fruit outlook, were free to admit that conditions were critical in the extreme. It is thought no actual damage to the buds has so far developed, but a continuance of warm weather would necessarily be attended with disastrous results.

Advices from over the fruit area indicate great anxiety among the growers consequent upon the remarkably mild weather.

A ROYAL DECORATION FOR U. S. FRUIT DEALER.

Joseph Digiorgio, as he is known in the land of his adoption, or Giuseppe Di Giorgio, as the Italians know him, has just received official notification from Rome that he has been decorated by King Victor Emmanuel with the order of the Chevaliers of the Crown of Italy, the most coveted distinction in the gift of the Italian ruler.

The decoration is the direct gift of the king and is in recognition of the distinguished commercial success of Mr. Digiorgio in America. No amount of wealth or influence can obtain this honor for any who may eye it with greedy intentions. Deeds pay the price, and the decoration has in the past most generally been bestowed for valorous conduct or particularly high diplomatic achievement. Blood and birth are of no avail for the prize.

Mr. Digiorgio came to New York 15 years ago when a mere boy. He applied himself to the fruit business, and so mastered its details that within a year he was entrusted with the American agency of a large Sicilian fruit house. In 1895 he located his headquarters in Baltimore.

Two years later he organized the Monumental Fruit Co., and then adversity applied her tests to him. First he lost a ship at sea. Then other vessels encountered difficulties which delayed their arrival and the lost time was sufficient to spoil the fruit in their cargoes. He planned to offset these disasters with other arrangements, but the plans were upset and he was confronted with the most discouraging conditions.

He had confidence in himself, however, and there were others who had confidence in him, and they got together and formed the Cantanzaro-Digiorgio Importing Co. This prospered and built up an enormous business. About a year ago the big Atlantic Fruit Co. found him in the forefront of its ranks. He took a prominent part in the battle with the United Fruit Co., with which concern his company is now said to have an alliance. The Atlantic has some 15 vessels which ply between coast ports and the West Indies. Mr. Digiorgio is but 31 years of age.

Green Fruits.

Trade is very quiet, and, indeed, there is next to nothing doing. Market conditions remain much the same as last week, the only changes of note being in Jamaica oranges, which have advanced 75 cents per barrel, and Jamaica grape fruit, which is up 75 cents per box. This is accounted for by a good demand with small receipts, and it is expected that the next arrivals will be sold at the same price. One of the leading commission firms will have two cars of Mexican oranges this week. They will probably sell at from $2.25 to $2.50, as the quality is good. Good sales of apples were made early in the week at from $2.25 to $3.40.

Business is very dull, with everything dragging. Commission merchants, as well as the Bonsecours market dealers, are feeling a slackness that is due largely to the weather, but also, though to a smaller extent, to the municipal elections, which are engrossing the public mind just now. No stir is expected in the vegetable market until the middle of February.

HOW THE NUTMEG GROWS.

The nutmeg is the seed kernel of the nutmeg tree which grows in the Malay archipelago, and is known to botanists as the myristica fragrans. This tree, which is from twenty to thirty feet in height at maturity, resembles the pear tree in the shape of its leaves and fruit. Its flowers are like those of the lily of the valley and exceedingly fragrant.

The fruit is about the size of the peach and is edible. It breaks open in halves when ripe and exposes the seed, partially enveloped by a bright scarlet covering or arillus, which, when dried turns yellowish brown and is called mace. The seed proper has a thin shell and the kernel at first is smooth but becomes wrinkled in drying.

The nutmeg tree begins bearing about eight years after planting the seed, and continues to yield for seventy-five years. The average product per tree is about five pounds of nutmegs and one and a half pounds of mace.

While like many tropical trees, the nutmeg has ripe fruit upon it at all seasons, there are three principal periods of harvesting, viz., July, when the fruit is most abundant, though it yields thin mace; November, when the mace is thicker though the nutmegs are smaller; and March, when both nutmegs and mace reach the greatest perfection, though as this season is dry the production is not great.

After nutmegs are gathered and stripped of their outer coverings, they are placed upon gratings over slow fires and dried at a low heat (not over 140 degrees Fahrenheit) until the kernel rattles freely in the shell—an operation which takes about two months. The shells are then broken and the kernels dipped in milk of lime to render them safe from the attacks of insects, as well as to destroy their power of germinating. They are then packed for export in tight casks which have been thoroughly soaked and coated on the inside with lime wash.

CARE OF EMPLOYES IN MODERN STORES AND FACTORIES.

In the great race for wealth, in the struggle of every day life to fill each moment to its utmost in order to accomplish many things, the average man of business rarely considers the little things that may mean a great deal of comfort to his employes.

In the large business houses of England it is customary to serve tea or coffee every afternoon at four o'clock. In Spain luncheon, and in some instances breakfast, is served to the workers, and they are permitted to enjoy a siesta of two hours in the middle of the afternoon, and though they work later to make up for the rest, still such a relaxation supplies them with a newly gathered force of energy with which to pursue their labors.

In New York several of the larger firms have begun to realize that, if only from a business point of view, it is profitable to minister as much as they can to the worker's comfort, and in several large factories there are some office accommodations that would make men of a few generations back open their eyes in surprise. Perhaps it is the employment of so many women and girls in a large business that has prompted this kindness.

In one of these buildings there is a charming little dining room for the use of the young women employed.

It is not compulsory that they take advantage of the kitchenette ; they are at perfect liberty to have lunches elsewhere if they choose. As the "hash house" in the neighborhood of the company's building, however, is not desirable, and the restaurants are too expensive, nearly every one lunches in the building.

Lunch in these buildings is a sort of continuous performance from twelve noon until about three in the afternoon. The dining room is, of course, not overlarge, and as there are a number of young women in the company's service, they must take lunch in relays. In one corner of the dining room stands a small ice-box. On a warm day it is very nice to be able to open this box, just as you might at home, and take from it cold meat and fruit. The room is furnished in mission style, pleasing pictures decorate the walls, the table is rarely without flowers and the Venetian blinds, half drawn, lend a mellow, soft light that suggests rest and comfort and makes one quite detest the thought of a restaurant lunch. A three-burner gas stove makes it possible for the girls to have just about what they want to eat, and a well filled china closet is supplied with dainty service for the table.

Now, in some of the banking houses the employes are served with lunch by the institution, but the heads of one down town firm hardly thought it right to do this, for a young woman is rather proud and the service might be misinterpreted by some. As this is the case, every morning the errand boy "goes to market," buying just what each young woman wants for lunch.

The building stands near the river, and almost at any time of day you may find the roof cool and pleasant. Here a little frame Summer house with a canvas top has been built, and no matter how hot the day the breezes from the river make it a place of comfort.

Oftentimes the men eat their lunches up here, and spend the entire noon hour under the canvas, where they may read, talk, smoke and be fanned by the cool breezes that blow up the bay, seated in comfortable chairs.

In one of the William street office buildings tea and coffee after the English fashion are served every afternoon at four o'clock.

This tea and coffee making is a question of some importance to the clerks of the office, for when the custom was introduced it was decided that each man must try his hand in the culinary department for a week's time.

There are bread, butter, cheese and preserves served with the coffee and by the time four o'clock comes they are more than welcome to the tired employes.

The service in this office is not as elaborate as is that of another house ; here it is a matter of men and business pure and simple, for there is but one woman in the office and she is kept busy at the telephone board. Sometimes the coffee boils over, sometimes the tea gets a little boiling, but on the whole it is pretty good, for the young woman at the switchboard has written instructions reading like this :

"One tablespoonful of coffee to each cup of water and one spoonful to the pot. Pour cold water over the coffee and let it come to a boil. Don't boil it.

"Boil water for the tea, and then to the pot put in about three teaspoonfuls of tea. Don't let it boil."

Perhaps it is in the large department stores that there has seemed to be a greater increase in consideration for the employes than in other places of business. Of course the great number of women employed in the stores has something to do with this, but ten years ago, or even within a shorter period, one did not find all the comforts that are now supplied for the saleswomen.

One of the stores in town has a unique arrangement—an emergency hospital—and many times it is put to use. This room is fitted up as comfortably as any bedroom in a private house. There is a well supplied medicine chest and a trained nurse is in attendance. There is also a house doctor, so in case of illness he is immediately called. In a store in which over two hundred women are employed it may be imagined that such a room is almost necessary, although in days gone by employers seemed not to realize the real need of kindness to their help.

Here there is also a class for young women who have been deprived of a chance in life to learn certain things about the care of their clothes, for the necessity for earning a living takes away nearly all opportunity of learning many necessary things.

In the rest room, when the girls "go off duty," there is a woman who teaches them to sew. This means that each girl may bring her wearing apparel to the store, and there, when she has an opportunity at noon, may learn, with the assistance of a skilled workwoman, to make her own clothes and make them correctly.

An hour seems but a short time to learn much, but in this time a girl accomplishes a good deal, and if she desires may come early in the morning and spend her time in sewing.

The New York Telephone Company is probably more careful to its women employes than is any other company in the city. For a woman to sit all the hours of a day at a telephone switchboard is wonderfully exhausting work, and for these girls everything is made as comfortable and easy as possible. Each has her own private locker for her clothes, which affords her room to hang her street skirt, which is generally exchanged for a workday habit. There are rest rooms and retiring rooms for those who do not feel well and desire quiet and a total absence of voices. The dining room is furnished with polished top tables, a matron is in attendance and makes the tea, coffee and chocolate, which are supplied free by the company, while the girls bring their eatables.

The day of the cash boy and girl is almost over. Still, in a few of the stores of the city these little wage earners answer, more or less energetically, to the call of "Cash !" and the rap of the saleswoman's pencil.

In one of the stores there is a chance for every boy and girl to obtain an education, at least a sort of schooling that will put their minds in training and help them to think.

In this store there are many little boys employed. A greater portion of these children have been denied a proper schooling, and the owner of the store realizes that without a proper amount of education, without a training of his young mind to methodical thought, it is pretty hard for the boy to work well when he becomes a man.

For this reason a morning school is opened in the store, and an hour and a half before the time of opening the doors to customers finds every boy in his chair before the teacher.

In this school the boys are given lessons in arithmetic, writing, spelling, reading and geography, and the interesting point of it all is that the boys seem exceedingly eager for their work, and though it is not compulsory that they attend, there is rarely ever a boy absent from the class.

Some of the business houses in the city are certainly bending every effort to give their men and women a fair chance and in nearly every case the employer finds that his employes appreciate the kindly things done for them, for it comes not as a charity, but merely as a help to the worker.

"I do not doubt," said a member of a business corporation that serves lunches to its employes, "that in time all of the large houses will do this ; the men seem to feel more refreshed after lunching quietly in our dining room, and then either going out for a walk or reading in the rest room, than if they frequented restaurants with their rush and noise. It is, all in all, a comfortable plan ; the heads of our firm, even, have their dining room and prefer lunching there rather than going outside."

Such are some of the little things done to lighten the load of bread winners, and a generous spirit seems spreading among employers, who see that it is only just to promote the comfort and happiness of those under them.

"I want to complain of the flour you sent me the other day," said Mrs. Newliwed, severely.

"What was the matter with it, ma'am ?" asked the grocer.

"It was tough. My husband simply wouldn't eat the biscuits made with it."

BISCUITS AND CONFECTIONERY

GIVE CONFECTIONERY A SURE PLACE.

Nearly all grocers handle confectionery to a certain extent, and it is proper that they should do so. Some, perhaps, go into the line too far, and thus usurp part of the true confectioner's business; but there are far more that do not go in it far enough. To be up to date, a grocer should not neglect the confectionery department of his business.

Biscuits, cakes and candies are lines which a grocer should certainly handle. Besides the ordinary kinds, a good variety of sweet cakes and fancy biscuits should be kept in stock.

In the lines of candies, etc., it is rather difficult for the grocer to decide just how far to go; the varieties are so many that the picking out of the best lines for the grocery business requires some forethought.

The reason that a grocer should go more into confectionery is not only because of the profit to be derived out of the line itself, but because of the advantages it can be put to in a grocery store. In the first place, the appearance of a store can be greatly improved by a display in the confectionery line. A neat looking showcase displaying a few of the most staple lines of confectionery, placed in a prominent position, brightens up a store wonderfully.

Some grocers—perhaps not very many—go into the novelty line. They have a showcase in which are displayed sundry articles, such as pins, needles, lead pencils, pens, etc.

Now, would it not be far more appropriate to the grocery trade to devote that showcase to confectionery? Of course, it would; pins and needles are surely very foreign to the grocery business.

Besides the inappropriateness of it, the appearance is far from being good; a showcase of such goods seems to be out of keeping with the rest of the store. Another advantage of having a confectionery department in a grocery store is that, if the grocer gets a large order from some person, he may have something suitable to put in "for the children." There is no better way of getting at the heart of the parent than through the child. That little bag of candies, or whatever it might be, has great influence with the mother; and being thus influenced she, in all probability, will go back to that store to make a similar purchase.

THE ART OF SAMPLING.

It is remarkable the results which will accrue by judicious sampling of a given district. First and foremost the storekeeper must be certain of his article. It should be the best of its kind, no second grade goods. The giving of a poor article will kill trade, not make it. Second. It should be neatly and attractively gotten up. The first impression is the lasting one. Given an attractive sample, the recipient expects a good thing—the first move in the direction of success. Third. Do not fail to have the name, address, and price clearly upon it.

Suppose you try this with your confectionery. A good corner of the street at the busiest time of the day; a neat, tasty confection handed to the passer-by by an equally neat and well-dressed boy with a well-worded notice of the fact in your usual advertisement space in the local journal, and you will welcome the result. A successful candy dealer in the United States has built up a large business in this way.

A GOOD ADVERTISEMENT.

Private John Allen takes a deep interest in the advertising business. Advertisements that he deems exceptionally good he cuts out and pastes in a scrap book. As he was showing this scrap book to a guest one day he said:

"But the best ad. I know of is not in here. For it wasn't written, but spoken. It earned its originator some thousands of dollars, yet I can never show it. I can only describe it, and description fails to do it justice.

"It was the work of a clothier in Nashville. He had, with his partner, the first establishment in town, and the business of the firm was considered very prosperous. The two men had married sisters and their relationship was more than friendly. Hence the greatest surprise overtook Nashville when the junior partner suddenly took out a summons and hauled the senior into court.

"'The senior partner is ruining the business,' gossip said. 'He is getting softening of the brain, or paresis, or something of that sort. Now is the height of the Spring season, when they ought to be making money hand over fist, but the senior partner's cracked methods are spoiling everything.'

"So all Nashville took a tremendous interest in the case, and, on the morning it was called, the courtroom was crowded as in a murder trial.

"The junior partner's complaint was presented strongly and directly. He wanted an injunction to restrain the senior from selling below cost. He showed that goods were being sacrificed at a fraction of their value, and he asked

HE GOT THE MONEY.

The British battleship Dominion sailed on Saturday afternoon, the 20th ult., from Halifax under sealed orders. Just as the ship hauled out into the stream an amusing incident occurred. James Clarke, a city grocer, who had delivered a supply of groceries to the ship, was unable to get a settlement with the ship's grocer before the gangway was hauled in. He refused to leave the ship without his money, and when the tardy sailor paid up the battleship was a hundred yards from the shore. Clarke, however, was not daunted. He clambered down the torpedo net guards, jumped overboard, and swam ashore, amid the cheers of the tars and the crowd on the pier.

INCREASED ASSESSMENT.

B. C. canners are much excited over a tremendous increase in assessment by the Provincial Government. The increase amounts to from five hundred to one thousand per cent. According to the canners. for nineteen canneries last year an average of $10,000 was taken, the total assesment being $990,000. The new assessment makes a total of over one million dollars, and one cannery alone is assessed for $150.000. The canners charge that the new rate has been arranged right in a good year, when there is a large stock on hand.

C. M. A.'s RESOLUTIONS.

Following are the resolutions which the Canadian Manufacturers' Association will bring before the congress of Chambers of Commerce of the Empire to be held in London, England, July 2.

Imperial Preferential Trade.

Whereas, resolutions adopted in recent years by important commercial bodies throughout the British Empire have declared their belief that mutual preferential trade measures between the component parts will effectually promote the unity and prosperity of the Empire.

Whereas, this belief is strengthened by the conditions existing in international trade competition, by the growth of the British dominions as producing and consuming powers, and by their need for further development.

Therefore be it resolved, that this Sixth Congress of Chambers of Commerce of the Empire urges upon His Majesty's Governments in the United Kingdom and in all British dominions, the advisability of arranging at an early date, to their mutual benefit and satisfaction, reciprocal trade measures with the other portions of the Empire.

Patents, Copyright and Insolvency.

That whereas, it is desirable for the promotion of trade and the safety of commercial interests within the British Empire, that the laws governing important features of commercial life should be harmonious and reciprocal.

Therefore be it resolved, that this Sixth Congress of Chambers of Commerce of the Empire recommends that immediate steps be taken through a joint conference of Government representatives to establish within the Empire uniform and equitable laws respecting copyright and insolvency.

Special Trade Representatives.

That whereas, it is desirable in the interests of British commerce and for the unity of the Empire that many of the goods now imported by British dominions from foreign countries should be purchased from British sources, and also that Great Britain should increase the amount of her purchases from the other portions of the Empire.

Therefore be it resolved, that this Sixth Congress of Chambers of Commerce urges upon His Majesty's Governments in the United Kingdom and in all British dominions, the necessity of appointing special trade representatives in every other important market within the Empire, to encourage the development of such reciprocal trade.

Weights and Measures and Currency.

That whereas, with the progress of industry and the development of trade throughout the world, the establishment of uniform systems of weights and measures, and currency, becomes more and more desirable and necessary.

Therefore be it resolved, that this Sixth Congress of Chambers of Commerce of the Empire recommends the appointment by the Imperial Government of a Royal Commission, who shall investigate and if possible recommend uniform systems of weights and measures and currency, to be adopted throughout the British Empire.

JUSTICE OF ESTABLISHED PRICES

By O. A. Keyser, in National Hardware Bulletin.

Co-operation for profit—that expresses the underlying principle of all mercantile associations.

Every business man is in business to make money. If conditions become such that the money-making possibilities of a business are jeopardized, immediate steps are taken to remove those conditions altogether or to limit their harmfulness.

The worst enemy of profit is undue competition. When my competitor acquires such an advantage over me that my chances of making money are limited or imperilled, I must endeavor to overcome my competitor's prestige or remove myself from the sphere of his competition.

There are two sure ways by which the retail dealer can overcome unfair competition: first, by selling goods which his competitor cannot get; second, by selling goods which his competitor cannot sell at less than a certain fixed price.

Since the retailer must buy manufactured goods, it is evident that he must look to the manufacturer for assistance in keeping certain goods out of the hands of his competitors and for establishing fixed minimum prices. It is, therefore, evident that the retailer needs the co-operation of the manufacturer.

Right here it may be said that the manufacturer is not forced to distribute his goods through any particular channel. He may have reasons to place the distribution with one or more classes of trade. If he finds that course most advantageous to himself, he will doubtless continue in it. On the other hand, if the class of trade with which he had entrusted the distribution of his goods does not do the line justice or does not appreciate the privilege of distributing the line, the manufacturer is not compelled to limit his output to that particular class. However, the manufacturer is only too willing to co-operate with the distributor who will reciprocate by pushing his line.

As far as the retail trade is concerned, the manufacturer will be a friend or a foe—just as retailers in general decide. If the retail storekeeper, for instance, appreciated the policy of a manufacturer who keeps his article out of the hands of catalogue houses and establishes minimum retail prices, it is natural that this manufacturer will continue his policy and co-operate with the retail storekeeper as much as possible.

In establishing prices, the manufacturer must bear several things in mind. He must price his line with respect to its intrinsic value. He must vary the price according to differences in freight tariff. He must fix prices that will insure a profit to himself and at the same time leave a good margin of profit for the dealer.

If the prices are just and fair according to these conditions, the dealer should at all times see to it that the prices are not violated either by himself or by his fellow tradesmen. Since minimum prices are established by the manufacturer for the protection of the retail dealer, it is only reasonable that the manufacturer should expect the retailer under all conditions to respect these prices. To violate a liberal policy is, to say the least, a small and ungrateful act. It belittles a dealer in his own eyes and in the estimation of his business associates.

Sometimes a dealer excuses his price-cutting on a certain article by saying that Bill Jones, up the street, offered that article below the minimum price. Such an excuse is a poor one and shows lack of thought on the part of the dealer who makes it. Why not write to your jobber or the manufacturer before meeting a cut price? Perhaps the matter can be soon adjusted. Your price-cutting doesn't remedy matters, but makes things worse.

For instance, Bill Jones, up the street, sells an article below the minimum price. Now, John Smith thinks that he has to meet this price. Bill Jones, not to be out-done, makes another cut. Then John Smith follows suit. Soon Bill gets his selling price down to cost and John has to sell at a loss to go him one better. Now wait, gentlemen. What good does it do? If you have to sell at cost or below, why not close up your shop and go into retirement before your savings are exhausted in this game of cut-throat competition.

Be reasonable. When a manufacturer will leave nothing undone to insure a profit for you, don't spoil the whole thing by slashing prices into smithereens. Ask the manufacturer to arbitrate the matter, and he will be only too glad to do so.

The manufacturer of a patented article has a legal right to enforce the maintaining of the prices which have been established by him. Patent rights are granted in order to encourage the making of useful inventions. The only profit that an inventor gets out of his invention is that which comes from having the sole right to manufacture and market it. If an inventor were not protected in this matter, he would not have any inducement to think out problems and appliances that promote the welfare of humanity in general.. The invenor is a public benefactor and deserves a reward for his effort.

Now, if everyone could manufacture a new invention as soon as it is placed on the market, what incentive would inventors have to think out new appliances? It is to place a premium upon invention that the Government gives the patentee of an invented article a monopoly as far as the making of that article is concerned.

Furthermore, of what value would this monopoly be to the patentee if he could not profitably market the article which he had invented? Suppose that the trade in general would slash the price until there would be no profit in distributing it to the public. What good would it do the patentee to manufacture his invention if its selling price has degenerated to the cost of production? It therefore stands to reason that the patentee's monopoly must include the marketing of his invention.

It has been decided by the U. S. courts that the manufacturer of a patented article has the right, by nature of his monopoly, to establish and maintain arbitrary prices on his patent. Whoever violates the established prices is an infringer and liable to a damage suit for infringement.

At first thought it may seem that such a law is a violation of the seller's liberty, but such is not the case. A dealer is free to distribute the patented article in the prescribed manner or leave it entirely alone. By accepting the agency for a patented article, the dealer accepts all the conditions along with it. If he does not like the conditions, he is at liberty to decide that he will not act as a distributor of the article.

This is no hardship. It is a protection. The dealer knows that his profit is assured by law, and, if his competitor violates the prices which have been established, recourse for satisfaction may be taken to legal procedure. The manufacturer is in this way empowered to make the handling of his product advantageous to the dealer who wants to do a straight business with clean profit.

The retail dealer who takes advantage of a manufacturer's co-operation is wise. Your strongest ally in settling questions now confronting the trade is the man who makes the goods which you sell for a livelihood. Don't lose sight of this fact. By your reciprocation, encourage the manufacturers whose liberal selling policy means coin in your till.

"Some makers call me a tobacco crank, but the men who smoke my cigars are thankful I am such."—J. Bruce Payne.

After all, the cigar-smoker is dependent on the conscientiousness of the cigar-maker as regards "cigar value."

Once a reputation is won and cigars are selling nicely, it is so easy to cut off a little quality here and a little quality there,—and receive more profit.

The man who makes his cigars as good to-day, when he has the people with him, as he made them in the days when he was trying to get the people with him, is the ideal cigar-maker, is he not?

Yet such is the policy I follow, and by such a policy the

Pebble and Pharaoh

Cigars are made. The tobacco used has to please me—my standard—and the cigars themselves have to suit me—my taste.

Do you wonder I am called a "crank"? Do you wonder why the best trade of the country has come to me? Do you wonder why, on the above evidence, I ask you to enlist as a Pebble and Pharaoh salesman."

"1000 of my cigars assorted on the best terms"—will you consider the offer?

J. BRUCE PAYNE, LIMITED, Mnfrs., - Granby, Que.

The Powers Behind the Tobacco Throne

3. The way it is advertised.

If tobacco is advertised by the makers it will not have to be advertised by the retailers. That makes quite a difference in the division of profits, doesn't it? We advertise throughout the country to create sales for you.

T. & B.

Smokers ask for T. & B. You have just got to keep up your stock and that is all. The preliminary work is done outside your store.

In other words, we take less profit and give you more sales.

Grocers who sell the best-known, best-liked tobacco—T. & B.—are provident grocers. Ask yourself why.

TOBACCOS, CIGARS AND ACCESSORIES

A SMOKE STORY.

A well dressed young man stood in the doorway of one of Chicago's temples of commerce, smoking a cigar. A benign old gentleman who was passing thought he saw an opportunity for a little missionary work and accosted the young fellow with: "Pardon me, my young friend, may I speak to you for a moment?" The young man readily assented and was asked how many cigars he smoked in a day. He answered that he used from five to eight. "And what do they cost you?" continued the old gentleman. "Oh, from fifteen cents to a quarter each," was the reply. The old gentleman, thinking he had sufficient material for his argument, then said: "Young man, do you know that if you were to stop smoking, and properly invest the money thus spent, by the time you are my age you could own one of these large buildings?" The young man in surprise asked, "Did you never smoke?" "No, sir!" exclaimed the other as he thumped his walking-stick upon the sidewalk, "I am seventy-five years old, and proud to say I have never smoked in my life." "Do you own any of these buildings?" continued the young fellow. "No," was the answer, "I do not." The young man replied, "I do."

HEAVY CONSUMPTION OF TOBACCO

In the tobacco and cigar industry the United States has enjoyed a record-breaking year. The generally prosperous conditions of the country have been reflected in the steadily increasing consumption of cigars, cigarettes, manufactured tobacco, little cigars and snuff, and in the closing months of the year manufacturers of cigars and cigarettes have found it literally impossible to keep pace with the demand.

The increase in the production of cigarettes has been simply phenomenal. In spite of adverse legislation, which made the manufacture, sale and consumption of cigarettes illegal in certain states, the total output for the year promises to exceed by considerably more than a billion that of 1904, which had shown an increase of some 43,000,000 over the number produced in 1903.

The cigar product of the United States for the first ten months of 1905 was 5,813,820,863, against 6,708,505,599 for the twelve months in 1904, but as the output for November, 1905, brings the total probably not far from the seven billion mark, it is safe to assume that when the official returns are available they will show an increased production of many million cigars during the year 1905.

HONESTY AND UPRIGHTNESS WIN

The cigar business is a business to be conducted on business principles of honesty and fair dealing, writes W. F. Monroe in considering employments for men who work. Gambling is no accessory to the conduct of a proper cigar store. No store of the kind ever built up a solid business with the dice box or the slot machine. Rather, these have ruined many bright prospects. Naturally, they are likely to drive away the best type of customer by their associations, and more vitally still they attract the attentions of employer and employes until the customer waiting at the counter in front to make a legitimate purchase is overlooked and goes out, never to enter the place again.

To a great extent the prospective adventurer into the business should have been "born to it." It is doubtful if the best tea taster in the world can tell an intelligent layman how he tastes tea in judgment of its quality. It is much the same with the cigar expert. Yet the man of average intelligence can learn the business if he will, and learn it well. But before any young man goes into the cigar and tobacco business he should benefit by an apprenticeship to the business.

A QUESTION OF HABIT.

That smoking is but a question of habit and education, Mr. Walter A. Schiffer convincingly demonstrated before the U. S. Ways and Means Committee the other day by an illustration so apt that it deserves to be reproduced again. He said:

I attended a social function in Rome some three years ago, and after a very fine dinner, the host passed around a box of fine Havana cigars. My neighbor at my right, an American who had lived in Italy for a number of years, declined the fine Havana cigar, and took out of his pocket an Italian Regie cigar, called a Virginian, made entirely of Kentucky tobacco, and informed me he was so used to smoking Italian cigars (which are notoriously bad) that he did not care to smoke anything else, regardless of quality, showing that smoking is a question of habit and education.

It's quality alone that wins on the rough road of competition.

Pure Ceylon Tea—Black and Green—unalloyed by other blends is the tea to satisfy your customer. It also pays best.

Sell only Ceylon Green Tea.

It pleases your customers and profits yourself.

HINTS TO RETAIL MERCHANTS

ARTICLE 1.—HOW TO DOUBLE YOUR PROFITS AND PLEASE YOUR CUSTOMERS.

Many of your best Customers do not know that there are four grades of Canned Peas, namely :

No. 4, known as "Standards."
No. 3, known as Sifted, labelled "Early Junes."
No. 2, known as Extra Sifted, labelled "Sweet Wrinkled."
No. 1, known as Extra Fine Sifted, usually labelled "Petit Pois."

"The Standard" is the largest grade and although tender and sweet, it is not as select as the smaller varieties ; besides, in this grade the profits are usually cut very close.

"Early Junes" are a smaller grade than the "Standards," uniform in size, tender and sweet. "Early Junes" invariably sell at 2c. per tin (24c. per dozen) more than "Standards" and the cost is only 7½c. per dozen extra.

"Sweet Wrinkled" is probably the choicest grade packed, small-sized, sweet and tender. If your customers had their attention called to this luscious grade, it would not only mean greatly increased sales, but trebled profits and well-pleased customers.

"Petit Pois," Extra Fine Sifted, sweet, tender and simply melt away when eating. Superior to imported French peas because they are free from coloring and other injurious preparations.

Your customers, when they know, will greatly appreciate the better grades of Peas and will gladly pay the extra price. If you require any of the extra quality, and have not the four grades already in stock, write at once to your wholesaler and obtain supplies—if only one case of each of the finer grades. Take a little time with your customers to explain the difference in quality and you will have an established trade for high-class quality, with greatly increased profits.

A little care and attention will easily treble your profits, and not only that but greatly please your customers. A good recipe for preparing for table will be found at foot of page.

There is only one more important question in this connection, namely :—when buying, to insist on getting the old established brands, which have stood the test for the past quarter century, namely Aylmer, Log Cabin, Horse-Shoe, Auto, Little Chief, Lynnvalley, Maple Leaf, Kent, Lion, Thistle, Grand River, White Rose, etc, etc., for sale by all the leading Wholesale Grocers in the Dominion of Canada.

Yours respectfully,

THE CANADIAN CANNERS, LIMITED

DIRECTIONS FOR PEAS.—Open the can, empty contents into a colander and thoroughly rinse with hot water, then turn into a saucepan ; add butter about the size of a walnut, or if preferred half a cup of sweet cream, and heat thoroughly. Season to taste.

Japan Teas

require no talking up, once your customers realize how much superior they are in every respect to teas of any other country.

They are sweet, clean, pure, healthful, delicious, and invigorating.

They are without the nerve-racking astringent qualities of "boomed" teas.

They are the safest teas for young and old to drink.

Japan Teas are at all times the most profitable to handle—Study them in your own and your customers' interests.

We're not afraid

But, who are you shoving?

Is the constant lament of the Japan Tea interests in opposition to "SALADA" Natural Green Teas of Ceylon. . . very sorry, gentlemen, if we're crowding you a little, but the trade and public appreciation of the Superior Cup Quality and value of these teas is so pronounced and indisputable that it is no longer a debatable issue as to the fate of Japans.

That "SALADA" Green Teas will yet dominate the Japan Tea market is as sure as night follows day.

We pack "SALADA" Natural Green Teas in sealed packets only—same form, style and prices as the famous Black Teas of "SALADA" Brand.

Wholesale Terms on application. Samples cheerfully furnished. "SALADA" TORONTO, MONTREAL

Large Profits

on cheap goods don't pay in the long run.

Your profits on Gillett's Goods are good all the time because the goods are PURE, well advertised and steady sellers.

What "PURITY" means

It has many definitions, all depending on the manner in which it is applied. Here is one :

Freedom from foulness or dirt:
Free from fault or taint,
Free from that which defiles and pollutes.

Coffee is a most delicate and sensitive production of nature.
Foreign substances absolutely spoil it as a beverage.
The public taste is getting more highly educated each year.
Meet it, satisfy it, delight it with WOOD'S COFFEES, absolutely free from everything that "defiles and pollutes."

Lily White Gloss Starch

is that kind of a combination for the dealer.

When a stock of this well-known brand of Laundry Starch is put in, the grocer feels that he is not taking any long chances. It is distinctly a case of "backing the favorite." He knows it will "move"—and quickly. No bargain sales from tubs, at the season's end, of miscellaneous nondescripts. What a satisfaction it is to sell a Starch that you know from trial in your own home to be the "real thing!"

Attractive packages, heavy advertising—everything, in fact, that could be done to help the grocer has been and will be done continuously.

A SURPRISING FIND

Collections of Half a Century Result in Extraordinary Accumulation Beneath a Cashier's Desk.

Mr. Wright, the National Cash Register Co.'s agent in Winnipeg, has in his possession an old drawer, which was taken from a general store in Kingston, Ontario, where it has been in use for fifty years. Through all changes of system from the establishment of the store, when the proprietor only had access to this cash-drawer, and when all the clerks used it, and during the period it was under the supervision of an individual cashier, the drawer was never changed, occupying a position beneath a cash desk. In the box-like arrangement where the cashier sat there was a false floor about six inches high, which did not cover the main floor entirely. When the proprietor tore out the cashier's desk recently, an assistant gathered up the refuse to throw out into the lane, when, at the suggesion of Mr. Wright, it was sifted.

After all the dirt had been carefully cleared away, one hundred and eighty-six dollars in small gold and silver coins of all denominations, and dilapidated bills, were rescued from this refuse. The proprietor's surprise can be imagined, and yet he said he had never missed the money, and never knew it was gone! The drawer itself is so badly carved and worn by long service, that one might wonder how it now holds together.

THE HISTORY OF CURRANTS

Just now when currants are occupying the thoughts of so many people, the following article which appeared in our contemporary, the Produce Markets' Review (England), will prove of interest to our readers. Reverting to an article which appeared some time ago in the British Economic Journal, by Mr. Burlumi, the recognized authority upon the subject, under the title of "The Overproduction of Currants: a Novel Experiment in Protection," our contemporary says Mr. Burlumi began by pointing out that the Governments of several countries had to solve, at various times, the question of how to reserve the home market to the home producer by the exclusion of the foreigner; but the problem before the Greeks was much more complex, for it was how to protect the producer of currants against himself, not in the home, but in the foreign markets.

The vine was first reared in the temperate corner of Western Asia, and wine, in prehistoric times, was made from grapes dried in the sun. The resulting beverage obtained was attributed to divine origin. Hence the ancient Greeks gave the preference to wine made from dried grapes. Pliny, writing in the first century of the Christian era, mentions the tiny Greek grape of fine quality and thin skin. The Greeks of the present day will hear of no other land as the mother of the currant vine than the classic plains of Corinth, from which the product derives its Greek name.

During the Turkish occupation of the Peloponnesus, the quantity of currants produced was very small, as was to be expected under the grinding despotism of the Ottoman Government, but after the liberation of Greece, the crop, which was only 2,500 tons in 1831, outside the production of the Ionian Isles, rose to 6,500 tons in 1845, to 27,000 in 1851, and in 1860 to 52,000, including 13,000 from the Ionian Isles. In 1871, 81,000, and in 1878, 101,000 tons were produced. In 1871, the Hellenic Parliament passed an act to facilitate the sale of national lands in small plots with the object of promoting the creation of peasant proprietors. A large area of this land, chiefly in Peloponnesus, was planted with currant vines, and in the years 1877-8 these plants began to give full crops. The production then over-ran the consumption, and, the supply being in excess of the demand, prices fell to the lowest level on record.

About this time the phylloxera was committing enormous ravages, which reduced the French vintage to less than one-half of ils former yield, and to considerably less than what was required for the consumption of France itself. The French wine trade sought to supply the deficiency by manufacturing wine from dried currants. Currant wine factories were established all over France, and, in spite of an imposition of a considerable dutv. in the year 1889-90, France imported and turned into wine more than 70,000 tons of currants. The currant wine soon became very popular in France, as it was superior to any rough wine of the country, especially in its keeping qualities. While this was going on, the phylloxera had been partly conquered by replanting the vineyards with American stock, which were proof against the insects. The French home production of wine had begun to increase and the price to fall.

The wine-growers thereupon set to work to find the cause, and a violent agitation was set on foot in favor of protection. A law was passed that wine made from currants was to bear a special mark on the casks that it was currant wine, or the seller would incur heavy penalties. In August, 1890, a manufacturing duty was imposed on currant wine equal to 4s. 8d per cwt. of currants, and in 1892 the French protective tariff raised the import duty on currants to 6s. per cwt., but the manufacturing duty at the same time was reduced to 1s. 7d per cwt. Nevertheless, the wine-growers continued to denounce currants as their arch enemy, and the import duty was again raised to 10s. per cwt. Even this was insufficient to kill the industry, and finally an enormous duty was put on, the final charges making in all 30s. 7d per cwt., or 500 per cent. on the original value of the raw material.

It will be noticed that France appeared as a consumer of currants in 1878, just in time to put an end to a crisis which threatened the numerous class of currant growers. As soon as the danger passed and a market appeared to have been found for currants at remunerative prices, this same class devoted itself to the increase of currant plantations. Not having the necessary capital, these proprietors borrowed it of local capitalists at high interest, on the mortgage of their estates. With these forces in operation, Greece produced in 1888 twice as many currants as were produced in 1876.

The crop of 1875, of 72,300 tons, realized an average price of 23s. per cwt. in bond; the crop of 1877, of 80,860 tons, realized only about 8s., or one-third of the price realized by the 1875 crop. It occurred to Mr. Burlumi that this small excess of 10 per cent., which affected the price of the whole crop, might be diverted to other uses, and that the fruit offered to other countries should be regulated so as not to exceed their requirements. He then proposed that the State should take the land tax in kind, and the total of the tax should be equal to the excess of the estimated production of the coming season over the universal consumption of the last. In supporting this proposal, it was shown that the fall in price—to much below the cost of production—was not due to competition of a similar article produced in another country, but to the competition of the Greek currant growers themselves. However, Mr. Burlumi's plan, although it attracted general attention at the moment, was forgotten with the advent of the French demand, which seemed to have put an end to the crisis. Mr. Burlumi however, foresaw that the great French consumption was only temporary, and he felt sure that a greater crisis was likely to befall the currant industry. This came in November, 1893. In May of that year the lowest price in the London market was 21s. per cwt., and in November of the same year, in consequence of an abundant crop in Greece, and a large vintage in France, the same currants were offered at 6s. per cwt. only, equal to a total loss of the fruit, and, in addition, of 2s. 6d per cwt. for charges—the duties, taxes, freight and other disbursements being no less than 8s. 6d per cwt.

This unprecedented fall in the value of currants led to disastrous consequences. Scores of the most important currant houses of Greece fell, and the whole commercial class of the Peloponnesus, and almost of the whole kingdom, reeled under the terrible blow. The capital value of the currant plantations was twenty millions of pounds before the crisis, and this value had disappeared with the disappearance of all net income. Mortgagees could get no interest on their loans, and no one would lend a farthing on the security of a currant plantation. Many of the large proprietors offered to let their lands for nothing, in order to save them from ruin. The foreign money brought into the country by the sale of currants was the life-blood of almost every industry—and when this blood ceased to flow everything was paralyzed. Wages, rents, etc., fell over 50 per cent., and the depreciation of paper money reduced the purchasing power of the curtailed incomes still further. This crisis was brought about partly by the increase of production which in 1893 reached 165,000 tons, but principally by the decrease of the consumption in France. Growers thereupon realized the position, and, while it was generally agreed that something had to be done, there was very little agreement as to what course should be taken.

The Chamber of Commerce of Patras formed a committee, of which Mr. Burlumi was one. He drew up a report in favor of the State regulation of the export of currants. This regulation was to take the form of retention of a certain percentage on the quantity declared for exportation. The percentage retained was to be deposited by the shipper in Government stores, and this fruit was not to be exported in its natural state, but to be used in Greece solely for manufacturing purposes. While the shippers adopted this attitude the authorities were not yet convinced of the necessity for action. Later on, a parliamentary committee of 40 members was appointed to go into the question, and the committee recommended the adoption of the measure proposed by the Patras Chamber of Commerce. In 1894, the Greek premier brought in a bill putting these proposals into effect, but it was not passed owing to the unsatisfactory way in which it had been drawn. The bill was afterwards modified, and was ultimately lost by a majority of two.

The rejection of this bill was followed by a further fall in the price until the lowest on record was reached in April. In fact, the grower was obtaining about 9d per cwt., out of which he had to pay the cost of production, amounting to more han fifteen times that sum, without allowing one penny for interest on capital. A demand for 10,000 tons of currants from Russia raised the hopes of the growers, but it turned out that Russia could only take currants at a price lower than the cost of production. The crop of 1894 could not be disposed of on better conditions than that of 1893, and the agitation in favor of State intervention commenced afresh.

* * *

The prospect of the failure of another crop made the poorer class of growers desperate, and the newspapers were full of heartrending reports from the places in distress. The public press began to interest itself in the question, and the Acropolis, one of the leading Greek daily papers, sent a representative to London, who interviewed the leaders of the dried fruit trade, and all of them, without a dissentient voice, supported the scheme, on the ground that the consumer has no interest in the ruin of the producer of an article which he wants to buy. Currants could not be produced at the prices then obtained, and the consequence would be restriction of production, and the diminution of supplies would necessarily lead to undue appreciation.

On the re-assembling of the Greek Chamber, the question again came forward, and led to a great deal of discussion. At the end of 1894 a resolution was carried in favor of the principle of retention; a bill was thereupon introduced, but it did not meet with favor, and a dissolution followed. The new chamber was opened in June 1895, and when the agitation in favor of state intervention was again at fever heat, a bill was brought in, and eventually it became law. The main provisions of this Act, as well as the legislation that has since followed it, are well known, and it is unnecessary for us to recapitulate them here.

NO RECIPROCITY WITH U. S.

A discussion on commercial conditions between the United States and Canada was held at the White House between the President and James McMullen, a member of the Canadian Senate, who was presented by Senator Warner (Missouri).

"A few years ago," said Senator McMullen, "a strong movement was started for reciprocity between the United States and Canada, but with us the subject now is scarcely mentioned. Our people are becoming convinced that they must look abroad for an outlet for their surplus products. Our producers are able now to lay down in Great Britain fruit, fresh meat, and other perishable stuff in as good condition as we can put them into the United States. They are building up a fine export business and are very prosperous. If we should enter into a reciprocity agreement with the United States, we should be obliged to change our relations with Great Britain. Our people have no desire to do that. In Great Britain and in some foreign markets Canada is a competitor of the United States.

"In other respects, our people entertain the most friendly feeling for the people of the United States."

PEANUT HARVEST.

January is the month when American peanuts are harvested. There is a short crop this year, which has caused the producers to demand a high price. The Americans consume annually 6,000,000 bushels of peanuts at a cost of over $14,000,000.

THE GOVERNMENT ANALYST ON ADULTERATION AND HOW TO SUPPRESS IT.

Dr. J. T. Donald, official analyst to the Dominion, in a lecture at the Natural History Society, Montreal, on "Food Adulteration," said :

"Food adulteration and the efforts of communities to suppress the same is, in one respect, a very old story, and yet in another sense it is a very modern matter. A knowledge of the composition of food is dependent on analytical chemistry, and this science, as applied to foods, is one of the last few decades only.

"It was in 1875," the lecturer continued, "that the first Act of Parliament in our own land taking cognizance of the adulteration of foods was passed. The Act under which the country's food is now protected by the Government is known as the Adulteration Act, which was passed in 1886, and to which amendments have been made from time to time.

* * *

"The carrying out of the provisions of this Act is entrusted to the Inland Revenue Department, and is largely in the hands of the Deputy Minister of that department. There is a principal laboratory at Ottawa with a chief analyst, and a competent laboratory staff under the control of one of the first chemists on the continent. In addition, there are official analysts at various important centres from Halifax to Victoria. Officials known as food inspectors collect samples throughout the country by purchasing them as an ordinary householder would.

"The samples are sent to the head laboratory, or to the official analysts of the various districts. All reports as to purity, or otherwise, of these samples are sent to the chief analyst, who in turn reports to the Deputy Minister. The latter, in consultation with the Minister and the chief analyst, decides as to the best way in which to deal with manufacturers who are guilty of adulteration. Sometimes delinquents are warned, and, it may be said, that warning is often more effective than harsher measures would be. At other times, legal action is taken, and fines are inflicted on adulterators. This course was pursued lately in connection with the adulteration of maple syrup.

"At frequent intervals the Government issues bulletins setting forth the results of analyses, giving the names of sellers and manufacturers of adulterated goods. These publications are very powerful influences for good. A manufacturer whose foods are reported as adulterated, very soon finds that such a report handicaps him in the race with his competitors, who use a good report as a powerful advertisement.

* * *

"The first report on adulteration in Canada was issued in 1876. Over half of the various samples analysed during that year were found to be adulterated. Every single sample of cloves, cinnamon, ginger, and mustard was adulterated. The work of the Government has immensely improved matters. Adulteration, it is true, still goes on, but there has been a vast improvement. In the early years the adulteration of milk was carried on to such an extent that about 68 per cent. of the samples examined were adulterated, whilst during the last few years adulteration has been found in only about 10 per cent. of the samples examined. In the case of coffee, instead of 75 per cent. of early years, adulteration has declined to about 40 per cent. of the samples collected. In 1876, from 80 per cent. to 90 per cent. of the samples of pepper analysed were adulterated, whereas now only 25 per cent. of such samples show adulteration.

"The work done by the Government analysts shows that at the present time adulteration is practically unknown in many of our standard foods. Adulteration is not found in flour, cereals, butter, cheese, lard, canned fruits, vegetables, meats, tea, and sugar. On the other hand, there is more or less adulteration in coffee, cocoa, milk, maple sugar, and syrup, spices, cream of tartar, jams, jellies, catsups, olive oil.

* * *

"In the list of goods subject to adulteration, the adulterants are not usually of harmful or dangerous character. For instance, coffee, when not pure, is usually mixed with roasted cereals and chicory. Starch or flour is added to cocoa, spices, cream of tartar, etc. Maple sugar is adulterated with ordinary cane sugar, whilst jams and jellies are composed in many cases largely of glucose and apple pulp.

* * *

"It may be asked why these adulterations are not suppressed? We have to deal with a difficult situation. If we take jams and jellies, for example, we find that the articles made with pure fruits and cane sugar, are expensive, and largely beyond the reach of the poor man. The manufacturer comes forward and says he can supply a cheaper article and yet a wholesome one, if he is allowed to use apple pulp, instead of the true small fruits, and glucose in place of the more expensive sugar. He claims that the eagerness with which certain classes of the community buy his goods proves that there is a necessity for these cheaper, but still wholesome, articles. To meet this situation the Government says you may manufacture and sell these articles, provided you mark them as "compound," in order to distinguish them from the genuine article. The same rule applies to coffee, cocoa, etc."

The question of artificial colors in jams, jellies, catsups, etc., was discussed. It was shown that these were used largely to meet the public demand, that these goods shall have a pleasing color. No doubt the articles in question would be better without these colors, for it has been shown that in general they retard digestion. At the same time the quantities used are so small that the amount consumed in an ordinary lifetime cannot be very large.

The manufacture of compound lard, which is a mixture of stearin and cotton-seed oil, was illustrated. It was explained that this is a distinct article of commerce. It is in no sense used as an adulterant, but is sold openly under its own name. The manufacturers supply it in pails of a special color, so that it may be distinguished from pure lard.

Finally, the question of preservatives in foods and meats was briefly touched upon.

The lecture was illustrated by experiments showing methods of detecting adulterations. By means of lantern slides the audience was introduced to the chief officials who have to do with the enforcement of the Adulteration Act, including the Deputy Minister, the chief analyst, and the chief of the laboratory.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR THE GROCER.

The delicatessen department of the grocery business offers one of the most promising fields for the employment of extra energy and capital by the grocers, as it seems to be capable of almost indefinite exploitation. We have urged the grocers to launch out more in the delicatessen department, and are glad to see the advice has been heeded by some of the dealers. The choicest grades sell in the delicatessen department although a few feet away the commonest groceries may be in demand.

It is a fact that in some stores where low grade flour, coffee and starch, cheap syrup, etc., are preferred to the better kinds because they cost less, the delicatessen counter will be selling some of the choicest preserved meats, game, etc.

Then the store that has never sold any sauces, pickles and salad dressing to speak of, is as likely as not to develop a lively trade in these goods as soon as the owner opens a delicatessen department.

In the delicatessen business cheese is near the throne, if it be not indeed the king. Here are kinds kept in stock by the better class of delicatessen stores : Gervais or cream cheese, Swiss or Gruyere cheese, Fromage de Brie, Roquefort, Gorgonzola, Philadelphia cream, Neufchatel, Camembert, Stilton, Cheddar, English dairy, rarebit cheese. Glass covers or glass show cases are indispensable when cheese is exhibited in the store or window. It helps the sale of fancy cheese if the dealers circulate leaflets containing receipts for preparing dishes in which the cheeses are used. From the tasteless domestic cheese, just from the factory, to the rich, highly flavored soft cheeses of the continent of Europe, the cry is far indeed, and yet many consumers are acquainted with no other kind of cheese than the simple domestic article. Is it not to be supposed that, if through the agency of the grocer's delicatessen department, they could be posted on the good points of fancy cheese, they would like to buy it with comparative freedom ?

SHIP PROMPTLY.

Country merchants should ship their eggs promptly. They are much more valuable to the commission man when they are fresh than when they have been held back for a month.

BUSINESS MANAGEMENT

By Howard R. Wellington.

SYSTEM IN A RETAIL STORE.

A great deal of time is devoted in these days of advanced business methods to the application of systems to every class of industrial pursuit. Care should be exercised, however, to avoid the introduction of systems which are cumbersome and necessitate a large amount of detail work with practically no better result than could be obtained by the adoption of a simple yet productive method. It is a question whether the business done by a retail store would warrant the expenditure of time and money necessary to maintain an elaborate system, but the following ideas may suggest some methods which might be adopted to advantage.

Stock.

Cards, alphabetically arranged according to the various lines carried in stock, may be used to keep an up-to-date record of the stock on hand.

Brushes.	Bought.			Sold.			In Stock.	Invoice Price		Selling Price.
S. P. & Co.	Apr.	10	60	Apr.	15	10	50		[illegible]		07

This card may be used also for a cash record of all invoices by the addition of other columns for further particulars, such as "List Price," "Net Price," "Advance on Cost," etc. It may seem at first sight that this record would entail a large amount of work, but if the posting is done daily from the sales record, the information which the cards contain will more than offset a few minutes extra work in keeping the cards up-to-date, and besides, the actual stock on hand and cost and selling prices may be obtained at once from the cards instead of counting stock or looking up the purchase invoice, as the case may be. Orders may be placed in time to re-stock goods which have run very low, thus avoiding the loss of sales necessitated by not having the goods in stock and a good assortment may be kept constantly on hand. Of course, if the merchant does most of the selling himself and can watch the stock carefully, and order accordingly, no such method would be necessary, but where several clerks are employed and the stock is being handled constantly, some systematic record of the stock should be kept.

Purchase Invoices.

A box file will be found a very convenient receptacle in which to keep the invoices for goods purchased until paid. When the goods are received and have been entered in a receiving book or checked off from the invoice, whichever method is employed, though different lines should be posted to the stock record cards, the invoice then being placed in the box file for payment. These invoices are filed alphabetically, according to the concern from which goods were purchased.

Paying Accounts.

To insure the saving of all cash discounts, if the retailer is in a position to take advantage of discounts allowed for short terms, the creditors should be notified to make drafts when the account becomes due. In this way the dealer is free from any anxiety in this regard. The statements when received may be checked off from the invoices and then attached, forming a complete record of the settlement, the net amount being charged direct to the "Merchandise Account." If it is convenient to protect drafts, or if the retailer prefers to pay by cheque, or by other means, and also wishes to take advantage of cash discounts, the statements may be arranged according to due date and settlements made accordingly, although the draft method will be found less cumbersome.

Sales Record.

The method in general use is the duplicate "cash" or "charge" books, a complete record being kept of all sales, whether cash or on credit. Several of the books may be in use at one time, but if the amounts of each sale are recorded carefully on the recapitulation sheet provided for this purpose at the end of the book, the total sales may be obtained. A column should be provided for "cash sales" and "charge sales," the total of the "cash sales" column agreeing at the end of the day with the amount received by the cashier from the different salesmen. The original of the "cash sales" slip should be handed to the cashier with the cash. The "charge sales" slips are marked or stamped "charge" and the original sent along with the goods to the customer as an invoice, the duplicate remaining in the "sales book" to be charged to the customer direct. The sales slips are numbered, and in this way every slip may be accounted for, either through the original in the hands of the cashier or through the charge direct to the customer.

If the stock cards are kept, the posting of different lines sold may be made right from these sales slips each day, and the balance of stock on hand ascertained at any time without actually taking stock.

THE NIMBLE PENNY.

Quite a common error with the small retailer, particularly the young retailer, is taking too liberal advantage of quantity prices, says an exchange. The extra discount on a big order in one line is a big temptation, but it is the nimble penny that catches the money. Many a store and many a business is loaded down with these same large orders, bought at a big discount and kept at a great expense of tied-up capital while they are being unloaded. It costs less freight, but the interest on the money invested is more than enough to cover the extra freight. Freight only has to be paid once, while interest is a constant expense, whether it applies to tied-up or to borrowed capital. How many men have seen opportunities of some special nature escape that they would most gladly have embraced if they had felt able to afford it; opportunities that only required perhaps a small part of the idle capital represented by many an unwise purchase!

One fact, like the beggars, we have always with us: that some unwise purchases will surely be made. The best of buyers have often to regret their liberality in some direction; seldom is any buyer worthy of the name called on to seriously regret his parsimony. Big discounts are a fine thing for those who can afford them, but let the little fellow rather aim to keep his capital rolling over so actively that it will earn him greater interest than the discounts represent. It can be done. Why not do it?

LOOSE LEAF SYSTEMS NOW A NECESSITY.

There are very few business houses today who do not use some form of the loose leaf system in one or more departments of their business. It is no longer experimental, but is recognized as an absolute necessity by progressive business houses generally.

The advantages of the loose leaf system are now so well known that we will not go into detail further than to say that the idea permits of adaptability to meet to best advantage changing business conditions. It permits of any classification and the maintenance of the arrangement continuously or as desired. This system permits the greatest amount of information to be kept in condensed form, in the least time, and the most accurate manner. Accounts and records of all kinds can be kept by this system in any business, large or small, with equal advantage.

ANTIQUITY OF TEA.

The tea plant, a tree allied to the camellia, grows wild in Assam, and there is a legend that it was carried to China by an Indian traveler in the sixth century B.C. Be this as it may, tea was a national beverage among the Chinese in the early centuries of this era, when mead was the national drink of the western world, and there was a Celestial tax upon tea as far back as 793.

GOOD ADVERTISING

A department devoted to the improvement of Retail Advertising. The editor of this department will be pleased to answer questions on advertising and review any advertisements submitted to him.

W. C. LATIMER'S ADVERTISEMENT.

The Beaverton Express has no reason to complain of W. C. Latimer's advertising patronage. Two advertisements of Mr. Latimer's that appeared in the Express are forwarded for criticism. The one that is herewith reproduced in miniature was about 220 lines deep and about 5 columns wide — certainly so small advertisement. The other was about 150 lines deep and 3 columns wide.

* * *

I don't like the word "cheap" as a slogan. It implies more than low prices and has a detractory effect. Then, in the semi-panelled corners it is stated that "Latimer's entire stock of clothing, furs, gents' furnishings, boot (boots), shoes, and rubber stock must be reduced in this great 10-day sale." "Reduced" should have been "cleared out," or something synonymous.

"12,000 worth of millinery," etc., would have been more correct than the present "$12,000 in millinery," etc. "An unusual large stock" obviously should have been "an unusuallv large stock."

* * *

The subsidiary heading, "Fall and Winter Clothing," etc., could easily be better arranged. I would have had something like the following: "Fall and Winter Clothing, Overcoats, Tweeds, Gents' Furnishings, Ladies' Jackets, Skirts, Dress Goods, Millinery, Furs, Boots and Shoes, Crockery, Glassware, etc."

* * *

"Our grocery stock will compare with any town in Canada for qualities and prices" should have been "The quality and prices of our grocery stock will compare favorably with the quality and prices of any other grocery stock in Canada"—that is, if such a sweeping declaration was to be made.

* * *

"More" should have been transposed to a place between "few" and "dozen" in the opening sentence under "millinery," and the word "out" might have appeared after "clear." The next sentence should have stopped at "amount."

* * *

The little talk about "Underwear," confined to practically one sentence, should have been divided into about three sentences, and certain words and expressions left out. The first change would be to make "If there is any wise men," "If there are any wise men."

* * *

The following typographical errors occurred in the advertisement under review: Spaces transposed and omitted in the line reading "Entire stock of"; wrong font "2" in "$12,000.00"; "o" for "a" in "bargains"; turned "s" in "purchaser"; cap "I" for lower case "l" in "glassware"; "Ladie's" for "Ladies'" in the paragraph headed "coats"; "ff" for "fi" in the word "figures" under "Big Sale of Boots and Shoes." This does not, by any means, include all the errors.

* * *

Yet despite these blemishes there is something about Mr. Latimer's advertisement that appeals to one. The chief and subsidiary headings both stand out prominentlv. The illustrations are suitable, the border is not too heavy, nor does the division of items by turned rules appear as grotesque as do some in many of the advertisements sent to me.

* * *

My criticism is registered against a few of the parts that go to make up the plan of this advertisement, but it is not registered against the plan itself.

* * *

W. C. Latimer's plan is a good one for this particular case—a special sale. The items are grouped off with uniformity and due regard to relevancy.

* * *

But I claim that art and business can go together in an advertisement — that there can be good arrangement, good phraseology and good typography.

If I didn't believe what I have just said it would be mere cavil on my part to find the faults I have found. On the other hand, to tell a grocer he has prepared a first-class advertisement when he has not benefits the grocer little and robs this department of its usefulness.

* * *

I am anxious to see the grocers of this country develop a true advertising spirit and at the same time enough sagacitv to know advertising values from a purely business standpoint.

* * *

To further this end, if any grocer will send me a rough draft of a circular he intends issuing, I shall be pleased to give him my opinion on it.

* * *

A criticism of Mr. Latimer's other advertisement will appear at another time.

IDEAS FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS.

THE PRICE OF SUCCESS.

The receipts for success are so many and so vivid now-a-days that one might think all young men lucky enough to step on the stage at this particular moment would infallibly reach the goal.

Yet now, as always, out of a score of young men who graduate from high school, each throbbing with high endeavor, perhaps one may be found a score of years later to have climbed much above the lower rounds of the ladder.

And the fact still stands that retail storekeepers who fail wholly far outnumber those who succeed largely, and that the great majority never achieve anything more than a mere livelihood.

Evidently, something more is needed than a simple recipe.

No two men who have reached that mystic goal called "Success" agree in reciting all the steps of the journey, but all agree in the first step, which is concentration.

It is the man who brings to bear on his chosen business every last ounce of mental and physical energy he can summon, who wins.

Take care of your business, if you want your business to take care of you. Live close to it. Think it. Eat it. Sleep it. Know it from stem to stern, from hold to topsail.

We respect the man who deliberately chooses to be content with a small business—who, with his eyes open, is willing to step aside and let the throng of rivals for material success sweep by him. But he who yearns for material success and then fritters away his energies has no claim on our respect or our sympathy.

The retail merchant who mixes society or horse-racing with his storekeeping may get more fun out of life than he who does not, but he will not make the success of his business that he might have made.

Do not have too many irons in the fire. Every outside interest will decrease the energy with which you push your main business. Let your competitor run a farm or a factory "on the side." He'll have just so much the less energy to put into the store.

Concentration is the price of success.

KEEP PERSONAL FEELINGS DOWN

Don't allow your personal feelings to influence you in the day's work. If you will look at it clearly you will see how easy it is to get ahead of the fellow who allows personal feeling to sway him in business. I know a man who was the head of a department who took a dislike to one of the men under him because the man had an independent air that the head of the department did not think was becoming to a mere working man. The dislike grew in his mind to such an extent that it didn't leave room to see any good in the other fellow at all. When the other fellow made a suggestion or advanced a proposition it was sometimes politely and sometimes brusquely turned down.

One day the man who was always being turned down offered one of his ideas to an opposition firm, and they gave him a good job with a desk to sit at and lots more pay than he had been getting. The idea turned out such a good one that the head of the house the man with the idea had left inquired into the facts of the case. When he had the story all in hand he didn't say anything to the head of the department who had let the idea get away, but when his contract to the firm ran out six months later it was not renewed.

When Franklin McVeigh, the Chicago merchant, was making his institution one of the largest of its kind, he was asked to referee a quarrel between two valuable men in one department. He told them that no man with sense would allow personal feelings to bother the day's work, but inasmuch as they were both old employes, he would try to straighten out the trouble, and gave each of them charge of a different department and put a new man in the charge of the one they had been quarreling in. They both felt they had been wronged and sulked instead of going to work to redeem themselves. One of them finished his career with the house running the employes' elevator and the other man got lost in the shuffle somewhere. Personal habits. like bad habits, have to be left aside unless you have enough money to indulge in them so that you can stand for a loss if they warp your judgment.

DON'T BE TOO CAUTIOUS.

The best advice a merchant can give to a young man who enters his employ to learn the business or art of selling goods, is, "Don't be afraid of making mistakes." The man who never made a mistake never amounted to anything. This point finds striking illustration in the story told by Success of the late Ellen D. Jordan, the millionaire drygoodsman of Boston.

One day he inquired of one of his lieutenants :

"What sort of a fellow is Smith ?"

"The best sort," replied the lieutenant.

"I am glad to hear that," said Mr. Jordan. "He has had charge of this department for ten years, I believe."

"Yes, sir, and he has a great record. He has never made a mistake."

"Eh ? What's that ? Discharge him at once."

"Sir ?" stammered the surprised subordinate.

"No, on second thought," continued Mr. Jordan, "you needn't discharge him right away. I'll give him another chance. Send him in to me."

When Smith showed up he said to him, in substance : "I don't like men who never make mistakes. What I need here is a progressive man—one with plenty of push and enterprise. Now, a man who is full of zeal for me and primed with ambition for himself is sure to make a mistake now and then.

"The man who never blunders is too cautious, too slow to be worth much. I have had a statement made out showing me the percentage of increase or decrease in the business of each department. Your department is the only one that causes me any uneasiness. I find the reason to be that you are too infernally cautious. You never make any mistake !"

FROM CANDLES TO CABINET.

It may not be generally known that the Right Hon. John Burns worked as a boy in Price's Patent Candle Works, London, Eng., and the directors of Price's Patent Candle Company. Limited, have just sent the right hon. gentleman a letter conveying the congratulations of the directors, the staff, and the workmen of the firm upon his appointment in the British Cabinet.

GROCERS' CLERKS AND TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

With a view to encouraging the development of the technical education movement amongst grocers' assistants in England, a leading firm in the trade has presented a handsome lantern and slides, through Mr. J. Aubrey Rees, to the National Association of Grocers' Assistants. The popular lecture on "Technical Education," which Mr. Rees has already given in several towns, will be repeated this year in other parts of the country, and the gift mentioned above will enable the lecturer to add to the interest of the lecture by giving various illustrations of trade commodities.

A SMART BOY.

A story is going the rounds regarding the action of a certain Tasmanian who is now holding a responsible position in a grocery establishment on the northwest coast of Tasmania.

The individual concerned was engaged as grocery boy, when an old lady entered and asked, "Have you any red cabbage plants ?" "No," said the boy, "but we will be having some shortly." "Well," said the old lady, "I want sixpennyworth." "If you care to pay for them now, madam," said the lad, "I will send them along to you when they come in." The old lady remarked that that would do nicely, paid her sixpence and departed.

Now, what do you think the boy did ? He bought threepennyworth of seed and planted it in the back yard. In due time the old lady received a portion of the crop. Thus the transaction ended with profit and satisfaction to all concerned.

That boy is now first counter hand in the grocery department of that store, and you should see him smile when red cabbages are mentioned.

SEASONABLE REVIEWS OF SOUVENIRS AND BOOKLETS.

Since the opening of the year The Grocer has been the recipient of many neat and attractive book and card souvenirs from many friends and many places.

Hillcrest Orchards, Kentville, N.S.

From N. S. we have an exceedingly attractive double post card, one card showing a Summer orchard scene, with trees in full bloom. The picture has been taken from an eminence, and gives about as realistic a view of a growing orchard as is possible. On the outside are five small and effective orchard scenes. The sister card is one similar in every respect, except that the scene is a Winter one of the same orchard; the contrast of the two cards is most effective.

What perhaps is most noticeable in these cards is the small amount of advertising upon them, which is practically reduced to a simple statement, viz.: Ralph S. Eaton, Hillcrest Orchards, Kentville, N. S.

G. T. Rogers, Cranbrook, B.C.

From the other end of the Dominion we have a little card of kindly wishes from our friends, G. T. Rogers and staff, Cranbrook, B.C., which in itself is a novelty to be kept, seeing that it contains a set of photos of the whole staff.

Short & Co., Montreal.

Short & Co., of Montreal, have sent us a tasty little calendar card scenery, which we presume is of far distant Japan, as this firm are Canadian agents for Shirkigumi Co., Kobe, Japan, makers of fancy goods.

Old Homestead.

"Searching the globe to find a spot where Old Homestead goods are not consumed" is the text of advertisement of a 1906 wall calendar, issued by the Old Homestead Canning Co., Picton, Ont. The picture is from Louis Moeller's "Home Again," and shows three of the old school closely scrutinizing a globe. The calendar is destined to be eagerly sought for by any home or office both for ornament and utility.

H. Andiamio, Congleton, Eng.

From the Old Country we have been reminded that enterprise is not yet dead in the good old mother land, for we have before us a kind of booklet and price list combined from H. Andiamio & Co., Congleton, England. This firm is known as suppliers of high-class cigars, and the booklet bristles with testimonials from many well-known in high places in Great Britain. It contains, too, some useful and instructive hints.

C. and B. Illustrated.

Crosse & Blackwell, Limited, have sent us one of their latest catalogues. The get up of this booklet is really superb, containing, as it does, fac simile of all their manufactures. It is elaborately illustrated and highly colored to imitate their various products. Reading matter is conspicuous by its absence, the idea apparently being to familiarize the buyer with the goods themselves. A truly handy reference for every trader to have.

United Factories.

United Factories, Limited, have just issued a nicely bound and fully illustrated catalogue of Boeckh's brushes and brooms, and Cane's Newmarket woodenware, for the grocery trade and general stores. It also contains a large assortment of baskets, mops, mats, butterware and a full line of grocers' sundries. Any dealer desiring a copy of this catalogue may have one sent to him by applying to the head office in Toronto. It will suggest much to the enterprising grocer.

Griffin & Co., Winnipeg.

J. Y. Griffin & Co., Limited, of Winnipeg, have issued a new price list, a copy of which is before us. The frontispiece shows their extensive works at Louise bridge, Winnipeg, while the inside teems with good things to tempt the epicure. The different brands of hams, meats, etc., with the prices opposite are set up in clear, striking type, so that he who runs may read. On the back cover is a brief resume of the progress of the firm since 1880; and the advance made since then is certainly something to be proud of.

E. W. Gillett Company.

The neat attractive booklet issued by the E. W. Gillett Co., Limited, is not elaborate, but it is in excellent taste and has an attractiveness which holds one's attention throughout. The cuts of the entrance, the general manager's office, and the general offices, show signs of the prosperity which has attended the E. W. Gillett Co. during the comparatively few years they have been in business. The interiors of the offices combine beauty and utility, every late improvement for convenience of transacting business being there. On the back cover is shown an exterior view of the plant.

The Red Feather Co.

The Red Feather Co. has issued a very handsome book of labels for canned goods which could not fail to attract the purchaser's eye and make a good impression. The samples cover a complete line of fruits and smaller vegetables that are put up for the trade. A special brand of salmon is also on the list. The raspberry and strawberry labels are particularly enticing in appearance. They have the rich, natural color of the freshly plucked fruit, and stand out in clear embossing. A cluster of cherries with a touch of green foliage is also very attractive. The tomatoes, peas, beans, etc., follow the berries, and are as nearly as possible true representations of the natural product. Each label has the company's registered trade mark—the "Red Feather" standing out prominently. Altogether the labels are a credit to the designer, and will present a good appearance on the grocer's shelves.

An Egg-o-See Pamphlet.

"Back to nature" is the title of an attractive booklet which has fallen into our hands. The "get up" of the book itself is sufficient to whet the appetite. It is at once artistic and inviting, and the temptation to peruse its contents is irresistible. The Egg-o-See Cereal Co. has certainly struck a happy idea in issuing a pamphlet which gives so much information and advice in so small a compass. It deals with the question of diet in a specific and conclusive way, and the reader cannot fail to leave its pages a better and wiser man, even though he were never persuaded to adopt Egg-o-See diet. In addition to dealing with the science of diet, and giving a full week's menu table compiled by an expert, it gives a sort of synopsis of manual exercise for both men and women, which will be studied with the greatest interest by both young and old. The illustrations are such that a child could follow the lessons described. Finally are given several pages of very useful receipts, inexpensive, nourishing and appetizing.

CRANSTON NOVELTY CO.

The Cranston Novelty Co. have removed from Galt to the Medical Council Chambers, 157 Bay street, Toronto, Canada. This company manufacture and supply aluminum, brass and silver trade checks for all purposes, advertising coins, stencils, seals, signs, calendars, office specialties and necessaries, brushes, coat and skirt hangers, and general advertising novelties.

Mr. J. K. Cranston, manager of the company, has had experience in many fields of industry and this insight into things commercial no doubt accounts for the practicality of the Cranston check systems, all of which, we are informed, are legal.

BEET SUGAR BOUNTIES.

The returns of the Wallaceburg and Berlin sugar beet factories have been received by the Provincial Secretary, because the industry receives a bounty from the Government of one-half a cent per pound. From the Wallaceburg factory 11,276,066 lbs. were turned out, and from Berlin 9,510,753. The total bounty in one year must not exceed $75,000; according to the terms of the Act, so the companies will have to share this sum this year. This means that the Wallaceburg concern will get $40,684.68, while $34,315.32 will go to Berlin. The Act granting the bounties set aside $375,000 for the purpose, and next year's bounties will exhaust this amount. The total bounty has been earned for the first time during the past year, but the firms came very close to it in the two preceding years.

BUSINESS MEN AND LEGAL COMBINATIONS.

Lawyers have been having a busy time lately in investigating the workings of different associations of manufacturers and merchants. From the evidence that has been brought out in these investigations it is quite evident that there was need for the investigation, although, as we pointed out in a former issue, their zeal has led them to the prosecution of associations which probably should have been left alone.

When the lawyers have completed their task would it not be well for the business men's organizations of this country to start an investigation of the combine that exists among lawyers? One thing is certain, there is a combination among lawyers and it is a combination so strong that it is master of the situation.

A lawyer has been described as "one who collects your money for you and appropriates it unto himself." While this is a somewhat exaggerated way in which to define a lawyer, everyone who has had experience with lawyers, and especially in cases before the courts, has come to the conclusion that the lion's share of the proceeds in most cases for the recovery of money goes to the lawyer and for other legal expenses.

There is no combination of business men that possesses the power the lawyers do. If business men, for example, were to state conditions and limitations under which men should enter into business, such a cry would rise up all over this country as would soon cause their dissipation. Practically, however, this is what the lawyers do.

Paradoxical as it may seem to say so, it is because the lawyers have largely the making of the laws of the land that we have a great deal of law and very little justice. As the law stands to-day, the complainant too often finds that while he gets the verdict the lawyers get nearly all the money which proceedings have been taken to recover.

There is no class in the community which feels as keenly as business men the unjust condition of affairs which exists in the administration of the law regarding business matters, largely because the legal profession is surrounded by a combination of the most objectionable description.

IMPROVE COMMERCIAL AGENCIES

The work done by the Canadian commercial agents has undoubtedly been a good one, and the results have fully proved the wisdom of establishing such branches of service. The importance of this work cannot be overestimated, and its extension and further development should be at once proceeded with.

The securing of markets and introduction of Canadian produce and manufactures into every possible land is of equal importance to the immigration movement, and should receive an equal amount of attention.

It is well understood that the commercial strength of a nation is measured by its export capacity. To be only self-supporting may appear nice reading, but is poor business. At the present moment our cousins across the border are somewhat alarmed at discovering that the very strong position they thought they had has been surely weakening, and that the last returns show a decrease in their exports and an increase in imports. Their discomfiture is clear proof, if proof were needed, of the value set on the export trade.

If, therefore, we are to see our country settle down on rock foundation, it must be by first extending her commerce so that reliable markets are secured with the least possible delay and expense to commerce. The first question for consideration, and by no means an unimportant one, is the kind of men which should be selected, and we say emphatically they should be, they must be, men of business—approved business ability—no novices or patronage men. The question is of too great moment to be trifled with. Upon these men to a large extent will be staked the rise or fall of Canadian commerce. The academic test is all right in its place, but is out of place here. A rigid examination in commercial methods and laws would be more to the point, combined with a particular aptitude to discover requirements and conditions of foreign markets.

It is not easy to find suitable men to fill the bill; many and varied are the services they will be called upon to perform. Quick perception, keen foresight, clear judgment, and a strong personality must be some of the prominent features in such men, for they will have to be advisors and confidential agents at all times and at a moment's notice.

The United States are just about to reorganize their consular service, and it is proposed to put it on a graduated line of service, each grade to be classified according to ability and experience. Probably something on this line would be a good idea for commercial agents. There would thus be an inducement to the younger men to push ahead for promotion.

The remuneration, too, is a point of great importance. These men should be paid a salary that will place them at once beyond suspicion or temptation, and provision made for them when compelled by age, or breakdown, to retire. And last, but not least, they should be kept in touch with their department long after their retirement, their experience and knowledge being of incalculable value.

DON'T CARRY OVER.

This is the season of the year when the wide-awake and up-to-date merchant in almost every line is spreading upon his tables his broken lines and stocks of goods which he does not wish to carry over another season. In nine cases out of ten he would rather get back his money actually invested than to leave it tied up in merchandise till another season rolls around. The shopper gets the advantage of this condition, but at the same time it is a wise policy to move all stock which would otherwise have to be carried. The first loss is the best loss.

BE PROMPT, BE FAITHFUL.

One of the most common failings in the business man of to-day—perhaps the most common—is his lack of promptness in action and faithfulness to his promise. The two things really go together; where you find one failing you are sure to find the other.

Quite recently the writer knew of a young man who had been promoted over the heads of older servants, on account of manifest ability, but he did not hold the new post six months—simply would not be prompt.

Another instance is of a large manufacturing firm, the manager of which will readily promise a date for delivery without giving careful thought to its possibility of fulfilment, and just as easily break that promise. On one occasion this ready promise cost the company a good deal of loss. A firm for whom they were making a special article for Summer use, was so distracted by the many disappointments that they at last made them carry the goods over for another season, thus locking up a large amount of capital.

Promptness in keeping promises or in turning out work of any kind plus thoroughness in following work up and following it through to the very end is a combination hard to beat (and hard to find. With a proper use of the desk tickler it is possible to work out such a combination most satisfactorily. This is the method advised by System :

Make a tickler slip for every promise given, file it far enough ahead of the date of promise to enable you to get started in ample time. When the time to start comes, start—"do it now." Don't put it off. If the work is something that demands your attention from day to day, or at frequent intervals, keep your tickler slip running ahead in your file to come up and jog your memory. If the completeness of the work depends upon several details, list these details on the slip, so that your attention will be called to each one and nothing overlooked.

If the slip covers work to which you alone are giving attention, it is simply a matter of keeping faith with yourself until the work is finished; if it is something you have turned over to others the slip should come up with about the same regularity, in order that you may thoroughly and tactfully follow it up to the end and keep in touch with the details. Always file a tickler covering work turned over to others at a date that will give you time to catch and rectify any mistakes, or to get things moving fast if they have been neglected or forgotten since they were first turned over. Make those under you or around you to whom you give out work keep your promises and act as promptly as you would yourself. There is nothing like the follow-up tickler to accomplish that.

Never make a promise that you cannot reasonably keep, and when you have once made it, live up to it. If unforeseen and unavoidable conditions arise to upset your plans, be careful to advise the one to whom the promise was made and give him a new promise. Always do this before he has had a chance to make any inquiries of you.

It is an excellent plan to work out everything you have to do to a definite date. If not required to make a promise to someone else, make one to yourself. Set a date for the completion of every task and hold to it.

Here is an altogether practical suggestion for the office man who is keen on self-improvement : See how long you can go without confessing that you forgot and without falling down on a promise. Keep a record for a year.

A GOOD DEAL IN A NAME.

There is sometimes a good deal in a name. At one time we had an office at room 1241, New York Life Building, Broadway, New York. This office was closed about a year ago, but since then it has been occupied by another firm boasting of the name of the McLean Publishing Co., the only difference between the name of our company and theirs being that they spell their name "McLean," whereas our firm name is spelled "MacLean." Although that company has no connection whatever with ours, some confusion has arisen.

Enquiries that have been made there have not led to the discovery of any person connected therewith who bears the name of McLean, nor have we discovered the character of the publication which they are supposed to issue. Why, therefore, our firm name has been retained we are at a loss to understand.

We trust that this notice will be sufficient to prevent further confusion.

QUALITY BEFORE QUANTITY.

Charles M. Schwab has uttered a note of warning to manufacturers in America regarding their output. A recent visit of his to the industrial establishments of Germany showed him clearly the reason of the German's success in the metal and other industries. Their love of research has taught them a thoroughness unheard of in this country. They aim at perfection, and are not satisfied until their object is achieved. Quantity with them is not thought of until quality is assured. They read and think and study and experiment, until some definite result has been attained. Himself a manufacturer on a large scale, Mr. Schwab was not slow to realize what the adoption of similar methods would mean in this country, and has already acted on his own suggestion regarding a better quality of output. He advocates more attention being paid to higher grades of manufacture.

Herein is a lesson for every manufacturer in Canada. With an ever increasing demand, our manufacturers are finding difficulty at times in keeping up with orders. Speed, economy of production, and quality, are paramount, the inevitable result of which is a tendency to forget that quality should be the first consideration. We in this country cannot afford to overlook the object lessons of older established countries. Our prospects to-day are not excelled, and our resources are incomparable, but we must remember that even so we cannot lead in industrial pursuits unless we lay broad and deep the foundation of quality, and having secured this the superstructure of quality will rise in towering strength.

IT DOESN'T PAY.

How much can a merchant afford to attack the methods of competitors, either in his home town or a department store in a neighboring city ? As a matter of fact, most of the outcry against opponents ends where it begins —in talk—and results only in some free advertising for the opposition.

Isn't there room enough for all, or, rather, so long as the hardwareman leaves so much of his own territory still unworked himself, isn't an occasional intruder about what he can expect ? If all the energy wasted in these fruitless criticisms were expended in working our own field a little more thoroughly, if all the grey matter expended in working out ingenious methods to circumvent the ways of certain other people, were used in the improvement of our own, it would be better for us, even if it did not restrain our enemies. One thing is certain, no one can be in two entirely different fights at once and devote his whole energies to either one. These trade wars look first-rate in print, but it is awful hard to growl and bite at the same time, and it is well for us to be sure that while we are doing our little act of working the growler some other dog may not be chewing up the bone.

OUR QUESTION PAGE

THE GROCER will be pleased to receive enquiries on any interesting subject, for answering on this page.

Ques.—A reader of The Grocer has written us asking: "Will you be kind enough to inform us how long paper sacks have been in use in the grocery business?"

Ans.—By paper sacks we presume our correspondent refers to the larger kind of bag commonly used for flour (50 to 90 lbs.) This sack has been used in England for a great number of years, certainly previous to the present generation. It is gradually giving way to the linen bag, which in fact has almost entirely replaced it on account of its extra strength. In Canada the paper sack has been brought prominently into use during the present generation and is now being largely brought to the front as a convenient method for handling less quantities than 100 lbs. The small paper bag is the natural evolution of the paper wrapper, and it would be difficult to place an exact time for its introduction.

Ques.—A British Columbia reader of The Grocer asks the following question: "I have a scheme in view of giving a cash discount of 5 per cent. off all grocery purchases (excepting flour and sugar) in the shape of a rebate check, good in trade in any article in glass or crockery ware. These checks are in the form of a small bill, value 1 cent, signed by myself with a rubber facsimile or signature. Will you kindly inform me whether this conflicts with the new Trading Stamps Act?"

Ans.—In replying to this question we will give the whole revised act as it appeared for publication. There are those who consider giving a discount check redeemable in goods is permissible, but the goods must be the property of the vendor and given on the premises where goods are purchased. The National Cash Register Company advise their customers that discount checks are legal as used by them. The act reads:

An Act in amendment of the Criminal Code, 1892.

His Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and House of Commons of Canada, enacts as follows:

1. The Criminal Code, 1892, is amended by inserting the following sections immediately after section 526:

"(a) The expression 'trading stamps' includes, besides trading stamps commonly so called, any form of cash receipt, receipt, coupon, premium ticket or other device, designed or intended to be given to the purchaser of goods by the vendor thereof or his employe or agent, and to represent a discount on the price of such goods or a premium to the purchaser thereof, which is redeemable either

"(i) by any person other than the vendor, or the person from whom he purchased the goods, or the manufacturer of the goods, or

"(ii) by the vendor, or the person from whom he purchased the goods, or the manufacturer of the goods, or in cash or goods not his property, or not his exclusive property, or

"(iii) by the vendor elsewhere than in the premises where such goods are purchased, ... or which does not show upon its face the place of its delivery and the merchantable value thereof, or is not redeemable at any time; but an offer, printed or marked by the manufacturer upon any wrapper, box, or receptacle in which the goods are sold, of a premium or reward for the return of such wrapper, box, or receptacle is not a trading stamp within the meaning of this section;

"(b) The expression 'goods' means anything which is merchandise or the subject of trade or manufacture;

"(c) The expression 'every one,' 'vendor,' 'purchaser,' 'merchant,' 'agent' or 'person' includes any partnership or company or body corporate.

"2. Every one is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to one year's imprisonment, and to a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, who, by himself or his employe or agent, directly or indirectly, issues, gives, sells or otherwise disposes of, or offers to issue, give, sell or otherwise dispose of trading stamps to a merchant or dealer in goods for use in his business.

"3. Every one is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to six months' imprisonment, and to a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars, who, being a merchant or dealer in goods, by himself or his employe or agent, directly or indirectly, gives or in any way disposes of, or offers to give or in any way dispose of trading stamps to a purchaser from him of any such goods.

"4. Every one is guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty dollars, who, being a purchaser of goods from a merchant or dealer in goods, directly or indirectly receives or takes trading stamps from the vendor of such goods or his employe or agent."

Any executive officer of a corporation or company guilty of an offence under subsection 2 or subsection 3 of the next preceding section who in any way aids or abets in or counsels or procures the commission of such offence, is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to the punishment stated in the said subsections respectively.

This Act shall not apply to any trading stamp issued by a manufacturer or vendor before the first day of November, one thousand nine hundred and five.

Ques.—Will smoked meats and salmon wrapped in manila paper and then parafined keep from molding in a damp climate?

Ans.—It depends to a very great extent on the thoroughness of the parafining. This should be so done as to make an air-tight package or it will prove ineffective. Of course even thorough parafining will not prevent molding for an indefinite period, but it will defer it for a reasonable time. See that the meats are thoroughly dried before wrapping them in the paper.

Ques.—Please tell me whether it is better to paint or stain an edge grain, fir floor. How should stain be applied?

Ans.—Provided the floor is smooth and clean, staining is preferable to painting, as the stain which soaks into the wood wears well and is very attractive. A very satisfactory staining material is a weak solution of permanganate of potash. This when first applied produces a wine color, but on exposure to the air quickly oxidizes, becoming a rich oak shade. In preparing the stain the permanganate of potash should be dissolved in water and diluted, and a little of it applied with a brush to a piece of smooth board of the same material as the floor; this should be allowed to stand exposed to the air for half an hour; if the color is too dark the stain must be further diluted with water until the desired shade is produced. The floor should be made very clean and dry, soiled places being sandpapered. One application of the stain should be given, and when thoroughly dry, one or two coats of good varnish should be given. This will protect the stain, leaving a beautiful surface in which the natural grain of the wood may be seen.

PROCEEDINGS AGAINST GUILD.

The proceedings against the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild on the charge of conspiracy in restraint of trade were to have begun in Hamilton on Wednesday morning. When the case was called, however, the parties were not ready and it was remanded till Thursday.

Mr. J. Stanley Cook, of Montreal, secretary of the guild, was present with the books and papers of the guild, which were handed over to Prosecuting Attorney Washington, who will in the meantime examine the documents.

The Attorney-General has granted an order permitting the defendants to be represented by counsel, and not in person, at the trial, which promises to be a long one.

The charge made against members of the guild is that certain firms have conspired to lessen competition and enhance prices. Upward of a score of wholesale grocery firms extending throughout the country are more or less interested in the case.

TO WINNIPEG AND THE COAST.

Mr. W. H. Millman, of the firm of W. H. Millman & Sons, grocery brokers, expects to leave here Monday next, 12th inst., for the west, calling at Winnipeg, Brandon, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria, combining business with pleasure. During his trip he intends visiting his son, P. F. Millman, who is secretary for the Southern Okanagan Land Company headquarters, Penticton, B.C.

TORONTO GROCERS AT HOCKEY.

Two games of hockey were played this week at Varsity rink for the Tillson trophy, Grocer Brokers defeating H. P. Eckardt & Co. 5 to 0, and James Lumbers defeating Canada Grocers 9 to 2. This gives the Brokers a good lead. The standing to date is as follows:

T. K. & Co.	2	1	5
Jas. Lumbers	2	2	4
Grocers	2	1	5

RETAIL MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATIONS AND THEIR PROBLEMS*

There is nothing truer in this world than that "In union there is strength." You realize that relief must be obtained from certain business conditions, and if you would accomplish these reforms you must organize. No great reform was ever accomplished except through organized effort. A strong united organization of honest, fearless men, honestly and fearlessly directed, is practically invincible. This truth has been demonstrated from time immemorial. The moral tone and business capabilities of an association are no higher than the personal and business qualifications of its membership. "A river never rises above its source," therefore the first requisite to membership in such an association is high moral character and business ability.

Mercantile Integrity.

I think we agree that to be a worthy member of an association the retail merchant must possess integrity and sound business principles. Character determines the man. It is the measure of his value in society, in the business world and in the state. Addison has said, "There are no more worthy members of a commonwealth than its merchants. They knot mankind together in a mutual intercourse of good offices, distribute the gifts of nature, give work to the poor, wealth to the rich and distinction to the great." Shakespeare immortalized your business when he wove about the character of one of your calling his greatest comedy, Antonio, the Merchant of Venice, was the soul of honor. As you know, he gave his bond for his friend, and though its requirements were unjust and unreasonable, he did not falter when the time came to meet his obligation. Shakespeare, in his works, refers over fifty times to merchants and merchandising. All of his references are commendatory of your calling. He recognized the important part which you play in the world's history and the affairs of mankind.

Charity of the Retailer.

The retail merchants throughout this great land are daily, hourly, silently doing works of kindness and philanthropy of which we never hear. Their praises remain unsung. What man is there among you who cannot relate, if he would, the numberless times he has extended to some unfortunate that credit which enabled him and his family to live, which enabled him to occupy his place in society, and to either regain his health, if it were sickness that had overtaken him, or to secure employment if he were financially embarrassed. These acts of kindness he is continually doing, thereby aiding in sustaining the social fabric and in the uplifting of its members. Sometimes, unfortunately, he receives in return for his acts of beneficence only base ingratitude, but, fortunately, such cases are rare. This is the most effective philanthropy, for it is applied when most needed.

Harmony in Trade.

We believe that to get the fullest benefits from retail merchant associations there must be perfect harmony and accord extending from the local association, through the state association, into the national organization. Our company has realized from the commencement of its business that cooperation and reciprocity with your organization is absolutely necessary, and there must exist that feeling of mutual interest if either retailer or manufacturer would succeed. We have always conducted our business with this idea in view, considering the retail merchant the natural distributor of our product, and, consequently, have always, (and always will) refused to sell mail order and catalogue houses. While this is one of the most important problems affecting the retail merchants at the present time, we will touch but briefly upon it, as this question will be more fully and ably discussed by one of the speakers to follow.

To Meet Mail Order Houses.

We believe that the mail order and catalogue house competition, and the parcels post and postal currency question, are so closely allied in their bearing for the retail merchants' interests and business welfare, that to check and correct the influence of one is to curtail the evil effect of the other. We would suggest as a means of meeting mail order and catalogue house competition, first, that the retail merchant individually should in every way improve upon his present business methods. Make your store more attractive, insist upon more courteous treatment of your customers by your clerks, and make it more desirable for consumers to come in personal contact with yourselves in making their purchases. Use your personality, study the characteristics of your customers, for in this respect the catalogue houses are at a decided disadvantage.

Retailer's Personality.

No matter how cleverly worded an advertisement may be, or how attractive the prices displayed in their catalogue, they cannot compare with the pleasing personality and the attractive display of the actual goods. Another suggestion: The retail merchant should confine himself to the sale of widely advertised goods of standard quality. We believe that the retail merchant individually, and if possible the associations, should use cleverly worded advertisements in their local papers, calling attention to the benefit of purchasing goods locally, and appealing to the patriotism and local pride of the consumer. The consumer should be convinced that a dollar spent locally will return partially, at least, to enrich the spender, but that the same amount sent to a mail order house goes out of circulation in that community.

We believe that the retail merchant, to a great extent, has the remedy for this evil in his own hands. If he will consistently and persistently refuse to purchase or sell the product of any manufacturer who recognizes these houses and sells to them on a jobbing basis, he will very shortly bring about the conditions which he desires. You, gentlemen, must not forget that you are the great distributors and that the mail order houses are decidedly in the minority. You have the power, if you will only use it.

In devising ways and means to meet this undesirable competition is where the influence and benefit of the retail merchants' associations comes in. While to a certain degree each member of an association must be a healthy competitor of his brother member, on questions of this kind he should show a united front to the common enemy.

The Premium Evil.

One of the worst evils that the retail merchant is contending with at the present time is the practice on the part of certain manufacturers of bribing or subsidizing the jobbers' salesmen by the payment to them in some instances of a cash bribe, or in other cases, a premium rebate. The result of this action upon the part of these manufacturers is to load the retail merchant with a lot of unadvertised, undesirable, inferior and unsalable goods. Mr. Merchant, have you ever thought, when some jobber's salesman was using his personality and influence to induce you to purchase a quantity of goods made by a company whose business methods are antagonistic to your best interests, that it is his own selfish interests he is considering, regardless of your welfare? This is an evil which should have the immediate attention of every association in the country. It is not only a rank injustice to the retail merchant in placing upon his shelves unsalable goods, but it is an injustice to the consumer, as it places the retail merchant in the position of being obliged to force upon the unsuspecting customer these inferior goods.

Are Equal to Task.

As we see it, these are some of the perplexing and important problems which confront you. We believe that the retail merchants of this country, through their different organizations, are equal to the task of accomplishing these reforms and the solution of other questions that may arise. We hope the work of organization and education of the retail merchants of this country will continue until there is enrolled among your membership the name of every retail merchant in this country. We believe the vital questions concerning not only our commercial but our national welfare, can be safely intrusted to this great body of honest, fearless and conservative citizens.

Quebec Markets.

ABBREVIATED MARKET NOTES FOR CURRENT WEEK.

MONTREAL.

Tomatoes—Advanced to $1.00 per doz. for this district.
Dates—½c. higher.
Fish—Smoked Haddies lower.
Rolled Oats—Declined 20c.

GROCERIES.

Trade, generally, is reported quiet in wholesale grocery circles. Complaints of poor roads by travelers are given as cause of quiet business from country points. The local guild advanced price of tomatoes to $1.00 per dozen. It is within the early probabilities that a further advance of 10c. to 15c. per dozen is in sight. The consumption of tomatoes, due to the low price as compared with last year's prices, has stimulated consumption and inroads have been made upon stocks all along the line. Peas are worth considering by the trade, as the price is so low that retailers can afford to give them profitable attention. Teas are quiet in all lines, with a general feeling that the market will remain firm for some time. Ceylon greens and blacks are strong, China greens scarce on spot and held firm in London, Japans firm with no likelihood of weakening. The sugar market keeps the trade guessing and little buying is done. Fish are having a good sale and the near approach of Lent is already noticeable by buying of frozen fish on part of the outside trade. In coffees and spices no changes of note are observed. In provisions the market is firm. Rolled oats are being cut.

Canned Goods—The market generally is quiet. The feature of interest is the advance in this city of tomatoes to $1.00 per dozen. The advance applies only to Montreal and district. The consumption has been heavier than was anticipated by both packers and the jobbing trade, and it is considered that before many weeks the price will be up to $1.00 and $1.15. There is no opportunity this year of securing tomatoes from the United States, prices there ruling at present around $1.10, and the stocks are insufficient for home consumption. Fruits are in fair demand, as are also salmon, lobsters and haddies.

Sugar—The sugar situation since the last decline of 10c., is unchanged. The latest report is that beets are lower, but the general impression is that no decline is in sight. Jobbers report only fair business and refiners also say that business is on the quiet side.

Syrup and Molasses—The position of the molasses market is unchanged. Firmness locally is the feature, despite the fact that the Barbadoes market for new crop opened low. Holdings are light and there is no disposition to shade. Prices are unchanged. In corn syrups a fair business is reported.

Tea—The tea situation during the week shows little change. Quietness seems to prevail in all lines. Ceylon greens are firm and offers from this side have been turned down in Lonodon and Colombo. China greens, Young Hysons and gunpowder of all kinds have advanced, and the market is lightly stocked. In Japans there is little to report except that the firm tone is maintained, and some little business has turned. China blacks are quiet and little trading.

Coffee—Market quiet and no change since last report. Prices are firmly maintained. Business in New York is on the quiet side, as compared with same period last year. Local roasters and jobbers report fair amount of trade. Messrs. Watt, Scott & Goodacre, in their weekly report of February 5, say:

"Figures verify the contentions that after the turn of the year the world's visible would show a record-breaking decrease each month. Jobbers' stocks are, in particular, very small, as the buying for the last two years has been of a hand-to-mouth nature, consuming markets having taken the waiting side of the market.

Business this week has been exceedingly difficult; there is no pressure in Rio and Santos to sell, and stocks there are running below even date last year. Exchange is about one-third higher and very firm, with a tendency upwards.

The Journal of Commerce of 3rd inst. states the shrinkage to date is even larger than expected, the world's stock of coffee being now close on 2,000,000 bags less than at this time last year. We advise keeping on the long side.

Foreign Dried Fruits—Valencia raisins: Some little demand has arisen since our last, the ruling low prices evidently having induced purchasing for future requirements. Currants are remarkably firm, as stocks are reported in Greece pretty well under control of the purchasing syndicate. Dates have advanced owing to short stocks, both in London and New York. California prunes are also higher and firm. Nuts: A further advance has taken place in shelled walnuts, also in Tarragonas and filberts. Speaking generally, although there is no active demand on the moment in dried fruits, the outlook is favorable to holders.

Beans—A good supply of beans during the past few weeks has eased the firm tone and feeling that prevailed, and it is possible to get choice prime at $1.65. One of the largest operators reported, however, that the shortage in the west was being credited by the trade and he looked for higher prices. The jobbing trade is also looking around for supplies. In small lots, $1.70 to $1.75 is obtained.

Evaporated Apples—Firmness is still characteristic of the evaporated apple market. Holders are few and stocks light. Prices range from 10c. to 10 1-2c. Not much buying is indulged in by the jobbing trade, as these figures are too high to suit the retailer.

Winter varieties	0 10	0 10½

Fish—The demand for fish of all kinds is now more active owing to the seasonable weather which has affected frozen fish especially. Frozen fish of all kinds are in good supply, and the demand is only fair so that prices are a little easier, particularly on frozen haddock. Large frozen herring are extremely scarce and prices on same have advanced. In salt fish the Lenten demand is coming on, and scarcity is being felt, in consequence, prices have advanced on many lines, including Labrador herrings, also green cod and haddock. Dealers expect further advance in green cod, as the supply will not be equal to the demand. In smoked fish, haddock are lower owing to the heavy arrivals; bloaters are also more plentiful with prices a little lower than previous quotations. In oysters there is not much new to note, there being only a fair demand for bulk oysters. Prices are firm at last quotation. Shell oysters are practically out of the market.

AT HOME IN HAMILTON.

The commercial travelers of Hamilton are arranging for an "At Home," to be held at the Royal Hotel of that city, on the evening of Friday, February 23.

The arrangements are in charge of Charles Smith, of the Empire Tobacco Company, chairman, and a capable committee, and there is every assurance that the "At Home," as all undertakings of the Hamilton travelers, will be a thorough success. It is not so long since the "Gala Day" that this should have been forgotten.

Mr. F. J. Smye is in charge of the committee on invitations and printing, and Mr. Geo. Mathewson that on music.

With their customary hospitality, the Hamilton travelers extend a hearty invitation to their brothers of the grip from all other points in Canada to be present.

DISSOLUTION OF WHOLESALE GROCERY PARTNERSHIP.

The well known wholesale grocery firm of Carter, Galbraith & Co., Montreal, has been dissolved by mutual consent, the dissolution taking effect February 1.

Mr. William Galbraith purposes continuing in the wholesale grocery line, taking his son, Mr. Wesley Galbraith, who for many years has been manager of the sample room and sales department of Carter, Galbraith & Co., as partner. Mr. William Galbraith has for over thirty-five years been one of the leading figures in grocery circles in the east, and his personal connection with the retail trade in Quebec and Eastern Ontario should secure to the new firm a goodly share of the trade.

BANQUET FOR TORONTO GROCERS.

The event of the month for the retail grocer in Toronto is undoubtedly the banquet to be held in the Temple building on Wednesday evening 21st inst. The annual at home is looked forward to with a good deal of anticipation. It has always proved an unqualified success, and this year's gathering of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association will unquestionably be in no way behind its forerunners. Particulars can be had from D. G. Beaton, secretary 450 Wellesley street, Toronto.

GROCERIES.

Toronto, Feb. 9, 1906.

There has been a better aspect to trade since our last issue, but not of great volume. Ever since the holiday things have been quiet, and it appears impossible to move business. Travelers coming in spoke of extreme quietness and inactivity, and no apparent prospect of movement. Since our last, however, there has been a bristling up all round, and better feeling is the result. On the street there is very little doing, and wholesalers show little inclination to increase stock. The weakness in sugar still continues, and many think a further decline not improbable.

Canned Goods—There has been active trade in all lines since our last report. Trade appears to be more healthy than is usual at this season. There has not been the overstocking on part of retailers, and consequently buying has been more evenly regulated. Generally speaking, stocks are showing signs of reduction, but not sufficiently to cause anxiety.

Sugar—There is no feature of interest to report. Trade has been dull and unimportant since our last issue, the recent drop making no impression on dealers' sentiments. It is still considered a weak situation. On foreign markets the tone is also one of weakness, both New York and European have declined in raws since our last report, and Willett & Gray in their latest report on refined say:

"The only change in price for the week was the reduction of five points in American and Howell Confectioners' A.

"Federal still are the lowest sellers, quoting basis of granulated at 4.40c. less 1 per cent. cash, the other refiners still naming 10 points higher than this.

"The demand has been very light in the way of new orders, while withdrawals are made only as sugars are required for immediate distribution.

"Trade buyers have supplies coming to them under contracts, which will not run out until the middle of February, therefore a dull tone prevails.

"The tendency is in buyers' favor."

Tea—Local trade has been somewhat slow. There has been very little movement since the holiday, and buyers seem to be uninterested. The reports to hand from London market denote a material weakening in prices, and little disposition to recover at the moment. Gow, Wilson & Stanton, in their latest report, state:

"The effect of the recent over-supply was distinctly marked in this week's sales and occasioned great irregularity in the bidding. Auctions this week were fortunately on a smaller scale, and next week's offerings are also moderate. Meanwhile duty payments are progressing satisfactorily, and are so far slightly ahead of last January, while this week has brought a welcome improvement in the demand for export.

In Indian teas, although the quantity brought forward showed a considerable reduction, the market has not yet recovered from its depressed condition, prices in some instances even showing a further weakening, brokens especially being again cheaper and common teas in only poor demand.

"In Ceylon teas no doubt the smaller auction has afforded some relief to the market, but there has not yet been sufficient time for it to recover from the late heavy supplies; consequently bidding was somewhat slack, and prices again rather easier except for whole leaf teas suitable for export, many of the Pekoes showing some advances owing to a slight revival in the foreign demand. Quality does not show much change although lower than a few weeks back—as frequently happens at this season of the year.

"In Java teas, with fair competition, the small sale passed at about last week's rates, and a much smaller proportion was withdrawn. Whole leaf teas were occasionally a somewhat dearer market."

Coffee—Domestic trade has been fairly active since our last issue. There is every indication that business in coffee is advancing in consumption, and that more interest is being taken in coffee drinking. The general situation of the primal markets, as reported in Willett & Gray's latest report, is of special interest, therefore. They say:

"Whatever may be the actual reasons in the respective countries, it is apparent that the coffee crops in every direction are turning out smaller than expected, and the figures up to date confirm forcibly arguments to this effect given in these reports from week to week. Venezuela and Hayti were formerly two of the largest mild crops. Early forecasts said they would give large yields this year, but now it is known that the flowerings which looked so promising did not turn into good crops after all, as the Venezuelan crop will be less than last year, and in Hayti only about half a crop. It shows that too much attention should not be given to reports that are too often biased and premature. It is common sense to expect that the coffee plantations the world over at low prices for the product, are not in as good condition as they were kept in when prices were high, and as the low prices lasted about ten years it is reasonable to conclude (the same as matters developed 20 years ago) that the trees are not in a condition necessary to withstand the stress of weather they are subject to, and, therefore, year after year the promises based upon the flowerings turn out disappointing. The report received here yesterday of falling fruit in San Paulo is only in line with this view, and early or premature predictions of large crops or small crops for the ensuing season are too unsafe to follow. For more than fifteen months past, detailed statements of the unsatisfactory conditions of plantations have come from various parts of Brazil, which must be taken to mean that large crops are unlikely with labor scarce and high and money too difficult to properly attend to the cultivation.

"The trade knows well enough the requirements of consumption of coffee are all the time increasing. With production so much inferior to consumption it is of great importance and interest to properly heed the causes."

Foreign Dried Fruits—Trade has made little or no improvement since our last issue. Reports from primal markets all report continued firmness. In Valencias this is particularly marked, stocks being short. Shelled almonds are also very high on primal markets, and any well sized fruit is readily sold. Currants are also well maintained, and in view of the bank arrangements, are not likely to show any weakening. Latest reports from primal points are of an advance equal to 12c. per crate.

Mr. St. Clair Balfour, of Balfour & Co., leaves on Saturday for the west in the interests of Tartan brand goods. He will go through to the coast.

B. C. News.

Vancouver, Feb. 1906.

Pending the hearing of argument by legal counsel before the Railway Commission, the British Columbia wholesale merchants decided on advice of the counsel they have retained, to call off the boycott against the C.P.R. which has been in force for weeks. The legal opinion, which was given by Mr. Joseph Martin, was that as the C.P.R. had recognized the arguments of the merchants and obeyed the instructions of the Railway Commission as to filing a stated defence, the merchants would not be serving their case in any way by continuing the boycott. It was, therefore, decided to suspend hostilities until after the case is heard by the commission. The hearing comes up at Ottawa early in February. The Victoria merchants had withdrawn from the boycott a fortnight previous to its being called off.

Vancouver trade and shipping interests are much relieved by the action of the Australian Government in rescinding the resolution of a few months ago, whereby Canadian goods were valued on basis including freight charges to the seaboard or to the Canadian border, in case of shipment via the U. S. routes. The matter caused a great deal of comment at the time, and it would, if continued, have affected the trade from this port to Australia very seriously. In fact cargoes out-bound by the Canadian-Australian SS. line had already shown the effects. The representations from merchants and shippers both here and in the Commonwealth have had their influence in bringing the matter to the attention of the Government so that the rescission has been ordered.

Following the erecion of the first wheat elevator in Vancouver, a flour mill of 500 barrel capacity is to be erected by the same parties. The Hall Elevator & Grain Co. has just completed its elevator and now has the plans in hand for the flouring mill. The intention is to seek some concession from the city in way of exemption from taxation and free supply of water, by way of indirect bonus to the proposal. The first installation of machinery will be for 250 barrels per day, but the plans will provide for the full capacity being installed later. Alberta wheat will be shipped here and a chain of elevators in the western prairie province will collect the cereal. There are three flouring mills in the Okanagan district and one at Victoria. The latter was built a number of years ago, but has not been regularly operated. The Brackman-Ker Milling Co. have a mill for oatmeal and other cereal foods owned by them at New Westminster.

A notable feature of cargo movements from this coast is the small proportion of flour from Washington State mills which is being shipped to the Orient, though formerly very large export shipments were made. The big 11,000 ton freight steamer, the Oanfa of the Blue Funnel line, took out but 70,000 sacks from Tacoma recently when she sailed. The backwardness of the trade is due to the Chinese boycott of American goods. Usually at this time the flour shipments are heavy.

City Engineer Clement has been asked by the committee of the city council in charge of the market proposition to prepare preliminary plans, the recent plebiscite taken at the municipal elections having been strongly in favor of such an establishment. A location on the False Creek waterfront and Westminster avenue, south of the bridge, has been selected. Here rail and water access can both be had.

The first sailing of the steamer Bucentaur, one of the vessels secured for the new British Columbia-New Zealand service, will be on April 15 from New Zealand. The second vessel, the Transvaal, will follow. Later, a third steamer is to be secured.

Tantalus, appropriately named, has the cold weather record for the Yukon, which has had a spell of Arctic weather recently. At Dawson and on some of the creeks, the thermometer, where records could be secured, went down to 75 degrees below zero. At Tantalus, which is half way between Dawson and White Horse, it registered 85 degrees, with a terrific gale blowing from the north. For the first time on record the stage line of the White Pass Co. was suspended by cold, this being the record in the history of the Yukon.

The Market Situation.—Wholesale men express themselves as well satisfied with their January trade. This month and February are expected here to be the two quiet months, but trade has kept up very well. In fact, the January business has shown a large increase over the same season last year.

* * *

Groceries.—Canned goods are moving fairly, with no change in previous prices. Stocks are yet sufficient, but dealers anticipate that there will be a shortage of tomatoes. This year there can be no stocks of tomatoes brought from the U.S. as there is a shortage there. Dried fruits are selling briskly, especially California prunes, which are 1 1-4c. per pound higher all round. They now run from 7c. for 60-70's, which is the size mostly sold, up to 8 1-2c. per pound for 30-40's, the large choice Oregon prunes. Peaches are quoted at 12 1-4c., apricots at 12 1-2c. and pears at 11 1-4c. White figs for cooking are now 6c. per pound. These are, of course, all California origin. Raisins, which suffered the expected slump after Christmas, and went down 2c. per pound, are now held firmer, having risen fully half a cent to 1c., the quotation perhaps averaging 10c. per pound, in 1-lb. cartons. Evaporated apples are held up for expected northern orders, which will arrive for opening of Yukon navigation. As high as 12c. is asked for choice stock. Sago and tapioca are higher and hard to get orders filled. The receipts here have been light for months, though the big freighting steamers come direct from Singapore. The trouble seems to be that past low prices have discouraged production. The ruling price now is 5 1-2c. per pound.

Produce.—Fresh laid, local eggs are now selling in jobbing way at 35c. to 37 1-2c. The supply is better. Candled pickled stock is being turned over at about 26c. to 28c. Cheese, which is fairly well stocked, is held rather firmer at 16 1-4c. for large and 16 1-2c. for twins. Butter prices have not changed. Local fresh creamery jobs at 35c. and retails at 40c., and demand takes all that is offered. Eastern stock is fairly well represented and on basis of 56's is selling at 28c. New Zealand stock is expected next month. Flour prices are unchanged at $5.70 per barrel for the standard brands.

* * *

Fruit.—Apples are now well cleaned up, nothing but the residue of Okanagan stocks offering, and the Coldstream and other big packers reported as cleaned up. Notwithstanding the small surplus the price is still $1.50 to $1.75 for choice Okanagan apples. Locals are scarcely quotable. As choice Oregon and Washington stock is bringing as high as $2.75 in Seattle, there is little fear of importations. California oranges are moving fairly well. Supply here has not been short, though three weeks rain stopped shipments for that time. Since resuming shipping, the packers in California are getting higher prices, averaging 50c. per box. Quotations to the trade here are now from $2.25 for standards, up to $3 50 for extra fancy. Bananas are selling at $3.50 per bunch though the last car one dealer had in, he tried the experiment of selling by the pound, the price being 5 1-2c. Some pineapples received a week or so ago from Honolulu are bringing $4.50 per dozen. They were particularly fine specimens. Malaga grapes still remain, and are $7.75 per keg.

Vegetables.—Ashcroft and Yakima potatoes bring $30 per ton still. The Ashcrofts are so very scarce that a carload is brought in every little while from Yakima. The lower mainland stock is plentiful, but price no higher on account of quality. California fresh vegetables are high. The interruptions to the steamer service have caused rail shipments to be brought forward at higher freight charges. Cauliflower and celery received thus are quoted at $1.75 and 90c. per dozen respectively. Cabbage is also from California now entirely, the local stock having been cleaned up. It is 3 1-2c. per pound. Ripe tomatoes are very scarce this week. Fresh lettuce is firm and regular in supply from Victoria at $1 50 per crate.

N. S. Markets.

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 5, 1906.

Trade throughout the province is greatly hampered owing to the lack of snow, and the very unseasonable weather. While collections keep at a fairly good average, the volume of orders coming in thus far is small. Plenty of snow and good hard weather is necessary to add stimulus to business. The markets, generally, are on the dull side, and prices show but slight change.

Butter and Eggs.

The receipts of butter on this market have not increased very much and prices hold firm. The open weather, however, has increased the supply of fresh butter slightly, there being more of this article on the market at present than is usual at this season of the year. The market is now well supplied with new laid eggs. The shore ports are all open, and the vessels are bringing in quantities of good stock. In consequence of this there has been a slump in prices, new laid selling at wholesale for 22c. This has also caused a drop in the price of case eggs to 19c. and 20c. Cheese is unchanged.

Sugar and Molasses.

The sugar markets are very steady and no change is recorded in prices. During the week the steamer Ocamo, from Demerara, landed at this port 14,000 bags of sugar. She also brought 350 puncheons of molasses, which were landed at St. John. There is a fairly good stock of molasses held in this city. The market is firm at present, and the outlook has a tendency to become stronger.

Fish.

There is a good supply of fresh fish on the market, the weather being favorable for operations. Fresh cod and haddock fetch from 2 1-2c. to 3c. per pound, smelts 10c. per pound, halibut (frozen), 15c. per pound, and lobsters, alive or boiled, $1.00 per dozen. These are retail prices.

Duty on Vegetables.

A delegation representing the farmers in the eastern part of Halifax County, appeared before the Tariff Commission at its recent session in this city and asked that a higher duty be imposed on American produce, at certain seasons of the year. They contended that perishable goods got into this port for little or no duty, and this injures their business. The farmers grow principally cabbage, peas, beans, tomatoes, squash, potatoes, beets, turnips, carrots, rhubarb and parsnips. These products are placed on the Halifax market, earlier in the season than the local grower can get them in, but their main objection was that when their own products are ready the market is so flooded with American stuff that they cannot find sale for theirs. They suggested a specific duty of 1 1-2c. per lb. on the vegetables referred to.

Mr. Fielding said he did not think this was feasible. He pointed out to them that the seasons in various parts of Canada differ, and a duty that might be of a benefit to this part of the Dominion, might be an injury to some other part, referring particularly to the City of Toronto, where the consumption of American grown truck is very large. He failed to see why the growers here could not successfully compete against the Americans, stating that the latter have the extra cost of transportation, packing, and commission to pay, and the loss that is always more or less to accrue on perishable goods in transit.

Walter Allison, of John P. Mott & Co., representing the chocolate and cocoa industry of this province, asked for a different ruling regarding goods that are now coming into this market. He suggested that milk chocolate be classed as confectionery, and pay a duty of 20 per cent.

Daniel H. Campbell, grocer, Argyle street, has assigned to the official assignee. Mr. Campbell was an alderman for several years and last April he was a candidate in a three cornered fight for mayor, being badly defeated.

N. B. Markets.

St. John, Feb. 5, 1906.

We have passed the first month of the New Year. As January is a quiet month at best, and as with several, stock is not taken till the first of February, the business year may almost be said to begin with February. There is little of special interest. The low price of cream of tartar crystals has led to quite free buying. There is usually a fair trade in whole spice at this season. Pepper shows little change, being about an average price. Nutmegs keep extremely low; cinnamon rather firmer; cloves still high. Lately, ginger has shown quite an advance. Rice is firmer: in Patna rice higher prices are quoted. This grade while not largely imported is used altogether by the Chinese. The weather keeps extremely mild.

Oil.

In burning oil no change in price reported. The season's business has been large; it is now more quiet. Lubricating oils are being pushed by the trade; the outlook is just fair. This business depends very much upon the lumber output, and the lack of snow and cold weather is proving a great drawback of logging operations. Paint oils are high. The rapid advance in linseed a few weeks ago rather surprised the trade; many dealers were caught short. Turpentine is still extremely high. Cod oil is firm at full figures. The fishermen have received exceedingly good prices this season.

Salt.

In Liverpool coarse there are quite regular weekly arrivals and a steady sale for a fair quantity. Dealers are not inclined to store any more than is really necessary, preferring to import frequently and save the extra handling and carrying charges. Fine salt is largely out of season. Canadian at all times chiefly supplies the market, though there is still a fair quantity of Liverpool factory filled imported.

Canned Goods.

Sales not large. Corn and tomatoes are being sold lower than the market situation warrants. Peas are low and full stocks held. Stocks in all lines are light. This is a limited market for fruits; peaches, strawberries, and apples the only large sellers. Blueberries, which are local packed, are dull this year. Apples are having rather improved sale. Oysters are firmer. Meats low. In domestic fish a fair stock of sardines; haddies and kippers light supply.

Green Fruits.

Business rather quiet. Apples dull, but for best stock high prices are asked. Oranges sell freely, chiefly Valencias. Fine Jamaicas still offered. Lemons quite low and but a fair sale. No cranberries. Good grapes firm. Bananas only a retail trade.

Dried Fruits.

California seeded raisins, on which the coast price was dropped two and a quarter cents, show an improved situation. Already prices show an advance and the market is considered a firm one. Our trade bought lightly, being exceedingly annoyed with the whole affair. The business in seeded raisins this season proved an entire failure unnecessarily. In prunes, market strong; small sizes scarce; business is bright. Apricots and peaches have little demand. Currants are firmer; sales light. Dates, while costing higher to import, are offered locally at quite low figures. Figs and peels are out of season. Evaporated apples are again rather higher; the extreme prices affect the demand. There is a fair sale for dried apples. In onions, just a fair sale; prices are unchanged.

Sugar.

There is nothing new; just a fair business; stocks are not large. In spite of the low price there is still a feeling that lower figures are not impossible.

Molasses.

The situation is one of interest. There is still quite a full stock of old Porto Rico here. Barbadoes market has opened at quite a full figure; the new so far received is fancy, and there is some difference of opinion in regard to the duty it shall pay, as some hold it to be syrup.

Fish.

The mild weather of the past week has much affected the fresh fish business. Full prices, however, are still asked and the return of cold weather again brings activity. Dried fish, while quiet is still high. Stock of pickled herring small and prices rule high. Smoked continue to strengthen in price. The demand for finnan haddies hardly as active.

Flour, Feed and Meal.

In flour prices unchanged; a steady business. Oatmeal is lower and unsettled. Oats are held at quite full figures. Cornmeal continues low. Beans quiet and little changed. Yellow eyes low. Barley dull. Little call for split peas. In seeds prices rather firmer.

THE GREAT WEST

WESTERN ASSOCIATION NEWS

"The Canadian Grocer" the Official Organ.

Address all communications for this department to THE CANADIAN GROCER, 511 Union Bank Building, Winnipeg, Man.

In a letter which appeared in this department in a recent issue Mr. Wilfrid Ledoux, of Arnaud, Man., an energetic member of the association executive, discussed in interesting fashion the problem of slow collections. It is an oft-discussed subject, but Mr. Ledoux approached it in a manner quite different from the ordinary, and he advanced a novel explanation of the trouble. No doubt many readers have been interested by Mr. Ledoux's letter and correspondence on the subject is invited.

Briefly stated, according to Mr. Ledoux, the root of all the present trouble lies in the refusal of the banks to advance money to farmers on the same basis as to manufacturers and jobbers. Because he can not borrow a working capital on the same terms as the manufacturer and jobber, the farmer can not pay cash for his goods, and hence pays an excessive price for his goods. Mr. Ledoux figures out the loss to the farmers as follows :—

"The jobbers' interest paid to banks is 6 per cent., their cash discounts, 3 per cent. Retailers' interest is 8 per cent., their cash discounts, 5 per cent. Farmers paying interest to retailers, 8 per cent., making a total of 30 per cent.

"These items are all figured out, and added to the price of the goods, and paid for by the consumer.

"Now let us see if the money was supplied at the other end, (or to the farmers), what effect it would have? The farmer would save on his goods by buying for cash, as follows : The jobber's interest and discount, 6 and 3 per cent.; the retailer's interest and discount, 8 and 5 per cent.; and we have saved 22 per cent.: less 8 per cent. paid the banks for borrowed money. It would thus be a net gain of 14 per cent. Add to this a loss, under the present system, of 30 per cent., as shown above, and we have a total saving of 44 per cent. on everything the farmer buys today.

"Money being supplied to the farmer, would enable the farmer, the retailer, the wholesale jobber, and the manufacturer to buy and sell for cash. This same money would be handed from the retailer all around to the manufacturer, and from there back to the banks again, everybody in the trade would have paid their debts, and be free and happy, saving all the interests, collection and exchanges which are being paid by the trade to-day."

The Canadian Grocer would be pleased to know the opinions of the trade on this matter? Could the banks afford to lend money on farmers' "paper" on the same terms that they advance funds to the manufacturer and jobber? If they did advance this money would the problem of slow collections be solved?

Preparations are being made by Secretary Coulson and the executive for an interesting convention next week. A large number of dealers have signified their intention of attending the convention and interesting discussions of important topics are assured. Moreover, the meeting will do more than merely discuss certain pressing questions. Discussions are all very well in their way, but unless they result in action the net benefit is apt to be small. Definite decisive action will be proposed at this meeting and, if the plans now under consideration are endorsed the association will pursue an aggressive policy during the year.

The convention will meet in Manitoba Hall, Portage avenue, Winnipeg, on the afternoon and evening of Feb. 13, 14 and 15. The afternoon meetings will begin at 2:30 o'clock, and the evening meetings at 8 o'clock.

N. W. TRAVELERS' ASSOCIATION.

A regular meeting of the executive of the Northwest Travelers' Association was held recently, President Dyson in the chair; other members present being Messrs. McIntyre, Morgan, Lock, Nesbitt, McRobie, Montgomery, and Fred J. C. Cox, secretary. The accounts for the month were presented, passed and ordered to be paid. The secretary reported several applications for membership from parties not eligible, and his action in not granting certificates of membership was approved by the board. Several letters were read offering property to the association, and after considerable discussion the secretary was instructed to advise the real estate exchange that this association were open to buy a piece of property with not less than fifty feet frontage, must be either corner lot or adjoining a lane, and be within a district bounded on the west by Princess, on the east by Rorie, on the north by William and James street, and on the south by Portage avenue.

A letter was read from one of the members making suggestions for the improvement of hotels. As this matter was taken up by the legislature of Manitoba last session, no further action was taken.

Mr. John Horne, last year's president, wrote expressing his sorrow at not being able to be present owing to the fact that he has been appointed manager for his firm at Calgary, where his headquarters will in future be.

The secretary reported the death of Mr. George L. Pearson, lately with the American-Abell Engine & Thresher Co., and the mortuary benefit due to his heirs was ordered to be paid.

Manitoba Markets

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, February 8, 1906.)

A marked increase in the volume of business has been noted during the last fortnight and wholesale houses are well pleased with the outlook. Travelers are sending in good orders and with the influx of bonspiel visitors and merchants attending the Retail Association convention, sales in the city may be expected to show a big increase. Collections are fairly satisfactory.

Values are steady in most lines. Sugar shows no change since the decline two weeks ago. Edwardsburg syrups have been slightly advanced and the details will be found below. Jobbing houses complain of a shortage in the supplies of green Rios and the local market shows a slight advance. Sago and tapioca have each been advanced 1-2c. per lb., and Rangoon rice is also quoted at an advance. All California dried fruits are firmly held, and advices from the coast indicate higher prices.

Foreign Dried Fruits—All California dried fruits are firmly held at present in sympathy with a strong market at the coast. As was mentioned in these columns some weeks ago, the market in several lines of dried fruits has been practically cornered at the coast by two or three houses and the inevitable result is seen in advancing prices. Local stocks of most California dried fruits are light and there is a brisk demand. Prunes are likely to be advanced almost immediately in view of California advices and the big local demand due to the high price of evaporated apples. We quote:

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

There is no change in the cheese market. British markets are reported dull and a shade lower in prices. Our market is very quiet in consequence, and, while some holders feel like unloading, the quantity actually for sale in Canada is so very limited that nobody seems to worry, and as a rule the goods held here are not pressed on the market for sale. It is firmly believed that every box of cheese on this side of the Atlantic will sooner or later be wanted and that prices will again advance when new orders are received.

The convention of the District of Bedford Dairymen's Association at Cowansville was a successful and most interesting one.

Cowansville was the objective point of a large number of men foremost in the dairying industry in the eastern section of the Dominion, and the opening of the annual convention of the District of Bedford Dairymen's Association found the town hall, in which it was held, packed to the doors. The gathering was representative of the producing, the manufacturing and the shipping interests, which, while divergent in their outward character, are, as was pointed out by a speaker, united by a common commercial bond, national in its scope, in the effort to establish Canada's claim to the premier position in the dairy industry among the nations of the world.

The addresses were by leading Ontario and Quebec experts. They embodied the impressions gleaned by close observation of conditions both at home and abroad, and from the interchange of ideas far-reaching beneficial results can scarcely fail to follow.

In the composition of the gathering was a large proportion of leading agriculturists of the district, which includes the counties of Brome, Missisquoi and Shefford.

The meeting was addressed by Hon. Sidney Fisher, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, Hon. A. Tessier Provincial Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. J. C. McCorkill.

Among the notable speakers was Professor J. W. Robertson, formerly the Dominion Dairy Commissioner and now the head of the Macdonald College at St. Anne's. He outlined particularly the importance of agricultural education and remarked that Hon. Mr. Fisher and his departmental policy had been responsible for the turning of the tide of prosperity in the Canadian Northwest. The assistance lent to creameries had been a large factor in the development, and the tide of immigrants had flowed in rapidly from across the American border.

Mr. J. A. Ruddick, the Dominion Dairy Commissioner, in his address gave in a most entertaining manner his impressions during a recent trip to Europe. In making the trip, he explained in his opening remarks, he had three objects in view, first to study the markets and general conditions of the dairy industry, second the methods of manufacture, and third the advertising of Canadian products in the British market.

As a matter of fact, he said, we have had very little competition in supplying Britain with Cheddar cheese, and probably take too much credit to ourselves for the building up of our present trade. He believed that we should adhere strictly to the type of product for which we had built up our market. He outlined his impressions with regard to the processes of manufacture in vogue in the countries he had visited. Investigating as to the reason why cheese of Scotch manufacture was selling at one and one-half cent per pound more than that of Canada, he expressed the opinion that the secret rested entirely in the thoroughness with which the milk production was managed, the proper aeration being an important feature. The Germans, he observed, are not at present exporting the large quantities of butter to the English market as was formerly the case, but were importing largely from Denmark. He did not see that we had any occasion to cater to the German market. He had been very kindly received at the different places he had visited in the United Kingdom and had been convinced of the great advantage of keeping closely in touch with the conditions of the dairy market there.

THE PROVISION SITUATION.

The provision situation, which has been one of uncertainty for some time, is now showing indications of reaching a basis as regards the markets. Live hogs have at last not only reached a limit in price, but have made a definite downward movement.

It is easily understood that those farmers who had hogs among their stock would endeavor to secure the market at high water mark, and packers on their side would try to secure as many as possible to keep their hands employed. Under these conditions prices advanced abnormally and reached a point at which it was impossible to obtain adequate returns. An additional feature and one not altogether unexpected, made its appearance in the form of a decline in value of Canadian bacon on the English market.

It has been pointed out on several occasions in The Grocer that there is a point at which, when reached, export trade would receive a check. It would appear from reports as though this point is about reached and that dealers on the other side are finding it more profitable to leave it alone. It is the consumers, the British public themselves, who really decide the fate of the market. Canadian bacon will sell well and hold its own, on a certain basis, but beyond that it is passed over in favor of the home grown article, such as "Denney's."

The quality of hogs arriving has been anything but satisfactory for bacon purposes, and dressed hogs have in consequence dropped in value. Packers are disposed to show a good deal of discrimination just now; it is felt they can afford to, seeing that the question of profit on their part is far removed, the main idea being to hold just sufficient trade to keep things moving. It must be some considerable time before business assumes normal conditions.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

By Our Own Correspondent.

January 26, 1906.

During the past week the produce markets have continued on a very quiet basis, and there is very little change to report.

Butter.—In the early part of the week, there were some signs of renewed activity in the demand for colonial butter, but sellers were doomed to disappointment. Trade became quieter even than before, and a further reduction of 2s. per cwt. has taken place. Heavy arrivals of colonial butter, together with a serious drop in the Copenhagen official quotation—an event which invariably unsettles the market—has been responsible to a great extent for the further reduction in price. Ruling quotations, however, are still from 4s. to 6s. higher than at this time last year.

Cheese.—The market has been somewhat quiet for both Canadian and New Zealand cheese, and sellers are inclined to ease off to the extent of 1s. per cwt. Their position is evidently not so strong as they would have retailers believe. For "choicest" Canadian, 63s. and 64s. is being realized, New Zealand being 1s. below this price. A glance at statistics shows that arrivals of Canadian cheese on this market are almost on a level with the consumption. The stock in warehouse on the morning of January 1 was 117,510 boxes, on the 25th it stood at 113,460 boxes, the receipts between these two dates of Canadian cheese being 66,836 boxes.

Bacon.—The demand has been very slow, and the market is in a very weak position as far as transactions are concerned. Continued shortage, however, has had the effect of keeping prices up, and the market therefore remains practically unaltered. Irish killings have been somewhat smaller this week than last and arrivals from the continent have figured at 9,273 bales. There does not seem any prospect of immediate improvement.

The trade here is watching with considerable interest the Act which has lately been passed by the Legislative Assembly of Victoria. There can be no doubt that when its provisions are put into force, this ruling will be decidedly beneficial to importers here, and will have the effect of stimulating the confidence of buyers on this market in the dairy produce of Victoria. As readers of The Canadian Grocer are doubtless aware, in 1898 the Government of that colony had already provided for the testing and examination of butter and cheese intended for export, and each package received the Government stamp. Up to the present, there has also been an optional system for the grading of produce from that colony, but the provisions of this new Act are altogether more stringent and calculated to be even more beneficial than anything hitherto done in this direction. Without going deeply into the various rulings of this new Act, it might be mentioned that inspectors are to be appointed by the Government with specified duties, such as the strict supervision of dairy farms, the careful examination of cattle and continual watchfulness over the sanitary condition and cleanliness of all factories and dairies where produce is turned out. Arrangements are made for the isolating of such cattle as are found ailing in health, and also for the licensing annually of all creameries, dairy farms and butter factories. It appears that modern dairies are to be erected in each municipality and careful attention is to be given to the grading of various kinds of produce.

It is provisions such as these which go so far to improving a country's export trade, and Canadians cannot do better than adopt a similar policy, particularly in the matter of grading.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

MONTREAL.

Provisions.

The provision market is firm. Packers have had somewhat better offerings of live hogs, and a slightly reduced price is noticeable. This is due to the weak demand for Canadian bacon from the United Kingdom. Prices generally are well maintained in dressed hogs. In bacon and ham a steady business at unchanged prices is reported.

Cheese.

The cheese market maintains its firm tone, with business dull. Exporters report more inquiry from abroad, but little actual business of any account passing. The English market continues strong. Prices remain around 13 to 13¼c.

Butter.

There is no radical or important change in the butter market, although the cold weather prevailing during the past and present week has created a better feeling among dealers. There is no change, however, to report in prices since last quotations. The report from exporters is that the United Kingdom markets show an improvement, although little business is done as yet by cable.

Eggs.

The egg market continues dull. The cold weather prevailing does not show any appreciable effect on the market. Receipts are light, but ample for local requirements. Fresh eggs are in fair supply despite the cold weather. Dealers, however, think that a continuance of same will have its effect and look for better prices next week.

Provisions.

The only feature of interest since our last report is a decided decline in prices for live hogs, and a weakening in values of dressed hogs. This has probably come in the nature of things. It could not be expected that the high prices ruling of late could maintain. The prices left the packer without possibility of profit. Mutton and lamb have advanced one cent. Other prices remain unchanged.

Cheese.

The cheese situation continues an exceedingly strong one. In country points makings are practically for local consumption, very little finding its way into the open market. There is no new feature to report. Arrivals continue to be satisfactory and many factories are well settled down to straight work. SAD DEATH OF A CHEESE MAN.

It is with the greatest regret we have to report the untimely decease of Mr. H. W. Derbyshire, of Leeds, Ontario. The circumstance of his death is a particularly sad one. He was unfortunate enough to have his house and cheese factory destroyed by fire during the last few days, and whilst battling the flames he contracted a cold, which developed into pneumonia, from which he died. He thus leaves his wife and young family homeless. Mr. Derbyshire was quite a young man, being only 35 years of age, and his loss will be greatly felt by the surrounding district, where he was one of the leading cheesemakers.

A POINTER FOR TRAVELING MEN.

Traveling men, who spend a great deal of time on trains and in hotels, and who get wearied of the ordinary run of newspapers and magazines, will find the Busy Man's Magazine very refreshing. This periodical is unique in the periodical field. It is more than a magazine—it is a score of magazines all in one. Like the composite photograph of a hundred authors, the Busy Man's Magazine is a composite publication of a hundred periodicals. It culls the best from them all, and presents it in an appetizing and invigorating form. Every travel-worn commercial man should try this new remedy for the weariness of the road.

HAMILTON RETAIL GROCERS.

The Hamilton Retail Grocers' Association held its regular meeting on February 1, with the president, W. Smye, in the chair, and a good gttendance. Five new members were accepted. Joseph Kirkpatrick, one of the oldest and most active members, who has retired from business, was elected an honorary member. Progress was reported re the collection of accounts. The oil question was discussed, some members stating that they were buying the one grade of oil, and their customers complain the quality is not regular. An effort will be made to place the blame where it belongs.

Starch Company in the London & Lancashire building. The incorporators were all present, and others representing the several interests forming the new company.

The by-laws were passed and the board of directors was decided upon as follows: Geo. F. Benson, Wm. Strachan, Chas. R. Hosmer, Hon. Robt. Mackay, Wm. R. Miller, all of Montreal, representing the Edwardsburg Company; Lloyd Harris and Joseph Ruddy, of Brantford, representing the Brantford Company; Hon. J. R. Stratton and Jas. J. Warren, of Toronto, representing the bondholders of the Imperial Company.

The following officials were also appointed: Geo. F. Benson, president and managing director; Wm. Strachan, first vice-president; Lloyd Harris, second vice-president; Joseph Ruddy, secretary-treasurer, and Hugh McArthur, assistant treasurer at Cardinal. Mr. Alfred P. Murray retains charge of the selling department in Montreal. All interests are therefore well represented on the new board, and the present staffs of the Edwardsburg and Brantford companies will probably be retained.

Although a large portion of the issue of $1,250,000 preferred stock goes to the owners of the various properties, yet we are informed that a considerable portion of it is to be held in the treasury and not issued at present, and the same remark applies to the common stock.

TORONTO GROCERY CLERKS.

The next regular meeting of the Grocery Clerks' Association will be held in their lodge room on Tuesday, February 13. It is to be hoped that all clerks will make an effort to be present, as there will be a debate on "Which is more profitable to the grocer, strictly cash business or cash and credit?"

CHATHAM, N.B.

The annual meeting of the Chatham Board of Trade was held Saturday, January 27 Governor Snowball, president, in the chair.

A letter from the Halifax Board of Trade asking this one to join in a memorial to the Government for a subsidy for a steel building plant was read. On motion of J. L. Stewart it was decided to grant the request.

A letter was also read from the secretary of the Montreal Board of Trade asking the Chatham board to co-operate with it in having a conference of Canadian Boards of Trade in Montreal next Summer. W. B. Snowball moved that this board co-operate with Montreal in holding a conference, and appoint the secretary as a delegate to same, which, after discussion, was adopted.

In reporting the work of the year the secretary expressed his opinion that it had not been without beneficial results to the country. Action had been taken in regard to freight rates, subsidy for the Miramichi Steam Navigation Company, and dredging wharf at Oak Point. The moving of the I.C.R. station into town, and the building of a drill hall had not yet been attained. There were 37 members of the board. The treasurer's report was adopted.

Secretary Nicol refused to be reappointed.

The following are the officers for 1906: W. B. Snowball, president; D. P. MacLachlan, vice-president; W. L. T. Weldon, secretary; V. A. Danville, treasurer; J. F. Benson, auditor. The council and board of arbitrators were re-elected except that J. F. Benson was substituted for another member.

Stilling; assistant secretary, W. E. Hunt; treasurer, W. B. Seaton. Bright speeches were made by Messrs. Montgomery, Matthews and Seaton. The new planing mill industry was spoken of as a certainty, and the patent plaster factory is considered likely to come.

MONTREAL.

One of the most exciting elections in the history of the Montreal Board of Trade was that by which the officers for 1906 were chosen. The total vote was 734, the largest on record, and the greatest interest was manifested in the results, which were announced at noon on Wednesday, the 31st ult.

The following are the successful candidates: President, F. H. Mathewson, by acclamation; first vice-president, Geo.

Caverhill ; second vice-president, Thos. Drummond, by acclamation ; treasurer, C. B. Esdaile. Members of council—F. Robertson, J. R. Binning, C. A. Bogert, Geo. L. Cains, Peter Lyall, Alex. F. H. Mathewson, the president by acclamation, is the first banker who has ever held that position. He obtained his first business experience with the old wholesale dry goods firm of MacKay Bros. After some time with this firm, he left them to accept a position with the Canadian Bank of Commerce. In this institution he gained steady promotion and was in time transferred to Winnipeg to manage the branch office there. While in Winnipeg he was elected president of the Board of Trade of that city. A few years ago he returned to Montreal as manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch in the metropolis. He has been a most active member of the Board of Trade, and was, soon after his return to the east, elected a member of the council of that body. In 1905 he acted as its first vice-president.

FLOUR AND CEREAL FOODS

There is little of interest to report in the general situation. At Montreal, trade has been particularly slow in both flour and grain with prices weakening in sympathy. At all points trade lacks vim and interest. The improvement in demand from the Maritime Provinces has been but slight and mainly only a carlot at a time.

Export inquiries for flour are good, but very little actual trade results, offerings being at too great a parity. There is a feeling among dealers that the English brokers are really in need of the flour, but are holding back as far as possible for lower markets. On the other hand dealers here are not anxious to shade prices, as there are not over much available supplies.

Whilst actual export flour trade is indifferent, it cannot be said that this is so with the grain export. Grain has been making fair headway, and at prices which are comparatively better than can be gotten for flour. There is no doubt that the science of wheat blending is better understood in England, and thus they are enabled to better discriminate in buying wheat, and give better prices for wheat answering their requirements.

The cereal trade is somewhat unsatisfactory, markets are being loaded with cereal grains, and consequently prices have materially lowered. There is not a big outside demand; export is making next to no inquiry for oats or oatmeal. The domestic trade is more than supplied and cereal foods are by no means active, so that the marketing of any bulk stocks at the present moment can only act disastrously to the holder.

RICE FAMINE IN N. JAPAN.

"In Miyagi Ken (a province of Northern Japan) more than one-third of all the people, and in three ken some 700,000 people, out of a population of 3,000,000, are already on the official lists as paupers, and unless looked after by village, town and city officers, many of them will soon die of hunger."

The above is a statement made in a public letter by William Lampe, chairman of the Foreign Committee of Relief in Japan, which has just reached this side of the Pacific by the liner Aragonia. The committee isdoing all in its power to remedy a situation at all times difficult, but this year made many times more so because of the recent war between Japan and Russia.

Unfavorable weather conditions brought on a rice famine in North Japan, and a rice famine there is even worse than a potato famine in Ireland, at any time, because rice is to the Japanese even more of a staple than the potato to the Irish peasant. But this year the flower of the peasantry was with the army in the field, and those at home were unable to get to the full even what poor returns the land would provide in such a year. In his open letter, Mr. Lampe states:

"The rice crop of Japan this year is 17 per cent. below that of the average year, and only three-fourths of last year's crop, which was, however, a phenomenal yield. The shortage of 17 per cent. means a loss of 84,000,000 yen to the farmers. (Gold and silver yen are practically the equivalent of the American gold and silver dollars.) If this loss were distributed evenly throughout the length and breadth of the land, few foreigners would know of it, except those interested in statistical tables. Much more than one-third of this loss is in the three ken, Miyagi, Fukushima and Iwate.

"Miyagi Ken, the worst of all, because of the failure of the rice and other crops, has suffered to the extent of 18,000,000 yen, about 20 yen to every man, woman and child, or more than 100 yen for every family in the ken. Rich people, merchants in the towns and certain others, will not feel this directly. The middle class of farmers, who rely on the rice harvest for the support of their families, must sell or mortgage their land. The lower middle class, who farm rented land, have no crop and no land to sell. Officials say that this will be one of the hardest classes to help. For these people, accustomed to work in the fields, only coolie labor can now be found. Many of them, however, have clothing or some article of household furniture. These must be sold to eke out a living until next Summer.

TO BUILD AT VANCOUVER.

Mr. George Easterbrooke, founder of a large flouring mill at Tweed, Ont., has arrived in Vancouver for the express purpose of starting flouring mills in that city, if he can secure a suitable site at any reasonable figure.

Mr. Easterbrooke is no novice in the milling business, having been engaged in that industry for many years, during which time he has met with success. He was in Vancouver about a year ago, and at that time looked over the ground and investigated for himself the possibilities and facilities for the operation of flour mills in the city. So much taken up with the outlook was he, that he returned to his home in Ontario and sold out his interests there. Having disposed of his property in the east, he is now in a position to devote his time to affairs on the coast, and it was with the intention of entering into the wheat grinding busi-

NEW PROCESS TO MAKE FLOUR.

A process of dry cleaning of wheat has just been perfected by the head miller of the Sleepy Eye Milling Co., of Sleepy Eye, Minn., which has every promise of working a revolution in the treatment of wheat in flour mills all over the west. Well informed millers say it will probably prove the greatest achievement in milling when brought out since the roller process was introduced. It will cause a general revolution and sensation among millers. Not only has the dry process been in continuous practical and successful use for several months at the Sleepy Eye plant, but other mills in Minneapolis and in Canada have tried it, tested and accepted the new system.

AMERICAN RICE.

The State of Louisiana is attaining prominence of late by the quantities of rice grown on its western prairies. According to statistics, the United States is the fourth largest rice producing country in the world. Louisiana people say that if the American public was educated as to the real merits of rice as a food, it would largely supplant many of the breakfast foods now used.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Flour.

Another slump in price has developed this week, leaving the market very unsteady. The fierce competition in this dull season has been very hard on millers, and it is difficult to tell whether the end of the price-cutting war has yet been seen. This will depend very largely on the price at which wheat is held.

Grain.

About the only activity of the past seven days has been in oats, which have been in very fair demand at the same prices as last week. Otherwise the market is dull, with no change in quotations.

Rolled Oats.

Another big cut in rolled oats has brought the price to rock bottom, unless the millers are quite disposed to disregard profits. The small mills have played havoc with the market, and many of the larger ones are quietly cutting prices in order to hold their business, so that there is no longer any combined effort to maintain prices.

The feature of the week has been the active selling of Ontario bran, at a good advance on last week's price. Offerings have been rather better than for some time past, and there was a lively demand, the figures generally ruling being $18.50 per ton in car lots. As quotations to the retail trade are usually $1.50 in advance of carload figures, we are changing our prices this week.

Hay.

The hay market is very dull. There are large supplies of No. 1 and No. 2 goods, and these obtain fair call. A serious congestion is reported from Portland, though it is expected that this will be relieved by the outgoing steamers this week. Reports from the United Kingdom indicate an unsettled market, owing to large supplies on hand and in transit.

TORONTO MARKETS.

Flour.

There is little improvement to report in trade conditions; demand is slow and uninteresting. Some competition has been going on in selling prices, apparently with the idea of stimulating trade, with prices showing disposition to weaken. Export inquiries have been good, but moderate sales have been effected. The English markets are showing disposition to meet present quotations, and prices offered are much nearer dealers' ideas of value.

Grain.

Trade has not been over active since our last report; arrivals have been slow to come in. At outside points reports denote only fair deliveries at the mills, and tend to show that farmers are disposed to market only a portion of their grain, a good deal being held back for expected developments. In most lines prices have firmed up a little, as will be seen from quotations.

GREEN FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

The reports which are coming to hand from various market points denote a general falling off in business, of more than usual significance. It is difficult to give a specific reason for this. Some attribute it to the generally unseasonable weather. A more probable reason, however, is that the demand at the close of the year was greatly in excess of the usual holiday consumption, which led to the rushing forward of Winter fruits before maturity, the result being dissatisfaction to the consumer, and a consequent fall in public favor. Certain it is that stocks are not over-abundant. Apples are notably short—in the British Columbia district are well nigh cleared up, in Winnipeg are commanding high prices, and at all eastern points are barely sufficient to meet moderate demand. Oranges, too, have been in only moderate supply, partly owing to holding back at primal points, so that whilst demand is slow, the bare markets are a feature which prevents the probability of any slump in prices.

The reports from California are more encouraging; weather is improving and the later despatches of fruit are showing most desirable quality.

The eastern lemon market is showing itself unsettled, and there are hints that stocks are not over plentiful. Prices this week are showing considerable strength and there is a possibility of higher values.

Beyond the points mentioned there is no feature of interest during week under review.

NOVA SCOTIA FISHING INDUSTRY

"One of the chief industries of the Province of Nova Scotia is fishing and its value to the different business interests of the province may be gauged roughly from the fact that in the last year for which we have figures the yield amounted to nearly $3,000,000."

This is the statement of Mr. Frederick D. Hamilton, from Sydney, C. B., who is interested to a very great extent in the fish business in Nova Scotia.

"Halifax, of course, handles the larger proportion of the fish caught and during last year stuffs for foreign countries, which left that harbor, amounted to about $4,000,000, which about represents the average annual turnover.

"Many Halifax men do business directly from Newfoundland and Labrador ports, which, of course, I cannot include in the shipments from Halifax, but it amounts to a considerable figure.

"St. John's, Nfld., ranks first, and Halifax second as the largest dried fish distributing centre in America.

"Halifax is also making rapid strides as regards the extension of this trade, and many of the Newfoundland fishermen find it more to their advantage to sell their catch at our port than at their own port, and this movement has been greatly facilitated by the establishment of branch houses in Newfoundland.

"The fishing industry at Halifax is an old one, and dates back over half a century."

TO AMEND THE LAW.

A. E. Woolard, secretary of the Puget Sound Salmon Association, and manager of the Spring Salmon Fishing Company, is authority for the statement that the next Legislature will be asked to amend the weekly closed season law in order that the law may be fully enforced. According to Mr. Woolard, it has been impossible for the fish commissioner to enforce all the provisions of the law at all times during the past fishing season, on account of the weather conditions at different times.

EXPERIMENT IN FRUIT.

The executive of the Niagara Peninsula United Fruit Growers' Association had a meeting at St. Catharines last Saturday afternoon to take further steps towards requesting the Government to establish an experimental farm in the Niagara district. After a good deal of discussion as to where the farm should be located a resolution was passed asking the Government to locate the farm where suitable soil may be obtained, adjacent to good hotel accommodation and proper railway facilities.

B.C. FISH FOR N.Y.

In a few days now Nanaimo herring will be tickling the palates of the connoisseurs in the aesthetic homes of New York. The Nanaimo Fisheries Company have shipped a carload of its famous pickled herring to the metropolis. The fish, some 150 barrels in all, or approximately 50,000 pounds, is being taken by the steamer Squid to Vancouver to be loaded on train there. The shipment is the famous Scottish brand, put out by this company and which, although it has only been in the market a short time, is being much sought after, and commands a very good price. The firm originally put up the Viking and the Thistle brands, but it was found that the Viking brand was put up by a New York firm also, and that the Thistle brand was the name of a brand prepared by a Scottish firm.

SETON LAKE HATCHERY.

J. P. Babcock, the Fishery Commissioner for the Province of British Columbia, denies the report in Vancouver that the lake of salmon eggs in the Seton Lake hatchery will be a complete loss. Mr. Babcock said that there would be a considerable loss of eggs, but it would not be phenomenally large. In explanation the Fishery Commissioner said that there were employed of necessity during the season of taking the ova a large number of men, who were absolutely untrained. He says also that in some instances it was found necessary to discharge some of these men for their inability to attend to their duties. With green men there was necessarily some trouble in getting the best results. The loss has, therefore, been heavier than would otherwise have been the case.

AMERICAN APPLES IN AUSTRALIA

J. S. Larke, Canadian Commercial Agent in Australia, reports the arrival of a cargo of apples on the Moana in bad shape. They were carried as a deck load. Those not rotten on arrival were condemned as infected by black spot codlin moth. After fumigation the sound remnant was sold at good prices. Mr. Larke says he understands most of the fruit was from the American side and that a cargo of British Columbia apples by previous steamer arrived in splendid shape and was passed as free from disease.

FRUIT PRESERVATION IN TRANSIT.

Elwood Cooper, a Californian fruit expert and a U. S. horticultural commissioner, is at the head of a new company which has a patent device for preserving fruit, which will, it is said, revolutionize the fruit industry. The process will be tried during the coming season, and Mr. Cooper predicts that it will take the place of refrigeration, thus lessening by one-half the cost of shipping California fruit to the east.

The object of the process is to arrest development or ripening of the fruit, which is to be delivered to the consumer at any point unharmed in color or flavor, and then go on just where it left off. The experiments are being made at Antioch. The fruit is placed in air-tight paper boxes, the air partially exhausted, and some gas, or combination of gases, is turned into the boxes.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Green Fruits.

Market conditions have not undergone any appreciable change this week. Trade is still extremely dull, and no great improvement is to be expected for a month or so.

Arrivals of Jamaica oranges have been very light this week, as rains in the fruit districts have prevented growers from picking. The first installment of Messina blood oranges came to hand a few days ago, and are selling at from $2.50 to $2.75 per half box. Prices throughout the list are the same as at our last report.

There has been considerably more life in trade since our last issue. The sudden change in weather had a stimulating effect on business.

Arrivals of California oranges are showing greatly improved condition. The color is better, and quality altogether finer than earlier arrivals. Mexican oranges are also coming to hand in better condition. Prices for oranges are generally firmer with tendency towards higher prices.

Lemons are also advancing on previous quotations owing to a scarcity in supply. Apples are somewhat scarce in supply and good eating fruit is fetching high prices.

BISCUITS AND CONFECTIONERY

POINTERS FOR THE CONFECTIONERY DEPARTMENT.

Frequently this section of the store is sadly neglected, the only visible show of sweets being a few sun-dried bars of chocolate and a heterogeneous assortment of creams and mixtures, shop-soiled in every possible manner. More often still the stock of sweets is hidden away under the counter and only touched when asked for by a customer. But with a little attention to buying and storing this department may be truly caused to flourish, and bring "an exceeding great reward."

Especially for grocers at holiday resorts should this subject possess interest, for they have to gather enough of the honey of profit during the Summer months to subsist on during a long and dreary Winter's depression in trade. In a peregrination around the market of a popular watering place one may frequently perceive grocers' windows full of proprietary goods which all prospective customers would expect to find stocked, without being reminded by a display. And in provincial towns, many hastily-dressed windows reveal the same treatment.

The owners of these establishments will say that they depend on canvassing for their custom, as theirs is a family trade among the villages around, and that as regards the townsfolk it does not matter what goods the window contains. For such establishments a window utilized exclusively for confectionery will prove an inestimable boon, and add many dollars to the weekly takings. But the display must be large enough and dainty enough to attract attention. A few yards of art muslin should be procured of several colors to blend harmoniously. This will drape a moderate-sized window, shelves being improvised with empty boxes. Yellow and dark blue, scarlet and white, heliotrope and white, pink and green are the most effective combinations of colors. It is necessary to have two sets of muslin drapery for alternate displays.

A weekly renewal of the sweets will be necessary unless a covered-in window is fitted. With that once in three weeks is sufficient. Cake stands may be procured from a local glass store, also oval glass dishes, and frilled dish papers should be placed in these ere filling with confectionery.

In writing tickets it will be found most useful to quote the price for 4 ozs. uniformly. Every toothsome confection should have a complete description so that customers know exactly what to ask for. Sheets of glass to cover boxes of delicate sweets in place of the lids are useful, especially for Metz fruits, to which dust adheres very readily.

If the various mixtures are christened with the name of some well known building or park in the neighborhood the popularity of each will be insured. Most wholesale grocery firms offer a good selection of confectionery, as a perusal of current prices will reveal. For Turkish Delight especially a quick sale at a good profit is procurable.

The centre of the window should always be occupied by a sample surpassing in size all other trays and dishes around it, with a prominent ticket. A "main line" is essential, with "side lines" as adjuncts. Chocolates must be placed in the window in a position free from sun, as five minutes' hot sunshine will leave them looking white and with the flavor spoilt. The paper over wrapped goods affords but little protection from sun. A good blind outside is a sine qua non.

To continually keep all old stock to the front for sale will need some care and forethought, but the trader who acquires a reputation for fresh and clean sweets will soon have almost a monopoly of custom in his locality. If Edwin always brings chocolate for Angelina in a bag stamped with the name and reputation of a particular store, she will naturally patronize that establishment for general groceries when she attains to the dignity of a housewife.

Just now milk chocolates are in great demand, and grocers should take full advantage of it. Some retailers consider that firms manufacturing confectionery (especially chocolate specialists) issue daintier and more attractive tickets and showcards than any advertisers in the trade. These novelties all add to the brightness and piquancy of a store.

A confectionery department initiated and conducted on these lines has often saved a young trader from failure during a dull season. After careful attention has been given to the selection of salable stock and the daintiness of display, if the innovation does not "command success" it will at least have "deserved it."

PUSH THE CRACKER TRADE.

Crackers ought to be great profit-gatherers, the American Grocer has been telling its readers. The relation of their sale to the total amount of sales will go up or down, as they are made a prominent feature in the store display, and as they are universally used, and appeal to the housekeeper as a satisfactory and healthful between-meal nibble for the children, they are in constant demand. It is not necessary to push the sale of the standard sorts that are made the football of the cutters and trade pirates, but a better policy is to select a line of tempting dainties and have them prominently displayed, keeping out of sight the sorts that do not tend to increase your average of profit. There is more to be made on a dollar's worth of crackers than on a barrel of flour.

JAMAICA SUGAR FOR VANCOUVER

The Canadian commercial agent in Jamaica says that 5,000 tons of sugar have been sent to Vancouver round Cape Horn as an experiment. It is said the price obtained was better on the Pacific than is given on the Atlantic coast for sugar.

WEALTH OF THE GREAT WEST.

(By John L. Blaikie.)

With regard to the future of Manitoba and the two newly added provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta, I take the liberty of quoting from the admirable address delivered last month at the annual meeting of the Bank of Montreal by the president, Sir George Drummond:

"The feature of the year, however, is the splendid crop which has just been harvested in the Northwest provinces and in Ontario. As regards the former, the most sanguine anticipations have been realized, and it seems beyond doubt that the following estimates of this season's crop in Manitoba and the Northwest provinces are conservative:

"Wheat, 90,000,000 bushels; worth on the spot 65 cents.

"Oats, 65,000,000 bushels; worth on the spot say 25 cents.

"Barley, 13,000,000 bushels; worth on the spot say 30 cents.

"Flax, 50,000 bushels; worth on the spot say 80 cents.

"Rye, 300,000 bushels; worth on the spot say 35 cents.

"In all 169,000,000 bushels of grain."

Of course, a proportion of these crops will be consumed by the farmer, as, no doubt, will all the root crops, of which potatoes alone are estimated at 8,000,000 bushels, as well as hay, but of these I take no account. At the prices named it is not difficult to reach an approximate sum of $75,000,000, or fifteen million sterling, to be distributed among a comparatively small population, and won from a soil which was considered barren and surrendered to the wilderness a few years ago. In addition to the foregoing, and not included in the above estimate, 75,000 cattle were disposed of during the year in the Northwest. Incidentally, I may mention that I was informed by expert millers, that this year's wheat is so good in quality that 7 per cent. less of it is required to produce a given quantity of flour than an average.

It is asserted that the area so far brought under cultivation does not, from the most accurate information obtainable, much exceed 5 per cent., and certainly it is well under 10 per cent. of the area available and waiting for occupants. In this connection I may quote here a sentence from an able and well-qualified Government officer who has just completed a wide survey of the territories. He says: "The immense wealth so long stored in the virgin soil of the great western country will be gradually developed, and the fact that Canada is destined to rapidly become one of the greatest food-producing nations in the world will soon become apparent to all in the volume of her exports.

"The great extension of the railway systems operating in this country must not be passed over. The C.P.R. Co. is spending vast sums in improvements and extensions; the Canadian Northern is pushing westward, while the G. T. R. is preparing for an extension to the Pacific Coast, and the Government of Canada has the necessary powers to duplicate the railway connection between Quebec and Winnipeg, and is now surveying a line."

A natural consequence of such results and such wealth is a great influx of settlers from many lands, many from Southern and Eastern Europe, Doukhobors, Galicians, and Hungarians. As a rule they arrive very poor, and hence have to begin life on the prairie in a small way, yet by economy and persevering industry, on the whole they are making fair progress, and honestly paying any debts they incur.

The best class of settlers are the Scotch, English, Irish, Germans, and Americans. The last mentioned were in many cases Canadians who had gone from Ontario many years ago, and settled in Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, or other states, but who have sold out their farms in these places and have transferred themselves, their families, their horses, cattle, and farming implements to Manitoba or the Northwest Provinces. These ordinarily are the most successful settlers, having been accustomed to the kind of life, and scarcely lose one day after reaching their new homes in beginning to plough and prepare for crops of various kinds.

The number of new settlers who have made homes for themselves in 1905 is estimated to be about 146,000. This will result in a large additional acreage of land being under crop next year, and indeed every succeeding year. It is only repeating what has now become a hackneyed phrase when I say "Our great Northwest will soon become the great granary of the world," and will supply a large part of the foodstuffs required by the multitudes in Great Britain and other European countries.

WALL PAPER

SELLING for Spring is complete and the mildness of the season has been such as to induce several merchants to ask for deliveries at once. It's an ill wind that blows nobody good. The Spring-like weather during a greater part of December and January, while it retarded the sales of heavy goods in clothing and woolen goods, has been propitious for the wall paper trade.

Manufacturers of wall paper in Canada are unanimous in their satisfaction over the business just completed. Retailers bought even better than was anticipated. The wave of prosperity, it is felt, will make itself evident to a great extent in the luxuries of life, housefurnishings. This department is the first to feel the benefit of prosperous times, just as it is the first to suffer in times of adversity.

The present open Winter, with every prospect of an early break-up in the Spring, will stimulate business in house decorations. House building is being carried on uninterruptedly and every one has to be papered. Not for many years has the future looked so bright

STAUNTONS' ENLARGED PLANT.

GROUND was broken in December for the foundations for a large addition to the already big wall paper manufacturing plant of Stauntons Limited, on Yonge street, Toronto. For the past two or three years a steadily growing business has made increased accommodation necessary. The new building will cover a space of 350 by 60 feet, with frontages on both Yonge and McMurrich streets. The new structure will be erected on the property to the south of the present factory, forming an entirely separate building, which will be used exclusively for manufacturing purposes.

The construction will be of the most improved fireproof type, the walls being of brick, and the floors, roof and supporting columns of reinforced concrete. Fire-proof windows with metal frames and wired glass will be used throughout. Even the racks or runways, on which the paper when printed is hung to dry, will be of metal, so that there will be practically nothing combustible in the whole structure.

When the building is complete the most modern machinery and processes will be installed throughout, and the arrangements will be such as to insure the very greatest economy of time in turning out the product of this large establishment. Nothing that will tend to improve the quality of the goods and to reduce the cost of manufacture will be omitted. Before the plans were prepared the important wall paper mills in the United States and in Europe were personally visited, and points of superiority in them all have been made use of to supplement the advanced ideas of the management.

The present buildings will be used almost entirely as warehouse, offices and salesrooms, and will give the company most needed additional accommodation for the storage of their goods.

The business now being operated in the name of Stauntons Limited has been under the management of the Staunton family for fifty years, the third generation now being in personal charge of its affairs. Probably no other reason contributes so much to the excellence of the goods manufactured by the company as the close personal supervision to details given by the present managers. It is worthy of mention that this enlargement is the fourth extension that has been made within the last ten years. It is expected that all the improvements will be complete and the machinery in operation by July 1.

THE CANADIAN GROCER

MONTREAL TORONTO WINNIPEG

"I go to Cuba each year and the result of my visit is seen in my cigars."—J. Bruce Payne.

Grocers, it should interest you to know that I was the first cigar manufacturer in Canada to use Manicaragua tobacco. Lots of tobacco is sold under that name, but it never saw the "light" in Manicaragua or in any other part of Cuba, as far as that goes.

Against this deceptive system to hoodwink grocers and smokers alike my yearly visits have stood as a bulwark of protection, as a sign that at least one maker "hasn't his price." The men who know me and my cigars know that I make those annual trips to select the best tobacco grown in Cuba They see the proof of this in the

Pebble and Pharaoh Cigars

They know that "just-as-good" schemes cannot lead me from my purpose to get the best. They know I will be a crank to the final degree—will study the soil, the planting, the cultivation, etc., before I will talk about buying tobacco. And somehow or other these men prefer my "crank" methods to the "crook" methods spoken of above.

Grocers, do you think you can name any smokers who do not appreciate what I have done and am still doing for them; who, knowing the history of the Pebble and Pharaoh cigars, would take any "others"?

Can I count on you Grocers to support the Payne Principle? What I ask you to do is this: Order 1,000 of my cigars assorted and sell the Pebble at 5c. and the Pharaoh at 10c.

J. BRUCE PAYNE, LIMITED, Mnfrs., - Granby, Que.

The Powers Behind the Tobacco Throne

4. The Zeal of the Grocer

Ever think of the necessity of being enthusiastic over a "good thing"? Ever think of the difference it makes in the profits?

It pays you to have zeal in dealing with

T. & B.

If there was the remotest doubt in your mind as to T. & B. being the premier tobacco that doubt should be removed by a consideration of the virtues of "others."

We meet grocers who are full of zeal concerning T. & B. No wonder! They know its history, its dollar-earning power, its "win-the-heart-of-the-smoker" quality.

These things influence a grocer. Why shouldn't they?

TOBACCOS, CIGARS AND ACCESSORIES

STARTING A CIGAR STORE.

In a recent issue of the Chicago Tribune, Wm. F. Monroe the veteran tobacconist of Chicago and one of the most successful retailers in the country, gave his views on the matter of starting a cigar store.

"Starting a cigar store in a modern metropolitan city requires capital seemingly out of proportion to many other lines. To open a first-class cigar store in any of the large cities will require from $2,000 to $5,000. In any case, I would say to the beginner who is confident of himself, to make certain of a good central site. Never mind if the rent is high; get the right kind of a place and settle down to good buisness methods. These will win out.

"When the possible beginner considers the $2,000 that is necessary for his venture, he should not forget, also, that there are cigar stores in Chicago which have $12,000 invested in fixtures alone, to say nothing of rent and stock. A house whose trade justifies such a sum in fixtures probably would have to pay $8,000 a year rent.

"Considering the $2,000 store as a starter, a conservative division of the capital would be $500 for the store fixtures, the payment of the first month's rent, and then the investment of the remainder of the $1,500 in stock on cash basis. Under proper management and conditions a cigar stock should turn itself once a month, or twelve times a year. Such a store should make sales of $18,000 in the first year, with a net profit for the proprietor of at least $150 a month. After that, accordingly as the man has chosen his place of business wisely and as his business methods are good, he may hope for larger returns.

"In the best class of business, the proprietor would find it advisable to invest three-fourths of his capital in cigars, dividing the rest into smoking tobacco and smokers' articles generally. With a well-selected stock of first-class goods the cigar dealer has the means for elaborate display of his wares. He should take every advantage of his window room and inside his cases should be adapted to the best display of his cigars, especially. The man who buys pleased and to the extent that he is pleased the dealer may expect profits from his labors.

"With a well-displayed stock of the best goods, in a store that is tastefully arranged, immaculately clean, well lighted at all times, and which offers to all customers alike the prompt, businesslike attention of the store's attendants, any capable young man has a business which will grow with him and promise him a comfortable income in proportion to his investment and his effort."

CANNOT BE EXCELLED.

The Empire Tobacco Co., in Leamington received and paid for in two days 327 wagon loads of leaf tobacco, weighing 751,260 pounds and netting the growers $61,372.40. At one time there were 157 teams in line waiting to have their leaf inspected and weighed

This is beyond the shadow of any reasonable doubt the largest and most valuable lot of leaf tobacco ever received by one firm or factory, at one place from the hands of the growers, in the same length of time, anywhere on the American continent. The quality of the leaf was the finest ever grown and the stripping, grading and packing was artistically done. Each grower seemed to be working to get a portion of the $1,000 in gold which the Empire people give annually as premiums to further the tobacco industry here.

Consumers of the celebrated Empire brands are assured that in the 1905 crop there is "quality to burn, and the Empire folks like to smell the smoke." This tremendous and extra choice crop of leaf now goes into the immense storage warehouses of the company at Granby, Que. to be properly aged and assorted. Mr. Gregory, general manager of the company in the entire tobacco growing district and a southern expert of 20 years experience says:

"The Burley leaf now produced in the counties of Essex and Kent cannot be excelled by any in America and is seldom equalled. Our growers are taking more pains with their crops and our receipts this year show marked improvement over any previous crop.''

The company have received in Leamington from Dec. 21 to Jan. 17 $300,000 worth of leaf tobacco and it is estimated that the entire purchases in both counties will exceed one million dollars. The value to the community at large of a company with the resources of the Empire Tobacco Co. cannot be over-estimated; they have established business connections here with our tobacco growers, that cannot be disturbed. They have proven themselves to be the true friends of the tobacco growers and to them belongs a measure of credit for the immense success of the Canadian tobacco industry. Their dealings are attested by the absence of friction with the farmers, and the relations that exist between the company and the growers are very close, conditions which at the present time are unknown in many tobacco sections. Great is the tobacco business, and here's hoping that its shadow may never grow less. A good reputation on the books of the Empire Tobacco Co. is a valuable asset to any tobacco grower, as it means ready sale year in and year out at the highest price. No one ever saw an old customer hunting for a buyer. Their motto is: ''Stand by the people who stand by you.''—Leamington Post.

THE CUBAN CROP.

Latest advices regarding the damage to the Cuban tobacco crop, by reason of the recent rains, indicate that while the situation in the Remedios district will not be so bad as at first reported, the conditions in the Vuelta Abajo section are much worse. A Cuban manufacturer writes that the worst has not been told. The situation has been responsible for a very lively advance in the price of leaf, amounting in some instances to 60 per cent.

Hunger has never driven people to such crimes as have ambition and avarice and the love of self and the world.

Crescent BM&Co. TRADE MARK. Brand

SODA-CRYSTALS (WASHING SODA)

Foreign Soda Crystals—and some of English manufacture—are being extensively offered for sale in this country which are grossly adulterated with Glauber-Salts (Sulphate of Soda), a cheap product which is not only entirely useless for washing purposes, but is even likely to injure the fabrics with which it comes in contact. The Adulterated Soda-Crystals, although nominally lower in price than BRUNNER MOND'S PURE SODA CRYSTALS, are in reality much dearer owing to the large quantity of useless and injurious matter which they contain.

EXPERIENCED ADVERTISEMENT WRITERS who are open for a situation are requested to register their names with the MacLean Publishing Co., at any of their offices. Inquiries are occasionally made by manufacturers and wholesale houses who contemplate establishing their own advertising department.

A CRITICISM FROM OLD ENGLAND

The "Grocers' Review" of Manchester and London, England, in their issue of January 23rd, 1906, reproduce the following advertisement, and in giving advice how to advertise tea, say :—

"When you draft your advertisement get right down to the heart of things at once. An introduction consisting of a few choice sentences giving the number of years you have been in business and other autobiographical details are quite unnecessary. The average woman is not particularly interested in such matters, but she is profoundly interested in any announcement which informs her how and where she can get bigger values for the money she spends.

"You will grip her at once if you will say in plain English that you have some unusually good tea, and explain why it is unusually good. Here is a good example of a convincing, well-worded Tea advertisement."

How Red Rose Tea is Grown

TEA is a native plant of Northern India. Transplanted to Ceylon it lost much of its strength and richness, but gained in fragrance and delicacy.

That is why Ceylon tea is not a strong tea.

That is why I blend Indian and Ceylon teas together—that is how the strength and richness, fragrance and delicacy of Red Rose Tea are secured—that is why Red Rose Tea has that "rich fruity flavor."

Red Rose Tea

is good Tea

T. H. Estabrooks

St. John, N.B., Toronto, Winnipeg

It's quality alone that wins on the rough road of competition.

Pure Ceylon Tea—Black and Green—unalloyed by other blends is the tea to satisfy your customer. It also pays best.

Sell only Ceylon Green Tea.

It pleases your customers and profits yourself.

HINTS TO RETAIL MERCHANTS

ARTICLE 1.—HOW TO DOUBLE YOUR PROFITS AND PLEASE YOUR CUSTOMERS

Many of your best Customers do not know that there are four grades of Canned Peas, namely :

No. 4, known as "Standards."
No. 3, known as Sifted, labelled "Early Junes."
No. 2, known as Extra Sifted, labelled "Sweet Wrinkled."
No. 1, known as Extra Fine Sifted, usually labelled "Petit Pois."

"The Standard" is the largest grade and although tender and sweet, it is not as select as the smaller varieties ; besides, in this grade the profits are usually cut very close.

"Early Junes" are a smaller grade than the "Standards," uniform in size, tender and sweet. "Early Junes" invariably sell at 2c. per tin (24c. per dozen) more than "Standards" and the cost is only 7½c. per dozen extra.

"Sweet Wrinkled" is probably the choicest grade packed, small-sized, sweet and tender. If your customers had their attention called to this luscious grade, it would not only mean greatly increased sales, but trebled profits and well-pleased customers.

"Petit Pois," Extra Fine Sifted, sweet, tender and simply melt away when eating Superior to imported French peas because they are free from coloring and other injurious preparations.

Your customers, when they know, will greatly appreciate the better grades of Peas and will gladly pay the extra price. If you require any of the extra quality, and have not the four grades already in stock, write at once to your wholesaler and obtain supplies—if only one case of each of the finer grades. Take a little time with your customers to explain the difference in quality and you will have an established trade for high-class quality, with greatly increased profits.

A little care and attention will easily treble your profits, and not only that but greatly please your customers. A good recipe for preparing for table will be found at foot of page.

There is only one more important question in this connection, namely :—when buying, to insist on getting the old established brands, which have stood the test for the past quarter century, namely Aylmer, Log Cabin, Horse-Shoe, Auto, Little Chief, Lynnvalley, Maple Leaf, Kent, Lion, Thistle, Grand River, White Rose, etc, etc., for sale by all the leading Wholesale Grocers in the Dominion of Canada.

Yours respectfully,

What "PURITY" means

It has many definitions, all depending on the manner in which it is applied. Here is one:

Freedom from foulness or dirt:
Free from fault or taint,
Free from that which defiles and pollutes.

Coffee is a most delicate and sensitive production of nature.
Foreign substances absolutely spoil it as a beverage.
The public taste is getting more highly educated each year.

"THE BOAST OF HERALDRY"

The Lineage is something to be reckoned with in Tea Discrimination.

Blue Ribbon Ceylon Tea

has lots to boast of. It comes from the "High-Grown" family of Ceylon—Tea Aristocrats. It represents only the delicate or "sweet" tips of the family, or, in other words, the BLUE BLOOD.

Then, it bears a name tantamount to "highest honor" in the British Navy—BLUE RIBBON—all in keeping with a "first" tea.

Don't you want to sell the "High-Grown" tea—BLUE RIBBON? We put up a 40c line called "RED LABEL." It's the best-selling tea you can handle.

Aluminum Trade Checks

HOW THEY WORK:—You have been granting credit to customers, charging each item, no matter how small, and then making out statements, etc. Stop this "waste work"! Give your customers, say, $5.00 or $10.00 worth of trade checks for which they will give you either cash or a note. Notes can be discounted at Bank and you thus get cash in advance. If it is credit you have merely to enter the one item "$5.00 [or $10.00] worth of checks." Isn't it simple?

We make these checks in all shapes and sizes.
